Full-Year Program Seen

Twp. Teen Summer Job Referral Service Expands

The Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors will operate a teen summer job referral service again this summer and plans to continue the employment program all year according to William Rohlwing, township supervisor.

Rohlwing said the board decided to repeat the service because the program received so much support last year from both employers looking for summer help and teen-agers looking for jobs.

Township Auditor Arthur Stevens, chairman of the Youth Commission, said, "Now that the township has a full-time youth worker in Paul Poprocki, the auditors decided that all the work involved in setting up a program like this would be wasted if it was only for the summer."

Stevens said the board of auditors decided to continue the program throughout the year because both the teen-agers and the employers are looking for either part-time help or jobs all year long.

A SPOKESMAN for the board of auditors said registration applications have been given to guidance counselors at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village.

Stevens said Poprocki will match student application forms with job openings and will contact the student when there is a suitable job. Stevens said the student will be expected to contact the employer to set up an interview.

Industrial and retail companies in the township will be contacted by mail or telephone in an effort to discover jobs, Stevens said.

Persons with jobs for teen-agers may call the township offices at 437-0300. Students also may apply for job placement at the town hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights. The offices are open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon on Wednesday and Saturday.

My Kind Of Town - Elk Grove

New Trustee Calls It Home

by HARRY WEINER

Although he was born and raised in Wisconsin and has moved from one state to another seven times in the last 13 years, Ted Staddler regards Elk Grove Village as his hometown.

And that feeling, says the newest member of the Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees, is a good explanation for his interest and involvement in community affairs.

Appointed last month to fill the unexpired term of retiring Trustee James O'Brien, Staddler first moved to Elk Grove Village in 1959, when the village population amounted to less than one-fifth its present 25,000 total.

Transferred out of state in the first of a series of moves in 1965, Staddler never lost his fondness for Elk Grove Village. And when he moved back to the Chicago area in 1968, the village seemed the natural place to move, he says.

"IT WAS LIKE coming home," he says of the move back to the village. "We've just kind of adopted it as home—there's no other place we want to live."

Staddler's fondness for the village has been manifested in his involvement in a variety of community affairs, including recent memberships on the village plan commission and in the Boys' Baseball program.

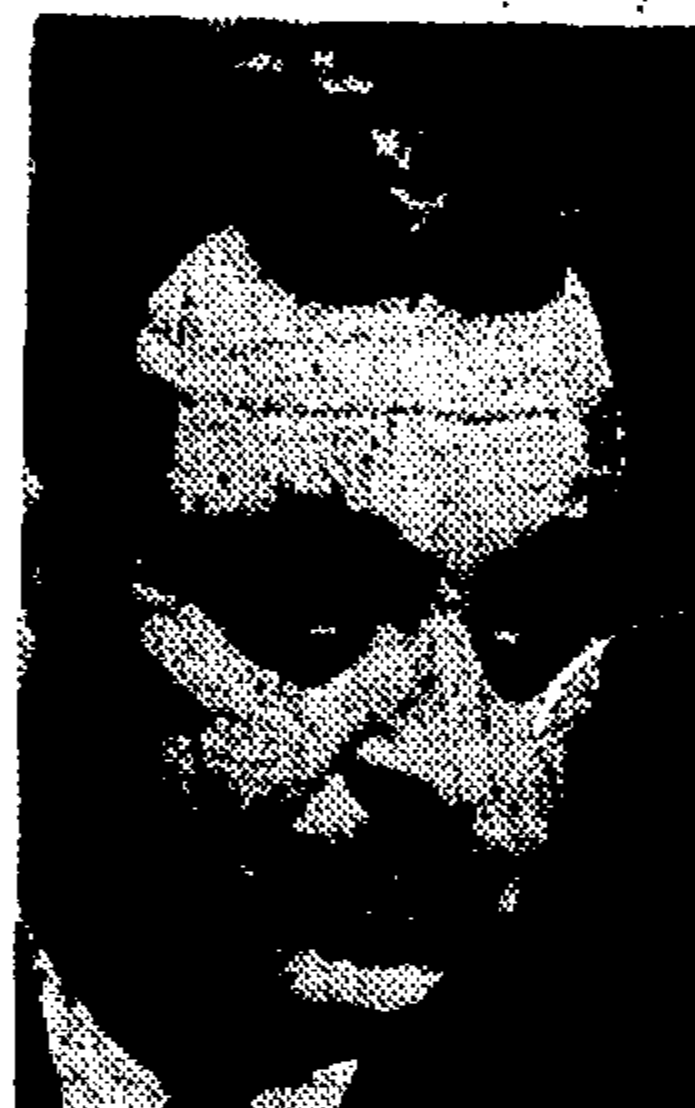

But if the new trustee regards Elk Grove Village as a good place to live, he still believes it could be better.

"I think we do need more recreational facilities in the village," he said.

"It's when youngsters have idle time that they get into trouble," he says. "I would like to see indoor tennis facilities and better use of the high school's facilities."

STADDLER NOTED that although the village's development has been orderly and well planned, some parts of it have not come out as well as could have been hoped.

"Physically I would have liked to see more shopping in the village," he notes.

Theodore Staddler

"But we're pretty well locked in now."

The development of the Woodfield Shopping Center in nearby Schaumburg has virtually eliminated any chance for development of a major shopping center in Elk Grove Village, Staddler concedes.

On the village's controversial housing commission report, Staddler agrees with the board's position, which was taken before he joined the board. Building an area of low and moderate-income housing in the village would amount to nothing more than building a ghetto, he says.

"I'm against that idea—and I don't see a plan right now that wouldn't do that," he adds. "I basically agree with the stand taken by the board—it's an areawide problem that must be dealt with accordingly."

STADDLER NOTES the village at present has a problem with making those persons who have moved into the developments west of Ill. Rte. 53 feel they are part of the village.

Staddler notes that the village currently has an identification problem with its few residents who live in developments west of Rte. 53 and can expect more problems as the area grows.

"I think it's going to be tough for the part west of 53 to feel like part of the village," he says. "They're in a different school district and just don't feel like part of us."

Staddler sees the future development of the village as its major problem, but feels village agencies are well equipped to cope with the problems.

"I was very impressed with the work of the plan commission," he says, after being a member of the panel for nearly a year. "It's a very homogeneous group, but each with their own thinking."

"It delves very deeply into issues. Everyone of them adds their own little bit. It's very well organized, very business-like."

BUT THE NEW trustee believes there could be a closer working relationship between the commission and the village board, to which it makes its recommendations.

"I think the board and commission should have a closer tie," he says.

Staddler agrees with the board's action this year in cutting back budget requests to keep within current revenues. And, he thinks the village should be able to get by in future years without any additional taxes.

"There may be ways to keep the village budget within present revenues," he says, adding that he plans to talk to department heads about possible areas where money could be saved.

SPRING HAS (finally) sprung, and if you've any doubt, just check with these Harper College students who took advantage of yesterday's warm weather to relax outside on the campus greens.

Waiting Child-Adoption Series Starts Monday In Suburban Living

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Gov. George C. Wallace, his temperature and pulse rate running high as expected after surgery, underwent physical therapy to maintain circulation in his paralyzed legs. There was no indication that the exercises had produced any signs of life in Wallace's legs.

President Nixon met for an hour with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to make final arrangements for the President's summit talks with leaders in the Kremlin next week. Nixon is to leave tomorrow.

Despite grumblings about wage-price restrictions, U.S. corporations scored record gains in before-tax profits during the first quarter of 1972, the Commerce Department said. The economy as a whole also is looking healthier.

The Justice Department sued General Electric, charging antitrust law violations since at least 1965. It charged restraint of trade by means of reciprocal purchasing agreements with its customers and suppliers. The company vowed to fight the charges.

Attorneys for Angela Davis won a three-day delay in starting her defense, which they promised would be brief.

The State

Racing Commission chairman Alexander MacArthur told the U.S. House Crime Committee that electric whips used by jockeys to shock horses to greater speeds have been found at Hawthorne Race Course and Fairmont (Ill.) Park.

A proposed statewide lottery that could net Illinois $100 million a year came a step closer to reality when the Illinois House Appropriations Committee approved $1.5 million to get it up.

A 16-year-old Chicago boy who had left home Wednesday to fish in the Des Plaines River was found slain in a forest preserve on the city's Northwest side. Police were still seeking clues.

The World

Egypt's war minister, Mohammed Ahmed Sadek, said his nation will continue to prepare for battle against Israel but will not be provoked into ill-timed fighting. Egyptian officials also expressed the hope that the Nixon-Kremlin talks will lead to a break in the deadlock in the Middle East crisis.

A British soldier died of gunshot wounds and two civilians were injured in shooting incidents between Protestants and Catholics in strife-torn Northern Ireland.

U.S. warplanes raided above the Demilitarized Zone, knocking out six bridges around the North Vietnamese port city of Dong Hoi and destroying several ammunition and fuel supply dumps. Thirteen Americans were reported killed in combat last week, six fewer than the previous week.

Forest View Senior Wins Chess Title

The Forest View team took ninth in its division competing against 100 chess teams.

Cuts Hit School Building

Building programs at Illinois colleges and universities have taken the brunt of some $49 million in higher education budget cuts proposed by the House Appropriations Committee.

House Republicans on the committee had hoped to slice about $57 million from Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's proposed $967 million higher education budget for fiscal 1973. They said some $48 million of that would come from capital development programs.

Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, chairman of the committee, said total cuts from Wednesday's deliberations approached about $49 million including a few increases in some programs.

As passed unanimously by the committee, total appropriations for colleges and universities in fiscal 1973 would be as follows:

—THE JUNIOR College Board, which includes all community and junior colleges in the state: $217.1 million, $37 million less than requested. Officials at Harper and Oakton junior colleges said they do not know at this time how the budget cut will affect local finances.

—University of Illinois: $270 million, $20.3 million less than requested.

—Southern Illinois University: $130 million, $1.6 million more than requested.

—The Board of Governors, which includes EIU, WIU, Northeastern Illinois University, Chicago State University and Governor State University: $109.5 million, $10.4 million less than requested.

To Resolve Pact Dispute

Teachers, Board OK Fact-Finders

by WANDALYN RICE

Negotiating teams for the High School Dist. 214 board of education and the district's teachers agreed Wednesday to call in a three-member fact-finding board in hopes of resolving their 1971-73 salary contract dispute.

The two teams, meeting in closed session, agreed to call in the team as required by their present contract's impasse procedures. The team will recommend a settlement within 62 days which must be voted on by the board and teachers.

The two teams met following a demonstration by more than 200 teachers outside the district's administration building at 799 Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect, Wednesday night. The teachers stood around the entrance to the building, saying they were demonstrating concern for the negotiations.

Last week, teachers voted down a proposal from a mediator which called for reduction of the pay for beginning teachers by $300, and a raise for teachers now in the district of $100 plus the increment called for in the present contract because of additional experience.

DURING THE demonstrations, Richard Chierico, former president of the Dist. 214 Education Association bargaining unit for the teachers, said: "This is not a confrontation. We have an excellent relationship and this in no way jeopardizes that."

Other teachers in the group felt the offer presented by the mediator was completely unacceptable. One said, "I think the board is just being stubborn."

A sign placed outside the front door of the administration building read, "The median income of Arlington Heights is $16,000. The average Dist. 214 teacher's salary is $12,700." On the other side, the sign read: "Do not extrapolate our salaries to twelve months. Forty weeks at 50 hours a week is more work than fifty weeks at forty hours a week."

Figures from the 1970 census show Arlington Heights has the highest average income in the Northwest Suburbs. Average ages for other communities served by Dist. 214 in 1970 were: Buffalo Grove, 13,800; Des Plaines, $14,318; Elk Grove Village, $12,787; Mount Prospect, $14,529; Rolling Meadows, $11,259 and Wheeling, $10,920.

Negotiations between the Dist. 214 board and education association began in January with proposals for the 1972-73 contract from both sides. Under the bargaining procedures the two sides called in a mediator, John Haas, a former Dist. 214 board member, when they could not reach an agreement within 60 days. Haas reportedly made the proposal turned down by the teachers last week.

Fact finding is the last step in the negotiating process. If the fact finders' proposal is not approved, the proposal will be made public. The contract then calls for negotiators to "seek assistance through whatever procedure available."

Last year the agreement between the board and association resulted in an increase in the pay for beginning teachers to $8,300 and an average 8 per cent pay increase for teachers already in the district.

ALREADY SETTLED, Charlie, the raccoon, yawns in seeming boredom. The animal has established residence at the Rich Port Realty Agency in Schaumburg . . . and refuses to be evicted.

Raccoon Found A Home At Real Estate Office

by BOB ANDERSEN

Charlie the raccoon has found a home, and apparently it is going to take more than the Schaumburg Police Department to evict him.

Charlie's home is in a 24-by-60 foot "drop ceiling" in the offices of Rich Port Real Estate Co., 8 N. Roselle Rd. The Schaumburg police have gone to the offices twice since Charlie appeared on the scene Tuesday morning, said Bert Carlson, manager of the local office, and have been unsuccessful in their attempts to remove Charlie from the premises.

Before accommodating himself in the drop ceiling, Charlie spent much of his time chewing things up, Carlson said.

CHARLIE, NOT necessarily in this order, has "chewed up most of the telephone cables" in the office, "attacked" a typewriter, removing the cover and nibbling on a plastic ribbon cartridge, and "knocked" over a lamp, breaking its globe. He also has dug away all the topsoil from a new plant container recently installed by the company and, messed up the company's storeroom, scattering literature and other materials all over the floor, Carlson said.

Charlie came to the realty office sometime early Tuesday morning, Carlson said. He was sitting in the secretary's chair when Carlson arrived at work.

The office staff has gotten a little attached to Charlie. However, Carlson points out, he is going to have to go.

The problem is how to remove him from the drop ceiling. The police can't do it, Carlson said.

"WE TRIED to tempt him into a trip-type trap with food," explained Carlson. That attempt also was unsuccessful.

"Right now, he is still up there, wandering around," Carlson said.

The real estate man has called the Forest Preserve offices and an official is scheduled to come out and entice Charlie out of the drop ceiling.

Then Charlie will be taken to a wildlife refuge to live out his years in relative serenity.

Preschool Registration Set At Church

Registration begins this week for preschool starting Sept. 13 at St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 1072 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village.

The school, which is licensed by the State of Illinois, conducts two half-day programs. One class meets from 9 to 11:20 a.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and a second session runs from 12:45 to 3:05 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Tuition is $27 per month for the three-day-a-week program and $18 per month for the two-day program. Half a month's tuition is required at the time of registration.

Mary Anne Cumpstone, secretary of the preschool board, said field trips are scheduled for the children each year. During the current session the children visited the Lincoln Park Zoo, O'Hare International airport and are planning a trip to Glencoe Beach, she said.

The program is designed to provide a prekindergarten experience for the child with an introduction to letters and numbers as well as encourage good manners, hygiene and social relationships," she said.

Persons desiring more information may telephone Mrs. Cumpstone at 439-4246.

Students To Present Alice In Wonderland

"Alice in Wonderland," a musical adapted from the book by Lewis Carroll, will be presented at 8 tonight and Saturday at Grove Junior High School, 777 Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village.

Tickets will be available for $1 on the nights of the performances.

Marcia Waldman, music teacher and drama club sponsor, is directing the production by the school's music and drama departments.

Chicago Man Found Guilty Of Theft

A Chicago man was found guilty of theft of carpeting from an Elk Grove Village firm, sentenced to seven days in the county jail and placed on a year's probation this week in Cook County Circuit Court.

Percy Harris was found guilty Wednesday after pleading not guilty to the charge, which stemmed from an incident last June at Galaxy Carpet Mills Inc., 850 Arthur Ave. Harris, a former employee of the firm, was charged with theft of a carpet from the company.

Harris had earlier successfully filed a civil suit against the firm for payment of back wages.

Softball Clinic For Girls Tomorrow

The Elk Grove Village Athletic Association will hold a softball clinic for girls at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Teen Center, Elk Grove and Kennedy boulevards.

The clinic will feature demonstrations and instructions for girls planning to play in the league this year. About 140 girls have signed up for play this year.

Approximately 20 openings remain in the league's Ponytail Division, for girls 8 to 10 years old. Only limited openings remain in the other two divisions, the Junior (for girls 11 to 13) and the Senior (for girls 14 to 16), league officials said this week.

Boys' Football Signup Here Is Tomorrow

Elk Grove Boys' Football will hold pre-registration for the coming season from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Saturday at the Elk Grove Village Hall. The preregistration fee is $5.

Boys' Football, in its fifth year in the village, is open to all pre-high school boys age 8 to 14. Basic equipment and uniforms are provided. Teams are organized by weight, age and skill.

Norman Jones, league president, has also announced names of coaches for the 1972 traveling league. Coaches will be Ron Bernadini, Larry Loder, Jim Tainter, Bill Batzall, Tom Bessey and Bill Evans. Frank Ciangi will be commissioner.

In the community league, coaches will be Don Shadley, Dick Hamilton, Al Crivellaro, John Schwartz, Mike Chiero, Casey Saltaraki, Art Schmaltz, John Bria, Bill Cox, Tom Bartlett, Stan Piegza, Jim Heferan, Brad Hoover and John Roberts. John Yohe will be commissioner.

3 Teachers Resign; 2 Others Take Leaves

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education approved three teacher resignations and granted leaves of absence to two teachers at its Monday meeting.

Resigning were Lois Czarnecki, fourth grade teacher at John Jay School; Betty Hopkins, learning center director at Forest View School, and Patricia Moore, mathematics and science teacher at Lively Junior High School.

Leaves of absence were granted for Leonora Burkhart, third grade teacher at High Ridge Knolls School, and Walter Horin, physical education teacher at John Jay School.

Communities Must Voice Interest On Water Plan

by ROGER CAPELLINI

Northwest suburban communities adjacent to the four which make up the DAMP water commission, will be asked, perhaps for the last time, if they are interested in obtaining drinking water from Lake Michigan.

The decision to again communicate with surrounding communities came at the conclusion of a regular meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference in Rolling Meadows Wednesday night.

The session was a joint meeting of the conference members and representatives of DAMP — the water commission serving Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

DAMP chairman Robert Teepe of Mount Prospect presented a report to the conference members, bringing them up to date on the activities of the DAMP commission and the status of its efforts to secure an allocation from the state to divert water from Lake Michigan.

Teepe told the group that after years of delays for various reasons, the DAMP commission has some optimism today that the allocations may finally be forthcoming before the summer is ended.

TEEPE ALSO TOLD the group DAMP has met formally with a similar commission — Tree Towns in DuPage County — and the two have agreed in principle that a joint operation would be to the best interests of both groups. He said an ad hoc committee of the two commissions has been formed to draft a joint operating agreement or an agreement to achieve joint ownership of a system if attempts to obtain the statutory changes necessary to permit joint ownership of property are unsuccessful.

Teepe said any other communities which may be looking to either commission for their water supply should make their desires known soon.

"Ideally," Teepe said, "we should be making plans to bring the lake to our doorstep by means of a large diameter tunnel which would be adequate in size to accommodate the population growth now projected for the Northwest and West suburban areas."

The DAMP chairman added, "We are hopeful the time for decisions is near at hand and invite all communities interested in participating to make themselves known."

Robert Teichert, mayor of Mount Prospect, suggested to the group that the DAMP commission is not seeking to enlist the cooperation of all other communities in the area, but is simply making available the current status of its activities.

"We're ready to vote and go ahead as soon as we get the allocation," Teichert said. "The communities around us should be aware of this. It is too late to try to undo or expand DAMP."

JOHN G. WOODS, Arlington Heights village president, then made a motion that the conference undertake as a project, "the communication to our fellow members and communities adjacent to DAMP the substance of this meeting so they may communicate with DAMP if they have any interest." The motion was seconded by Teichert and unanimously approved.

During the meeting Teepe displayed a map indicating the water, once diverted from the lake, would flow through a tunnel by gravity to a water filtration plant planned for land near the Maryville Academy on River Road in Des Plaines.

Two systems, one directed to the DAMP communities and the other to the Tree Towns communities, would stem from the water plant.

HOW THE RICH GET RICHER

It's really very simple. The Rich get richer by letting their money make more money. You can do the same.

You've heard a lot about the successes of the Rich in the stock and real estate markets. Here you can both gain — or lose — a lot of money. If you might need your money in a hurry, you risk having to sell your investments for a lot less than you paid for them. These are good investments for those who can afford to take risks or those who have a substantial base of savings behind them.

But very few of us are rich, or even on the road to being rich. Very likely you are most concerned with keeping the money you've already got and seeing it grow enough to prepare you for retirement or to provide you with extra income.

For people like yourself the best way to put your money to work may be 6% Certificates of Deposit from Palatine Savings and Loan. These certificates combine a high yield with the safety and convenience of a savings account.

Risk? None! Your certificate is insured just like a savings account. And the interest rate is guaranteed for two years or more. Return? 6% per annum compounded daily to yield a high 6.18% yearly — and without costly brokerage charges. That's earnings of $309.15 per year on a $5,000 investment or $1,236.60 on a $20,000 investment, if left in for a full year. Availability? With a 6% certificate you agree to keep a minimum of $5,000 with us for two years. But if you really need it, you can have your money on demand with the loss of only 90 days interest.

Some financial institutions are lowering their certificate rates. We are not. If you have $5,000 or more of hard earned money that you want to put to work, complete the coupon below.

'Black-Lung' Benefit Bill Reviewed

by BOB LAHEY

The U.S. House of Representatives last week accepted a conference report on a bill previously passed and amended in the Senate to extend "black-lung" benefits to orphans whose fathers died of the disease common among miners.

The House also instructed its representatives on a conference committee to insist on antibusing amendments in the omnibus education act proposed by the Senate.

Little action was taken last week by the Senate.

Following is a summary of the voting records and other activities of Illinois' two senators, Charles H. Percy and Adlai E. Stevenson III, and representatives Harold Collier, R-10th, Philip M. Crane, R-13th, and Robert McClory, R-12th. Also included in the summary are Rep. Abner Mikva, D-2nd, candidate for reelection in the 10th Congressional District, and Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-11th, candidate for the U.S. Senate.

MEASURES SPONSORED

McClory, resolution expressing the sense of Congress with respect to the establishment of peace in Indochina.

Percy, a bill to amend the Federal Trade Commission Act to provide that under certain circumstances exclusive territorial arrangements shall not be deemed unlawful.

Percy, a bill to expand improve the direct food distribution program.

MEASURES COSPONSORED

Pucinski, a bill to amend the National School Lunch Act and the Child Nutrition Act of 1966.

Mikva, a resolution "proposing to the Soviet Union and the other nuclear powers an expansion of the limited test ban treaty, to include testing undergrounds and to strike for its prompt acceptance."

Pucinski, a bill to provide public service employment opportunities for unemployed and underemployed persons, and to assist states and municipalities in providing needed public services.

Mikva, a bill to prohibit states and political subdivisions from discriminating against low and moderate-income housing and to give priority in determining eligibility for assistance under various federal programs to political subdivision which submit plans for the inclusion of low and moderate-income housing in their development.

Stevenson, a resolution relating to extension of the nuclear test ban treaty to include underground testing.

Stevenson, a bill to strengthen and improve the protections and interests of participants and beneficiaries of employee pension and welfare benefit plans.

BANKAMERICARD

ONE OF THE MANY health care careers open to graduating high school students is demonstrated by Marcia Kizior, microbiology section head at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. The demonstration took place last week during a Health Careers Day program at the hospital. Looking on are Karen Santelli and Dan McGee, two of the 130 students who attended the fifth annual program.

Summer School Signup Open

Thirty-eight regular classes and special classes in metal sculpture, drama and other fields will be offered in the summer school program of High School Dist. 211 this year.

Registration now is open for summer classes to be held at Palatine, Conant and Schaumburg high schools beginning June 13 and ending July 28.

Classes will be tuition-free for district residents and a textbook fee of $1.50 per semester will be charged. Students from outside Dist. 211 will be required to pay tuition of $22.50 per semester. Registration forms are available in the guidance department of the high school the student will attend.

Square Dance News

BELLS AND BOWS

Calling the squares for the Bells and Bows tomorrow night beginning at 8:30 p.m. at the Boy Scouts of America Building, 1622 N. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights, will be Ken Bower from Des Moines, Iowa, one of the top National Square Dance Callers.

Edna and Gene Arnfield, the club's regular round dance leaders begin the rounds at 9 p.m. Everyone is invited. Dancing continues until 11 p.m.

A/C SQUARE WHEELS

Tomorrow night is your last chance of the 1971-72 season to dance with the "fun loving" A/C Square Wheels of Wheeling at Jack London Junior High School, 1001 W. Dundee Rd., beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Jim Stewart will be calling the squares throughout the evening, with Lee Simpson cueing the rounds. Everyone is invited.

CLOVERLEAFS

Jim Smith will be calling the squares tonight for the Cloverleaves of Mount Prospect at Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St. (near Lincoln).

This is the last dance of the season, however the Cloverleaves will continue dancing the first and third Friday nights all summer at Lions Park.

Dancing begins at 8:30 p.m. and continuing until 11:30 p.m. All area square dancers are invited.

SLOWPOKES

The Slowpokes of Mount Prospect will meet at the Prospect Heights Community Church, 400 N. Elmhurst Rd. (Rte. 83 and Willow Rd.), tonight for their regular dance. Everyone is welcome and refreshments will be served.

Bob Poyner will square things immediately after a half-hour round dance workshop with Paul and Bunny Davis, from 8 to 8:30 p.m.

The Doctor Says

by LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I reverently read your column and agree with most everything you say, except exercise. I am 71 years old and the heaviest exercise I have ever taken after adolescence was winking at the gals which I do today. No athlete ever lived to age 100 and Jim Thorpe, the greatest, died at a mature but early age. A lot of other athletes as they have gotten older are certainly in poor shape. When an athlete trains he strains his physique and injures his body increasing his chances of heart trouble.

My grandfather drank a quart of whiskey daily, not counting cider, and he lived to 101. My relatives all live long. They have good jobs but they don't try to impress their neighbors with trying to be the best dressed or the best smelling. Taking life slowly and a good normal exercise like walking and stretching, with a rule requiring a few days a month outside the automobile would do more good than all the doctor's advice. A cure for heart disease in the future is relaxation in the present.

Dear Reader — I am a firm supporter of walking and if you have read my column as regularly as you have said you know that I have repeatedly emphasized it as the most important form of regular exercise. Certainly a person should be able to demonstrate that he can walk an hour without difficulty before doing anything more strenuous.

I am afraid that a lot of our athletes who have died early in age haven't always continued to stay in top physical condition. This means they have neglected their exercise program, eaten too much and in some instances they have used too much alcohol. Not all of them, including Jim Thorpe, tolerated this unhealthy change in their living habits as well as your grandfather.

OCCASIONALLY THERE are young people who die at an early age from heart disease who are active in athletics, particularly football. Football is not the most ideal form of exercise in developing the heart and blood vessels to top condition, particularly when a lot of emphasis is placed on maintaining a heavy body weight.

There are a lot of records which suggest that athletes live a relatively long time, including the reports on the Harvard rowing teams which have been studied through a number of years. So, I don't think you should equate the benefits of exercise with the medical history of people who have quit exercising.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.) Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., Padlock Publications, P. O. Box 28; Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

An expert looks foolish any time he makes an unnecessary safety play. He looks foolish but he only feels foolish when he neglects the safety play and loses his contract as a result.

The ordinary bridge player holds up his ace of spades until the third lead of the suit. Then he plays dummy's ace and king of clubs. The queen, jack and ten drop nicely and he claims the rest of the tricks.

The expert also holds off twice on the spades. Then he leads a low club and carefully covers West's eight with dummy's nine. East wins a surprise trick but can't do anything about getting his partner on lead and expert South makes the rest of the tricks to wind up with four no-trump as against the five no-trump made by those who banged out the top clubs.

If the game is match-point duplicate, the expert South feels a trifle guilty about getting a poor score instead of a good one. In fact expert South might well have made the simple play in clubs on the theory that it could only hurt him if West held three clubs in addition to his five spades.

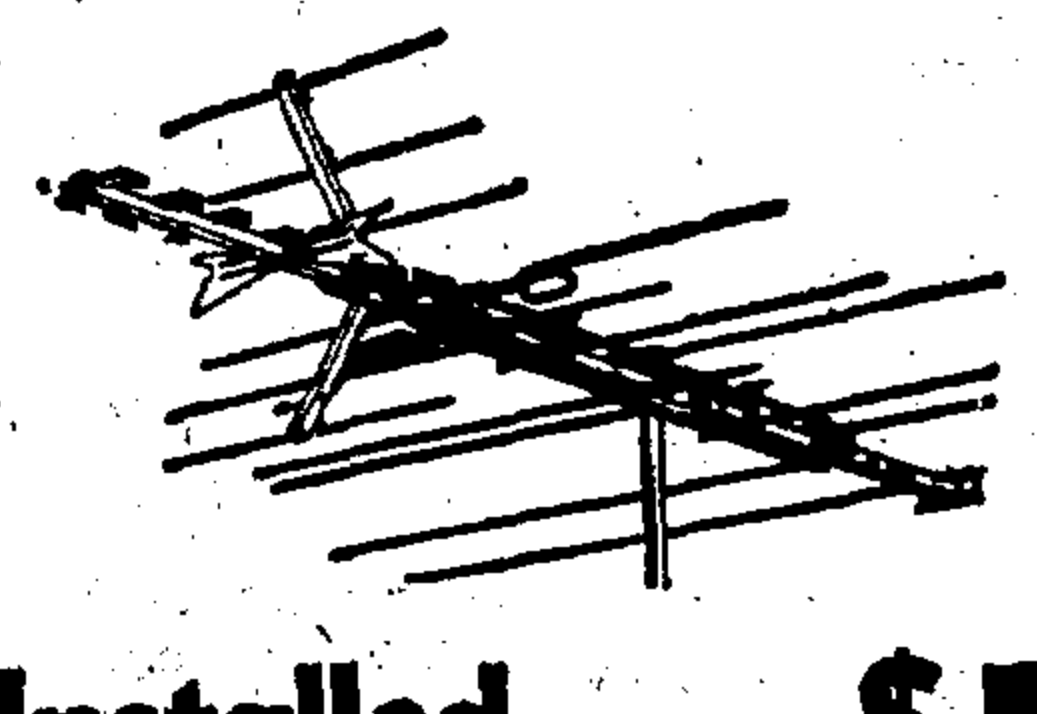

In a rubber bridge game expert South wouldn't regret the lost 30 points at all. He would know that he had made a play designed to insure game and rubber and expert rubber bridge players pay no attention to overtricks that are only made by jeopardizing the contract.

Handguns Must Go

Once there was a country which cherished freedom, democracy, equality, justice and the right to bear arms — especially handguns.

Not everyone in the country cherished handguns. But those who did spoke out loudly, sometimes arrogantly, and they were represented and protected by a powerful gun lobby in Washington, D.C.

A few courageous legislators spoke out against the insanity of a nation armed to the teeth with easily concealed handguns. Most legislators, however, said little; they were frightened into silence by the political power of the gun lobby.

However, in the 1960s three American leaders — John F. Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert Kennedy — were assassinated. Robert Kennedy was shot with a handgun.

Then, on a sunny May afternoon in 1972, at the height of a Presidential primary campaign, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace was shot and critically wounded by a man with a handgun. Wallace is currently paralyzed from the hips down; he will never again walk unaided.

Meanwhile, this nation had become an arsenal of handguns. In Chicago alone, over 450,000 guns, ranging from expensive hunting rifles to cheap "Saturday night special" handguns, were registered. The Chicago Police Dept. reported 14,000 handguns had been seized in 1971. The murder rate reflected the number of handguns.

When are we going to get the message?

When are we going to realize and to convince others to realize — that a handgun has no legitimate use for a private citizen in a civilized society, except to kill another person?

In the past, some persons have opposed the free flow of cheap and dangerous handguns to anyone who can afford them — and the handgun fans answer with the sick cliché, "Guns don't kill people, people kill people." That cliché should be addressed to the widow of a gun victim.

The handgun fans also tell us that the death rate from handguns is well below that of, say, auto accidents and drownings.

But a handgun is a deliberately lethal device. Automobiles and swimming pools have a purpose, and we've taken steps to safeguard and control their use. We do little, however, to limit or control the distribution of handguns.

In the last few weeks, several legislators have moved to control handguns. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., recently introduced a bill to require federal registration of all handguns.

And, in the wake of the Wallace shooting, U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., and others are introducing legislation to ban handguns — except in the hands of policemen and gun clubs. We wholeheartedly support such legislation.

Predictably, however, the bills will be quietly pushed aside when the clamor about the Wallace shooting calms. Case in point was an attempt this year by the Illinois Legislature to overturn existing gun registration laws.

At the bottom of this column is a list of elected officials representing us in Springfield and Washington, D.C. If the battle against handguns is to begin, it could start with a letter-writing campaign.

U.S. Rep. Philip Crane deserves a letter. He stands against even toughening gun registration laws; spokesmen in his office argue that tougher laws will do little to keep guns away from the criminal.

Banning handguns will not, of course, eliminate handguns from the American scene. But such a law, backed by stiff prison penalties, would reduce the hazard to political figures and to the man in the street.

Local governments could be encouraged to offer collection points for handguns. Home rule communities could be encouraged to draft laws regulating handguns.

In the end, our political process and each of us as individuals are endangered by the idiocy of "instant death" handguns. Let's take any and all steps — NOW — to rid them from our communities — and let's leave law enforcement in the hands of the police, where it belongs.

'Let's Enforce Gun Control Laws'

by ROGER CAPETTINI
Metropolitan Editor

Even as George Corley Wallace lies in hospital bed in Silver Spring, Md., this newspaper continues to receive letters from readers attacking an editorial which appeared last week calling for stricter gun control measures.

What in the world will it ever take to convince these people of the need to rid this country of handguns?

Just 1,439 days before the Alabama governor was shot Sirhan Sirhan walked to within a few feet of Bobby Kennedy and fired into the young senator's head.

And the nation was stricken with grief and shock.

And the political leaders as well as the general citizenry of this country cried out in outrage and disgust for an end to the savagery.

And there was extensive and exhaustive talk of stiffer gun control talk.

But little or nothing was done. And now another madman has struck.

For the next few weeks we can expect to hear again all the well-chosen words of state and national legislators and political leaders expressing their utter disdain for what they will call the "sickness" of the nation.

Yet as unconscionable as it will be, we can expect again they will do little or nothing, for the powerful gun lobby and thousands of misguided citizens will rally around a multitude of preposterous clichés and an absurd interpretation of their "constitutional right to bear arms."

They will shout of their need of a handgun to protect their family and home. But when was the last time you have heard of anyone successfully using a handgun to protect their home from intruders?

They will go to great lengths to show more people die as a result of auto accidents, drownings, falls, fires, suffocation and poisoning than do from being shot.

Following their nongenic, I agree — drownings, falls, fires, suffocation and poisoning should also be outlawed.

Despite all their protestations there is one underlying truth which cannot be denied: There is but one simple goal to which a handgun can be applied — to kill another human being.

Arguments to the contrary amount to nothing more than a combination of lame excuses, inane rationale and heavy doses of poppycock.

The first step to outlawing handguns in this country is to enforce to the utmost the gun control laws already on the books.

This is one of only a few topics on which State's Attorney Edward Hanrahan will find agreement in this corner. But that agreement is complete.

Last year Hanrahan's office gained

George Wallace

1,886 convictions in the circuit court on charges of unregistered weapons, carrying concealed weapons and unlawful use of weapons.

Of that number only 218 were jailed, about 700 were simply fined and the rest were released on probation or supervision.

Those violations, when listed as misdemeanors, are all punishable by as much as one year in prison. Yet only 12 per cent went to jail at all last year.

The punishment for weapons violations must be unpleasant enough to deter anyone who ever thinks of using it for unlawful purposes. Hanrahan's recommendation of an absolute minimum of 60 days in jail seems appropriate.

And just in case you think punishment is not an effective deterrent, ask yourself when you last heard of an armed robbery of a U.S. postal facility. The mandatory sentence for a conviction on that charge is 25 years.

But even that, expectedly, will not silence or convince those who feel they have an inalienable right to own a gun.

If all else fails in support of their arguments, they will resort to the king of clichés. "If guns are outlawed, only outlaws will have guns."

Of course, Hanrahan would be quick to point out that a substantial percentage of slayings occur among "intimates," mostly relatives or friends.

And the guns they used to commit the killings invariably were in the home under the pretense of being used to protect that home and the same family member killed with it.

And lest it be overlooked, Arthur Herman Bremer was no outlaw until he gunned down George Wallace four days ago.

Neither was Lee Harvey Oswald nor Sirhan Sirhan until they snuffed out the lives of John and Robert Kennedy.

Until that time they were simply law abiding citizens with the "constitutional right to bear arms."

'Sex Taxation Laughable'

I am seriously beginning to question the judgment of the Palatine Environmental Control Board. If Palatine has a stray dog and cat problem and they feel stiff fines for the owners of stray animals will help solve the problem.

fine. If they also feel some form of "birth control" is needed too, then they should direct the spaying and castration requirement against the very animals which precipitated the ordinance in the first place; namely, the strays. If a stray is picked up, why not require that the animal be castrated or spayed before being allowed to return to its owners. That type of an ordinance would at least make some sense.

Instead, the ECB through some warped reasoning voted to impose a $12 fee on all unspayed female cats and dogs and $3 for all males and spayed females. They are in effect penalizing all the owners of unspayed females whose dog never sees the outside of a fenced-in yard. They're penalizing all the owners who wish to selectively breed their animals. They're penalizing all the owners whose females are too old to safely spay. And, they're penalizing all the owners who cannot afford the healthy fee to spay a female dog or cat.

Not only has the ECB unfairly discriminated against one sex, but they have discriminated against the very sex that costs the most to neuter — females. According to estimates I've gotten, spaying of female dogs and cats runs anywhere from 25 per cent to 300 per cent higher than castration of male cats and dogs. How can the ECB possibly hope to encourage mass neutering under their present ordinance?

As for the licensing of cats, it would seem that the proposal would be unwarrantable because it will be difficult to enforce. Even a door-to-door check wouldn't reveal which homes have cats. Unlike dogs, cats are silent boarders.

I hope the village board uses clearer judgment when considering this ordinance. And while they're on the subject, maybe they should consider some changes on the ECB. This example of ECB's latest effort — taxation by sex — is almost laughable.

Rep. Mikva Praises Hunger Hike

The North Suburban Hike for Hunger last Sunday involved thousands of people, most of them under 21, who walked 20 or 30 miles through the rain to help less fortunate people in this country and elsewhere in the world. They deserve a great deal of credit: they raised money which will be used to help feed, clothe and educate the poor and underprivileged and they helped dispel the myth that this generation is an apathetic generation.

Their selflessness was contagious. I saw countless examples of people going out of their way to be kind and generous. (On a cold and wet Sunday when you've walked 10 miles, kindness is a dry place to stand and something hot to drink.) For example, at one bowling alley in Morton Grove, the manager let hundreds of walkers come inside to get dry and warm up — even though it probably "disrupted" business a little bit.

The Hike for Hunger was worthwhile — not just for the money it raised — but for what it said about the kids who took part, and all the people they affected.

Theatre Organ Lauded

While exercising my weekly habit of attending our beautiful new Palatine theatre, the Willow Creek, I was pleasantly surprised to find a theatre model organ installed there for display reasons. Having been a theatre organ buff for many years it brought back a bit of nostalgia to me as I worked on and around those wonderful theatre pipe organs for a greater part of my life and I hated seeing them abandoned when sound pictures came into being.

Although the modern movie theatres are not equipped to house pipe organs, the "horseshoe" console theatre model was certainly a good imitation of those former instruments. Being a member of our world-wide theatre pipe organ society I congratulate the courteous theatre manager and local organ dealer for providing us buffs with fond memories of those magnificent instruments, and I am glad that my membership in the society is doing what it can to keep that memory alive.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Once again insurance stocks are in the Wall Street limelight.

Both the life company shares and those of fire and casualty companies advanced notably in the first four months of the year. The Alfred M. Best life stock index, which includes multi-line giants such as Aetna, the Travelers and Connecticut General, advanced around 50 points.

Insurance stocks have suffered along with the rest of the market in May but not nearly as much. Therefore, specialists in the field say they are hopeful that resumption of the historical upward spiral of insurance stocks at last has begun.

IN SPITE OF their admitted volatility as compared with industrials and utilities, insurance stocks may have made more nest eggs in the past 75 years than any security group, their specialists claim. There are many examples of investments of $5,000 or so in insurance stocks running to $250,000 or $500,000 if held for a dozen years or so.

But the insurance stocks peaked out in 1964 and were rather dormant since then until late in 1971.

For a time in 1969 it looked as if they might resume their upward course. But they were clobbered by the 1970 market slide even though the earnings and sales of the life companies continued to grow steadily and the fire and casualty companies broke out of a period of several years of big underwriting losses.

Insurance Stock Market Service of Santa Barbara, Calif., reporting on 216 leading stocks for the first four months of this year, says 116 advanced and 32 were unchanged while 68 had declines.

THE INTERESTING thing was that the declines were tiny, on the order of 1 to 15 per cent, while the prices of insurance stocks that gained for the most part spurred 25 to more than 100 per cent in this period.

Ted Newton, insurance stock specialist of Eastman Dillon Union Securities Corp., said he feels the insurance stocks will keep moving ahead because the insurance business is unaffected by international problems or by the more serious problems of the domestic economy.

Arthur Milton, an independent insurance stock specialist, points out that the price-earnings ratios of many good insurance companies are at what most investors would consider bargain levels, 14 to 16 times this year's indicated earnings.

Federal, State Rules To Be Topic

New federal and state regulations are the topic of three area meetings in the near future.

Under the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA), anyone who employs another person is subject to the law's requirements.

Today, the Northwest Suburban Manufacturers Association will sponsor a workshop on the OSHA provisions at the Franklin Park Village Hall, 9 a.m. to noon. It will be conducted by James Smirles of the National Loss Control Service.

Additional information is available through the manufacturers association at 678-4366.

A May 24 breakfast sponsored by the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce will feature experts in the safety field to discuss OSHA. The meeting will be held at the Brass Rail of Arlington Heights, starting at 7:30. Reservation information is available at the chamber's office.

The Illinois State Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a workshop on OSHA, June 8 at 9 a.m. in the LaSalle Hotel, Chicago.

This meeting is designed to help companies comply with new federal and state safety regulations.

Reservations can be made through the Labor Relations Department, Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, 20 N. Wacker Dr., Chicago 60606.

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

An investment that appreciates 41.5 per cent in three months may sound like one of those well-kept Wall Street secrets that get tipped only to insiders, but it's merely a mutual fund whose shares rose that much in value during the year's first quarter.

That particular fund, it's true, is 1972's top performer thus far, but a few others performed almost as well, and the nearly 600 funds now being publicly offered have, as a group, treated investors well this year.

Average gain for 598 funds in the year's first quarter was 8.8 per cent, reports "Mutual Funds Scoreboard," published by the Hirsch Organization of Old Tappan, N.J. The top 25 funds on this list scored gains ranging from 22 to 41.5 per cent, over the three-month period.

"Growth funds — as usual in a market upswing — outpaced other funds with an average gain of 11 per cent," notes Scoreboard editor Yale Hirsch.

Now that the top funds are beginning to turn in impressive performances (assuming the continuance of a bull market), some investors are sure to return to the game of "pick the winners" — one played until the performance heyday of the funds came to an abrupt end in 1969. The current list of top performers indicates how chancy a game that is.

Among these top 25 funds, 20 are small, new funds, none more than three years old. That would seem to reinforce the belief of many fund-watchers that only a small fund has the agility needed to move easily and quickly into promising portfolio positions, and out of them when that's called for.

So it's temptingly true that among such funds this year's potential winners are probably to be found. But how is the average investor to identify them?

Fifteen of them aren't even listed in the daily newspaper quotations, not yet having the requisite number of shareholders or dollar assets to qualify for NASD price-listing. You can, of course, dig them out by subscribing to one of the fund information services. But once you have the names, there's little in the way of past performance records to guide you.

The fact that a fund has been a sparker in the past three months doesn't tell you anything about what it's going to do in the next three months, or three years, because such funds — most of them — tend to bounce around like an India rubber ball.

One that's up near the top currently, for example — it shows a 30 per cent increase in share value this past quarter — suffered heavy losses in 1969 and 1970. Let's say you had owned $1,000 worth of this fund's shares at the end of 1968. On this past March 31 — despite a fairly spectacular gain of 30 per cent in the first three months of the year — they would have been worth $755.

A few funds have turned in high-level performances consistently over the past few years, but most of the hot ones bounce up and down too fast for the average investor to avoid getting whacked on a down bounce. Playing "pick the winners" is seldom profitable.

As the record shows, it's the investors who have picked a dependable fund, on the basis of past performance, and invested with regularity for long-term performance, who have on the whole been treated well.

Senate Bill May Force Junior College Districts To Expand

New legislation signed by Gov. Richard Ogilvie may force local junior college districts to expand their boundaries to include areas currently not in a district.

Senate Bill 1188 calls for the inclusion of all territory in the state in a junior college district by Aug. 1, 1974. If an area has not formed its own district or annexed to another by the cut off date, then the Illinois Junior College Board may order it to annex to an adjacent district.

However, a loophole tacked on to the bill by Ogilvie allows residents to vote to withdraw from a district in a "backdoor referendum." Local college officials protest that the legislation protects the resident but does not protect districts already formed.

"IF RESIDENTS petition or are ordered to join our district we have no recourse but to object at a public hearing," said Harper College Pres. Robert Lahti.

Harper College Dist. 512 includes portions of Palatine, Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Wheeling and Barrington townships. Two major areas not in a district, but adjacent to Harper College, include the Adlai Stevenson High School District in Lake County and all of Northfield Township.

Oakton College Dist. 535, including Niles and Maine townships, is also adjacent to Northfield Township along with New Trier and Evanston townships.

These three townships form a large out-of-district area extending to the North Shore. Both New Trier and Evanston have turned down referenda to form their own district. They can annex to either the Harper or Oakton districts.

Study committees at Harper College are looking at the effect annexation of the three townships will have on their district. Lahti said a special citizens' committee may be appointed to assist in the study.

OAKTON OFFICIALS say they haven't given serious consideration to future annexations. If the annexations occur, the greatest effect will be on the location of the college campus. The campus has not been chosen, however, college officials hope to find a site in the center of the district.

If Oakton or Harper extend their boundaries, they will get an immediate state grant and additional state aid as students enroll. According to Lahti a sudden increase of a large number of students may necessitate using temporary facilities such as high schools or store fronts. "It would also push up our plans for a second campus," he said.

The legislative proposal originated with the Illinois Board of Higher Education which has called for a statewide junior college system similar to systems now in operation in Florida and California.

Currently there are 38 junior college districts in the state enrolling 187,000 students. Approximately 10 million persons reside in these districts, or 90 per cent of the state population. The districts encompass 41,000 square miles or 65 per cent of the land in the state.

NEC Call: Greater Cooperation

Dick Schlott, newly elected president of the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) Governing Board, opened the new term with a call for reorganization and greater cooperation.

Schlott told the board members, "the operating work in NEC is cooperative, not competitive." He cited growth pains as the cause of organization problems now being studied by the cooperative.

NEC is comprised of nine school districts, joined together to share programs and to solve mutual problems. The members include districts 21, 23, 25, 26, 15, 57, 59, 211 and 214.

Schlott said he hopes the new year will not repeat past months which he described as "filled with constant controversy." Most of the criticism, he said, was well founded.

"This board has no established procedures and only three shaky years as its total history. We've often just tended to housekeeping chores and depended on boards or administrators to tell us what to do. What we really have is a severe case of growing pains."

SCHLOTT SET three goals for the coming year. First, he wants to create a workable and functioning management and financial structure. Second, he wants to build a better understanding of the cooperative among the nine member district boards. As a third task, he listed establishment of the research and development role of the governing board and the cooperative.

40 To Be Graduated

Nearly 40 high school students will be graduated from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints Seminary tonight at 7 p.m. at the Mormon Chapel, 2035 N. Windsor Dr., Arlington Heights.

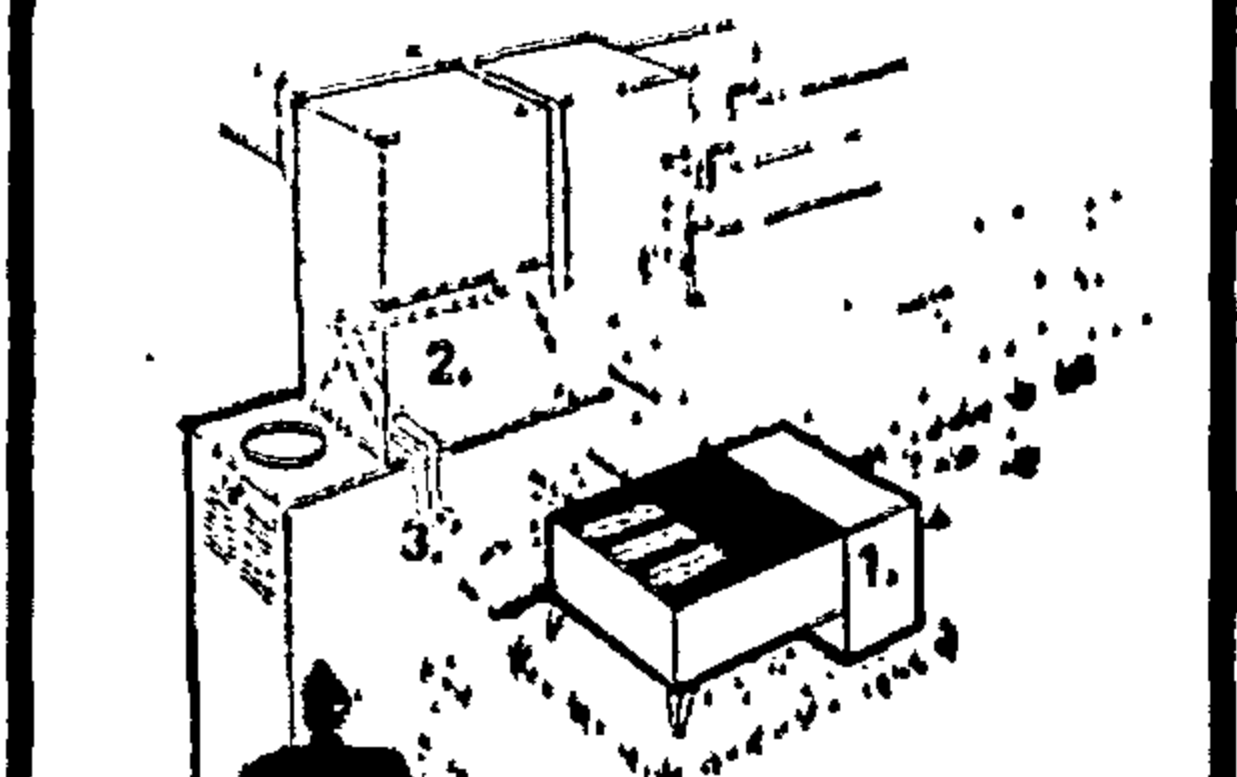

During the past school year, the students have met at the chapel for 45 minutes each morning, beginning at 6 a.m. Most students aren't bothered by the early hour.

"It is a good way to get the day started," said Bruce Westergren, president of the class. "It gets you in the right mood spiritually to face whatever may come."

Of the nearly 40 graduates, 18 are from Hersey High School, 5 are from Wheeling High School, 4 are from Fremd High School, 3 are from Arlington and Prospect High schools, two are from Palatine High School and one is from Lake Zurich High School.

Waiting Down The Lane

A Cabin Of Arts And Crafts

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Printed on a home decorated sign are the words, "Creative Cabin." That sign along with a flower-splashed mailbox beckons to passing motorists on Route 58 near Arlington Heights Road.

There are those people who have passed that landmark every day since it was first nailed up in September. They glance, shrug their shoulders and continue on their way. Periodically, however, someone decides to investigate.

A car turns into the long tree-lined driveway and the instant the motorist pulls off the busy highway he leaves that all behind.

Ronnie Bell, creator, manager and proprietor of the Creative Cabin, meets her guests and leads them back to the small building that was formerly nothing more than an old wooden work house.

RONNIE HAS ADDED paint and trim to refurbish the shack and turn it into something that looks, as though it might belong in Santa Claus land. At the moment she is putting the finishing touches on a fountain out front.

The resemblance doesn't end at the door. Inside the one-room cabin is a blinding layout of small gifts and novelty items representing the work of some 500 artisans Ronnie estimates.

Available are bookmarks brought in by a 9-year-old girl, homemade leather belts by a young suburban couple and a variety of small knitted pieces and ceramic knickknacks that have been made by residents of St. Joseph Home for the Aged.

TIE-DYED T-shirts, decoupage treasures and handmade beaded jewelry are also included. There are stuffed animals, Raggedy Ann dolls and vue d'optique wall plaques. Crocheted ponchos and shawls and hand pressed flowers in miniature frames are on display.

Everything is taken in on a consignment basis. When Ronnie makes a sale, she contacts the craftsman.

A ballet teacher for the park district of Rolling Meadows, Ronnie is completing plans to enlarge her cabin. That's the immediate future.

And so is a large art fair she is holding on the grounds around her home at 30 E. Golf Road June 11. More than 100 artists have responded. Food will be available on the premises and entertainment will be provided by various local choral and band groups. Ronnie is even planning to have games in operation to keep small children occupied.

"I LOVE ANYTHING dealing with the arts," said Ronnie.

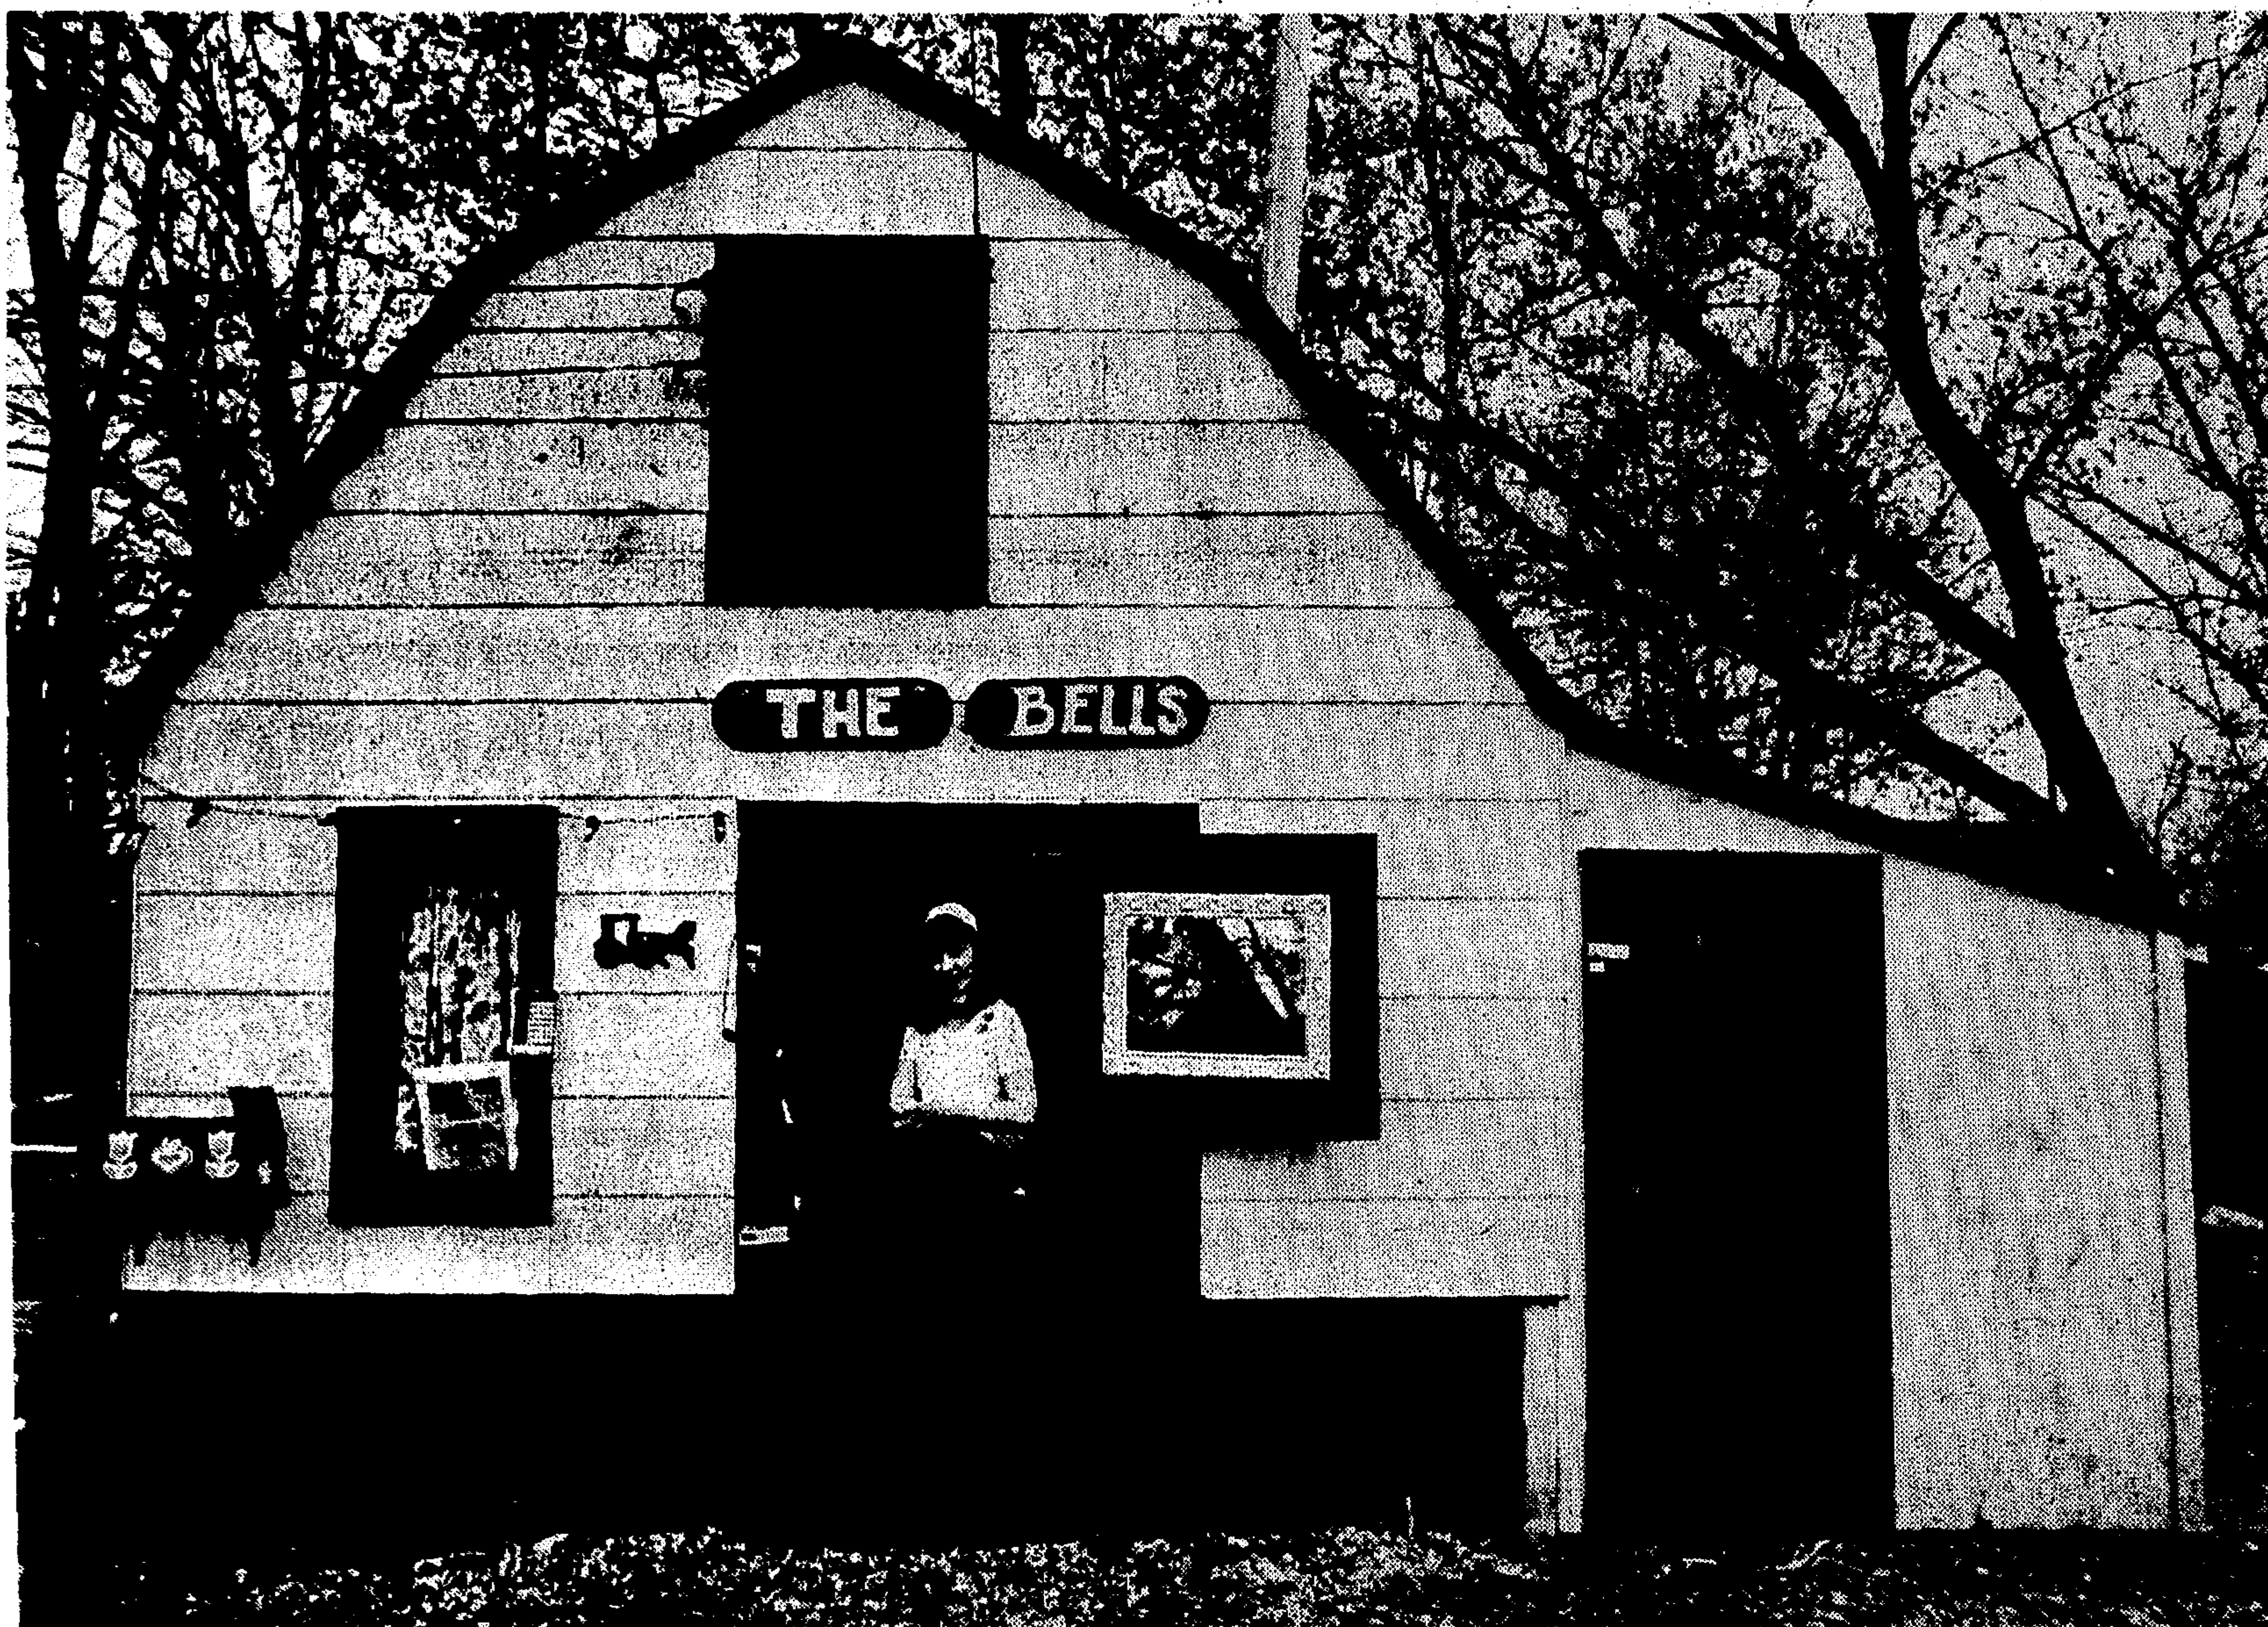

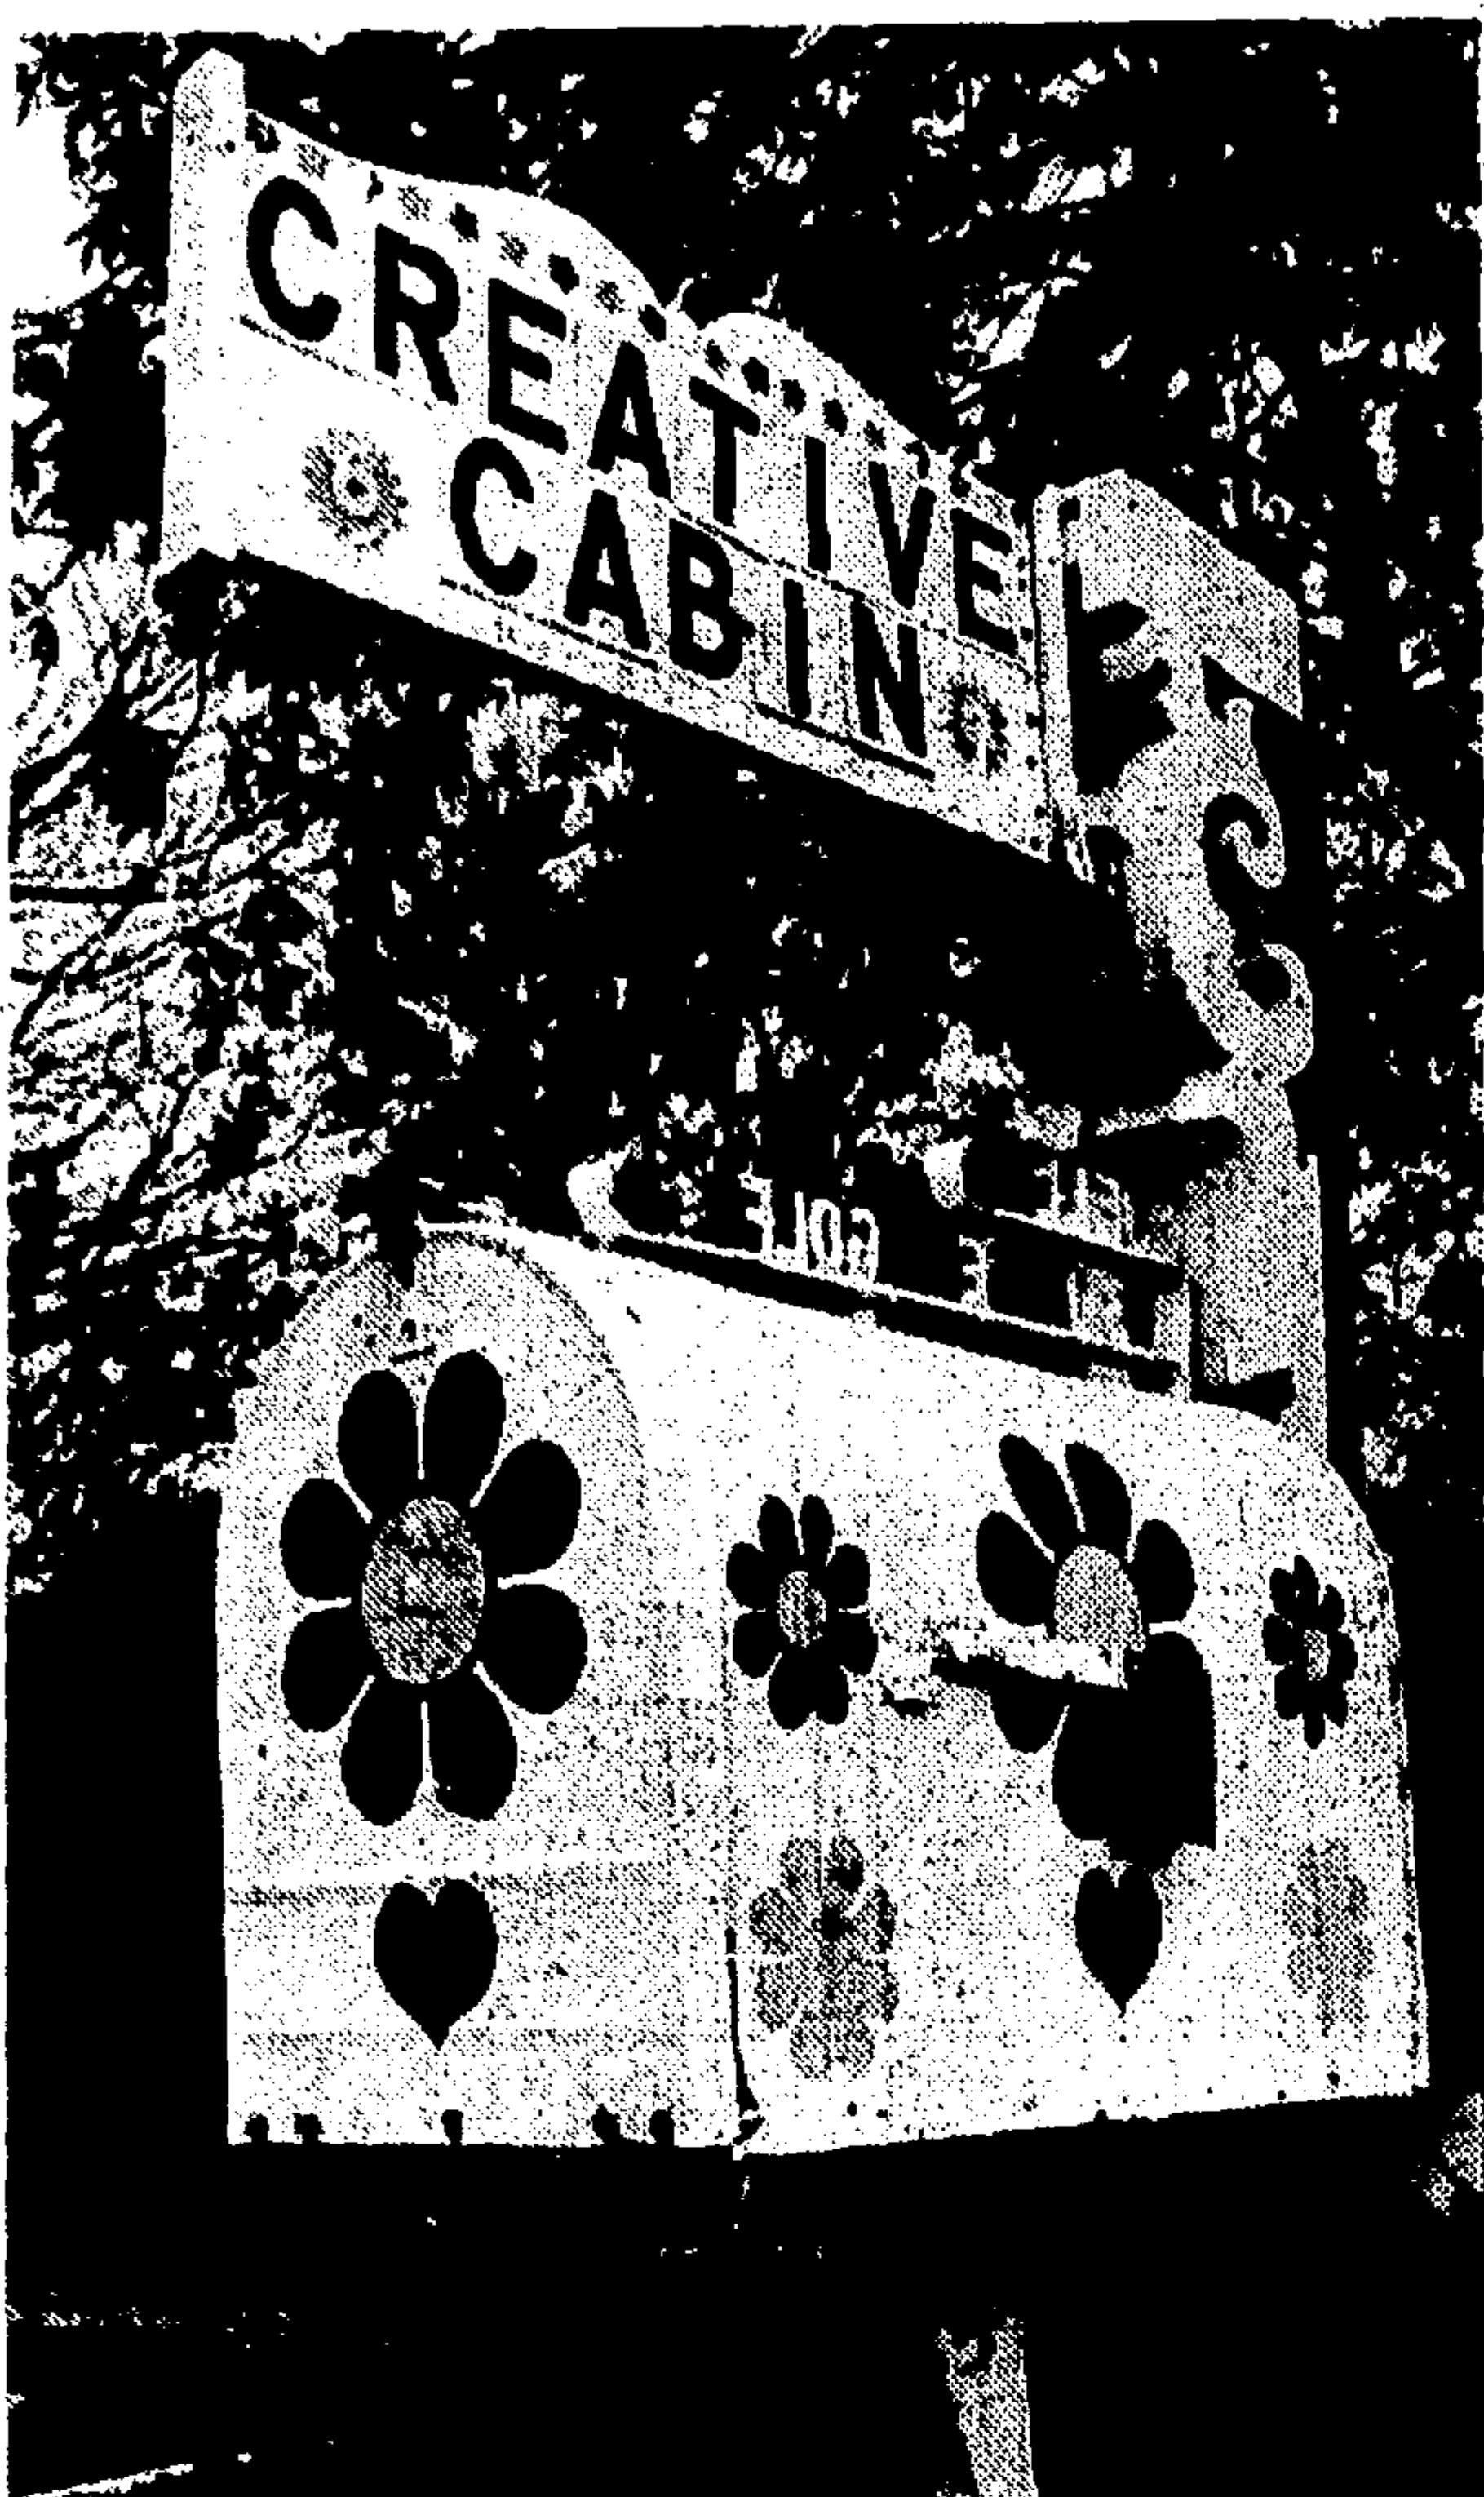

Raised in a show business family, she herself danced on stage throughout the country before settling in the northwest suburbs.

Ronnie eventually hopes to turn her two-car garage into a combined dance studio and art gallery. It would enable her to teach ballet classes at home while taking care of her Creative Cabin and her three small children she is trying to support.

That's what Ronnie Bell ultimately wants and she is determined to someday make that art center on her property a reality . . . if she has to pound every nail herself.

But first things first. Right now the art fair is most important and of course, that new addition for the Creative Cabin.

WELCOME TO RONNIE BELL'S Creative Cabin. Mrs. Bell stands inside the doorway to her one-room cabin that is filled inside with all kinds of homemade gifts. Artisans in the area, by word of mouth, have contacted Mrs. Bell to have their work put on display. Ronnie will not accept duplicate items. Even so, more than 500 persons are represented.

TOO MUCH TO SEE all at one time. Leather belts hang from the ceiling curtaining a display of diverse home-made crafts that completely line one wall.

A Turning Point For U. S.

NET Special Zeroes In On Movies Of The '40s

by RICHARD SCHICKEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — The Forties. A good time. Despite the war. Or maybe because of it. And careless memory does not play us entirely false. The movies of that decade — the best of them anyway — need no excuses. They stand sturdily on their own — no need to prop them up with false nostalgia or the spirit of camp.

The Forties. Cagney full of fight and bounce — and somehow so touching — in "Yankee Doodle Dandy." Bogart laying a light, lapping film of cynicism over his courage and convictions in a dozen movies. Cooper muttering and shuffling out the halting rhythms of utter sincerity. Rita Hayworth gliding down the long, curving ramp in "Cover Girl." That standard platoon-bomber crew-ship's company, magically including one each of every American type (the kid from Brooklyn, cowboy from Texas, farmer from Nebraska), except one — a black man — in a hundred movies that have, in memory, become interchangeable.

PERHAPS, HOWEVER, there is something more to be said about these movies? Perhaps, besides praising them for their intrinsic qualities, there is something to be learned from them about the way we were then, some three decades ago? Perhaps there is even something they can tell us about what we are now — or at least how we came to be this way?

I think so. As I went around interviewing stars like Ingrid Bergman and Robert Mitchum, directors like John Huston, Howard Hawks, Frank Capra, Raoul Walsh, as I worked with the NET crew assembling and editing clips from the films of the forties for the 90-minute special we call "You Must Remember This" (to be shown Tuesday, May 18, at 8:30 p.m. EDT), it was borne in on me that it was during the 1940s that Hollywood lost its innocence, its self-absorption, was drawn into a confrontation with the great political, and even existential, ideas of its age.

JUST BEFORE and during World War II Hollywood and Washington discovered, almost simultaneously, the power of films as something more than mere mass entertainment. They discovered that this first and most powerful mass medium could be used for ideological purposes, too. They struck a kind of bargain. These two great American power centers did favors for each other. The industry kept up morale, explained war aims to ourselves and our allies, drew us together and gave us a sense of common purpose. In return, the government, in large and small ways, made sure that the war did not inconvenience Hollywood unduly, indirectly guaranteeing it perhaps the most profitable period in its history.

The trouble was that when the war was over some people in government — having seen how film could be used for their purposes — began to worry that it might be used for someone else's purposes. Or, so they said. Actually most people think the investigation into alleged subversive activity in Hollywood by the House Un-American Activities Committee, which we show in action, was mostly an attempt by the committee to hitch its wagon to the stars and bask in the glow of publicity they inevitably generated.

BUT WHATEVER its motives, the 1948 HUAC hearings, the hearings at which The Hollywood Ten came into being, did something more than destroy movie careers and usher in the McCarthy era. They became the place where, indirectly, Washington told Hollywood that the era of good feelings between them was over, that the government, wherever and whenever it could, would try to muscle in on the media; try to control — mostly by threat — its freedom of expression. That is a matter that continues to be of concern.

What you can see in the 90-minute program — if you look beneath the romance and nostalgia and fun (which are abundantly present) — is Hollywood reaching the position where what it was saying began to seem to others worth controlling. And its frightened response to the first rather tentative test of its defenses. If you look a little more closely you can see, in the content of the post-war films themselves, Hollywood's loss of confidence in itself and in the myths, codes, forms that had sustained it financially — and sustained it psychologically in the years before.

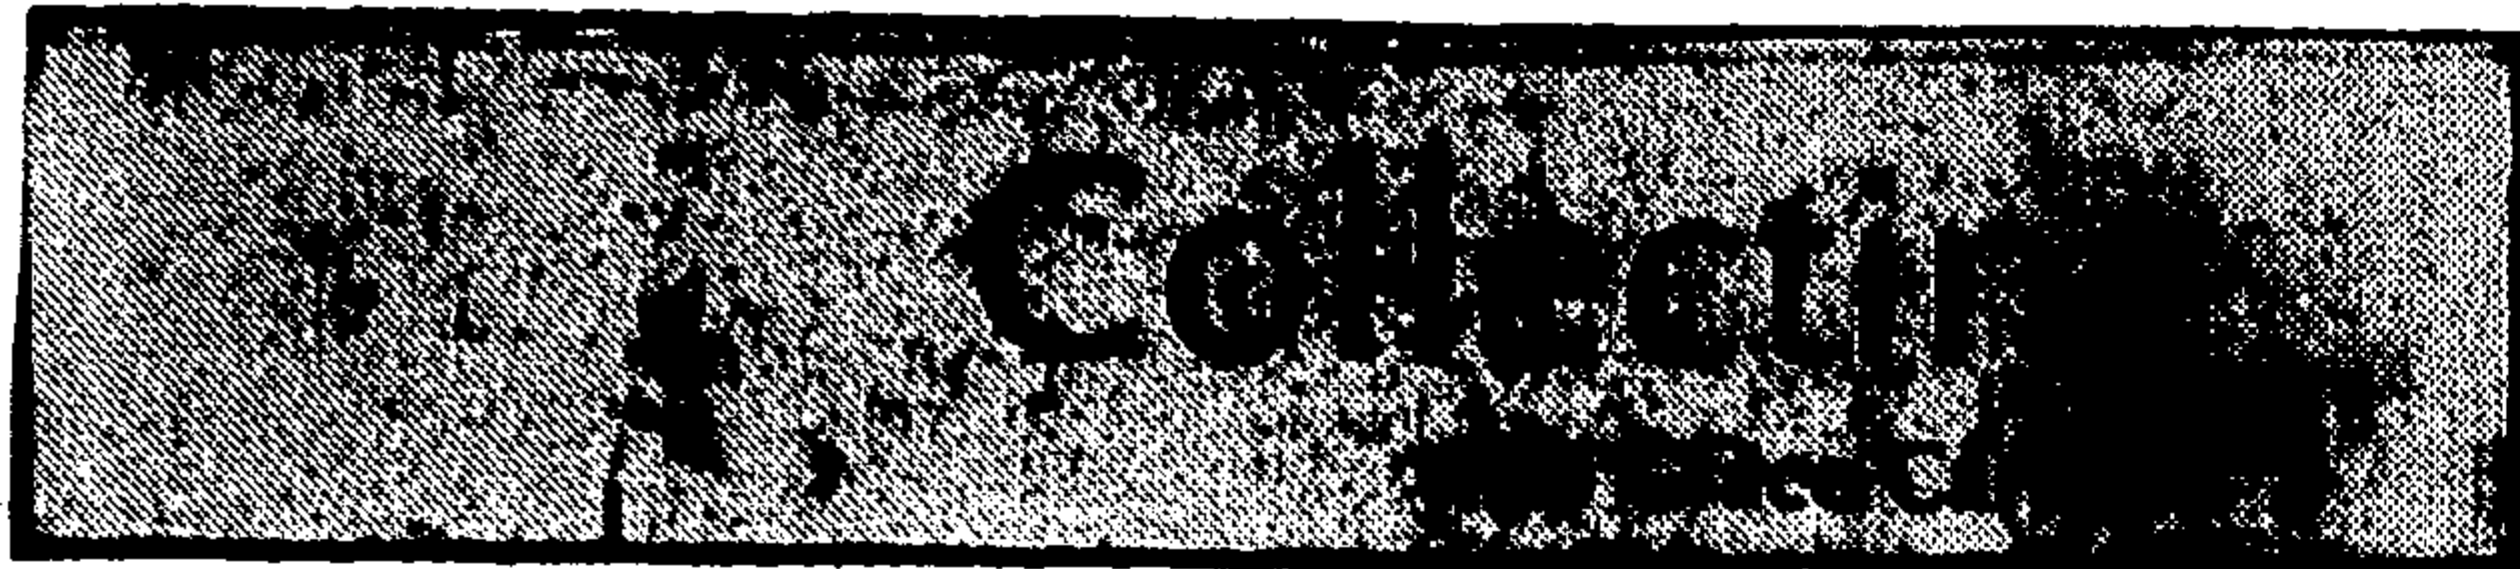

OTHER THINGS happened to Hollywood in these years — television, the loss of its prosperous theater chains — but the HUAC hearings, dramatically symbolize the beginnings of a great change — a shrinkage of pride as well as power for movie people.

Our documentary is, then, touched by rue. And not just for the passing of a great movie epoch. For these investigators destroyed something more than a few movie careers. Rather, they began the process of destroying the whole nation's sense of community. Which, in turn, was based on our ability to trust one another. Which, also in turn, was, in large part, based on the heroic myths we shared when we gathered around the movie screen, which was to us what the campfire and the story teller had been to primitive man.

(Editor's Note: Richard Schickel is Life magazine's movie critic. He wrote and created the NET special, Hollywood: You Must Remember This. His new book is entitled "Second Sight.")

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Homer Formby is a wizard, but he doesn't use top hats and rabbits to perform his magic; rather, he uses very fine steel wool, tung oil and elbow grease. He is a furniture refinisher and restorer, a third generation craftsman who is in love with his trade and can't help sharing his enthusiasm.

Anyone who works with wood seems to have his own pet formulas for refinishes, but Mr. Formby has perfected his methods through a lifetime association with the craft, having started at age 9 working with his father and grandfather in the south. While he rubs, polishes and stains a blackened, varnish-coated, crazed old bit of sample wood, he explains the process in honeydewed patient tones, and makes every woman present believe she can run right home and tackle that old piano in the basement. And she can, according to this furniture whiz.

"ANYONE," he claims, "can restore a piano using my method and products in eight hours, even the rawest amateur. I teach housewives and people who have never refinished a piece of furniture before."

Formby is an antiques dealer in Florida, with a chain of shops and furniture restoration centers. He is an author, lecturer, TV and radio performer, and he travels around the country giving lessons on his art in major department store chains.

His products, developed over years of experimentation and study, utilize natural ingredients such as tung oil, made from the nut of the tung tree from China. When it became difficult to obtain from the old country, he saw to the planting of tung trees in Florida and Mississippi.

His wood refinisher is non-caustic and will not harm the skin; in fact, many of the products he uses are applied with the palm of the hand, for a genuine "hand-rubbed" look. The removers and oils he uses are expensive, but he insists they are economical because they outlast any other wood protectors and bring out the beauty of the grain, rather than cover it up.

THE BIGGEST mistake, Formby says, is in overdoing it, for layers of finish tend to destroy the beauty of wood and discolor it. Inferior polishes and waxes build up and are the main cause of checking and crazing. He recommends pure lemon oil as a furniture polish and warns that it should not contain beeswax, linseed oil or silicones.

Mineral oil will remove old accumulated wax from furniture, and for removing white water marks from table tops, he suggests applying toothpaste (any brand of white abrasive polish, and it doesn't have to be kissing sweet) to the damaged area and rubbing it with a smooth cloth.

He offers his own list of "no-nos":
No water on wood
No wax
No benzine (harmful when the fumes are breathed)
No sandpaper (use 0000 grade steel wool instead)
No hurry

IN A RECENT demonstration at Randhurst Carsons, Formby illustrated his method of replacing veneers which have chipped away, and makes the offer to send a piece of his special self-adhering genuine wood veneer, with instructions for repairing, free to anyone who will send him a large self-addressed stamped envelope. He will also answer your furniture refinishing or repairing questions by mail, at no charge. Address: Homer Formby, P.O. Box 251, Monticello, Fla. 32344.

Formby made a believer of me, and I intend to tackle that old mantel which has been languishing in my garage for years and years. If you would like more information, or want to know where his products may be obtained, please write Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, in care of Paddock Publications, Suburban Living, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

The Book Stall

"DIVING AND SUNKEN TREASURE," BY JACQUES-YVES AND PHILIPPE
COUSTEAU
Doubleday, $6.95

Jacques Cousteau is a remarkable man of our times. An underwater explorer, a scientific observer, an environmentalist with a unique portfolio, even a television personality, he has been publishing a series of books about life under the sea, and his latest is as captivating as the others.

In a sense, they are hardly books at all. They are more diaries for Cousteau and his crew, detailing their encounters in the watery world they know so well. The reportage, along with the beautiful color photographs, evoke the wonder and drama of diving beneath the sea as nothing but the real thing can.

This book traces the discovery of the treasure ship Nuestra Dona de la Concepcion but, more than that, it tells of another world and man's determination to conquer it.

"THE FRIENDS OF EDDIE COYLE,"
BY GEORGE V. HIGGINS
Knopf, $5.95

George Higgins is no stranger to writing; he was a wire service reporter and newspaperman before latching onto a law degree. He also is no stranger to the underworld; he has been an assistant state attorney general and now serves as assistant U. S. attorney for Massachusetts.

Blend the two backgrounds — writing ability with gangland knowledge — and the product is one of the niftiest "first books" in quite a while.

The story is set in and around Boston, territory with which Higgins is familiar and comfortable. The dialogue is nothing short of superb, pumping real-life feeling into the scenes.

If the book has a fault, it may be that Higgins flits from place to place and mentions "local color" as if a non-Bostonian would recognize "The Rock" or "Duxbury" or "seven races." But that's a minor flaw in an otherwise crackling book.

Higgins deftly hop-scotches between Eddie the Schemer and those he schemes with and against. The dialogue is masterful, born of firsthand experience with Eddie Coyle-types.

Coyle gets his come-uppance at the end, so he won't be around for subsequent stories, but the hope is that Higgins will produce a steady flow of similar efforts.

Paul Robbins (UPI)

"A LETTER TO MY WIFE,"
BY JOHN B. KOFFEND
Saturday Review Press, $6.95

When the marriage of associate editor John Koffend of Time magazine breaks up, Koffend decides to write a letter to his wife explaining his version of the breakup. The letter gradually lengthens into a diary of sorts and then into a book, alas of sorts.

"A Letter to My Wife" is nicely written but it's the type of book that will draw a different reaction from each reader.

He describes his feelings after the divorce, his drinking, the souring of his job and his eventual move to Pago Pago, American Samoa, in a desperate last attempt to find himself.

"A Letter to My Wife" is a painful book, as painful for the reader as it must have been for the author.

It is such a biting and hurtful book that it's hard to know how to take it. The writing of this book is either an act of supreme egotism, cowardice or courage. The individual reader must judge for himself.

"TALES OF THE TABLE: A HISTORY OF WESTERN CUISINE," BY BARBARA NORMAN
Prentice-Hall, $9.95

There's a warning for us on Page 8 of this interesting, fact-filled social history:

"Where there is too much wealth and leisure, cooking, like all arts, lapses into a decadence in which cost and elaborate form take precedence over taste and content," writes Miss Norman.

Some signs already are visible in new restaurants that provide gimmicky or elaborate decor at great expense but serve mediocre food.

But at least we haven't reached the stage of the early Romans whose questionable achievements included a sauce in which precious stones were dissolved along with a camel's heel, esteemed for its price rather than its flavor.

To some readers, this feast for the eyes and the intellect may appear to be a collection of trivia. Who cares if Alexandre Dumas' oyster sauce for roast chicken required 72 oysters?

Despite the book's faults, which include absence of an index, it is a work to be treasured by those of us who enjoy eating or merely reading about cooking.

Jeanne Lesem (UPI)

"THE TERMINAL MAN,"
BY MICHAEL CRICHTON
Knopf, $6.95

Michael Crichton, author of the best seller "The Andromeda Strain," has written another splendid suspense novel in "The Terminal Man," this one concerned with the computer age, man's brain and the chilling prospect of surgical-electronic mind control.

The subject is Harry Benson, a violent paranoid who has twice attempted to kill. He permits a team of surgeons to connect his brain to a minuscule computer implanted into his shoulder in hopes he can be cured.

It does work for a while but man's brain is made up of trillions and trillions of cells, almost too ultracomplex to be controlled with a computer that has only a few connections. And soon things do get out of whack and we get horror-suspense of the old Mary Robert Rinehart "had I but known" school.

Crichton was educated at Harvard College and Harvard Medical School and writes absorbingly and with authority on this frightening subject of psychosurgery, a practice now being experimented with and one that already has become a scientific and moral issue.

Playback

by Tom Von Maider

That The Rascals are still around and recording is amazing in this era of the "split up" among rock groups. The Rascals have not emerged unscathed by these years of instability — they've had some personnel changes — but their music has maintained consistency.

Their most recent album, "The Island of Real" (Columbia KC 31103), proves again that they still have that distinctive approach to the rhythm and blues idiom that has proved so appealing since their first hit single, "I Ain't Gonna Eat Out My Heart Anymore," back in 1965.

Most of the group's success and continuity of sound must be attributed to Felix Cavaliere, their guiding genius. Together with drummer Dino Danelli, they are the only two (Young) Rascals remaining.

CAVALIERE IS STILL writing the lion's share of the group's songs. And although not every one has that "instant hit" sound, there are a couple of tunes that could do well in the new album.

"Lucky Day" is a spirited number that sounds like a composite of earlier Cavaliere touches that proved so successful before. Lines like "Even the trees seem to be bending my way/Must be my lucky day" sound as if they were taken from the earlier "A Beautiful Morning."

It is in songs such as "Lucky Day" that the rich, full Rascal sound can still be heard. "Sage of New York" is another example and it has the brilliant addition of a soprano solo by Joe Farrell.

ANOTHER POTENTIAL hit is "Echoes" on which Molly Holt sings the lead. She is one of two female additions to the band. The song itself could be sung by Dionne Warwick; it is in that vein.

The Rascals' first Columbia album was a little stilted but most of this had been ironed out in this, their second. The album both evokes the past and promises the future.

This month's winner in the early Beatles sound-alike contest would have to be Raspberries, a new foursome whose first, "Raspberries" (Capitol SK-11036), has just been released.

THERE'S THE uncanny knack one of the four has to sound like Paul McCartney and "Come Around And See Me" sounds as if it came from one of McCartney's solo albums.

Certain stammering of words and other voice inflections and even phrases help recall the Beatles in the listener's ear. Those happy Beatles days of the mid-sixties are evident in the "come on's" of "Go All the Way."

But all this is not a put-down. It seems to be meant in fun. Raspberries plays good, straight rock and roll. Who can knock that these days?

It is a solid regression guaranteed to produce heavy sales. After all, Capitol outdid seven other companies to sign the boys. The record company is hoping for a repeat of the Beatles' tremendous success and I think they may be right.

"I SAW THE LIGHT" could rocket right to the top of the charts. It has a delightful chorus and features the group's basic thrust — hard hitting piano and drums with bass, lead and rhythm guitar. Some cuts have strings and horns which were added later on the West Coast. Another good song is "Don't Want To Say Goodbye" with its exciting changes of tempo.

This is a very strong debut album for Raspberries. Their next album or two should foretell their permanence on the rock scene.

Entr'acte

Village Theatre needs a number of items to lend authenticity to its final production of the season, "You Can't Take It With You," opening June 2.

Setting of the play is July of 1935. Particularly needed is clothing for both men and women . . . dresses (streetwear and formal), shoes, old fur pieces, shoes, suits (does anyone have an old double-breasted tuxedo or white dinner jacket, 42 inch long?)

Also, Village Theatre would appreciate such pieces of furniture as a small divan, small scale chairs in dark wood, and the real "piece de resistance," a small buffet, cupboard, credenza, etc., that is no more than 36 inches wide.

PERHAPS A TRIP to grandma's attic would uncover such treasures? A call to either 259-3200 or 253-6217 would automatically provide eager hands to transport the items to the stage.

Betty Kandlebinder of Palatine is appearing this weekend in the Lincolnwood Community Theatre version of "Absence of a Cello." The play, being staged tonight and tomorrow, begins at 8:30 o'clock at Lincoln Hall School, 6855 N. Crawford, Lincolnwood.

Mrs. Kandlebinder has previously appeared with the Des Plaines Theatre Guild.

The new year for Countryside Art Center begins in May with the election of new officers.

BERTHA BARBORO, who presided over the renovation of Countryside's new gallery, installed the new president, Ruth Cournoyer. Both women are residents of Arlington Heights.

"We look forward to a very exciting year," said Mrs. Cournoyer. "We have many interested people to help us and we hope to acquaint many more with Countryside and its members. To do this we will soon begin a series of morning coffees and evening programs."

Other officers elected for the new year are Josette Lebbin of Arlington Heights, first vice president; Earl Teteak of Western Springs, second vice president; and Donna Read of Itasca, third vice president.

Eleanor Brink of Arlington Heights was elected as secretary to the board.

VT Crew Hard At Work

Play rehearsals, never noted for serenity, have entered a new dimension of near chaos as Village Theatre whips into its final weeks of preparation for "You Can't Take It With You."

Director Tom Ventriss, besides maneuvering his 17 cast members through scene after scene of madcap antics in the Kaufman-Hart comedy, also extends advice to various crew members.

There's the challenge for set designer Al Estrella of Arlington Heights who must simulate a scene of the 1930s which will accommodate the large cast on the relatively small stage of the Bristol Theatre of Arlington High School.

PROP CHAIRMEN Doris Johnson of Palatine and Alice Orlisen of Arlington Heights, along with collecting some hundred items, vintage late-Depression, are charting a course for keeping track of kettles, snakes, plants, food and fireworks.

Bette Grayson of Arlington Heights and Barbara McKee of Rolling Meadows are rounding up costumes for a family which favored eccentric fashions in an era of conservative clothes. Their final collection will include at-home wear for the wealthy Kirbys and face-saving fashions for down-at-the-heels Russian nobility.

Carolyn Burkett and Betty deGroh, both of Arlington Heights, are production managers for the comedy which winds up the season for Village Theatre. Wendy Gruen of Mount Prospect is stage manager, with Cindy Pisan, also of Mount Prospect, assisting.

JOYCE ZELLER and Sheila Baker, both of Arlington Heights, are in charge of set decoration and Sue Catanzaro of Arlington Heights and Halita Botkin of Rolling Meadows, furniture. Gene Kaczor is head of set construction and Carol O'Dea of Elk Grove Village heads make-up.

Performances are June 2, 3, 4, 9 and 10. Tickets, 259-3200.

Des Plaines Art Fair Sunday

Des Plaines Art Guild is holding its annual spring art fair this Sunday at the Des Plaines Bank, Lee and Oakton.

Artists will be exhibiting their work beginning at 11 a.m. and continuing until 6 p.m.

Oils, watercolors, acrylics, metal sculpture, ceramics and wood pieces will be on display. Ribbons will be awarded to outstanding work.

The Des Plaines Art Guild was organized in 1963 to develop active community interest in the field of creative arts. Since its beginning, the Guild has offered a variety of programs to its members and guests including lectures and art demonstrations.

Each year the Guild presents two art fairs. The one this Sunday is open for exhibiting purposes to art guild members only.

In September the Des Plaines Guild will hold its 17th annual fall fair that is open to artists outside the organization.

The Guild annually contributes money to the Des Plaines Public Library for the purchase of art books.

New officers recently elected are Thelma Spain of Des Plaines, president; Milvi Wheeler of Deerfield, vice president; Agnes Schultz of Des Plaines, treasurer; and Marilyn Serzh of Des Plaines, recording secretary.

GETTING IN SHAPE FOR SUNDAY. Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah," will be presented this Sunday by Northwest Choral Society. Instrumental music for the production will be provided by Pauline Lord, pianist; John Rose, organist; and Jan Jarvis on tympani. Mrs. Lord is the regular accompanist for the Choral Society.

Sing 'Elijah' 'Y' Choralettes Concert To Aid Opportunity Center This Sunday

Northwest Choral Society will present Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah," this Sunday at 3 p.m. Under the direction of James C. Thunder Jr., the concert will be held at Christ Church, Cora and Henry streets, Des Plaines.

Tom Daniels, choir director and teacher in the Maine Township High Schools, will sing the role of Elijah. Daniels studied at the American and Chicago Conservatories of Music and has appeared in many musical comedies in summer stock theater.

Singing the role of Obadiah is Donald Doig, tenor. He is a member of the faculty of Chicago State University and is tenor soloist for the University of Chicago's Rockefeller Chapel. Doig has appeared on "Artist's Showcase," in Grant Park opera productions and at the White House in 1970.

MRS. LOUIS VOLBERDING of Des Plaines will be the widow. Mrs. Volberding has been heard as a soprano soloist in numerous choral concerts in the Midwest.

The Northwest Choral Society recently presented a concert of popular music and has been invited to sing at the Modern Music Masters Association Convention June 17 at Maine North High School.

The society will appear in the "Concert Under the Stars" series, the outdoor summer concerts sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District. That appearance is scheduled for June 26 in Frontier Park.

Tickets for the June concert are available through 824-1971.

The Northwest Choralettes' annual spring concert this year will benefit the Northwest Opportunity Center, a self-help agency serving Barrington, Palatine, Hanover, Schaumburg, Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships.

The Choralettes, a 45-voice women's musical group from Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines, will sing "All Kinds of Music for All Kinds of People" at the Friday, June 2, concert at Rolling Meadows High School.

Designed to appeal to all ages and musical tastes, the evening's entertainment will feature a variety of songs and sounds, including folk and popular ballads, calypso, blues, barbershop, rock, and gospel as well as music from eight Broadway shows. It is scheduled for 8 p.m.

"We are especially pleased about our concert plans for this year," said Choralette president Colleen Crombie of Rolling Meadows. "The Northwest Opportunity Center is doing such a tremendous job, and it makes our music more meaningful when the proceeds from the concert will go to help those who need the help the most."

Tickets to the benefit concert will be available during May from any Choralette and at various places throughout the area. Donations are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children.

Now in their sixth year, the singing group is directed by Pat Ferguson of Des Plaines. Accompanist is Harriet Diekhoff of Mount Prospect, and narrator is Virginia Lee Schwab of Barrington.

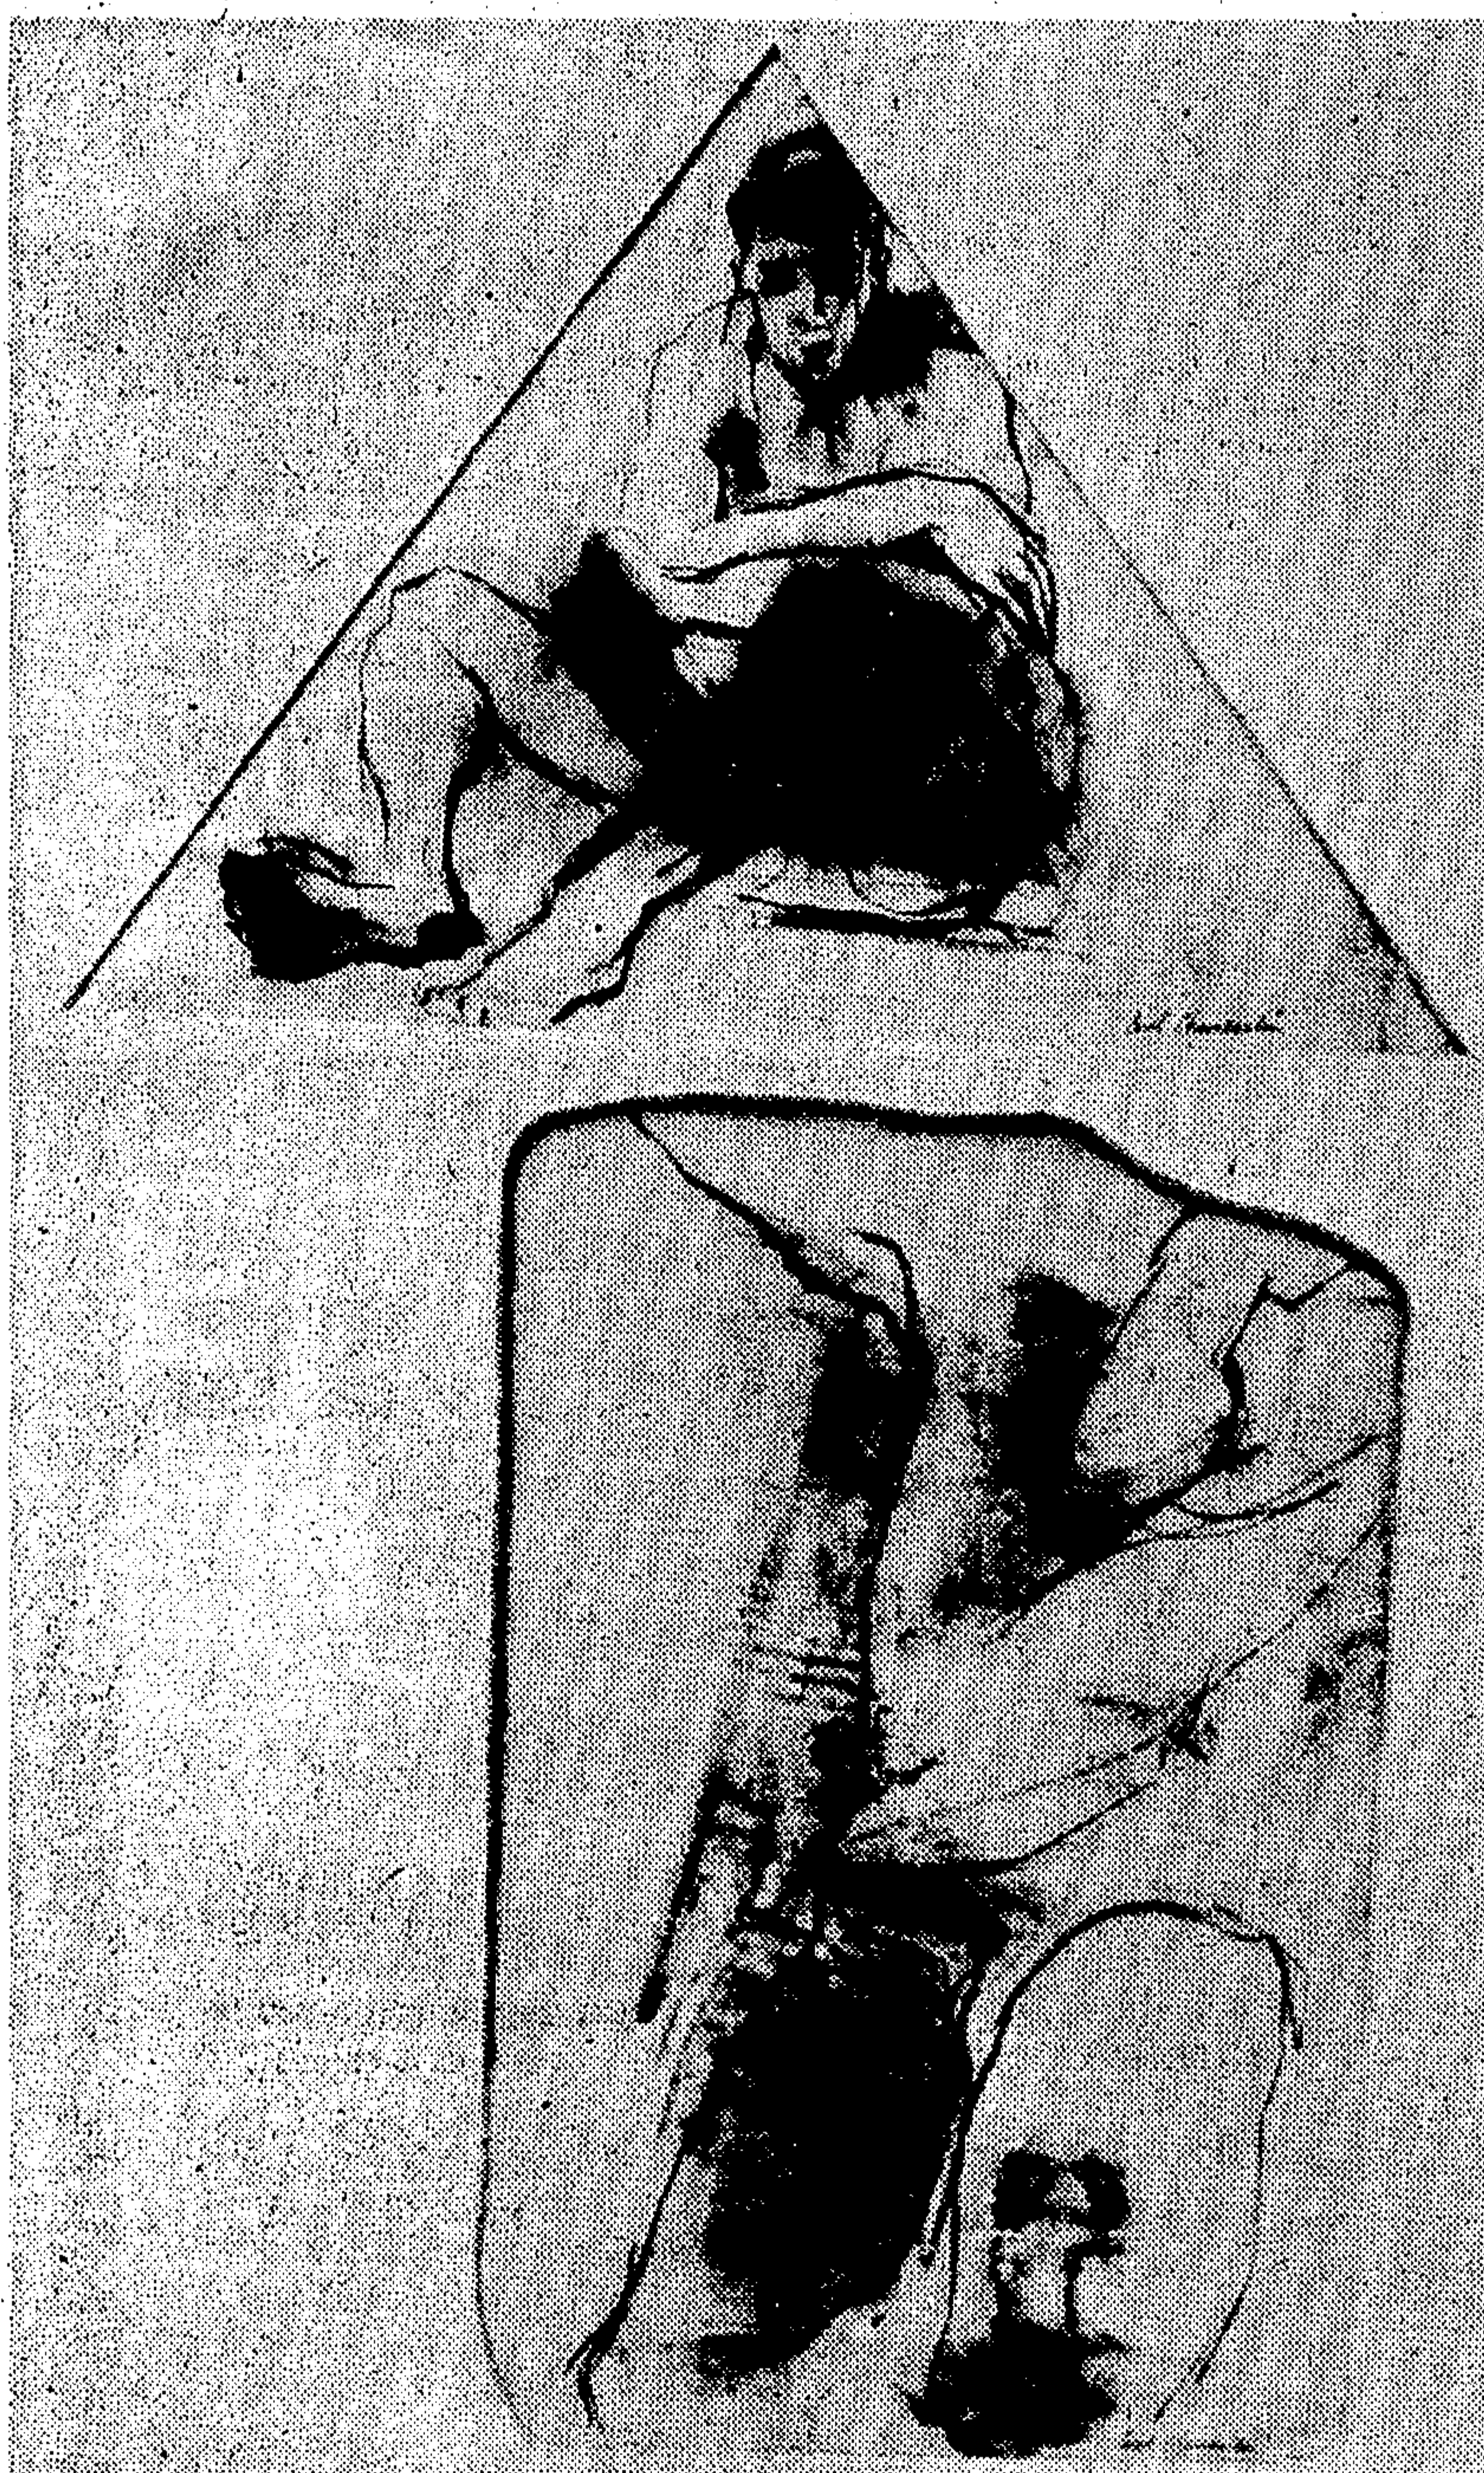

Palatine Band Plays At Wheaton Sunday

Robert Rushford, principal trumpet of the Lyric Opera Orchestra in Chicago, will appear as guest soloist with the Palatine Village Band in concert Sunday evening. He will play the Hummel Concerto accompanied by a band ensemble at 8:15 p.m. in Edman Chapel on the Wheaton College campus.

Other concert selections are Tchaikovsky's "Marche Slave," "Fanfare" by Dukas, "Scenes from the Louvre" by Norman Dello Joio, "Third Suite" by Robert E. Jager, "Ballet for Jazz" by A. Wiggins and Morton Gould's "Jericho."

Arthur D. Katterjohn, director of bands at Wheaton, will direct the concert. Admission $1.

Rushford is also a member of the Grant Park Orchestra and has appeared with the Bolshoi and Kirov ballet troupes in Chicago this year. He is an instructor at Chicago Musical College and at Triton College.

ART WORKS CREATED by Harper College art department students and faculty continue on exhibit this month in the lower level display area of the campus Learning Resources Center. "Life Drawing" is by Harper Art instructor Carol Chamberlin. The medium is conte crayon.

Area Premiere

"Playboy of the Modern World," an original comedy by Chicago playwright Keith Kreitman, will have its area premiere when the Guild Players of Hoffman Estates, present it the weekends of June 2-3 and June 9-10.

Ken Boutelle of Hoffman, who has directed many children's plays for the Guild Players, is directing this production.

Heading the cast as the "Playboy," Bennet Green, is Dick Harris of Hoffman Estates. Irene Kaufman, also a Hoffman resident, will play his wife, Martha. Green's partner in his law firm, Milton Farber, will be portrayed by Chuck Levy, longtime Guild member and a Hoffman Estates resident, making his first stage appearance.

Iris Tompkin of Lombard portrays Farber's wife, Mikred, and Gail Box of Bartlett, drama department head at Itasca Junior High, has the part of the playboy's 17-year-old daughter. Her boyfriend on stage will be portrayed by Andy McCutcheon of Bartlett, to whom she is engaged in real life.

MARIAN SHUTTY of Roselle will be seen as Betty, the two lawyers' secretary, and also heard as the voice of Ginny Carter. Dr. Tischler, cause of all the funny happenings on stage, will be played by Hank Ralston, Hoffman Estates.

The play will be presented at 8:30 p.m. in the Vogeley Barn at Golf and Higgins Roads, Hoffman Estates. Tickets at $2.25 for adults and $1.25 for students may be purchased from Patti Ventura, 894-7406.

Plan Mexican Fiesta To Accompany 'Iguana'

In conjunction with its production of "The Night Of The Iguana" by Tennessee Williams which takes place in Puerto Barrio, Mexico, Schaumburg Festival Theatre will hold a Mexican fiesta on the performance dates of June 3, 4, 10 and 11.

As part of this event, called the Fiesta Del Schaumburg, usherettes for the performances will wear Mexican costumes and audiences will be entertained with Spanish guitar selections before the curtain rises.

Jaycees Sponsor Inmate Art Show

Hoffman Estates Jaycees will co-sponsor with the warden of the Joliet Correctional Complex an inmate art show on the Stateville grounds this Sunday.

This is the 13th annual exhibit of arts and crafts created by inmates of the state prison. It will open at 1 p.m. and close at 5.

Approximately 300 inmates will show more than 3,000 pieces of art work, including paintings in oil, acrylics, water-colors and pastels and charcoal and pen and ink drawings. The works will be on sale, ranging in price from $5 to $50.

The show is open to the public. Refreshments and band music will be provided by the institution. If the weather prohibits the show, it will be held Sunday, May 28, instead.

In addition, those attending the Saturday, June 3 and 10, performances will be treated to Mexican foods and exotic punches during the intermission.

All proceeds from the Fiesta Del Schaumburg will be used to finance the theater group's teenage workshop which begins Monday and the group's philanthropy program which involves monthly donations of funds or services to community organizations and local and regional charities.

TICKETS FOR "Iguana" can be obtained anytime at M and M Travel Service, Regency Gallery, McArthur Realty, and Sportsman Liquors in the Schaumburg Road Plaza or at the Jewel in Weathersfield Commons on weekends. Advance reservations for the play may be made by calling 882-1894.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1.25 for students. In addition to the Saturday performances at 8:30 p.m., there will be two performances on Sundays, June 4 and 11, at 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. All performances will take place at the Festival Theatre's facilities in the Schaumburg Great Hall, 231 S. Civic Drive.

A Paddock Review

Ivanhoe Drama Engrossing

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Alice Childress does a good job of expressing her ideas in "Wedding Band," even though the subject matter is somewhat passe.

Taking place in Charleston, S.C., during World War I, the play now being staged at the Ivanhoe Theatre reveals the tragic truths about a black/white love affair that forces a racially mixed couple to live as fugitives outside matrimony because the law of the state will not permit them to be man and wife.

It is a story of a black woman and a white man who have loved each other for 10 years but cannot buck the racism of their own heritages.

It is difficult in 1972 to identify with the social elements of 1918. But in retrospect we can appreciate what the playwright, Alice Childress, is telling us.

"WEDDING BAND" is even more effective as an in-depth characterization study offering an insight into the personalities of both black and white fenced in by their own bigotry.

Yet while the time element can be questioned, there is no dispute that the play is engrossing. That is because Childress dramatically riddles the audience with emotionally charged bullets of despair and hatred and then relieves the tension with waves of witticism.

This is the strength of the play, what keeps theater-goers keenly focusing on stage. Too much constant heavy bombardment only makes an audience uncomfortable and tired.

MISS CHILDRESS writes of her play, "Wedding Band" came into being because, like a leak in the roof, the time slot of half past slavery kept calling attention to itself until something had to be done about the passed down accounts of those who were shamed and hounded by racist laws established and pitted against them before birth.

Her ideas are expressed by a hand-picked cast directed by George Keathley. Starring in the production are Ruby Dee as Julia and Michael Higgins as Herman, her white lover.

"What am I doing in a backyard explaining my life?" cries Julia. The complete hopelessness, broken only by glimmers of wistful dreams, is beautifully portrayed by Miss Dee.

SHE IS PARTICULARLY effective in the end of the second act when in a shouting match with Herman's mother and sister, she collapses with the total anger and hatred that racial barriers have bred.

Herman, a poor baker, is kind-hearted and devoted. But he is weak too and cannot entirely shake the bondage of his own white background. Trapped, he is suspended in time and can only offer Julia empty promises of some day being able to share a life together.

The supporting cast is just as tailor made, each one unique.

There's Fanny Johnson played by Clarice Taylor, a black spinster who likes to consider herself above the rest of her race and an image for them to look up to.

And there's Lula Green played by Letitia Toole who is more or less resigned to her station in life but worries about her son Nelson, Chuck Patterson, a rebel who cannot accept the idea that he is good enough to fight for his country but not allowed to better himself.

COLOSTINE BOATWRIGHT plays Mattie, a simple-minded black girl who provides much of the humor on stage through pure innocence.

If "Wedding Band" had been written at least 25 years sooner, perhaps we would feel anger, indignation and even guilt. Today we can only appreciate the style in which it is written.

Double Up

The secret for the homemaker of cutting household chores to a minimum is doing two at a time.

When spray painting frames for window panes, mirrors, pictures, etc., mix polishing cleanser with enough water to make a thick paste and apply to the entire glass surface, being careful not to touch the wooden frames, says the Bon Ami Research Center.

Spray paint and let it dry. Then wipe off the cleanser with a moist cloth and dry. With no extra effort you have a new paint job and clean windows, without scraping paint from the glass and without masking tape. (UPI).

Night Out

Singer Margaret Whiting On Stage In The Blue Max

Margaret Whiting

by GENIE CAMPBELL
MARGARET WHITING is currently on stage in the BLUE MAX of the REGENCY HYATT HOUSE belting out some contemporary numbers, some from way back when and a variety of songs her famous dad, songwriter Richard Whiting, composed.
It's a nice evening and the veteran blond songstress is a poised pro, the kind that is born from a successful career on stage. She doesn't have to compete with anyone.
Margaret begins with "Love Story," follows it up with the Jackson Five's hit, "Never Say Goodbye," and then completely turns about with a medley of songs her father wrote. Old favorites include "Good Ship Lollypop," "Too Marvelous For Words" and "Sleepy Time Gal."

She brings out a bit of laughter with her answer to women's lib, "Don't Win the Battle and Lose the War," and finally winds up her program with a medley of Disney songs including "Chim Chim Cherree and Zip-A-Dee-Do Dah."

I cannot extend the same warm compliments to BILLY FALBO whose comedy act preceded Miss Whiting on stage. It is something one was forced to endure, nothing more. His Indian routine is a bore and that makes up most of his act. He does end with a good set of male vocalist impersonations. Perhaps he should concentrate more in that direction.

RAY KALLAHUR is currently entertaining guests through May 27 at the DOVER INN in Mount Prospect.

The Jamaican "pop" singer has a repertoire that ranges from early Elvis Presley through Neil Diamond and Vegas-type show tunes.

The KING FLEMING TRIO is being featured at the SEVEN EAGLES NEST COCKTAIL LOUNGE in Des Plaines Friday and Saturday evenings. They play some of the jazz classics as well as original compositions by King Fleming himself.

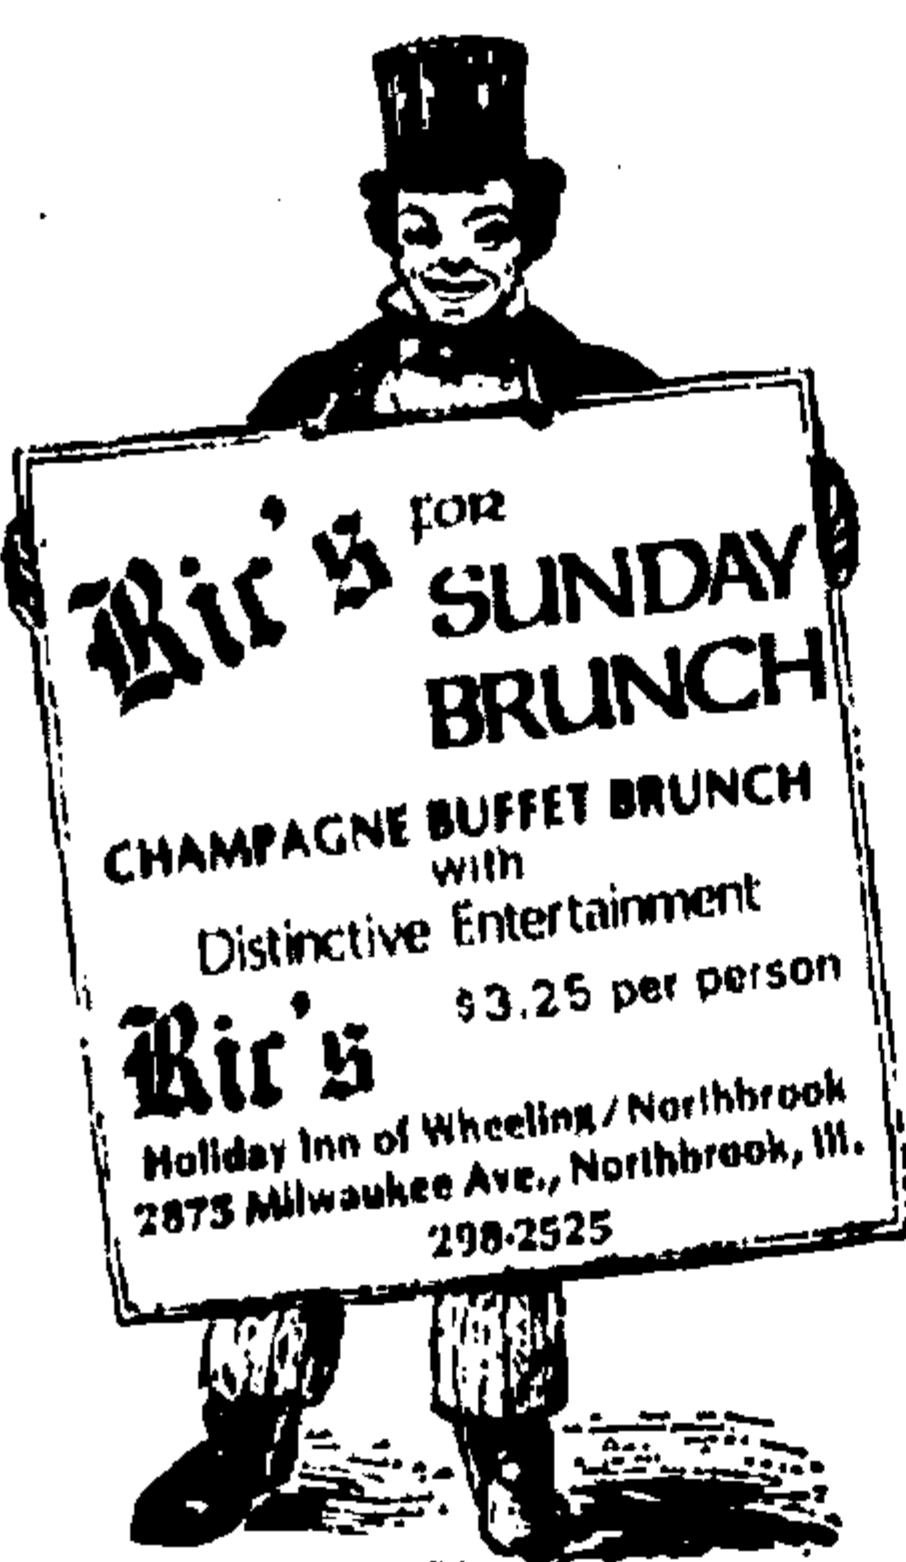

DAVE MAJOR AND THE MINORS will be returning shortly to town for an engagement at the BRASS RAIL SHERATON-O'HARE opening next Tuesday and continuing through June 10.

The group of five musicians plays a variety of sounds... rhythm and blues, jazz, hard rock and even classical, always with comedy skits interspersed.

DAVE PERRY, leader of the group who majored in music at Northern Illinois University, knows how to play 16 different instruments. He also does 85 per cent of the writing and arranging, together with Jim Ridder of Moline. The comedy skits are a group effort.

Other members in the combo include GARY WILLIAMS, trumpet; DAVE LEMIRE, organ; STEVE JOYCE, drummer; and DICK RICHARDS, brass player and vocalist.

Impressionist FRANK GORSHIN and singer LAINIE KAZAN will appear together on stage at Mill Run Theater next Thursday through Sunday.

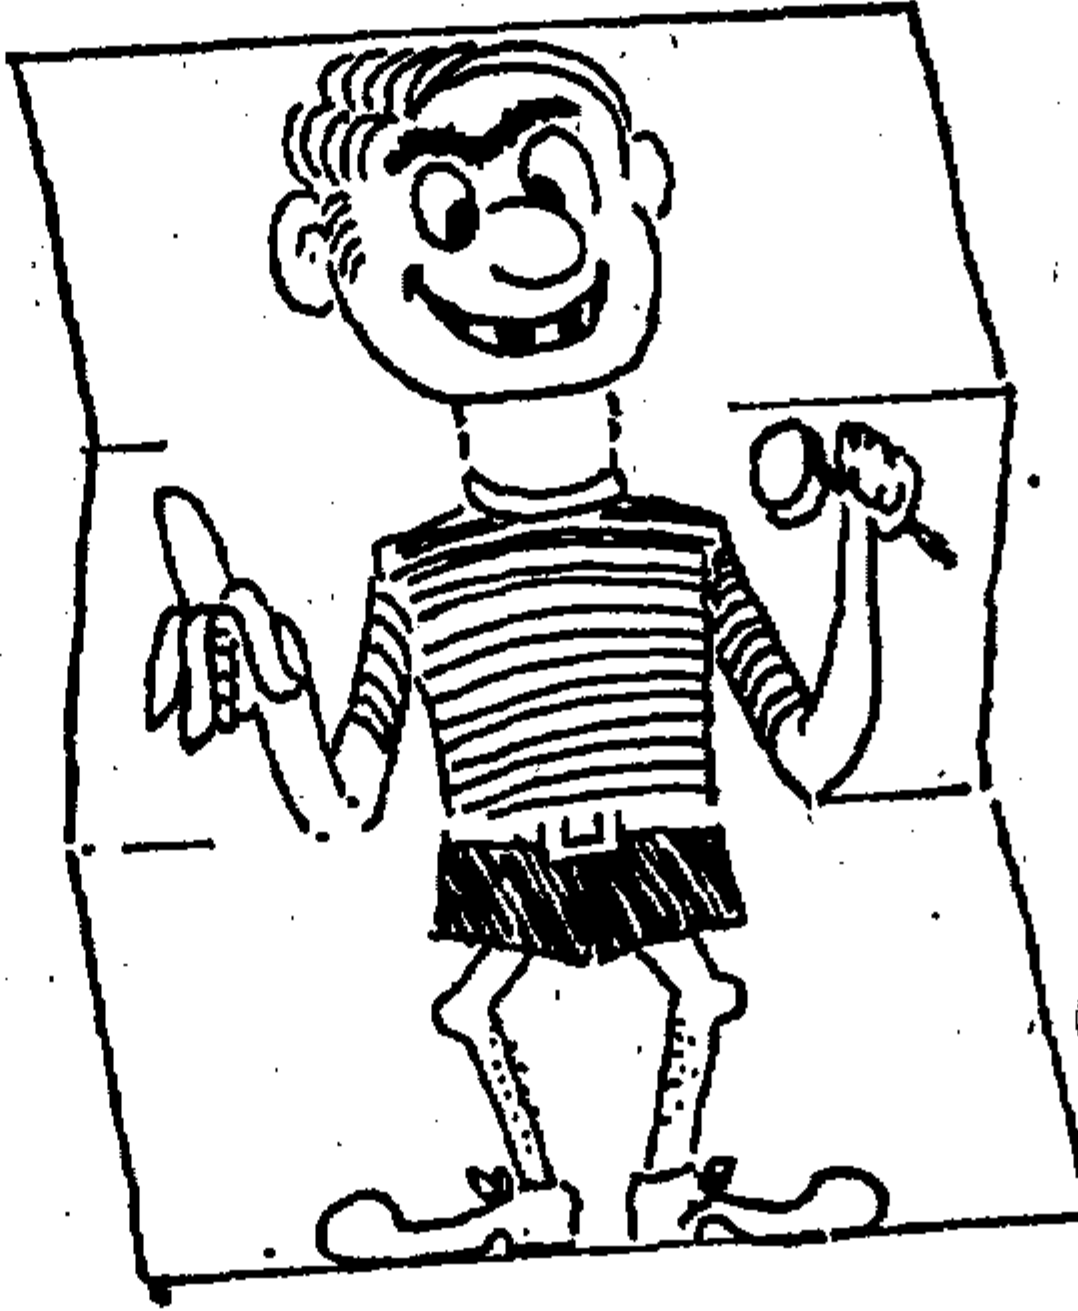

Kid's Korner

ARTISTIC ANTICS By Marilyn Hallman

This idea is fun for two or more people. Each needs a small sheet of paper and a pencil. Fold each paper in thirds the long way. Unfold.

In the top section each person draws a head — the sillier the better. Fold the top section back so it can't be seen. Make sure the lines for the neck go below the fold. Each person passes his paper to someone else.

Next each draws a body, extending the lines for pants or skirt into the bottom part. Fold back the middle section. Pass the papers on. Next each person draws legs and feet. Now, unfold and admire your artistic antics!

Groom's Father Officiates

The wedding of Merry Cheryl Lea and Daniel Charles McKown was a very happy occasion for both families, but it did lend a touch of nostalgia to the minister who performed the rites. The Rev. George McKown of Palatine has officiated at the wedding of each of his four children, and Dan's was the last one in the family.

Previously the Rev. Mr. McKown solemnized the weddings of sons Paul and Phillip and daughter Marcia, now Mrs. Larry Stilgebauer of Hoffman Estates.

Dan and Merry exchanged vows and rings April 22 in an evening ceremony in the First Baptist Church of Palatine.

Merry and her parents lived in Palatine until last year when Mr. John L. Lea was transferred to Olathe, Kan. She is a graduate of Palatine High School and works in Des Plaines.

DAN, SON OF the Rev. and Mrs. McKown of 2603 S. Forest, attended Fremd High School and Northern Illinois University and was graduated from Milton (Wis.) College. He works for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

The groom chose his brother Paul, of Palatine, as best man, and his other brother Phillip, of Fort Worth, Texas, was an usher. Larry Stilgebauer and the bride's brother, Michael Lea, were the other ushers.

Mrs. Chris Rusch of Rolling Meadows, Merry's best friend, was her matron of honor, and the bride's sister Susan was maid of honor.

The bride chose an ivory organza gown with an Empire bodice of guipure lace.

The lace bodice was styled with a scalloped square neckline and short sleeves from which billowed long puffed sleeves of organza dotted with lace flowers. The hem and train of the gown were edged in lace, and the bride's long mantilla veil was dotted with the lace flowers. Her headpiece was a lace Juliet cap.

Merry carried a nosegay of white roses and baby's breath.

HER TWO ATTENDANTS were dressed alike in lime green voile Empire gowns with a neckline edged in ivory lace and the hem accented with a wide voile ruffle. Both girls carried daisy bouquets.

Dinner and dancing at Arlington Park Towers following the wedding for the bridal pair and their 150 guests. Merry's grandparents, the John Leas of Oklahoma City and Mrs. Robert Bowie of Denver, and Dan's grandmother, Mrs. Marcia Lloyd of Erie, Pa., were among them.

The newlyweds honeymooned in the Ozarks and are making their home in Arlington Heights.

Ted Kleisner, Bride Living At Hilton Inn

Newlyweds Karen Sue and Theodore J. Kleisner are making their home at the Hilton Inn in Kansas City, Mo., since their April 8 wedding in Lookout Heights, Ky., just across the river from Cincinnati.

The couple are both in the hotel and restaurant business, Ted as general manager of the Hilton Inn and his bride having been catering manager of Lookout House in Covington, Ky.

Ted is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Kleisner of 602 E. Park, Arlington Heights. His bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Brockhoff of Erlanger, Ky.

THE COUPLE were married at 9:30 a.m. Mass in St. Agnes Church and later greeted 185 guests at the Netherland Hilton Hotel, Cincinnati, where Ted had been manager for some time.

His three brothers were among attendants, his twin, Fred, coming all the way from Honolulu, Hawaii, where he is manager of the Hawaiian Village, to be best man. Jack and Jim Kleisner were ushers, along with Lawrence Grouse of Cincinnati. Karen's sister, Mrs. David Gilbert, was matron of honor and Mrs. Grouse, Pamela DeOrion and Marilyn Miller were bridesmaids.

The newlyweds postponed a honeymoon in Hawaii until after Ted completes officers' reserve duty in Inchon, Korea, in July. He has degrees from the University of Denver and University of North Carolina graduate school.

50 Anniversary For E. Hagenows

Ernest and Meta Hagenow, both lifelong residents of the area, will be celebrating their golden anniversary Saturday with an open house and dinner in their farm home on Route 53, near Rand Road, Palatine.

Ernest was born Jan. 3, 1901 to John and Bertha Hagenow, Palatine, and Meta was born Aug. 17, 1901 to Henry and Caroline Meyer, Arlington Heights. Both attended Lutheran schools, Ernest at Immanuel Lutheran in Palatine and Meta at St. Peter's Evangelical in Arlington Heights.

Henry and Meta met at a picnic in Elk Grove and were married May 20, 1922 in St. Peter Church. They reared five children: Elverna Stroud and John Hagenow, Barrington Hills, Vernette Gaere and Ernest Jr., Palatine, and Clarence, Woodstock. The couple also have 15 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Bride Keeps Two Traditions Going At Fox-Holmes Rites

Continuing a bridal tradition in the George M. Fox family of 950 Beechwood, Buffalo Grove, Anita Marie Fox carried two accessories that were "something old" in her April 22 wedding attire. She had a sixpence in her shoe, the same one her mother used at her own wedding, and she carried a 45-year-old hanky of her grandmother's as have all the brides in her family.

Her grandmother, Mrs. C. E. Zeger of Akron, Ohio, was among the guests at Anita's marriage to David Ford Holmes of Palatine. The candlelight ceremony began at 3 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Arlington Heights.

Before Mr. Fox escorted his daughter down the aisle, he sang "Wedding Prayer" and during the ceremony Bob Bowker sang "We Have Just Begun."

As Anita approached the altar she wore a Victorian styled gown of white Venetian lace and chiffon. Her waist-length veil was held by a matching lace headpiece, and her bouquet was a cascade of yellow roses with baby's breath.

HER MAID OF HONOR, Ginny Handwerker of Champaign, wore a floral print in blue and green with rows of ruffles at the hemline. She carried a nosegay of daisies, carnations, roses, bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Holmes of 18 S. Linden, Palatine, had his brother Steve as best man and the bride's brother Eric and John Rabchuck, Arlington Heights, as ushers.

THE GROOM'S niece and nephew, Bobby Sue and Chris Holmes of Carpentersville, were also in the wedding procession. Bobby Sue, 5, was flower girl, wearing a pastel blue chiffon and lace dress and carrying a basket of mixed flowers. Chris, 8, was ring bearer.

Dave took his bride on a week's honeymoon in Michigan, and now both are back at their jobs in Arlington Heights. Anita works for National Stores and Dave for Standard Oil Co.

The bride attended Wheeling High School; the groom went to Prospect High and Harper College.

After the double ring nuptials there was a reception in the church hall for 150 guests. Later the bride's parents hosted a buffet dinner at home for 70.

Sugar 'n Spice Are Club Luncheon Fare

"Sugar and Spice" is the theme of the annual spring luncheon for St. Raymond's Catholic Woman's Club of Mount Prospect. This year's event is Wednesday, May 31, and includes a fashion show from Peck & Peck of Woodfield.

The noon luncheon at Casa Royale, Des Plaines, will be preceded by a cocktail hour, and the show follows the meal. Women from the club will do the modeling.

Tickets at $6 can be obtained from Mrs. M. Bychowski, 392-8721.

FRILLY, FANCY AND FUN!

Knits For Kids

Buying a gift for a young child? Consider cotton knits, always popular because of comfort, plus the easy care factor that a busy mother appreciates.

Expect a cotton knit top to do some shrinking unless the label says the garment definitely has shrinkage control. (UPI).

Refresh Your Bras

If you're funny about the fit of your "bra," replace tired elastic and broken fasteners with "refreshers" available at notion counters. Some manufacturers recommend that bras not be ironed after laundry for better fit. Don't use chlorine bleach on bras with spandex elastic.

The Home Line by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Would the activated charcoal you mention so often take away the musty odor in a freezer that has been stored closed for some time? — Mrs. H. Adamson.

It might — if the odor hasn't gone into the insulation. In the meantime, you have nothing to lose by trying various methods suggested by repairmen and readers. One way is to wash the interior with ammonia water, dry thoroughly, put in a dish of activated charcoal granules and leave for 24-48 hours with the door slightly ajar.

If this doesn't work, you might try what one reader did — keeping a steady current of air circulating from three electric fans for a week, just turning them off at night. Two cycles of freezing and defrosting completed the job.

Other remedies used have been to wash out thoroughly with either ammonia water or baking soda solution, then place a dish of vanilla or vinegar in for a day or so; one sprayed the freezer with after-shave lotion. Give any of these methods plenty of time. If none works, the odor has gone into the insulation and that's an expensive job.

Dear Dorothy: I read that cheese will take care of the calcium needed if one doesn't drink milk. Could you compare them, please? — Ida K.

One and one-half ounces of Cheddar or Swiss cheese provide a little more calcium than that contained in one eight-ounce cup of milk.

Dear Dorothy: For a quick, colorful change in my bedroom I used a brightly colored queen or king-size sheet in place of my regular bedspread for a double bed. My room is very quietly decorated so this gives it quite a lift. — Ann Matan.

BOOK REVIEW CLUB

Prospect Heights Book Review Club will hold its final meeting before summer on Wednesday morning at Old Orchard Country Club. The review will follow a continental breakfast served promptly at 9:30.

For her fourth appearance this season, Martha Hopkins will review Taylor Caldwell's new novel, "Captains and the Kings," a surging family chronicle about the amassing of a colossal fortune and the political power that comes with it.

Guest reservations or cancellations should be made with Mrs. T. C. Petersen, 255-2590, by Monday.

ELK GROVE HOMEMAKERS

A combination Craft Day, lesson and meeting are scheduled for Elk Grove Homemakers Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. W. Lacina, 1211 Linneman Road, Mount Prospect.

Mrs. E. Deeke will give a demonstration on "Flower Arrangement." Each member will make two flowers, bringing her own Elmer's glue, 1/3 yard material, colored egg crates and green leaves. Mrs. Deeke will have colored pipe cleaners and fine wire, which can be purchased from her.

The package lesson "Today's Household Linens" will be given by Mrs. N. Foss and Mrs. E. Moder and include a demonstration on folding contour sheets and pillow cases. Leaders will have a "Show and Tell," asking each member to bring an old linen item they might have.

MT. PROSPECT NEWCOMERS

Mount Prospect Newcomers Club will feature Bob Kennedy as guest speaker at Wednesday's meeting.

Mr. Kennedy is the host of "Kennedy at Night" and co-host with Jenny Crimm of "Kennedy & Co.," Channel 7's Monday through Friday morning program. Each weekday they interview local, national and international newsmakers and provide viewers with information such as traffic, weather reports and the time.

At the newcomers' meeting he will share some highlights of his career with anecdotes on people whom he has known and interviewed.

The meeting is open to guests and begins at 8 p.m. at Mount Prospect Community Center.

GAMMA PHI BETA

Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter of Gamma Phi Beta will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Alvin Reits, 7 Indigo Court, Prospect Heights. There will be two popular activities — card playing and a used book sale.

Co-hostesses are Mrs. D. Hilgers of Arlington Heights and Mrs. D. Crace of Schaumburg.

Any new or interested alumnae in the area are invited. Chapter president Mrs. Al Morey, 439-1617, has further information.

Construction Women Fete Bosses

Members of Chicago Chapter of the National Association of Women in Construction will pay honor to their bosses and other guests at the 10th annual Executive Evening banquet, Friday, May 26, at the Olympia Fields Country Club, Olympia Fields, Ill.

Special recognition will be given to the men who employ members of NAWIC and the highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the "1972 Man in Construction" award.

Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m.

with dinner beginning at 7:30 p.m. A program and dancing will follow. Guests of honor will include Wilma Hood, NAWIC Region Six director, and the Chicago Chapter's local scholarship recipient, Robert Shaffer.

Proceeds from the evening will go to the local scholarship fund, the Operation Woman Power scholarship fund for WIC member and other chapter activities.

Reservations for the evening may be made by contacting Margaret McFarlane, Cushing and Co., 332-2872.

Trackmen At Prospect; State Bids Await Qualifiers In District Test

Track & Field Editor

Just one very tall hurdle looms between the regular season and a shot at state honors in high school track. That hurdle, taking the form of the district meet, is ready and waiting at Prospect High this afternoon and tonight for all Herald area teams. The top two finishers in each event get coveted tickets to the big state show in Charleston next weekend.

In addition, other competitors or relay teams who finished third, fourth or fifth will also be advanced, provided they meet certain pre-determined standards of time, height or distance. (See qualifying standards on area track and field honor roll.)

Field events will begin today at 4:00, preliminaries in running events at 4:15, and finals at 7:00. Prospect is located on Foundry (Kensington) Road about one-half mile west of Rand and Elmhurst Roads.

It wouldn't be surprising if the team battle is as close as last year's cliffhanging finish when Fremd took a thrilling one-point victory over Maine South in a meet that wasn't decided until the final pole vault.

And the considerable local individual talent will be primed to be at peak form in this most important track gathering of the year — except, of course, the state finals for those skilled and fortunate enough to qualify.

It is tough to pick a favorite team-wise for tonight's extravaganza, but the three teams now figured to be in strongest contention are Maine South, Palatine and Elk Grove.

South's Hawks have many top performers back from last year's second-place district team. Palatine is the undefeated champion of the Mid-Suburban League, also with seasoned and impressive individuals, and has lost only to state powers Evanston and LaGrange. And Elk Grove is the MSL runner-up and has lost only to Palatine.

Here's the event-by-event preview for tonight:

100-YARD DASH
Pat McNamara has the best time thus far with 9.8 and was last year's district champ with 10.1. The best times in the MSL have been 10.0 by George Swegles of Conant and 10.1 by three boys — league champ Kevin Danielson of Wheeling, Palatine's J. Dubiago, and Elk Grove's Jeff Schroeder.

220-YARD DASH
McNamara also won this event last year but has been running the 440 instead of 220 as his second event this year. Dubiago won the MSL meet with 22.9 and has the previous best area time, 22.5. Larry Franzen of Maine West (22.6) and Swegles (22.9) have been the only other boys below 23. Danielson and Eric Porter of Schaumburg have turned in 23.1's.

440-YARD DASH
McNamara again rates as favorite on the strength of a spectacular 48.9 recently. No one else has been close. Hersey's Dan Leider and Palatine's Jim Stauner both ran 50.5 in the conference meet for their best times, as did George Busse of Prospect with 50.8.

880-YARD RUN
This shapes up as one of the strongest events tonight with an abundance of outstanding times. The best yet was 1:55.6 by Bill Schumann of Wheeling in the MSL meet. That ties the third-best time in the state so far. Maine South's Tom Stark has run 1:56.0, Tom Jarm of Arlington 1:56.6, Fred Miller of Palatine 1:56.7, and Antioch's Gary Mandehr each 1:57.5. Miller was fourth in last year's district with 1:55.0.

MILE RUN
The best time yet has been Mandehr's 4:16.1 in 1971, which gave him sixth best in the state. He was fourth in the district last year with 4:19.4. Also in the 1971 district, Barnett was third with 4:17.2 (his best this year is 4:20.5, tops in the MSL, and Rick Phalen of Maine East was fifth with 4:21.3. Barnett was 11th in the state in '71.

TWO-MILE RUN
Forest View's Jim Wise ran an outstanding 9:20.0 three weeks ago but has been hampered lately with a leg injury. Barnett won the MSL meet in 9:26.8. Fremd's Mark Nugent has run 9:27.0 and Maine South's Huffman 9:30. Elk Grove's Brian Powell also is a threat to place with a 9:31.7 best, along with teammate Damian Archbold.

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES
Frank Taucher of Elk Grove is a strong threat, being undefeated this spring in the highs. He has a 14.7 and several 14.8's. A strong challenge could come from soph Bill Klippert of Maine West, the only other hurdler under 15 with a 14.7 also. Les Leonard of Maine North was second in the district with 15.1 last year. He and several others have been in the middle 15's this season.

180-YARD LOW HURDLES
Dave Jensen of Elk Grove has the top time so far with 19.7 and Taucher owns a 19.9. Klippert has the next-best time of 20.2. Another Grenadier, Steve Busse, recorded a 20.7 and Palatine's Jan Fitzgerald — third in the district in 1971 at 20.4 — ran 20.9 last week.

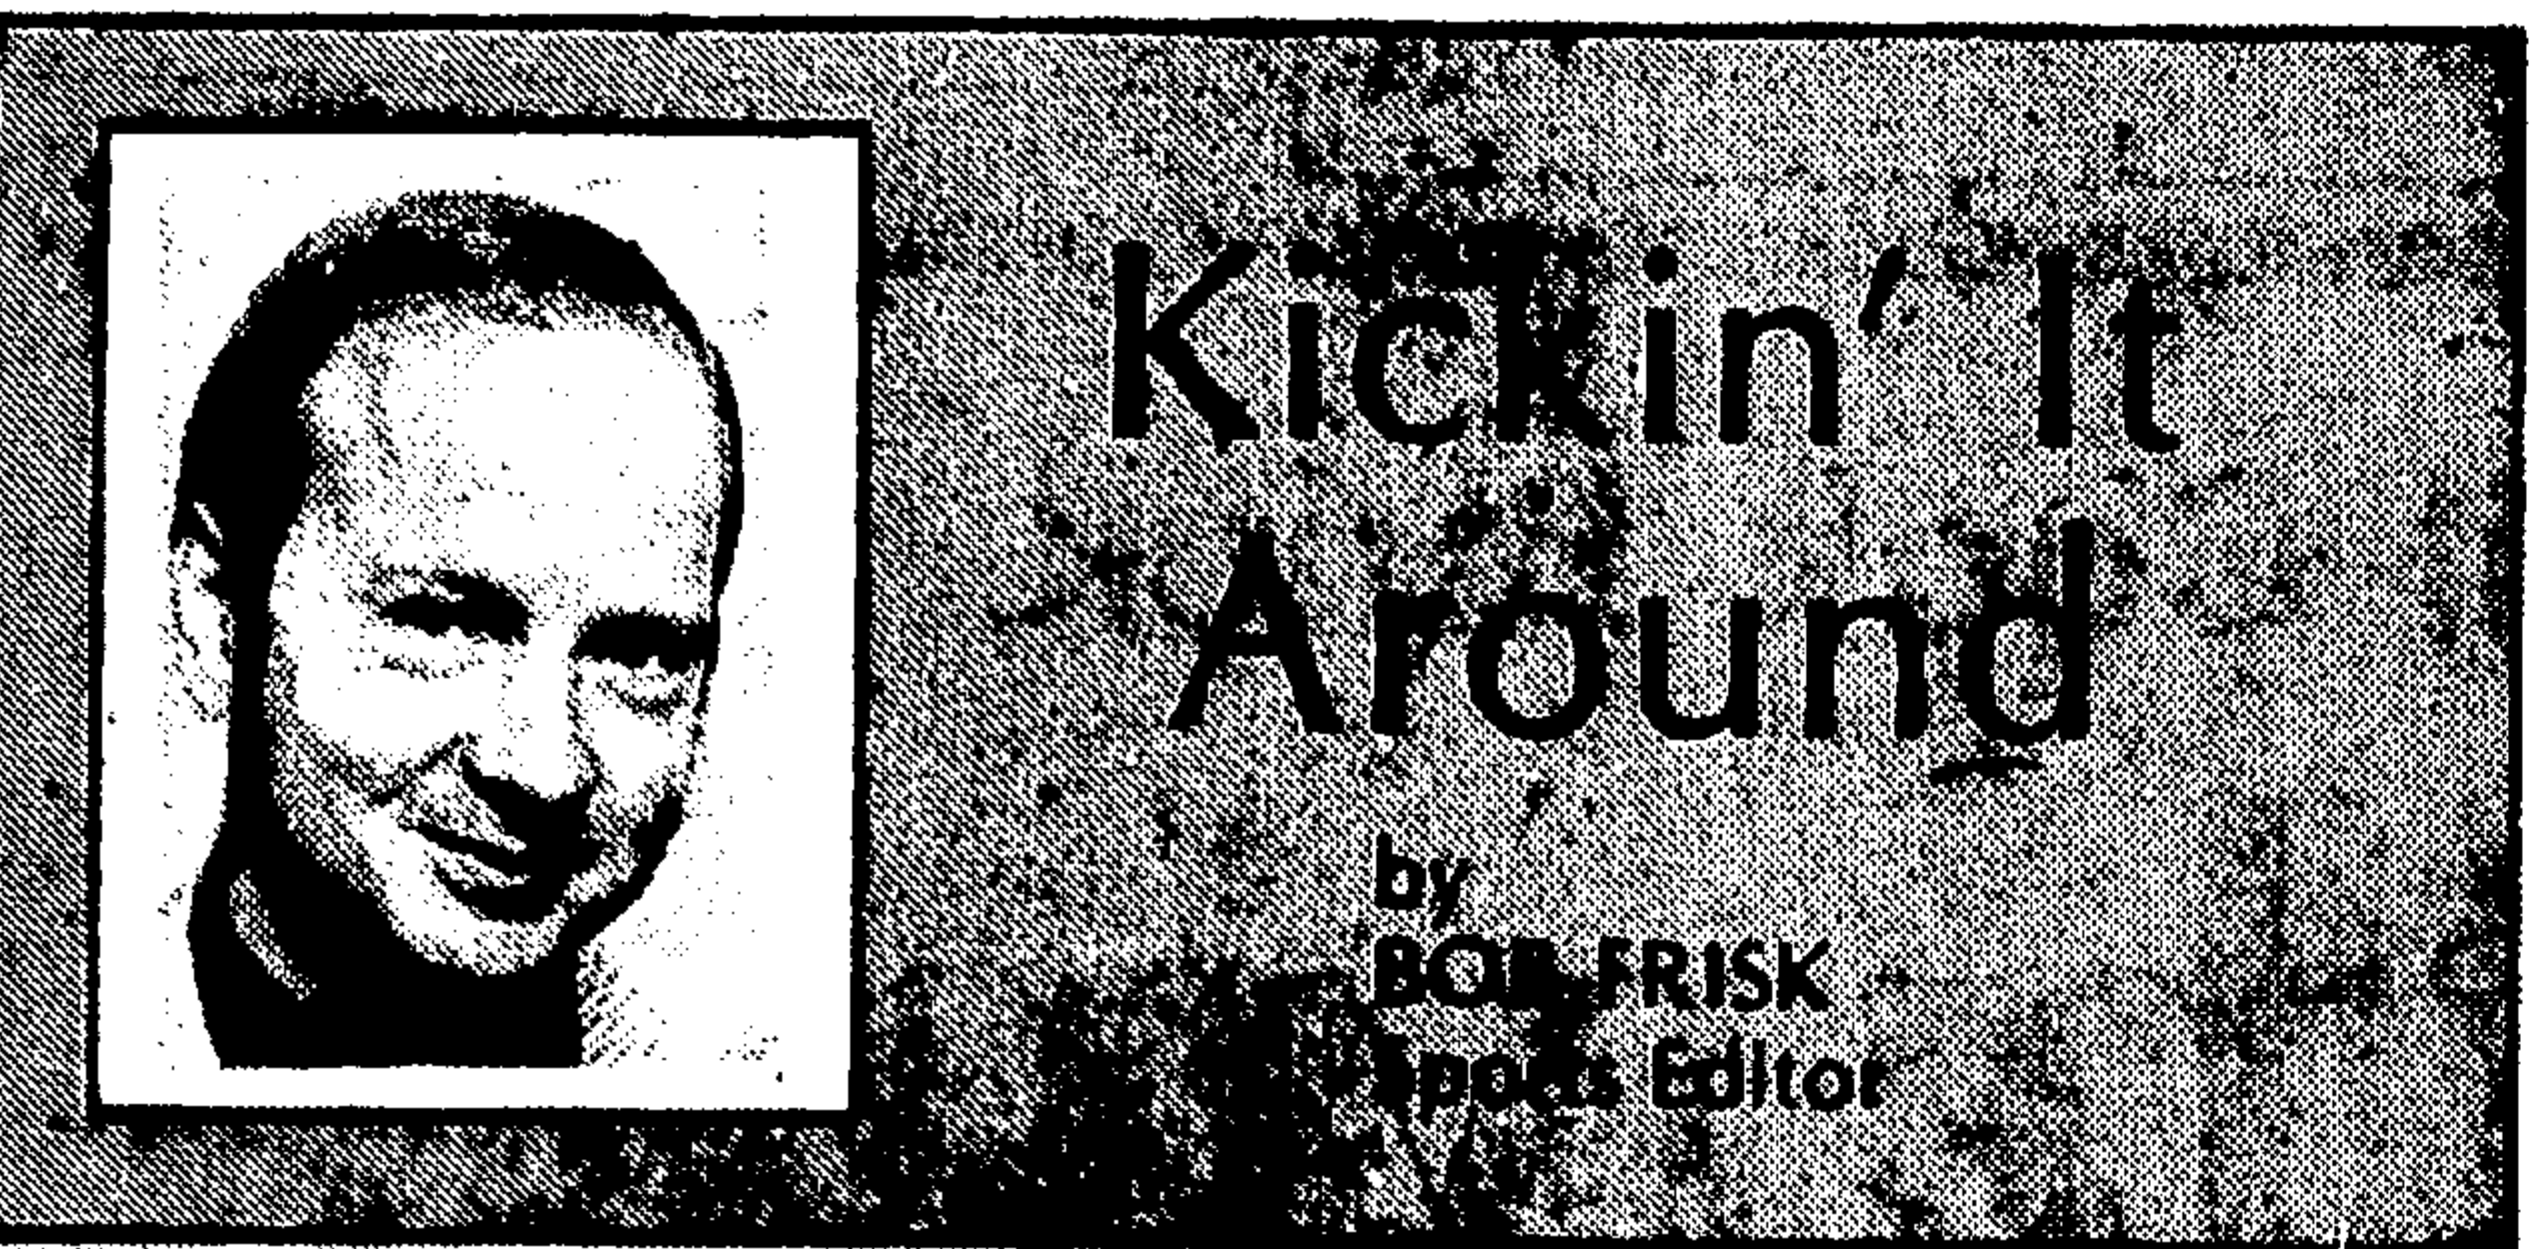

SHOT PUT
Mark Chidley of Arlington has turned in the best marks with a peak of 53-11. The only other boy over 53 has been John Sloan of Rolling Meadows. Shot putters of 50-plus have included Meadows' Bob Sloan (John's brother), Fremd's Jerry Finis and Ken Vale, Forest View's Dave Schneider, Wheeling's Bill Chiebek, and Maine South's Jim Staunton and Mike Carroll.

DISCUS THROW
Defending district champion Jim Leopardo of Elk Grove, sixth place finisher in the state, is back with a 152-plus peak. He won with 155-8 last year. Staunton and Finis (with the best area toss this spring, 159-4) are the only others who

ALL OF A SUDDEN high school spring sports take on some meaning. The emphasis will be lost on most who faithfully attend football and basketball games, but at least a portion of those who consider themselves sports fans will want to know the results, even if they are not quite interested enough to be present.

The reason for a slight inroad on apathy is that the high schools are playing on a "for keeps" basis.

This is the fun time of the spring. And the tense time. The Illinois High School Association district track meet will be held tonight at Prospect, the area is making some interesting gestures in the state baseball tournament, there have been some giant strides taken by the locals in the qualifying processes of golf and tennis, and the league races are heating up.

This is that time of the spring season when you forget (or try to forget) the unbelievably long hours you've been putting in at the office and get caught up in the excitement of the championship competition.

Let's be honest. The spring can be a nightmare for coaches, athletic directors, heights, and distances, for they can project the marks and know which is important regarding next week's state. The very knowledgeable can evaluate the stride of a Frank Taucher or the pace of a Brian Barnett, but these are coaches or layman addicts. It is better than the spectator not be wrapped up in the mechanics of the events. He who just comes to watch will enjoy it more.

This will be my 22nd straight district track and field meet, and I haven't tired of the show yet. The names are different, but the excitement is still there.

There is something very thrilling about a race, even when those who are being thrilled know that not one of the racers who qualify in it will make even a small dent in the state finals the following week.

It's even more thrilling when you know you're watching a youngster who could earn the coveted medal in head-to-head competition with the finest teenage performers in Illinois.

Will Palatine launch another scoring string in the state finals? Is Wheeling 880 star Bill Schumann peaking at just the right time? Will Elk Grove's hurdle standouts Taucher and Dave Jensen continue their fine performances and is Jim Leopardo, who hasn't unleashed that long throw yet this spring, ready for the big discus effort?

The Palatine story remains one of the most interesting because the Pirates were finally stopped last spring after a string of 13 straight scoring years in state track competition.

They have the potential to start another scoring string with such standouts as Barnett, high jumper Jim Brandt, and 880 man Fred Miller.

Distance star Barnett, a strong runner who has been slowly building for this state showdown, appears to be the leading Pirate candidate for a scoring spot at the 1972 state finals although the consistency of Brandt and the obvious potential of Miller can't be overlooked.

Barnett was 11th in the mile as a junior after running a strong 4:18.5 in the Friday qualifying session. His progress in recent weeks has been exceptional. You always have to guard against peaking a runner too soon, but Barnett is on schedule and that's encouraging.

Craig Virgin of Lebanon appears in a class by himself in the distance events, particularly the two mile, but after that, they're bunched. Barnett is definitely in that bunch.

There is no money back guarantee, but there won't be need of any tonight at the district track and field competition.

This is what the whole season has been building for, the qualifying, then the stirring state climax, the culmination of preparation started when the calendar said it was spring but it was not.

They labored in the cold and the wet, looking ahead to this Friday evening in May.

Brian Barnett

athletes, fans, sportswriters, wives, just about everybody. No, that's wrong. The spring IS a nightmare.

Every day is dictated by the weather. You know how beautiful it was Tuesday. We had two baseball games postponed.

That's the way it has been all spring. You set up your page with the news holes for late-breaking stories, and it rains or somebody calls a game off. You've got to find something to throw in that news hole. Now, where did I put those cartoons?

That's all forgotten now. This is one of the best times of the year. The summer is just ahead, but there still are some questions to be resolved, important questions.

Where will you spend your Friday evening? Sitting in front of the tube? May I recommend the district track meet at Prospect as a spectacle well worth watching?

Give track and field a chance, it can be just as thrilling as football and basketball and the visit certainly more satisfying than the baseball game on television.

It's so simple. That's why it has tremendous spectator appeal. One needn't understand for there is nothing to understand.

At a football game we congratulate ourselves because we noted that a Mike Baillargeon threw the "key block," yet on second thought we are nagged for knowing that a couple of linemen did something we missed entirely. Ken Peters left his man standing to score a lay-up, but we failed to note the player who set the screen. Mike Cook blazes a strike across and it's three outs and a runner stranded on third. But was it a curve or a fast ball?

Tonight there will be those who grasp the significance of some of the times,

Battle In Sectional Golf Meets

Falcons, Pirates Seek State Slots

by JIM COOK
Golf Editor

In a way, it's comparable to qualifying at Indy.

For Forest View and Palatine, speed won't be important. Instead, accuracy, consistency and confidence will decide whether these two squads can compete with a brilliant field in state sectional golf meets this morning. Advancement after today means Champaign next week!

The Falcons are headed to Fox Bend Golf Club in the East Aurora Sectional while the Pirates shoot for superiority amid a gathering at Chevy Chase Golf Course hosted by Niles North.

Palatine gained the sectional berth by virtue of finishing third in the Hersey District last week. The Pirates' 317 team score was two strokes behind second-place Lake Forest's 315 and nine over Deerfield's winning 308. Palatine will be brushing shoulders with both teams again today.

Forest View was just three shots off

Addison Trail's 325 in landing in the runner-up position at the St. Edward of Elgin District. Elgin Larkin also advanced from the St. Ed playoff.

Sectional qualifiers will be shooting for the top three team places in their respective gatherings for a ticket to Champaign for the state meet May 26-27. In addition, the top three individual medalists will advance from each of the eight statewide sectional sites.

NORTH HOSTS 10
The Niles North Sectional has 10 teams funneling into Chevy Chase. The reason for the extra squad (the three top teams from three different districts advanced) is because the Glenbrook South District found a tie for third among its representatives of Evanston, Glenbrook South, Glenbrook North and New Trier West.

The Hersey District sent Palatine, Lake Forest and Deerfield while Carmel of Mundelein, North Chicago and Waukegan filtered in from the Wauconda District.

Each team will enter five individuals in the meet of which the top four scores will be counted toward qualifying honors. With teeoff time set for 8 a.m. this morning, Pirate head coach Marc Denny will send Dave Hafner, Jim Sobczynski, John Loneragan, Jim Arden and Doug Fyfe in quest of state tournament tickets.

Palatine was the area's top school in the recently conducted Chevy Chase Invitational hosted by Wheeling. The Pirates are no strangers to the 6600-yard layout that they solved for a 15-hole total of 273. In fact, Sobczynski was the third-place meet medalist.

In addition to the 10 teams, New Trier East's Mark Giordano and Don Teft, along with Mundelein's Frank Olson will participate on an individual basis only.

Meet director Joe Rusk has indicated that New Trier West, Glenbrook North, Deerfield, Evanston, Glenbrook South and Waukegan should be in a nip-and-tuck dogfight.

FOX BEND IS FOXY
Neither the conditions nor the star-studded field in Oswego will make Fox

Bend Golf Course any easier for Forest View.

Meet director Roy Fowley has already indicated that the tourney will be played under summer rules over the 6500-yard layout.

Representatives in the affair include winning Downers Grove South, Glenbard West and Glenbard East from the Hinsdale South District, first-place West Aurora, Naperville and St. Charles out of the Oswego District and, of course, Addison Trail, Forest View and Elgin Larkin out of the St. Edward District.

Falcon head coach Art Klein has the quintet of Dave Moody, Gary Mayer, Eric Keyser, Pat Walsh and Todd McDonald entered in the 18-hole playoff that will begin at 8 a.m.

The Falcons are not as familiar with Fox Bend as other teams might be. Fowley indicated that the wind is an important factor on the course and that the rough is just that.

Naperville, Aurora West and Downers Grove South rate as the strong field's favorites.

St. Viator Slams Conant For Tourney Title

It was the first time Conant and St. Viator had ever met in a major sport (football or baseball) and it was the last as far as 1971-72 was concerned.

The high-flying Lions bumped the Cougars in the finals of the Glenbard North Regional, 7-1, and now will enter the Maine West Sectional opposite either Mundelein or Highland Park. The triumph was the fifth straight for Viator against Mid-Suburban League competition.

Conant pulled all the stops yesterday in going with pitcher Bill Arkus who has successfully guided them to the regional finals only Tuesday with a route-going performance.

The scrappy righthander was solved early by the Lions who made up a 1-0 deficit in the first inning with three of their own. Cougar Gary Pemberton stroked winning pitcher Mike Cook for a leadoff single and scooted to second on a passed ball where he tallied moments later on Arkus' sharp base hit to center.

cracked what appeared to be a routine single to left, scoring Martin.

The ball eluded Conant leftfielder Pemberton and Cliggett crossed on the error. Another error on the relay throw to the plate got under the backstop and Hellesen completed his tour of the bases.

The teams settled down during the second and third frames but the Lions were back in action in the fourth. Ed Hellesen and Steve Balinski both bounced infield hits off Arkus' glove and advanced to second and third on stolen bases.

Two outs later, Cook helped himself with a two-run double to left and legged it the rest of the way around on Martin's bloop single to right.

Having batted around, the Lions saw the last of Arkus, but were also ready for reliever Chet Pudlosky who was touched for the final run of the game in the fifth on Balinski's second hit, a wild pitch and a Texas-league single to left by Walsh.

Cook, who stands 6-3, and appears to be striding halfway to the plate on each delivery, kept the Cougars in check on only four hits — two of them Pemberton singles. The crafty lefty walked four, but whiffed 10, including the side in each of the first and second innings. Conant never allowed him the luxury of a 1-2-3 inning.

Arkus was rapped for eight hits during his four-inning tenure and Pudlosky for two in his pair of frames.

The Lions will carry a sparkling 16-3 overall record into the sectionals and rest just two victories from the prestigious state tournament in Peoria.

Elk Grove Win Gives Falcons Title

Elk Grove's teams are known as the Grenadiers. But "Spoilers" would be a better tag now.

Just as they did in the Mid-Suburban League basketball race, the Grens ruined a team's title hopes at the last minute, whipping Schaumburg 8-2 Thursday at the losers' field. The Saxons could have won the MSL South Division outright with a victory.

Forest View must have been raising glasses high in a toast to Elk Grove last night, because the assist from the Grens gave the Falcons the South crown.

Elk Grove has one game left and a win would give them the same division record as Forest View — 6-3-1. However, the Falcons still would be the first-place team since they won and tied in two games against the Grenadiers.

Forest View thus will host Hersey in the league championship game, tentatively set for the Falcon Field today at 4:30. (This was not certain at the Herald's deadline.)

Jim Emslie's four-hit pitching and four Schaumburg errors resulted in the Elk Grove victory yesterday. The winners collected nine hits off Glen Hayes.

The Grenadiers broke on top with a four-run second inning and never were really threatened. A walk, two errors, a bunt single by Dan Connelly and a three-run double by Jeff Sronkoski accounted for the big inning.

The lead became 5-0 in the fourth on Connelly's single and Bob Price's double.

Schaumburg peeked away for single runs in the fourth and fifth on Dave Merrigan's RBI single and a pair of Grove errors.

But Elk Grove put the game away with a three-run seventh on a walk, Scott Pruitt's single, a fielder's choice, error, another run-producing hit by Prince and a wild pitch.

fielder's choice play that had Allie Weichers going all the way to second on a bad throw. Dave Zare then beat out an infield hit, Weichers topping at third.

Leonhard followed up with a single up the middle to score Weichers and Zare came in with what proved to be the decisive tally on a sacrifice fly to center by Brad Smith.

Hersey Tips Wheeling

For the second day in a row, Hersey came up with a masterful pitching performance and they eased past visiting Wheeling 2-1 in the final regular season outing for both teams Thursday.

The Huskies had wrapped up the title in the North Division a day earlier on Mark Leonhard's one hitter. Thursday it was Steve Heldt handcuffing the Wildcats and coasting most of the way on a two-run bulge his teammates spotted him in the first inning.

The guests broke up a no-hitter, and the shutout, in the sixth inning when big Dave Giles lashed out a triple to right center on a 3-0 pitch after Dan Tonnancour had reached on an error. That was all Heldt allowed in both the runs and hits department while chalking up his fourth victory in five decisions behind a nine-strikeout effort.

Wheelin's starter Mark Griffith was credited with a nifty five hitter and pitched shutout ball from the second inning on. In the first however, Hersey came up with all the ammunition they needed to finish out the MSL campaign with an 11-3 overall mark.

Pat Broderick was hit by a pitch to open the first frame but was erased on a

Cards Smash Meadows, 13-3

Arlington erupted for seven runs in the third inning and coasted to a 13-3 victory over visiting Rolling Meadows in a North Division game yesterday.

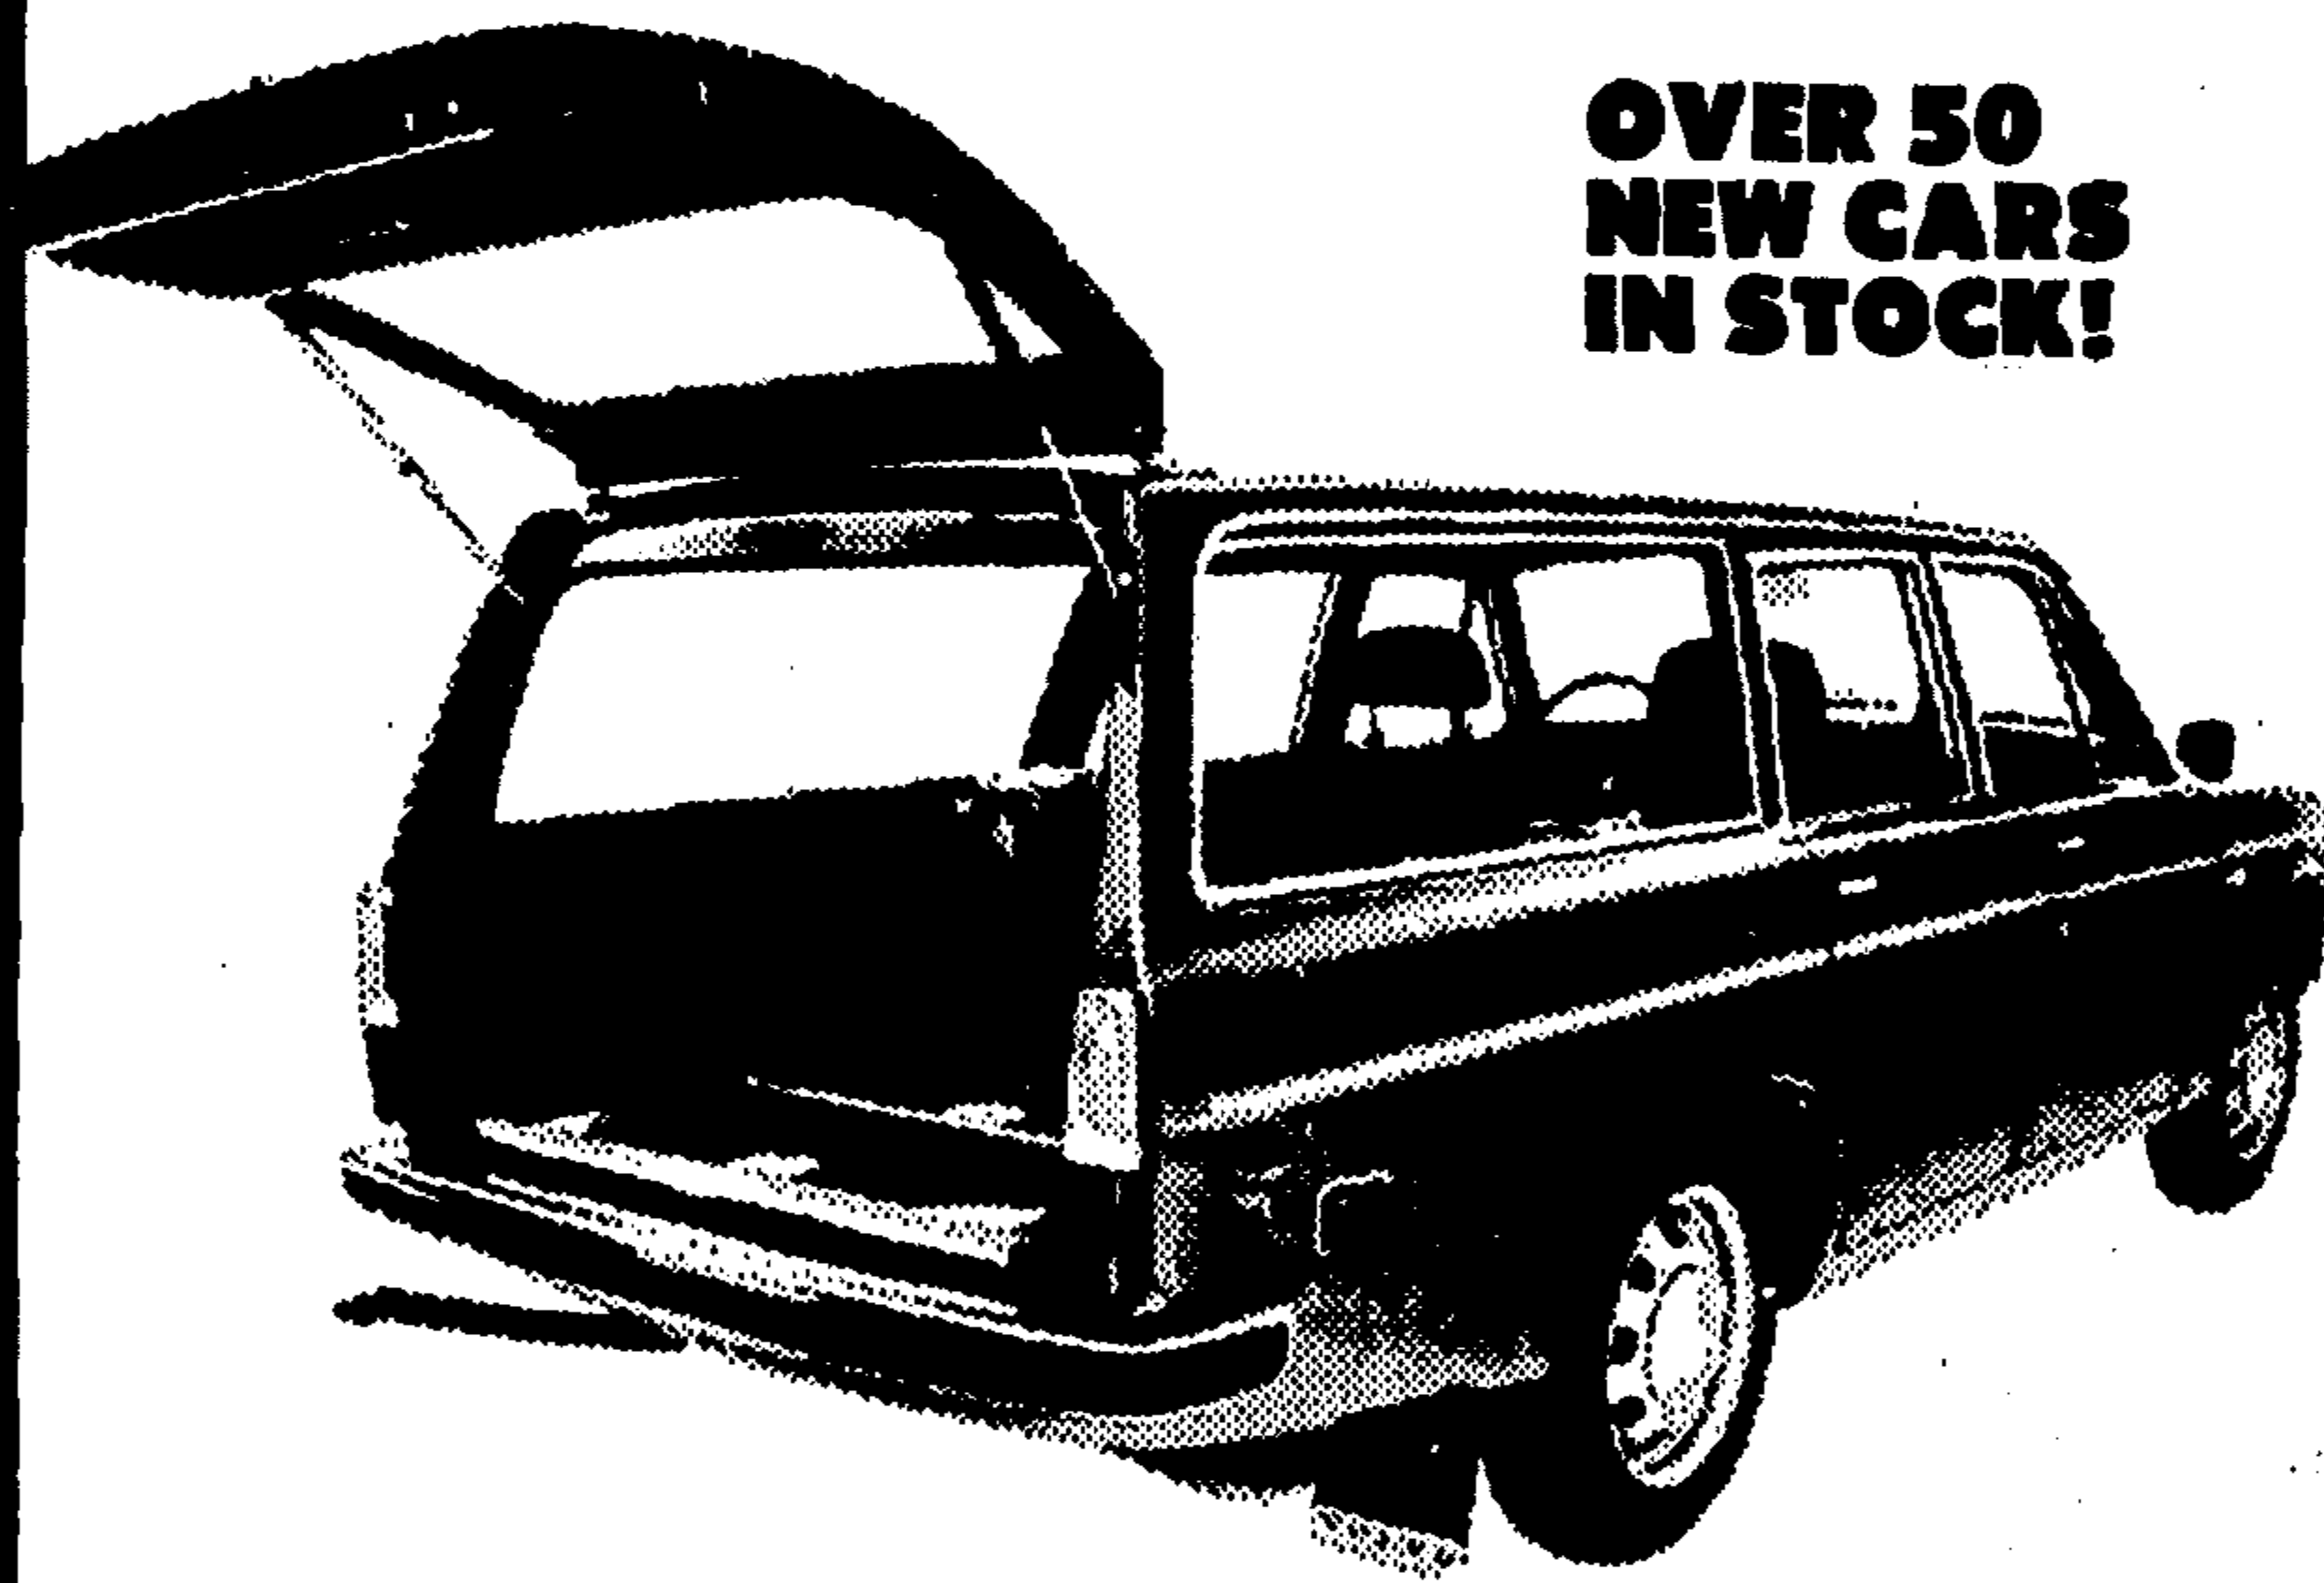

The Mustangs were cruising along with a 3-1 lead after the Cards committed three errors in the first inning. Then the hosts came alive.

An error off a grounder by Ed Carpenter, the winning pitcher, with the bases loaded scored one. Then a two-run single by Wayne Geyer, a single-error by Greg Hauptly that scored three and a sacrifice fly by Kevin Donahue capped the scoring.

The Cardinals scored three more in the fifth and two in the sixth before calling off the offensive show. It was the second time they had slugged the Mustangs. The first meeting ended winners' way 11-1 with Carpenter also the winner.

St. Viator, presently trailing first-place St. Francis of Wheaton by just six points, the SCC. The team of Mark Savage and Tom champion of the Suburban Catholic Con-Meyer, 5-1 in league play, are Fleck's ference this weekend.

The Lions, scheduled to play in the league championships on Saturday morn-ing at Riis Park, are presently in third place behind the league leaders' 38 points Mike Revnes at second singles and the and St. Patrick's 35.

"It's going to be a good meet," says three possible partners — Tom Cole, John Fleck, the Lions' first-year head Tom Marshall or Russ Fitton.

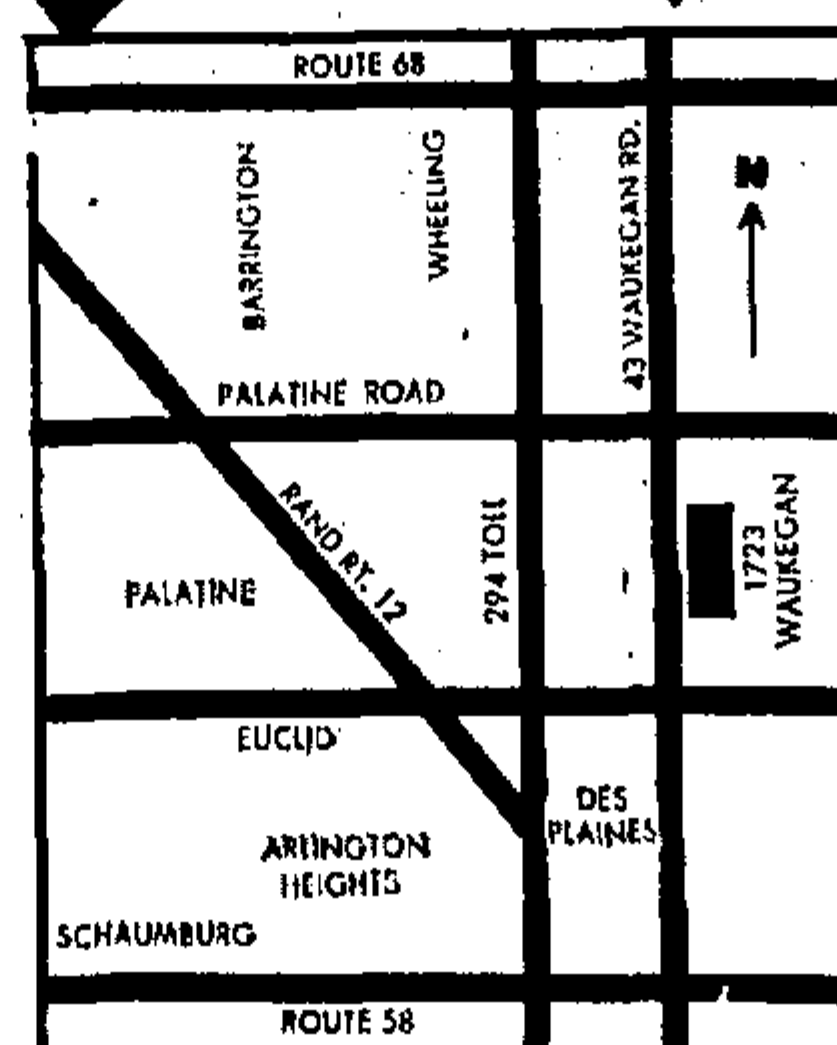

Fleck figures his team has a good shot champion, is presently in second place in of winning third singles and first doubles. the dual meet standings with a 5-3 Tom Wenzel, a fine freshman, will be record. The young Lions will have to trying for the singles title. He is unde-overtake Montini to repeat as champs.

THE PROBLEM WITH MOST STATION WAGONS IS THEY'RE EITHER TOO BIG ON THE OUTSIDE OR TOO SMALL ON THE INSIDE.

There's no denying that the big station wagons have a lot of room, but for the one or two times a year you might really need a big wagon, think of how many times a week you have to go around the block looking for a place to park it.

On the other hand, the smaller station wagons, while considerably easier to handle, sometimes have so little space inside they're hardly worthy of the name station wagon.

At Fiat, we discovered that a station wagon doesn't have to be big on the outside to be big on the inside. The Fiat 124 station wagon fits in the same parking space as a Volkswagen Beetle. But, on the inside it's 17 cu. ft. bigger than the VW Squareback, 9 cu. ft. bigger than the Toyota Corolla, and 6 cu. ft. bigger than the Datsun 510.

And when you stop by to see it, you'll discover one more nice thing about our station wagon. It only costs $6,000.

Public Golf Course Set For Opening

May 29th has been set as the date for the opening of Hilldale Village's new 18 hole, par 71 public golf course in Hoffman Estates.

The 6,500 yard course was designed by Robert Trent Jones, nationally acclaimed golf course designer (designer of Augusta National, home of the Masters).

Dan Silianoff, president of the Chicago Golf Association, will serve as general manager and club pro. Dan formerly held a similar post at White Pines and Mohawk country clubs.

Once a private gun club, the rolling and wooded course at Hilldale Village features five water holes, several doglegs, narrow fairways and some of the largest greens in the Midwest. The minimum green size is 9,000 square feet, with a maximum of 14,000 square feet.

The course will be open to the public seven days a week. Weekday rates will be $5.50 with a $3.00 rate at twilight. Weekend and holiday rates will be $7.50 till 3 p.m., $5.50 till 5 p.m. and $3.50 thereafter. Residents of Hilldale Villages will receive a free membership for 1972.

The clubhouse will include a pro shop, stocked with a complete line of golfing equipment accessories and equipment. Motorized and manual carts will be available on a rental basis.

The new Hilldale Restaurant, adjacent to the course, offers complete dining and banquet facilities.

A unique computerized sprinkling system will be programmed to keep the ground in good playing shape, while a professional greenskeeping staff of 12 will aid in grooming and maintaining the course.

Hilldale Village and Country Club is located on Higgins Road (Rt. 72), one mile east of Barrington Road in Hoffman Estates.

HILLDALE VILLAGE and Country Club's new public golf course will open May 29. The 18-hole course was designed by Robert Trent Jones, nationally acclaimed

Mount Prospect Grid Sign-Up Set For Saturday

Registration for the Mount Prospect Midget Football Association's 16th season will be held at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 See-Gwun, on Saturday, May 20, and Saturday, June 3, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Registration for cheerleaders will be on the same days.

All boys who are between the ages of 8 and 14 and are in grade school and live in the village of Mount Prospect or in the Mount Prospect Park District are eligible to register. (Park District extends to Touhy Avenue between Mount Prospect Road and Busse Road.)

Boys who played in 1971 have been sent registration cards and may register by mail. Boys who did not play in 1971 must be accompanied by their parent on registration day and must bring their birth certificate as proof of age.

The registration fee is $16 for the first boy and $5 for each additional brother. Cheerleader registration fee is $4 per girl.

TRIBUTE TO CARSTENS

Dear Sirs:
I will not sign my name to this letter because I am merely one of thousands in the Des Plaines and the Maine Township areas who would like to express our congratulations to Maine West baseball coach Al Carstens for being named to the Illinois High School Baseball Tournament's Hall of Fame.

Coach Carstens has been known as one of the best baseball men in the state and it is fitting that his achievements of three state championships have been duly acknowledged by the Hall of Fame committee.

I am sure that all of the young men who have played for coach Carstens in the past 14 years would not trade that rewarding experience for anything in the world. Not only is he a fine coach, he is also a fine man.

Congratulations — and thanks — to you, coach Carstens.

SEAVER THE BEST

Dear Herald:
I hadn't realized it until I heard Brickhouse (Jack) say it on television Monday night, but the Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins, the Cy Young winner, was 6-0 against Philadelphia last year.

Talk about fattening up. Maybe the Phillies are better this year but they weren't much in 1971.

I looked up what Tom Seaver of the Mets and Jenkins did against the top teams in the two divisions last summer — namely Pittsburgh, St. Louis, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

Against those four teams Jenkins was 6-8. Seaver was 9-1.

Maybe those New York writers who said Seaver was more deserving of the Cy Young award had something after all. Jenkins is a fine pitcher, but until he proves he can win against the contending clubs, then I'll take Seaver anytime in a pressure game.

A STEAL FOR SOX?

Dear Sirs:
All I can say is, what could the Los Angeles Dodgers possibly have been thinking about when they traded Dick (Richie) Allen to the White Sox for Tommy John?

I am rejoicing as a Sox fan, for it looks like the biggest steal they have pulled off in many moons. The only better deal I can think of is the hiring of Chuck Tanner as manager.

Allen looks unstoppable when he is up with men on base. You just know he's going to hit the ball hard, even if the pitch isn't that good. He has the quickest bat I have ever seen.

boost every minute of every game.

BOWLERS APPRECIATIVE

Dear Herald:
Let me take this opportunity to thank you and your sports staff for the wonderful coverage you have given our league in the Paddock Publications. Since this is a civic association bowling league, most of the bowlers are from the immediate area and beam when they see their names in the paper.

It is most gratifying to have our neighborhood paper publish our scores even though we are not major-league bowlers. Thanks again and see you next year.

FORGET THE STRIKE

Dear Sirs:
The (major-league) baseball strike has been over for more than a month now, yet many people can't seem to forget about it. I know that sentiment has been overwhelmingly against the owners and in favor of the players throughout the issue, but I for one am getting tired of hearing about it.

There have been many articles speculating that the reason for attendance being a little down so far throughout the majors is public resentment about the strike. I think this is nonsense — bad weather has probably been more responsible than anything — but if the strike has anything to do with it, I think the fans are being ridiculous.

What difference does it make to me or you or anyone else how much money any major-leaguer makes or how much his pension is going to be? It's still the same game they're playing and the same top-notch entertainment. I say, more power to anyone who can make as much money as possible. Wouldn't you or I do the same thing if we had the opportunity?

I don't see why the fans should be angry just because the season started a week late. That's one week out of about 25 — the least important week when the weather is lousy anyway. Let's forgive and forget — live and let live, etc. — support the players and enjoy our great national pastime.

Forest View and Glenhard North made like major leaguers Wednesday afternoon.

Playing on the Panthers' diamond, the two Mid-Suburban League South Division teams went nine innings before a winner was established.

In a must game for the Falcons, they pulled in out in the top of the ninth in dramatic fashion. Bob Richter tripled to lead off the inning. And, after two outs, Randy Jespersen ripped a double which led to the 3-2 victory.

Forest View, now 6-3-1 in division play, got on the scoreboard first in the second inning. Craig Stiles walked and scored on a double by starting pitcher Rick Haaning.

The Panthers, now 0-10, jumped on Haaning for two runs in the third after two were out.

The Falcons battled back in the seventh inning. After two were out, Bill Miller singled and moved to second on an error by the center fielder. Jespersen also reached by the second error of the inning, leaving runners on first and third. Then a double steal tied the game. Stiles, who came on to relieve Haaning in the eighth, was the winning pitcher.

Schedule Tryout Dates For Semi-Pro Baseball

Try out dates have been set for the new semi-professional baseball team in the Northwest Suburban area.

Organizer Frank May has set Sunday, June 4, and Saturday, June 10, as tryout dates at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights. Both tryouts will start at 1 p.m.

Anyone who is not eligible for American Legion baseball may try out for the semi-pro entry which will play approximately four games per week and eventually hook up in the Central States summer league.

Anyone who lives in the Herald circulation area is invited to attend the tryouts.

For additional information on the new team contact Frank May at 537-7377.

The squad is also conducting a "Name The Team" contest and entries should be submitted to May at 1 Bernard Court West, Buffalo Grove, Ill. 60089. May encourages youngsters to submit entries because the winner will become the official team batboy and also receive a portable radio.

Kolar 33 Scratch Highlight

Old Orchard Scratch League entered its second week of play Friday night with what seems to have most of the golfers playing in mid-season form.

Medalist for the first night of play was Baird & Warner's Marty Kolar with a sub-par 33. Marty was honored as "Gopher of the Week" for the first round which even included a double bogey.

Back at 35 found Bill Patke, C. P. Floors; Bob Kronn of Peters & Co.; and Wayne Rolfs of L-Nor Cleaners.

Second week of play found the low score of 36. Sharing honors at this score was Mike Melchiorre of L-Nor Cleaners with Gordon Meling of Nelson Real Estate.

Junior Sports Jamboree Coming Up In Arlington

The third annual Arlington Heights Junior Sports Jamboree, for boys and girls aged 10 through 15, will be held at 9 a.m., Saturday, June 10, at the Arlington High School Stadium.

"Entry forms are now being distributed to schools throughout the Village," said Wayne Endicott, chairman of the event. "Youngsters interested in participating should check with their gym teachers at their respective schools. We are expecting a record turnout of nearly 500 participants at this year's meet."

Endicott says that there will be numerous running events, as well as relays, broad jumping, high jumping and a baseball throwing. Events will be held for midget boys and midget girls (ages 10 and 11), junior boys and junior girls (ages 12 and 13) and intermediate boys and intermediate girls (ages 14 and 15).

In all, 41 different events will be conducted during the jamboree, with awards to first, second and third place finishers in each event.

"In addition, each youngster who participates will receive a certificate of participation, suitable for framing," Endicott said.

The annual event is conducted by the Jaycees in cooperation with Bureau of Community Services of the Juvenile Division of the Illinois Department of Corrections, and the Governor's Office of Human Resources.

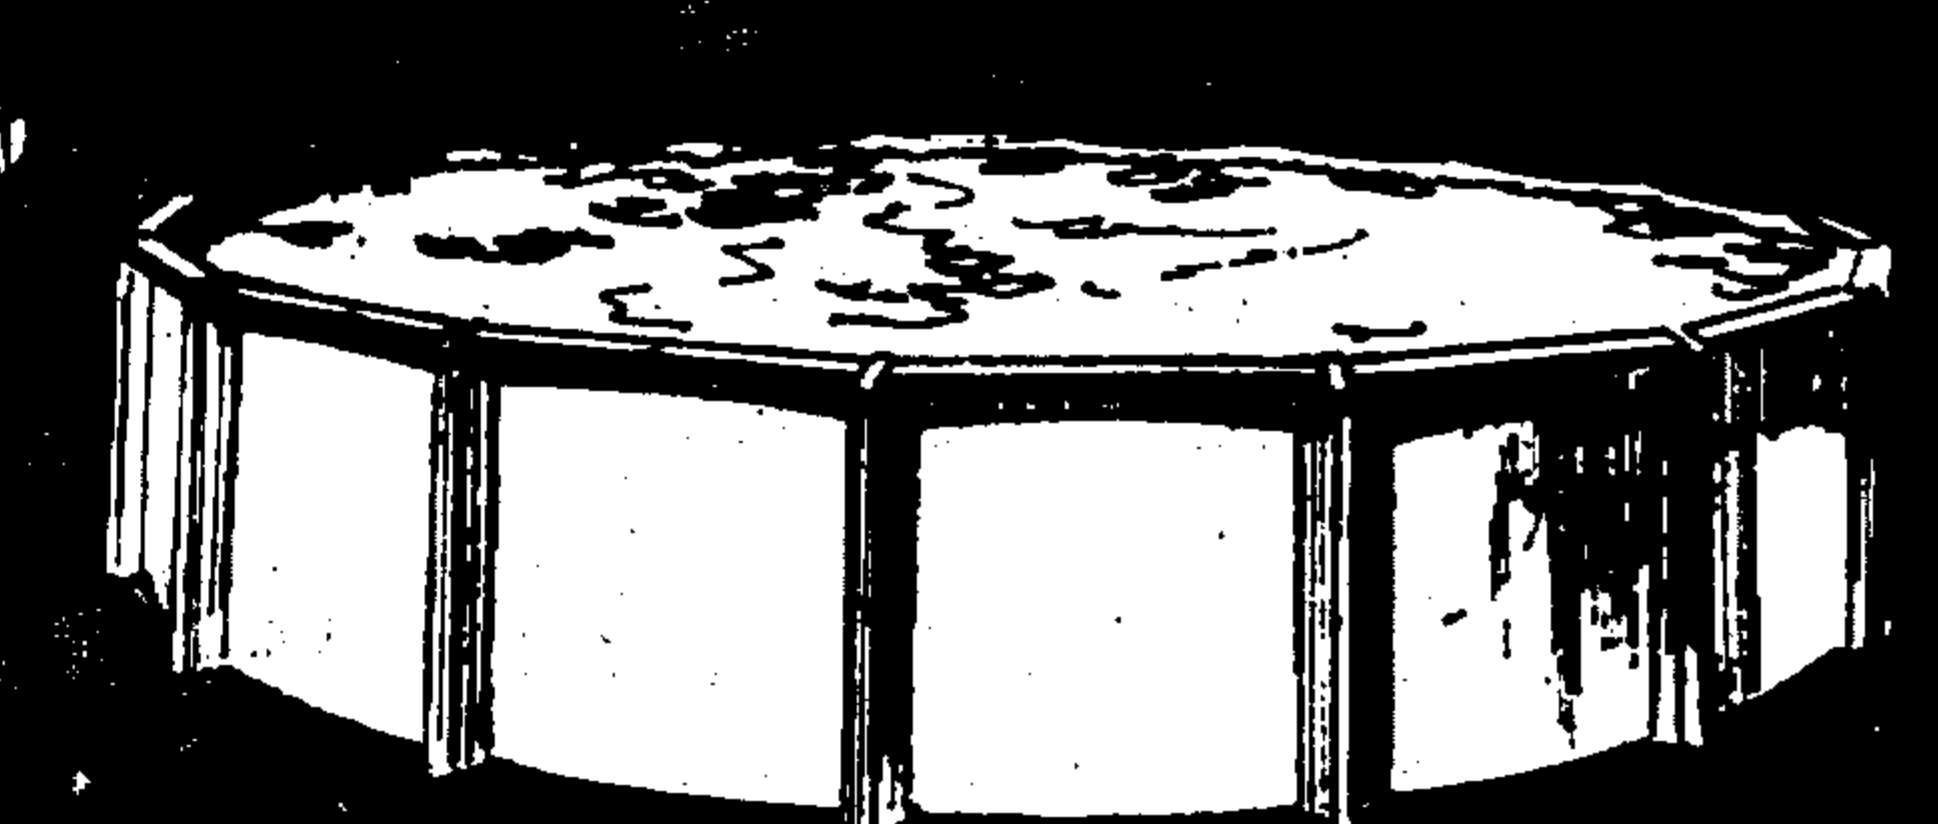

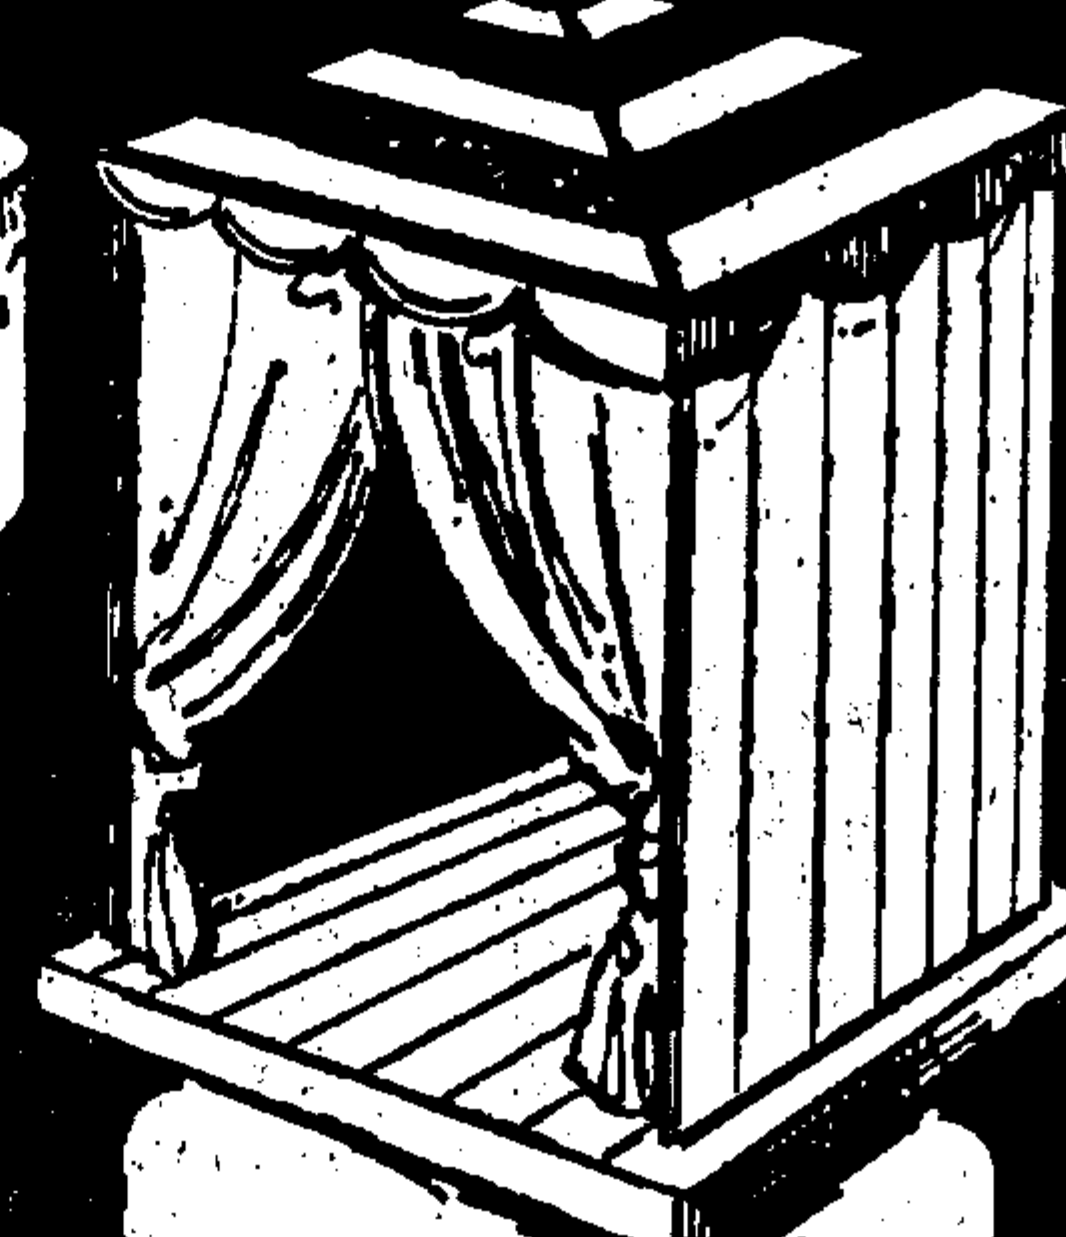

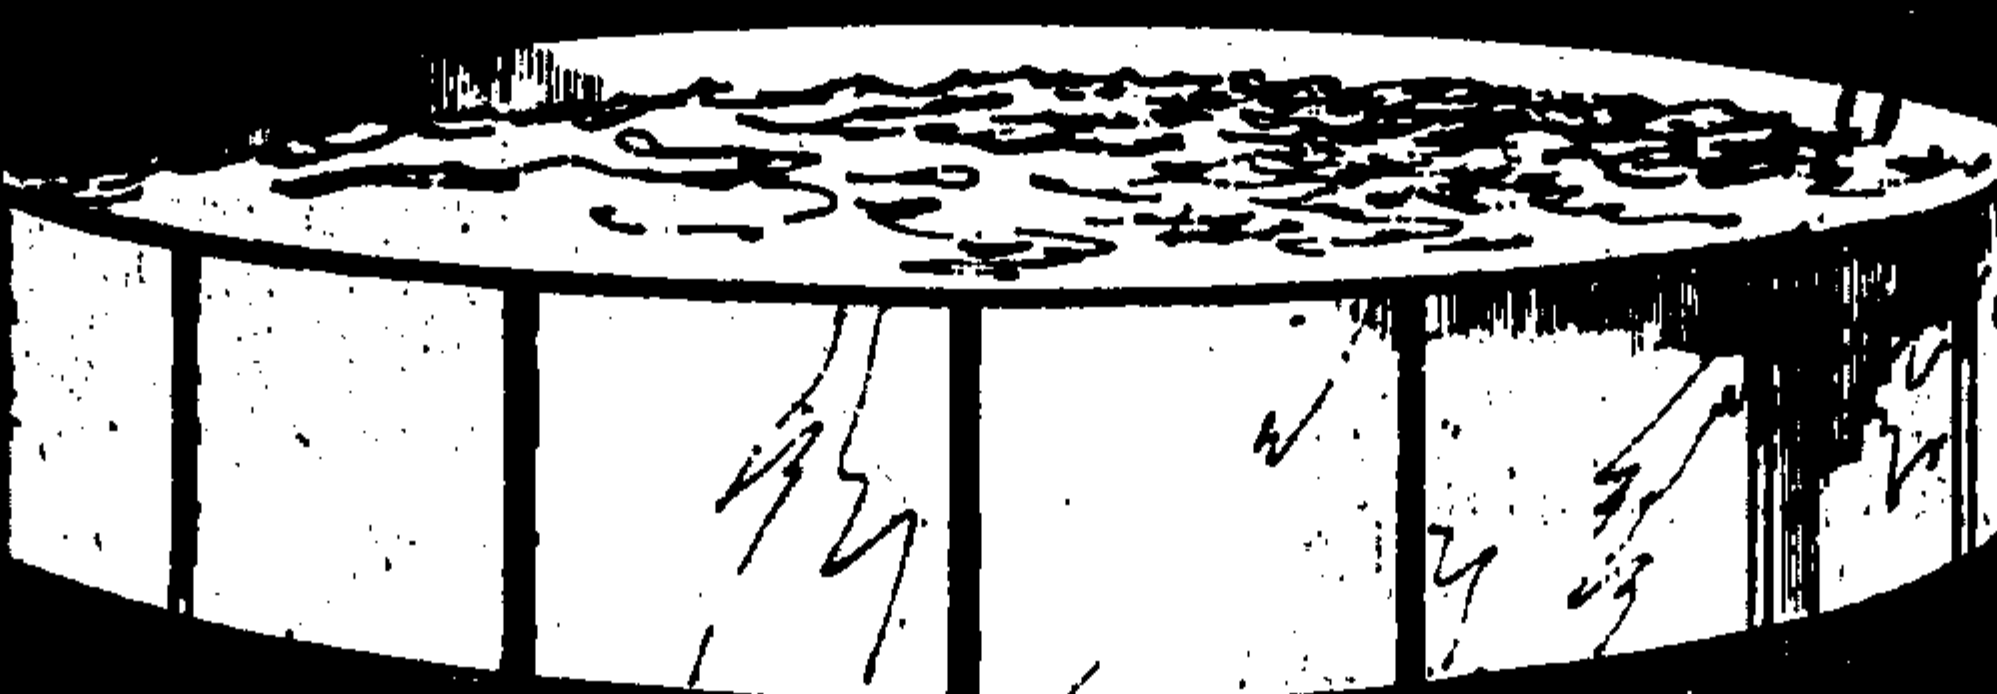

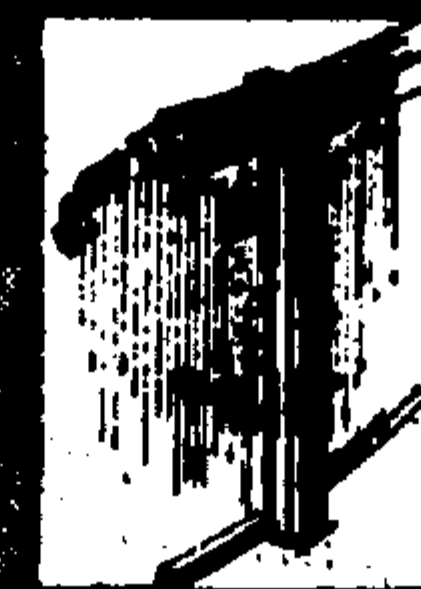

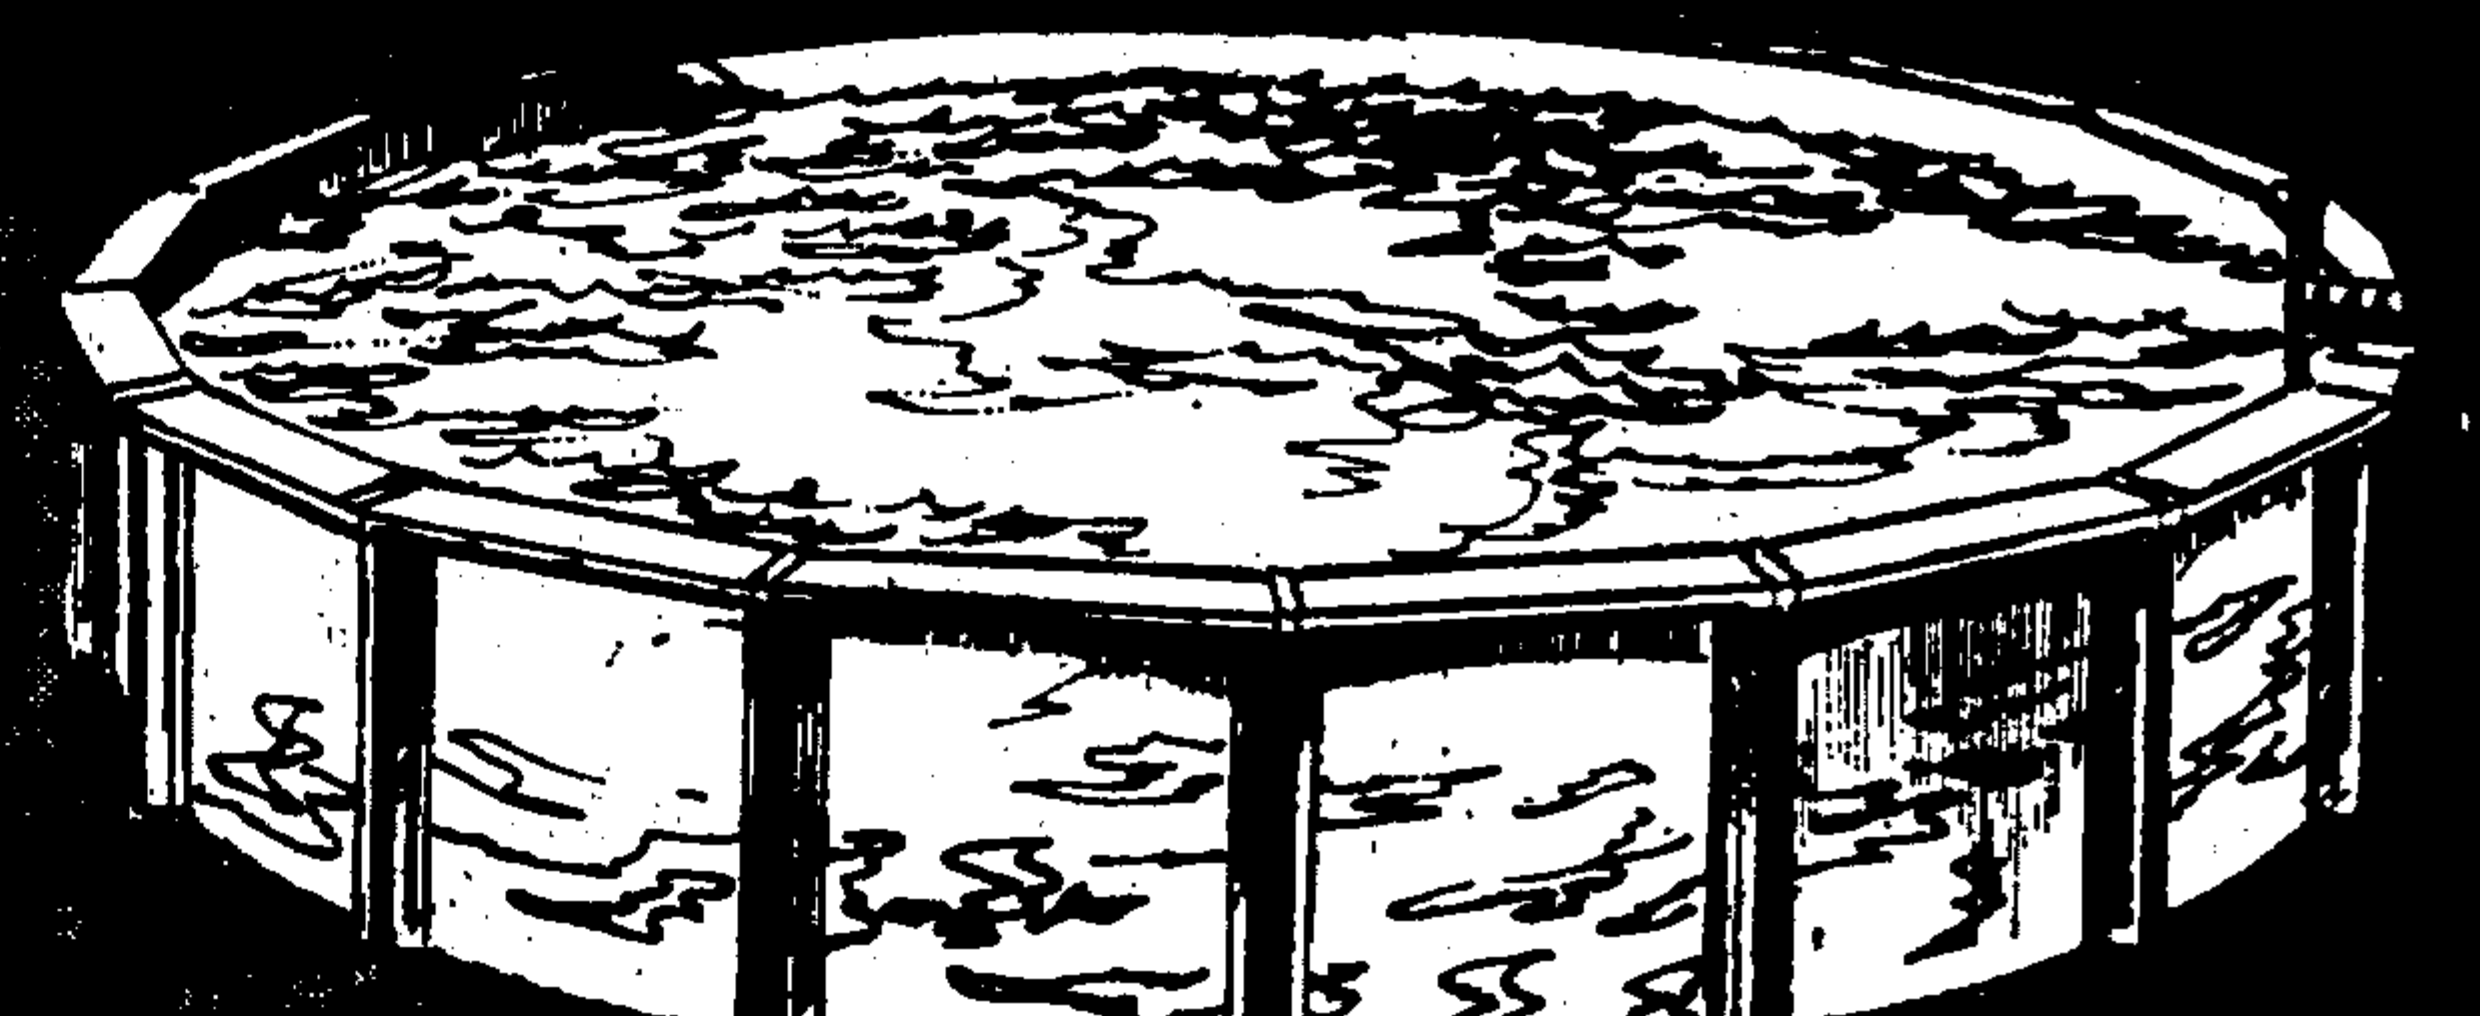

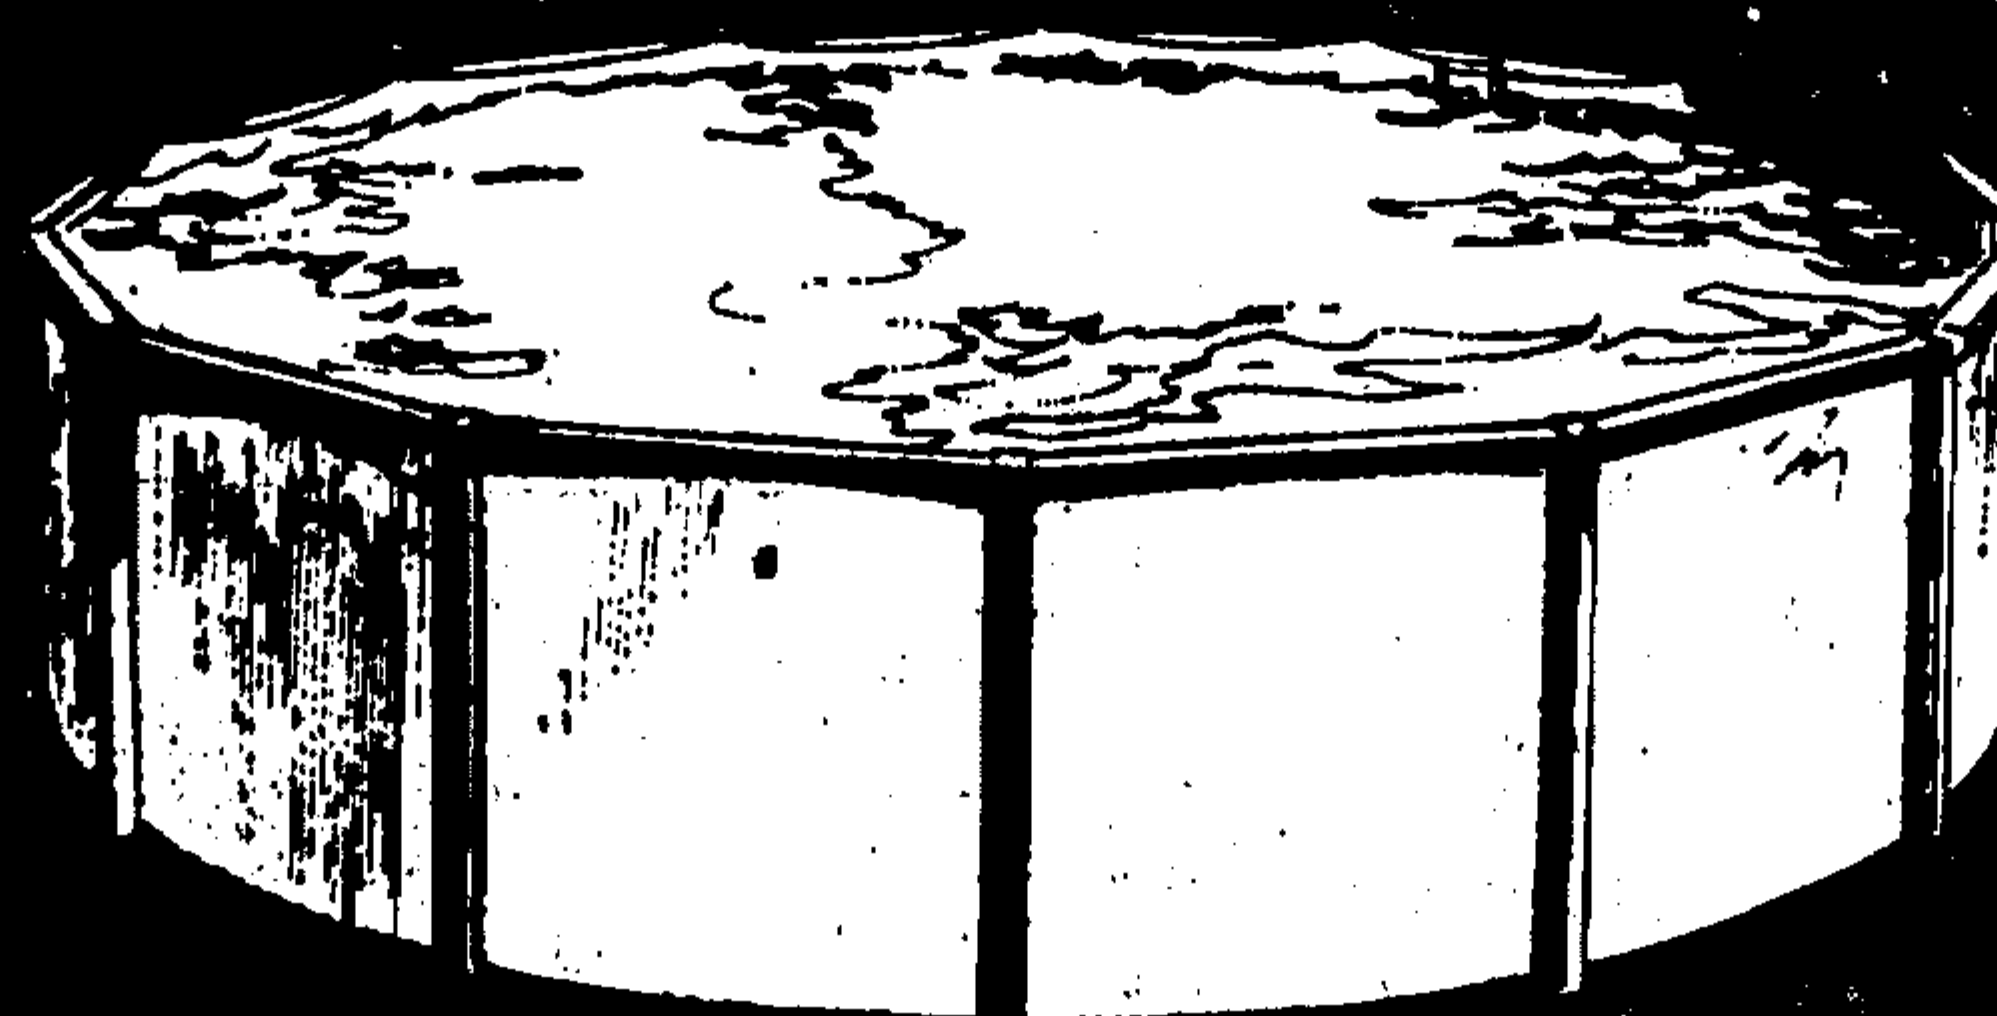

Top finishers in the local event will advance to the sectional meet, with the state championship to follow matching sectional winners. Endicott says that the state meet, scheduled this year for Crystal Lake, will be completely sanctioned and electronically-timed; so that any national records established will be fully recognized.

Falcons Hit 155, Lions Shoot 157

Golf Editor

Forest View tuned up for its sectional bid this morning by using a 155-186 triumph over Schaumburg Wednesday evening for a stepping stone.

The Falcons are playing their best golf of the season and should pose a serious threat against the nine-team field at East Aurora.

Dave Moody paced the winners with a sparkling one-over-par 35 at Mount Prospect Country Club, but received solid support from Pat Walsh's 38, Gary Mayer's 39, Todd McDonald's 42 and Chuck Felice's 43.

Schaumburg countered with Brian Masino's 44, a 46 by Joe Castrogiovanni, 48's by Mike Mosciński and Leo Hoffman and Tim Tolmjanovich's 49. The contest concluded the Mid Suburban dual-meet portion of the season for all 12 of its representatives.

On the frosh-soph level, Forest View scored an easy 167-191 triumph as Falcon Gary Willert earned medalist honors with a 37.

St. Viator, meanwhile, turned back Elk Grove's finest effort of the season, 157-166, for its 56th straight decision without defeat.

The Lions' dazzling scoring came over Elk Grove's home layout at Indian Lakes and included Vic Incinelli's 38, 39's by Terry McDonald and Terry McBride, Greg Muench's 41, Mike Brawley's 42 and Keith McDonald's 45.

The Grenadiers' superb outing was contrived of Todd Gander's 40, 42's by Keith Moore, Ernie Woollard and Scott Walker, a 45 by Dave Chernick and Mark Okuma's 47.

St. Viator's frosh-soph contingent rifled home a 166 to Elk Grove's 193 over the Indian Lakes' front nine Iroquois course.

Schaumrose Inn Leading League; Takes Low Net In Hoffman Golf

Schaumrose Inn has gotten off to a fast start in the Hoffman Estates Wednesday Men's Golf League.

Schaumrose is in first place by four points over O'Shea Construction and the leaders last week posted low team net with 195. Members are John O'Connell, Wally Thiede, Vic Binneboese, Paul Kiczula and Duane Smeryage.

Individual low net went to Hank Styczkowski with 33, low gross to Bob Allen with 39 and low net for alternate to Bill Brewster with 38. Play was over the par-36 yellow nine at Golden Acres Country Club.

Mustang Boosters Elect Officers

At a recent general membership meeting of the Rolling Meadows Mustang Booster Club, officers and two directors were elected for 1972-73.

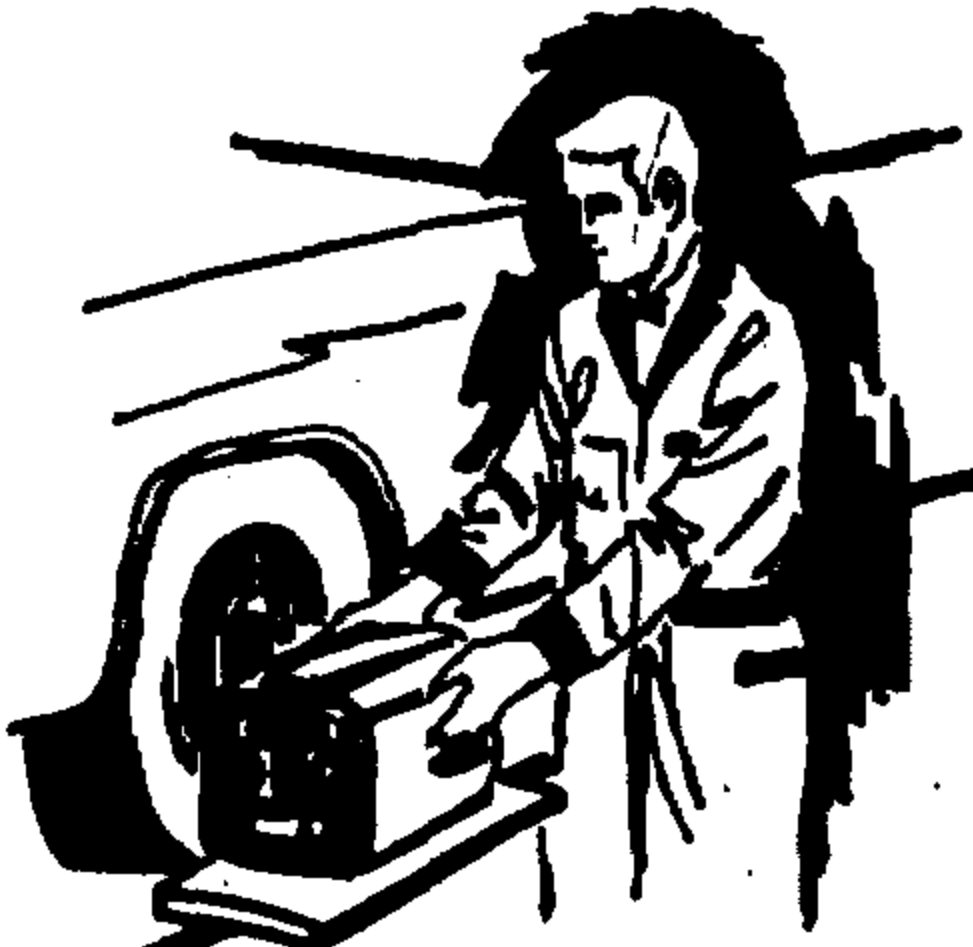

Those who will serve in the coming school year are: President, Don Rose; Vice-President, Steve Lesley; Secretary, Dee Sander; Treasurer, Kathie Brightwell; Directors, Lottie Hafer and Harry Grider.

Remaining on the board are Directors Frank Hogan, Chuck Boyer and Jack Kosmoski, whose terms of office will run for one more year.

The club's first meeting of the new Board of Officers and Directors will take place at the high school on June 14 at 8:00 p.m. to begin making plans for the next school year.

Wulbecker Dazzles

The word from Northwest Missouri State College is that Mike Wulbecker, former area baseball star has been doing everything but drive the bus for his college team this spring.

Wulbecker, an all-conference selection as a sophomore last year, is leading the team in at-bats (125), hits (50), runs (36), runs batted in (28), doubles (6) and triples (6). But perhaps his most impressive statistics are his playing every inning of every game, his 34 stolen bases in as many games (one of the best figures in the NCAA College Division) and his .400 batting average.

Mike prepped at Prospect High School.

Grid Playoff Studied

The Board of Directors of the Illinois High School Association recently authorized the appointment of a committee to study a proposal to establish football playoffs and formulate a plan.

One of the members of the committee is Arlington High School head football coach Bob Walter. The committee has met once and will do so again in the near future.

Olson Batting .366

Rich Olson, former star shortstop at Forest View High, is the leading hitter on the Illinois State University varsity although only a sophomore. Rich, who calls Mount Prospect his home, is hitting a lousy .366, followed by .346 by Dave Bergman, former Maine South star.

Olson has been a regular at second base. He has 30 hits in 82 at-bats with three doubles, four triples, two home runs and 11 runs batted in. He led Illinois State to 20 wins in its first 29 games, including a pair of one-run triumphs over nationally-ranked Southern Illinois.

Kasper Stars At SIU

Bob Kasper, who had an outstanding area baseball career with Forest View High School and the Des Plaines American Legion team, is a key member of the freshman team at Southern Illinois University, a perennially-powerful baseball school nationally.

At last report, Kasper was batting a .369 clip and had made only one error as starting third baseman for a team with an 11-1 record.

Day Leads College Team

Scott Day, a sophomore at Northeast Missouri State College who enjoyed a fine baseball career at Wheeling High School, is the leading hitter among regulars this spring with his college nine.

Day leads the team in at-bats (54), hits (18), runs (11), total bases (20) and average (.333). He has committed only two errors in 18 games for a team with an 11-7 record at last report.

Another sophomore from the area, Bobo Leja, also is a member of the pitching staff at Northeast Missouri. Leja starred with the Hersey High School and Arlington Heights American Legion baseball teams the past two years.

Smith Sparkles As Frosh

Terry Smith, a Florida Southern U. freshman who did a fine pitching job for Hersey High School and Logan Square American Legion baseball teams last year, has picked up in college where he left off in this area.

Smith, working strictly in relief, has a 2-1 record as one of the youngest members of one of the top teams in the nation, a squad that recently had a 25-5 record.

Peterson Starting Back

Skip Peterson, former Hersey High School All-Stater, operated as the starting fullback for Purdue University in the Black and Gold spring football game. Peterson, who had been sidelined by the flu for three days prior to the concluding spring game, did manage to play one half and score a touchdown on a one-yard plunge. He was working at full-back in the wishbone offense.

Augustine To Dubuque

The university of Dubuque Athletic Department has announced the signing of an outstanding area high school football player to enroll at the University.

He is Pat Augustine, a 5'10", 230-pound center from Elk Grove High School. He is the son of Mr. & Mrs. Paul Augustine of Des Plaines, Illinois.

An extremely quick offensive lineman, Pat was selected as All-Conference, All-Area, and All-State honorable mention.

Hersey Staff Officials

Richard Kinneman, Athletic Director of Hersey High School and Robert Scott and Floyd Hillman, counselors at Hersey, have been invited to officiate the state track meet. The meet will be held at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston on Friday and Saturday, May 26 and 27.

Scott, a counselor at Hersey, and former District 214 coach, is an accredited track official and works many area track meets. Hillman has officiated at several local athletic events. Kinneman has coached cross country and basketball at Prospect High School.

Bears' Doug Buffone Opens Pro-Style Football Camp

A new pre-season football camp for boys, patterned after the National Football League training camps, has been organized by Chicago Bears linebacker Doug Buffone.

Open to boys 12 to 18, the instructional and training camp will be conducted July 2-8 at North Central College in Naperville.

Purpose of the camp is to help boys improve their football ability and get physically and mentally ready for the coming season, according to Buffone. It will be operated like NFL camps in terms of fundamentals, drills, conditioning, training, films, strategy and the techniques of all offensive and defensive positions, he added.

The staff consists of prominent Chicago area high school grid coaches and guest NFL players, including several members of the Bears: Jack Concannon, Willie Holman, Rich Doady, Dick Gordon, Jim Grabowski, Earl Thomas and Buffone.

The high school coaches are Pat Cronin, St. Rita; Tony Peterzak, Marist; Bob Naughton, New Trier West; Jim Morrel, Maine West; Jerry Auchstetter, Geneva; Carl Bonner, Wendell Phillips; Jimmy Jones, DuSable; and Ron Rio, North Park College.

Gregg Schumacher, former University of Illinois and Los Angeles Rams defensive end, is camp director. Camp coordinators are Bob Rio, veteran Chicago Public League, Suburban Catholic League and Mid-Suburban Conference coach, and Mike Vaia of Austin.

Tuition for the camp is $125. More information can be obtained by writing to Doug Buffone Football Camp, 4040 W. Lawrence Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60630.

GROUND-BREAKING ceremonies at Prospect High School Wednesday launched the construction of two baseball dugouts with funds provided by the Mount Prospect Lions Club. Coordinating the project is the Knights' Booster Club. On hand to break the ground were from left Peter Tsolinas, President of the Mount Prospect Lions Club; Alvin Kulieke, Principal of Prospect High School; Richard Julison, Superintendent of Building and Grounds for the Park District; Elmer Blasco, Treasurer of the Knights' Booster Club and Don Schmidt, Dugout Project Contractor.

Break Ground For Dugouts At Prospect

In a spirit of true community cooperation, ground was broken Wednesday beginning the construction of two dugouts for the varsity baseball field at Prospect High School.

"There is no question about it," said Alvin Kulieke, Principal of Prospect High School, as the Mt. Prospect Park District's backhoe began excavation. "There is hope for our society in this example of what can be accomplished when various elements of a community unite behind a single project.

"As one of the oldest schools in the district," he continued, "we have long hoped for this addition to our excellent athletic facilities, but unfortunately our budget has not permitted us the opportunity to complete this varsity field... a baseball diamond that has already produced Dave Kingman of the San Francisco Giants, and Tom Lundstedt of the Chicago Cubs."

The contribution of the dugouts to Prospect High School began early this year when the Prospect Knights Booster Club board voted to promote their construction as its "1972 Project of the Year."

The Knights Booster Club board consisting of George R. Busse, Ralph Obuchowski, Elmer Blasco, Bob Lundstedt, Bonnie Fox, Wayne Tite, and Wally Stroebel, together with Mr. Kulieke, Jim Kunnen, and Athletic Director George Gattas then went to work.

"We would not be here today," commented Busse, "without the initial enthusiastic support we received from two important groups in our community — the Lions Club of Mount Prospect and the Mount Prospect Park District.

"From Pete Tsolinas, President of the Mount Prospect Lions Club, his board, and the membership, we received the basic financial contribution of $2,500 we

"The next important hurdle was cleared," Busse observed, "when we approached Bob Jackson and the board of the Mount Prospect Park District for the use of their heavy equipment — the backhoe that is making the initial excavations and their trencher for the drainage and water pipes that are to be installed. Not only is the Park District donating the use of its equipment, but the manpower to operate them as well."

Busse and the Prospect school officials then went on to enumerate the many people who have or are contributing to the construction of these two baseball units.

The original blueprints for the construction were done by Bob McBride, a Booster father, whose firm, Schipporeit, Inc., designed and built Lake Point Towers. Steel for the units is being furnished by another Booster father, Curt Bostrom. Supervising Contractor for the project is still another Booster father, Don Schmidt. And retired carpenter, Victor Rose, is contributing his efforts. Labor, masonry, plumbing supplies, and other supplies are either being furnished or paid for out of the original Lions Club contribution.

Prospect High Athletic Director Gattas pointed out, "These dugouts are going to be near-major league in quality."

Thirty-one feet long, eight and one-half feet wide, and two feet into the ground, they'll feature storm drains, permanent fresh water fountains, contour benches, supplies and other incidentals, and racks built-in bat racks, shelving for first aid for clothing, gloves, etc.

"Why," he added, "we're even going to across the front of each dugout." have spike cleaners outside each dugout so the kids can clean their spikes before they go to the plate, and a full railing.

Booster officers were also quick to point out the basic concrete and concrete block structure which would be decorated in Prospect's Navy and Columbia Blue school colors.

Construction is scheduled for completion early in July, and although the Prospect Knights varsity baseball team of 1972 will not have an opportunity to use them this season, they will be put to use this summer by the Prospect High summer baseball program and by the American Legion baseball program who use this diamond in the summer.

Kulieke, Gattas, and other Prospect High administrators gave high praise to their Booster Club for successfully managing the preliminary planning stages of this project.

"They've done a great job on this project to date," remarked Kulieke, "and without a doubt, this has to be the finest Booster Club in our conference. They, like we, believe in the basic values of competitive athletics and the contribution of this competition to the basic education of our young people. We can only hope that these new dugout facilities will encourage more young people to participate in this sport and that from these dugouts will some day come more Dave Kingmans and Tom Lundstedts."

Home-Owners Demand Both Safety And Results From Yard Products

Increasing consumer awareness of product safety and the environment is changing the face of the multi-billion dollar home gardening industry, claims Ben Grosscup, general manager for Heritage House lawn and garden products.

"The day has passed when home owners will buy any lawn or garden product that promises results but neglects to offer safety as well," he explained.

Grosscup points to surveys conducted by his company which show homeowners, while still demanding results, now add safety to their list of expectations from gardening aids. Specifically home owners want lawn and garden products that can be used safely around youngsters, family pets and the wildlife that may wander in the "American backyard."

Respondents to the surveys further indicate they want products that will not adversely affect the soil, but which will contribute to conservation practices.

Lawn and gardening aids on the market for 1972 already show signs of this new emphasis, maintains Grosscup, and continued change toward increased safety can be expected in the future. He also holds that his Cleveland-based company has taken a position of leadership in the industry by offering the broadest range of organically oriented home gardening aids available.

THE EXECUTIVE MAKES particular note, for example, of his firm's use of a 100 per cent organic carrier — corn cob granules — in all its bagged fertilizer, pesticide, herbicide and fungicide products.

"All fertilizers, except those designed to be diluted in water for spraying, must incorporate some carrier that will take the ingredients down into the soil," he points out. "The most widely used carrier is not organic and does nothing but lay in the soil after it has released the fertilizing agents."

Corncob granules are organic. Once in the soil they break down to form humus, a highly desirable soil conservation benefit.

Grosscup further attributes Heritage House leadership in safety to its products featuring Dacthal, a biodegradable compound of crabgrass and 27 other undesirable weeds. "There is no other pre-emergent herbicide that controls as many weed seeds as Dacthal, while being non-injurious to vegetables, flowers or ornamentals or lawns," he claims.

FROM A SAFETY standpoint to birds and animals, Dacthal does not persist in the soil from year to year, but breaks down into harmless compounds after its effective activity. "It's a unique product that gives home owners what they want — results with safety," asserts the firm's spokesman.

Home gardening is a big leisuretime activity, and as the workweek gets shorter there will be more gardening and lawn care, and a steadily increasing demand for garden products.

But companies in the garden-care industry today must be willing to meet homeowner demands for safety if they are to continue in the business, maintains Grosscup. This means a commitment of resources, such as the one made by Heritage House, to the continued development of safer products in the future.

The executive estimates that this year, in spite of any slowdown of the economy, home owners will pay out some $900 million for fertilizers, herbicides and similar lawn and garden aids.

Fresh Flowers Lend Charm To Outdoor Setting

Pool and garden parties, patio dinners and those traditional family barbecues are the order of the day. No decorations are more appropriate than fresh flowers and green plants.

To set off floral designs with a summer flavor and seasonal informality, experts note that imagination in the use of containers can keynote that sought-after look. They suggest the rough textures of straw and wicker as perfect foils for summer designs as well as clay pots in natural, earthy colors.

Look around for containers not usually considered as flower holders. For example, an ordinary wicker laundry basket can turn into a major focal point when heaped with a variety of fresh flowers. Magazine baskets can be instantly transformed.

Hurricane lamps or other protected candle holders have a special affinity for outdoor arrangements. Especially perfect for nighttime parties, flickering candlelight in crystal chimneys sheds a soft romantic glow on the accompanying blossoms.

Even City Dwellers Can Enjoy Gardens

As our society becomes more and more urbanized, we find it increasingly difficult to experience one of the greatest joys of life, the privilege of having direct contact with growing plants and flowers.

But with a little planning and imagination, even those who live in the heart of the biggest cities can have gardens of our own.

If you're a lucky city dweller, you have a small plot of ground behind your home or townhouse. The ideal use of such an area is to plant small trees, flowering bushes and flowers around the edges and to pave or brick the center area for entertaining, individual or family use.

However, if shade is a problem, you should arrange the garden to put flowers in the center, where maximum sunlight can get to them. Perhaps you could incorporate a small pool or fountain into this center flower bed and leave the surrounding area for activities.

The success of plants in a city garden depends on fertile soil, which is often a difficult commodity to find in the city.

If plants don't thrive in your soil, the investment in a few bushels — or even a truckload — of fresh topsoil will be more than repaid by the joy of hearty plants for many seasons.

Add rotted manure, peat moss, commercial humus or compost to the soil as you work it. If your present soil seems adequate, spade the topsoil thoroughly and add two to three ounces of lime per square yard. About six weeks later add manure or other decayed organic material.

Unless your soil, sunlight and moisture conditions are especially good, avoid evergreens, which accumulate soot, oil and other particles from the air until they can no longer thrive. Deciduous trees that do well under most city conditions include the amur and Japanese maple; the tree of heaven (Allanthurus); the Russian olive; weeping willow; thornless honey and yellow locust; white mulberry; Chinese scholar tree; Japanese pagoda tree; flowering dogwood; Washington and cockspur thorn; saucer or star magnolia; Japanese cherry; cherry plum; flowering almond.

Of the bedding shrubs, the yew, holly, pyracantha and privet do best. Lower hedges of lavender, rosemary, dwarf boxwood or floribunda roses are usually hearty.

MOST OF THE well-known spring flowers will grow well in city gardens for at least two or three years. Especially good are crocus, snowdrop, grape hyacinth, narcissus, daffodil, Spanish bluebell and star of Bethlehem. For early color, try pansies, forget-me-nots, English daisies, sweet William and primroses that have been started in greenhouse beds.

Other bedding plants that should thrive under most city conditions are geranium, coleus, heliotrope, begonia and lantana.

If you have no soil and cannot bring in an adequate supply, create a container garden of trees, shrubs and flowers in wood, concrete, clay, plastic or metal containers. Buy them at reputable nurseries to ensure they have been given proper care and planted in good soil. Your nurseryman can advise you on frequency of watering and the need for sunlight.

All plants growing in the city need to be gently hosed down periodically to rinse away chemicals from the polluted air. Make sure they have good drainage, whether in the ground or in containers, in order to permit thorough flushing of the chemicals and to prevent the retention of excess water.

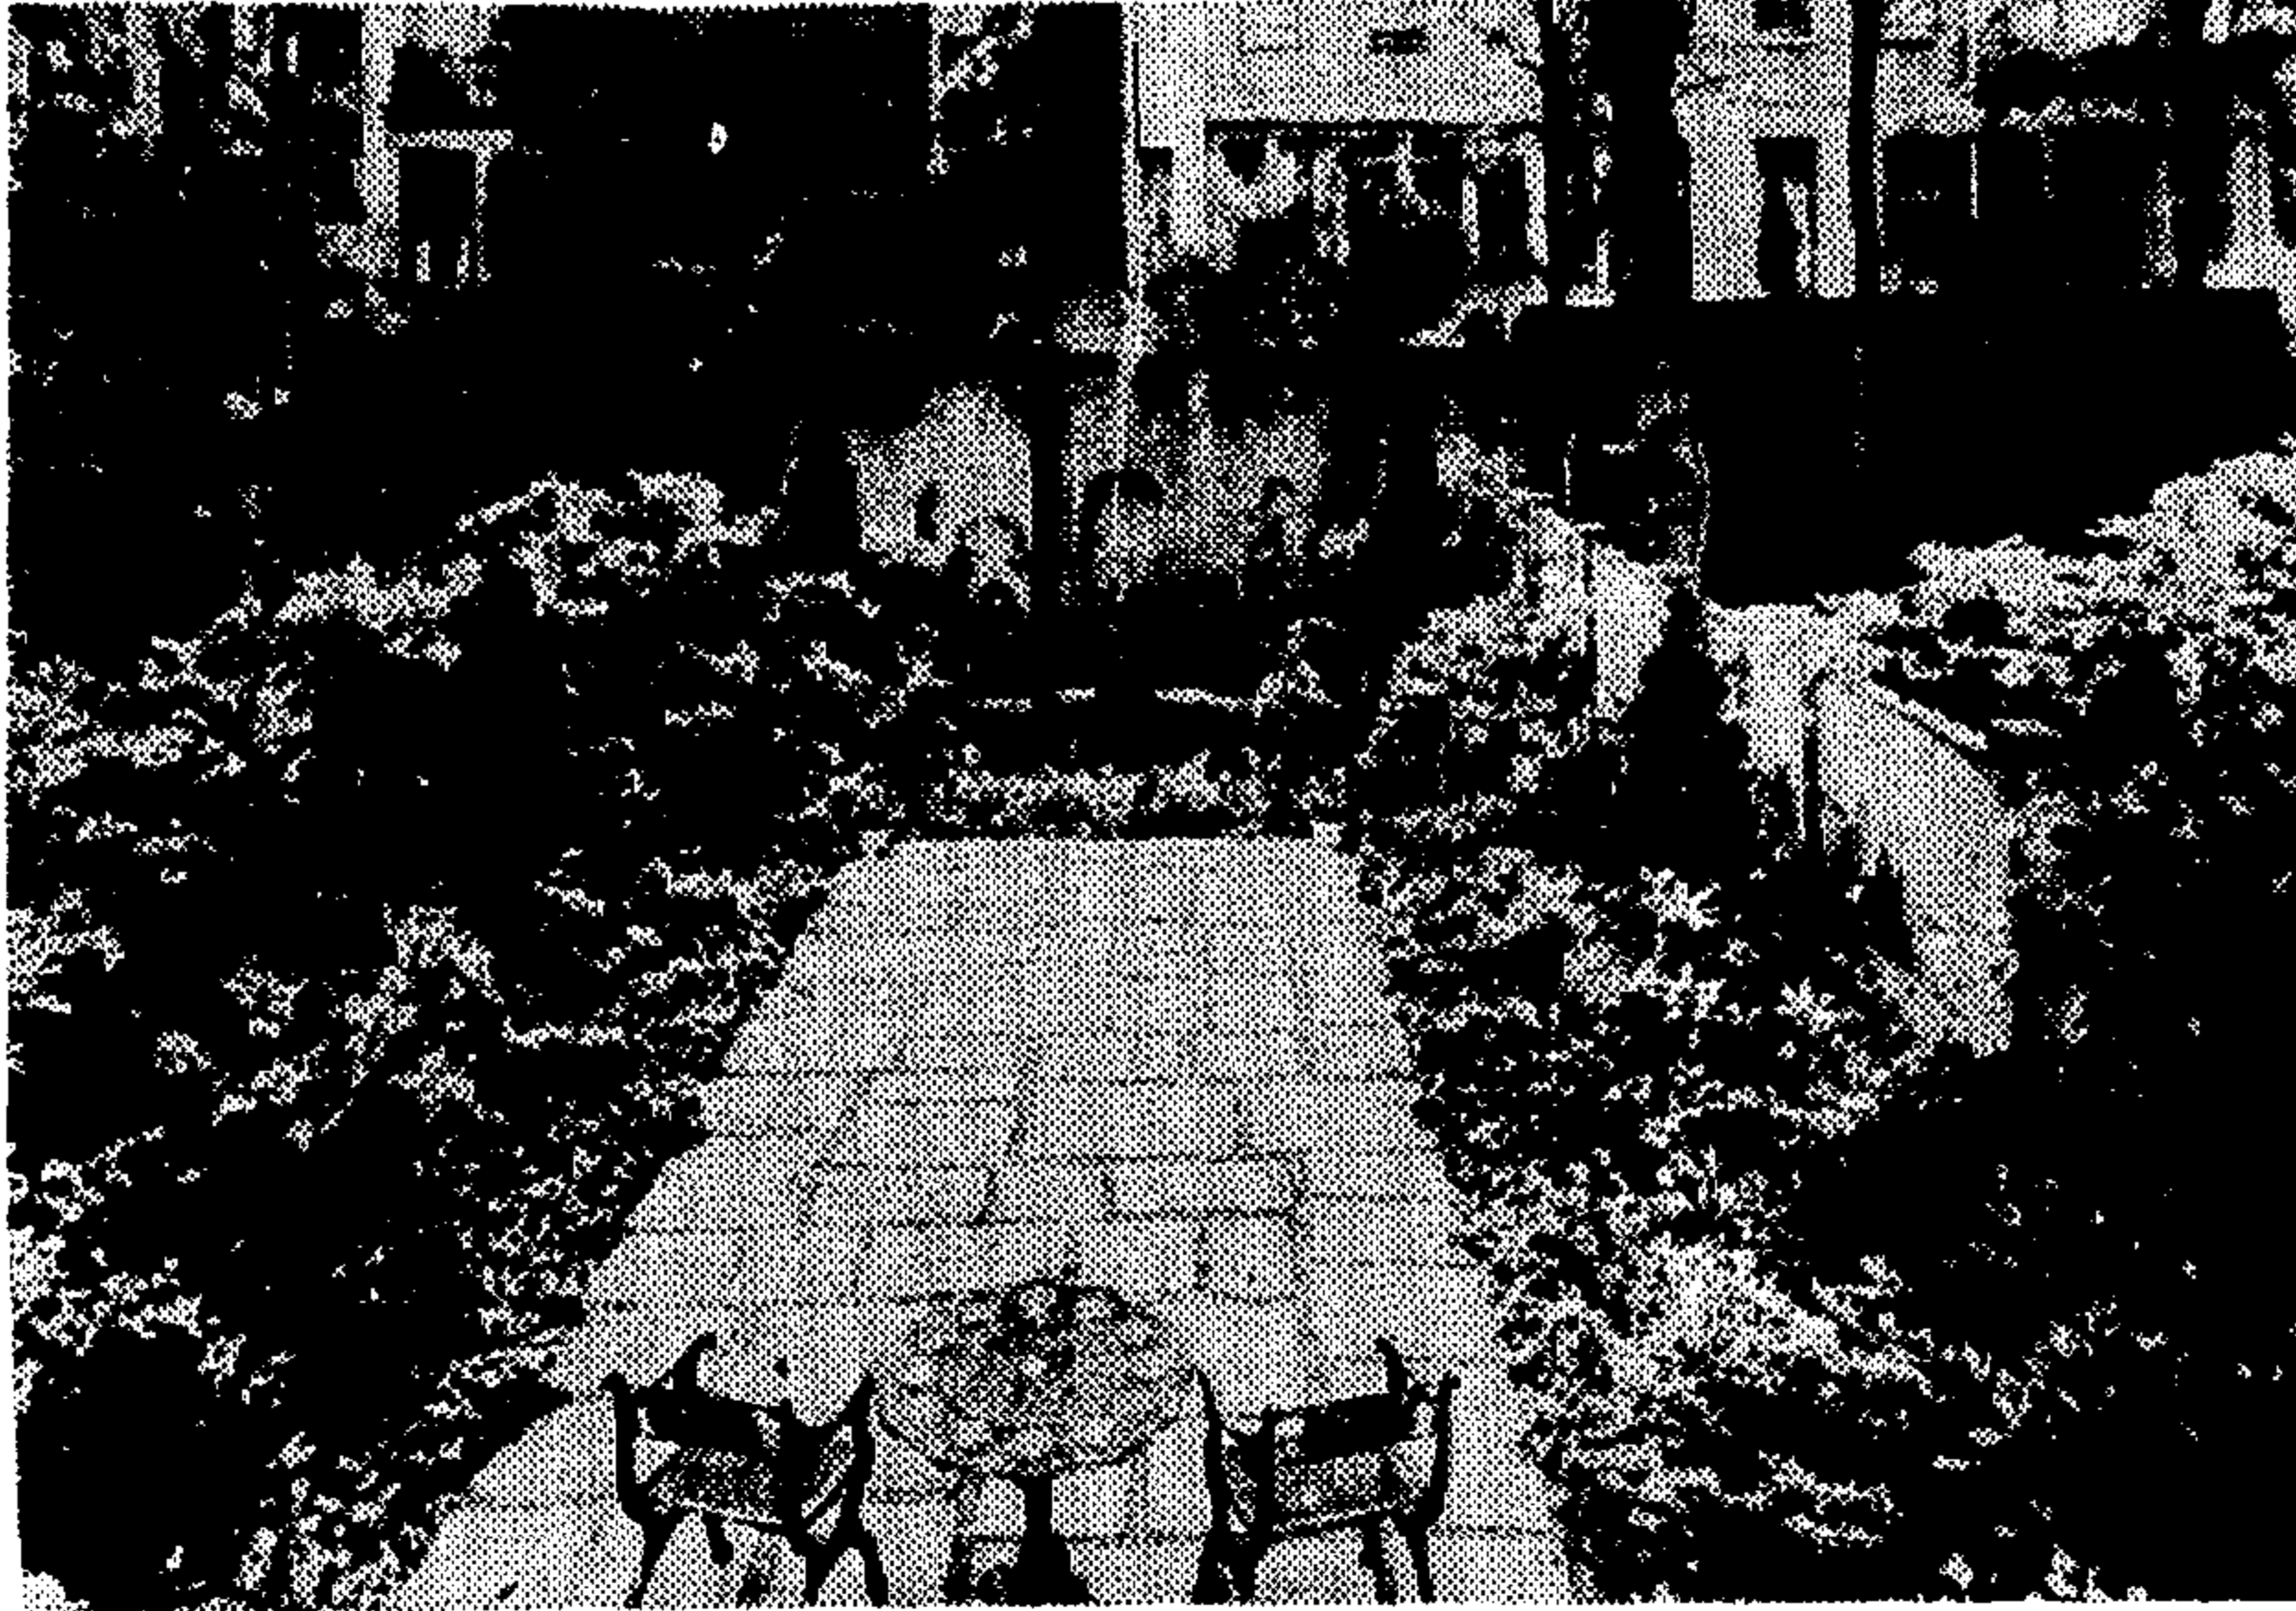

Even if your city home has only a roof or a window sill opening onto the world, you can use the plants recommended above to create your very own garden, regardless how small.

Future Gardens

What will gardens of the future be like? We have some ideas — and they're not something out of science fiction, reports Chevron Chemical. For one thing, there will be sensors in the earth. They will tell how dry the plant roots are. When the sensors reach a certain degree of dryness, the garden will be automatically watered.

Along with the water, plant food will be fed to the roots. People of the future will probably use their gardens to better advantage than we do. Privacy walls will have plastic roofs for weather control. The roof will open or close by button . . . or by automatic response to the weather. Whole yards will be flooded by light for evening enjoyment. Evening temperature control in the garden will give extra outdoor play hours for children.

With our renewed appreciation of nature, more and more home gardens will include vegetables and herbs and fruit trees. New hybrid plants will have a toughness to plant diseases and pests. We are just beginning these breakthroughs. Plant genetics will bring all of us hardy new flowers and vegetables. Students now begin their study of plant genetics in the seventh grade. Their breakthroughs will make future gardens sunny.

The Glory of Spring— Dwarf Lilacs...

The Improved Dwarf Korean Lilac is reminiscent of that tall-growing, sweet-scented shrub your Uncle Ed used to let grow untended next to the smoke house. This modern selection from Synnestvedt, however, is different from the old-time standard. It's densely branched and it grows only about 4 ft. high. The foliage is practically immune to mildew. It's in tune with modern architecture, small city lots, and makes an excellent mass or hedge plant. It blooms in late May with lilac-purple, fragrant flowers.

says Jerry Baker, America's Master Gardener and author of Plants Are Like People.

*Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

Even the best fertilizers can't work in hard, choked-up soil. GRAND PRIZE Lawn & Garden Gypsum triggers fertilizing action by letting air and water in; helps reduce acidity which can occur as a by-product of nitrogen fertilizers. GRAND PRIZE is neutral in reaction. Supplies soluble calcium and sulfate sulfur. Can be applied anywhere in any season, either spread on or worked into the soil. And GRAND PRIZE is excellent for marking play areas as it will not harm children or pets. Try it. You'll be delighted with your prized flowers and vegetables, lush lawns, healthy shrubs and trees! Work in 20-30 lbs. per 100 sq. ft. of garden. On lawns, spread 50 lbs. per 1,000 sq. ft. A SUMAC CAN be an extraordinary asset to the landscape plan, according to the Ornamental Growers Association of Northern Illinois. Not only

Staghorn Sumac

One Of The Most Exotic Of Our Native American Plants

"Cutleaf Staghorn Sumac," so named because its branching is reminiscent of the antlers of a magnificent stag, is all too infrequently used in residential landscaping.

Yet it has a great deal to commend it. Possibly its most striking characteristic is its brilliant orange-scarlet fall foliage coloring, which makes it a spectacular autumn interest subject.

Its irregular branching, which can be accentuated by judicious pruning, gives it the potential for exotic or oriental effects, an all too rare thing for a native American plant.

This is a plant that is relatively easy to care for, according to the Ornamental Growers Association of Northern Illinois, requiring only the most routine pruning to clean out dead wood. It also has the habit of "suckering" up from the roots which may occasionally require attention.

This ornamental is quite tolerant of dry, rocky, or gravelly conditions in the landscape, but must have well drained soil. It's also best in the sun — where it produces its best fall color — but will stand some shade.

The Ornamental Growers Association of Northern Illinois does offer this one very practical tip on the choice of location: keep it away from roadways, dirt or gravel driveways, or other areas where dust is apt to be kicked up by cars, horses, people, dogs, or wind. The dust will settle on the minuscule "hairs" of the velvety branch covering and the plant will look quite dirty.

This is a relative of the native Northern Illinois sumac which is still much in evidence in the undisturbed western reaches of Cook, Kane, DuPage, McHenry, and Lake Counties. The cut-leaf variety is recommended for single planting, while the native variety would only be used in masses where space is no problem.

The unusual shape of the leaves, which are elongated and picturesque, and its billowy habit of growth, make it an excellent plant to contrast with the more staid and common landscape forms.

Rose Growing Seminar Planned By Klehm's

Few flowers, when in full bloom, are more beautiful than roses. Choosing the right variety for the right purpose and proper cultivation is important but need not be complicated.

On Saturday, June 3, Russell Ward, consulting rosarian, will be at the Charles Klehm and Son Nursery, Arlington Heights, Ill., for a rose growing seminar beginning at 10 a.m. He will also give helpful information on the preparation of rose entries planned for Klehm's Annual Rose Show on Saturday, June 10.

All amateur rose growers are invited to participate in this annual event which offers nine classes. There is no entry charge and the number of entries in any class is unlimited. To aid growers in showing their roses at their best, Klehm Nursery has prepared a list of helpful reminders and general rules and instructions which is available free.

Carl Klehm, head of the 120 year old nursery, points out that the June 3 seminar is not planned exclusively for rose show exhibitors, but as a practical question and answer session. Klehm Nursery is located at Arlington Heights and Algonquin Roads in Arlington Heights and is open seven days a week.

SURVEY YOUR garden walkways or patio and determine where marigolds can be used as a border. There are many new dwarf varieties that grow DANGEROUS PRACTICE. Mom doesn't know it, but she is breaking one of the most important safety rules for riding lawn mowers and lawn and garden tractors: No passengers! Kids shouldn't even be in the picture at all — they should be shooed out of the area before you start to mow.

Improve Your Garden Soil By Starting A Compost Pile

Soil improvement helps assure success in gardening. But it takes liberal applications of organic matter — especially on heavy clays or loose sandy soils.

Peat moss runs into real money, however, and well-rotted manure is hard to find.

At the same time leaf burning is banned in many places, the garbage man scowls when you leave lawn clippings for him to pick up, and everyone is concerned about pollution.

So, why not start a compost pile.

A compost pile can solve your home gardening trash disposal problem, eliminate additions to air pollution and give you a simple, cheap solution to your need for soil-improving organic matter. G. M. Foster, University of Illinois Extension floriculturist, makes suggestions for composting:

—Locate your compost pile in a shaded, out-of-the-way spot. A well drained location near a water source is best. Don't worry about odors because they seldom occur in a properly made compost pile.

—Leaves are excellent for compost. You can also use grass clippings, pieces of sod, weeds that have not gone to seed, hay, manure, vegetable peels and tops, etc. Use only waste that will rot quickly.

Avoid adding fibrous stems, twigs and other woody material.

Don't add plants from your garden that are obviously diseased, Foster warns.

Start your compost pile with a six-inch layer of plant materials. Spread a cupful each of lime and a 5-10-5 dry garden fertilizer over every square yard of the pile. Next add a thin layer of soil and wet down thoroughly. Then add further layers of plant material, lime, fertilizer and soil. Moist as you go along. Depending on plant materials available, a pile can be three feet high or more.

Check the pile occasionally to be sure it is moist. Decomposition slows if material becomes too dry. Keep the top of your pile hollowed slightly so it will catch rainwater and let it soak in.

After about a month, turn or stir your compost pile so the outside and top material ends up in the center. This causes more even decay of all the vegetable matter in the pile.

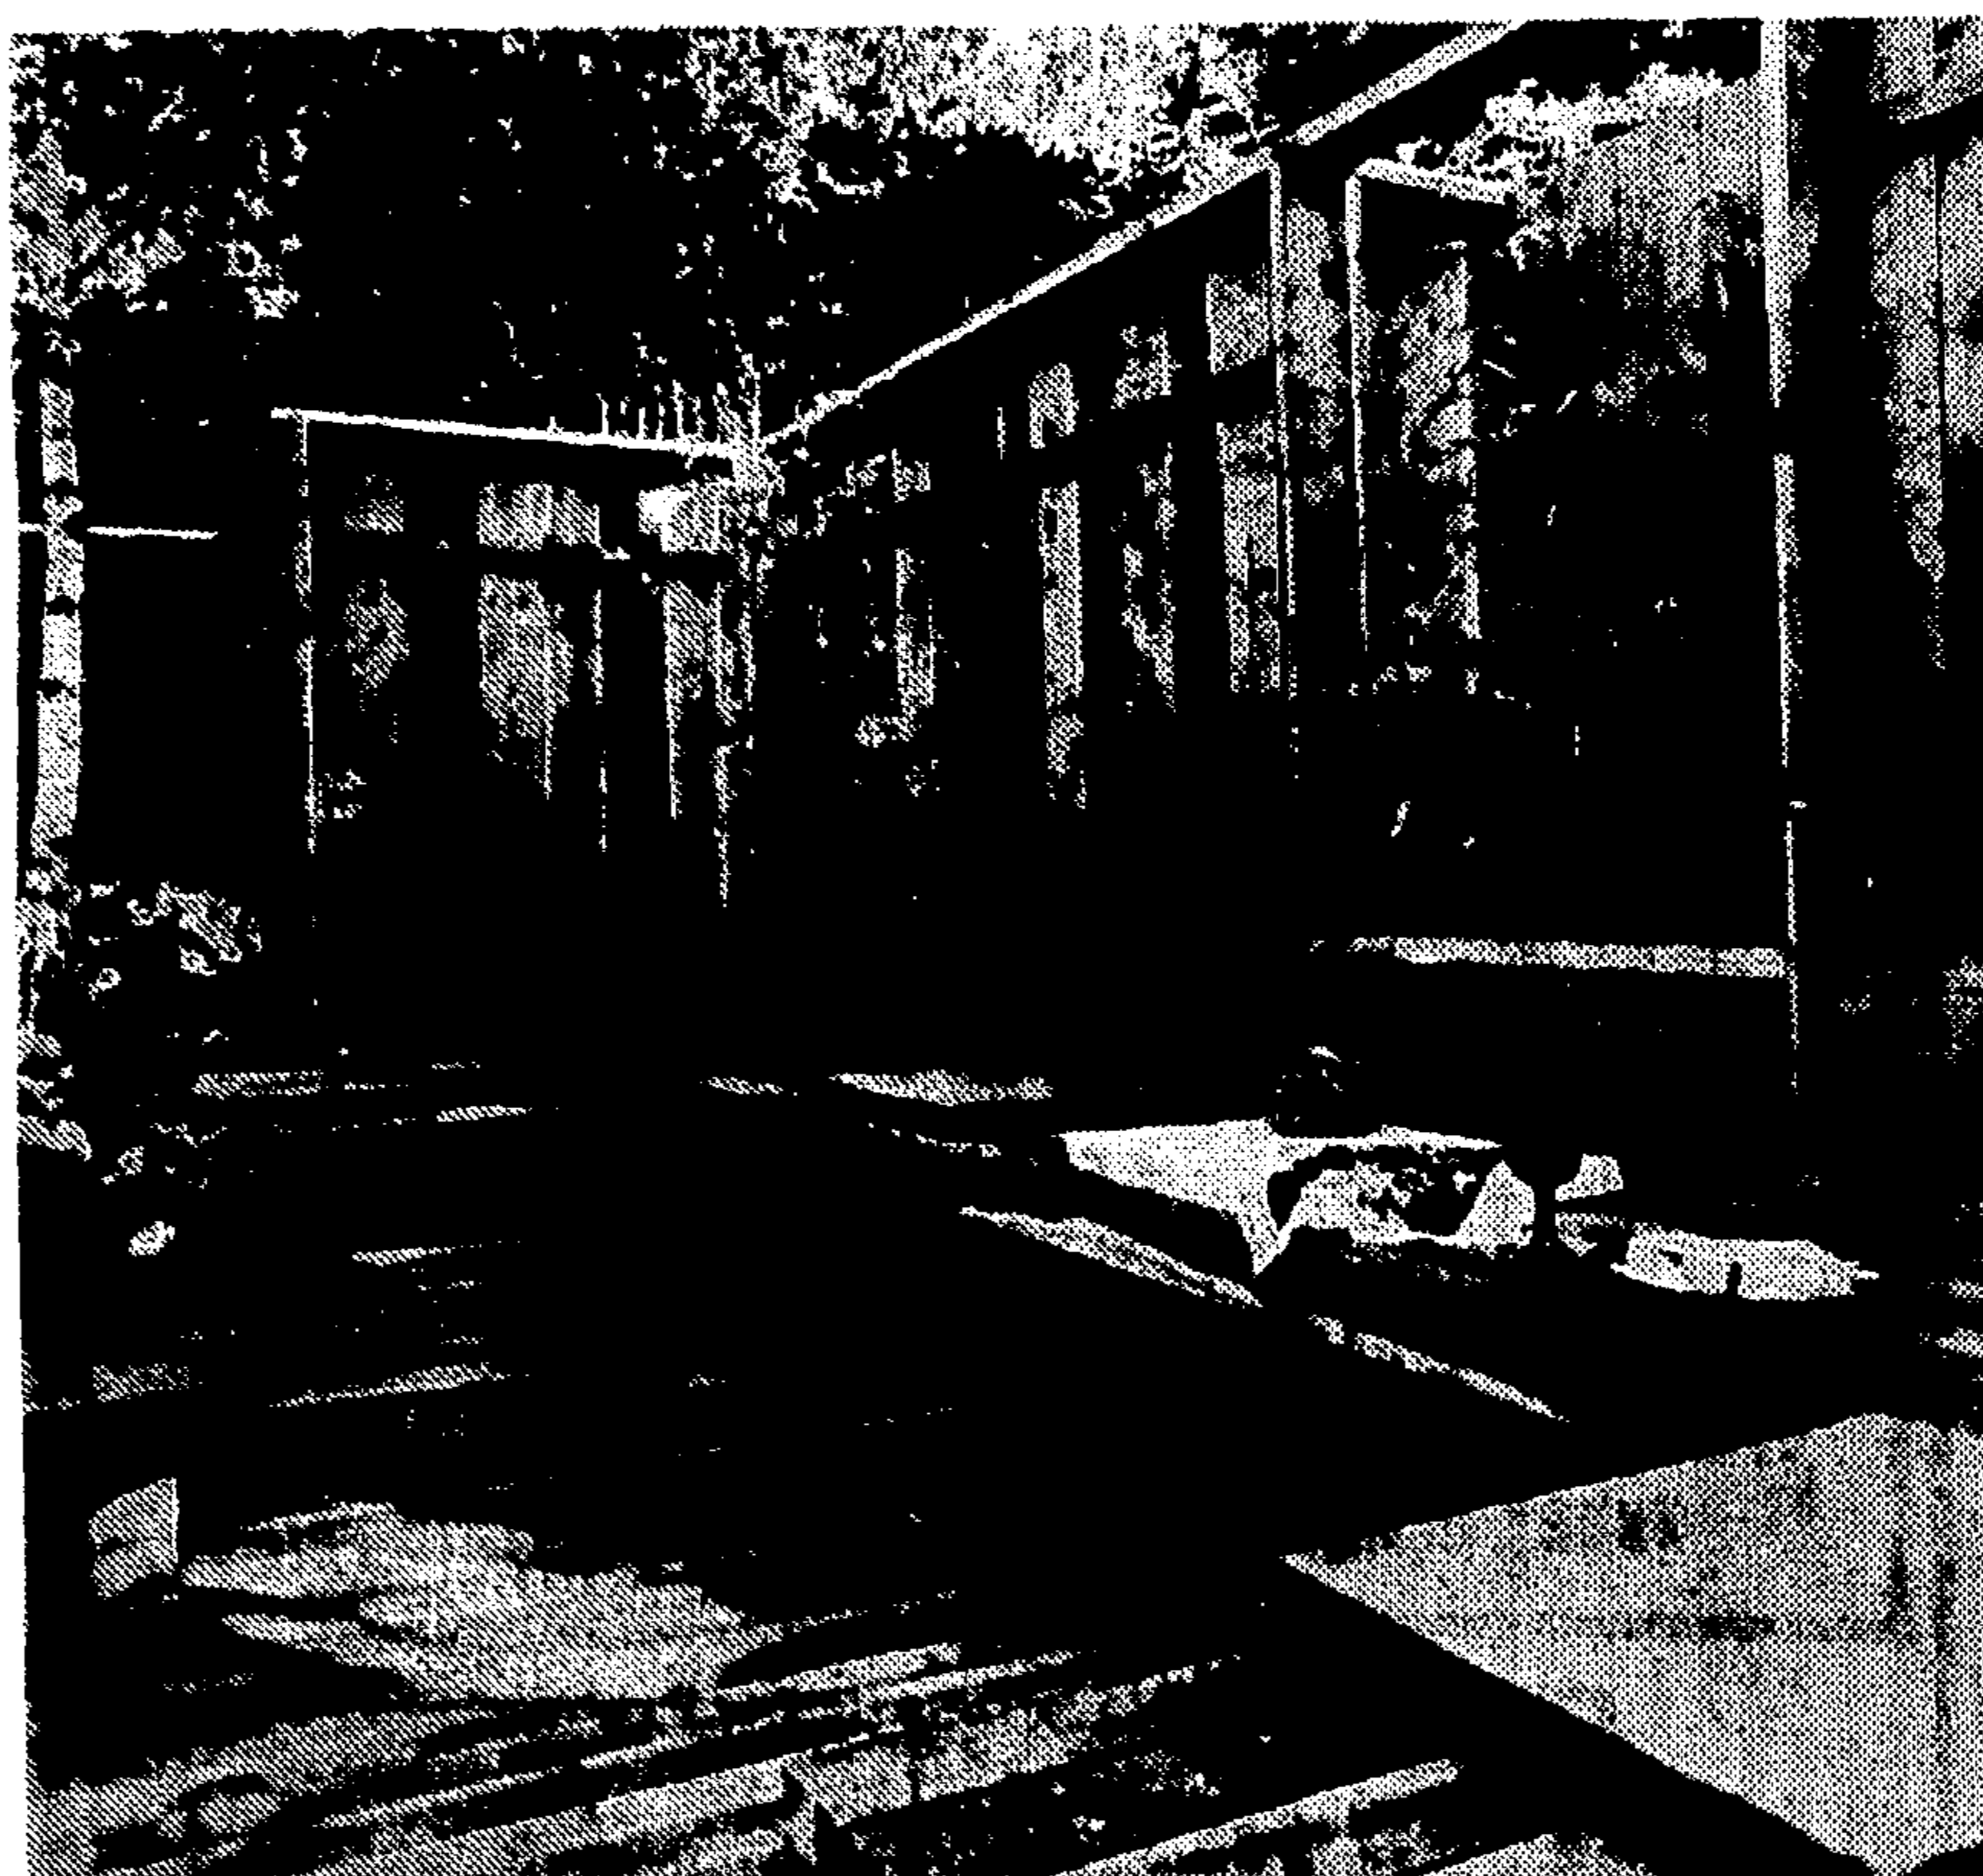

In warm weather your compost will be ready for use in only a few weeks. But if you keep adding fresh material to the pile all summer, it is better to wait until the following spring to use the compost.

Compost is ready when it becomes brown and crumbly. As you use compost from your pile, you can screen out coarse material and put it back onto your new pile.

A compost pile can be a simple, neat, straight-sided pile three or four feet wide and as long as necessary. Or you can make a semi-permanent structure from concrete blocks or durable wood with openings left for aeration around the sides. Another way to make a neat compost pile is to use a ring of woven-wire fencing.

Compost should make a big comeback. What goes into your garbage cans can become valuable, organic matter for your soil. Work liberal quantities into your flower beds and other garden areas when you spade. Use it to mulch around flowers, vegetables and shrubs.

The results will justify your efforts.

INVITING CORNER. Garden grades of redwood built this delightful garden setting — a perfect spot for conversation, crawl or coffee. Stately bamboo is showcased in "shadow box" at right. Knots and sapwood streaks add to the visual interest of the design.

Plant A Living Fence

Here's good news . . . now it's possible for homeowners to plant a beautiful living fence of roses, at minimal cost!

An unusual hybrid has been developed as a non-sprawling, tall-growing, fast-growing fence that grows very upright and compact and is ever-blooming from early spring to late fall.

Flower with bright red roses from top to bottom, this amazing variety rapidly develops into an attractive, thickly foliaged, impenetrable barrier.

Providing a low-cost answer to the homeowner's fencing problem, it is specially mass-produced in order to reduce the cost per plant.

A special type of propagation, not used for most roses, was necessary in order to make it available for use in mass quantity on an economical basis.

Unlike regular rose bushes, the rose fence can be trimmed and trained with regular hedge shears.

Fast-growing, it attains 4 feet or more the very first year, and between 5 to 6 feet by the second year.

Home gardeners can expect almost continuous production of semi-double flower clusters, starting the very season of planting.

A dense hedge of border is achieved quickly by installing the plants 18 inches apart. Less density is achieved by spacing the plants approximately 24 inches apart.

Because the plant is self-rooted, it is apt to spring back quickly even if frozen to the ground in the severe-weather areas of the country.

As an added bonus the cut flowers from this living fence provide colorful, long-lasting blooms that are an interior decorator's delight.

But above all, the radiant colors will provide a beautiful frame to any yard or garden, drastically reducing landscaping costs while immeasurably increasing pride and pleasure in your home.

Weeds Blow In

Impure seed mixtures are the least likely source of lawn weeds. Most weeds come from seed in the soil or from seed blown or washed into the yard.

Fence Me In Time Is Here

At the outdoor living season, homeowners' thoughts turn to "exterior decorating" — landscaping, garden, building and furnishing a patio or terrace, developing games areas.

While such activities are under way, it's a good time to consider a fence, to set off the home and its surroundings, like a frame around a picture, to provide privacy and security, to define boundaries and to protect against wind.

Among the many types of fencing, some choices are:

Steel Fencing

Functional steel fencing comes in a variety of colorful and artistic forms, and gives the advantages of durability, easy installation, little maintenance and low cost.

One of the most versatile steel fences in the chain-link type, a "garden trellis" design made of steel chain-link mesh with a vinyl coating. The coating gives extra protection.

Chain link fences do double duty, in performing the functions of a fence and allowing a high degree of visibility. If more privacy is desired, the link fence can serve as a trellis for vines, roses and other climbing plants.

Stock steel parts are available for do-it-yourself fence design and construction. Consult a buildings materials dealer or steel service center.

Solid Fencing

Solid fences that insure privacy but do not cut off light can be created with translucent fiberglass-plastic panels, used in combination with wood or even cement blocks.

Such a fence may take many shapes and designs, bringing a "decorator touch" to the home setting or outdoor living area. Colors include a range of soft pastels and deeper hues.

Oriental "shoji" effects may be created with flat, white fiberglass-plastic panels and black wood rails. Or, flat and corrugated panels may be combined, again using wood rail framing. Basket-weave effects can also be achieved.

The panels have a smooth finish that makes them dirt resistant, and they sturdily withstand pitting or scarring.

Lumber Fencing

In natural lumber fencing, versatility is a key factor.

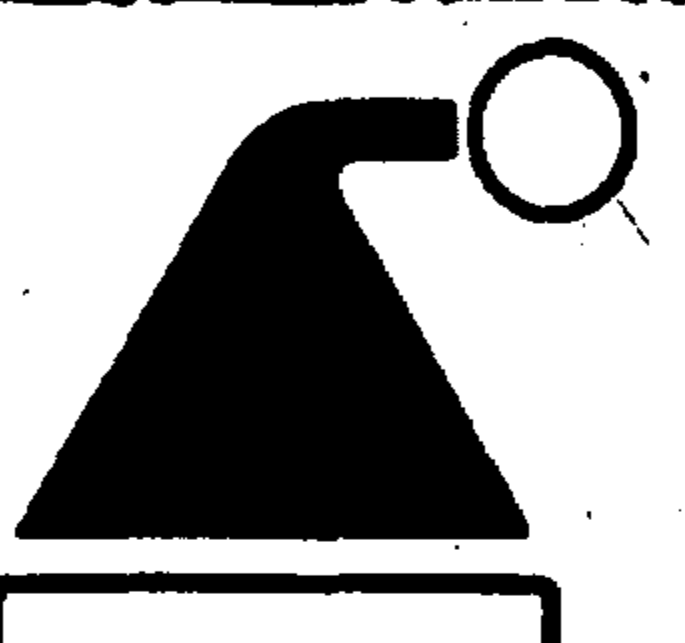

Depending on purpose, the natural lumber fence can be solid and tall to achieve privacy or open and short to give airiness and visibility. It may be rough sawn or smooth, painted or stained, rustic or refined, according to preference.

TWINKLE, is appropriately the name of this new pointed petal phlox which resembles a tiny star. Annual phlox grows only 6 to 8 inches tall.

Bottle Tip

An intriguing tip for home gardeners is a way to utilize the empty plastic bottles in which liquid bleaches are packaged. By cutting the top off one of the bottles, you will have an excellent planter in which to start spring seedlings. The top with its built-in handle, need not go to waste, either. When the sides are sliced away, with a razor or sharp knife it makes a dandy funnel for pouring gasoline into power mowers, or pouring insecticides into spray gun tanks.

OUR 28th YEAR

Start Landscape Project With Family Planning

YOUNG FAMILIES are quite often faced with the prospect of creating a landscape around the bare facade of a new home. The well-planned residential landscape takes into consideration the complete needs of the family. Included among them are the recreational requirements for both children and adults, the need for privacy in outdoor living, the screening of utilitarian areas, and the presentation of a pleasant view to the community. Your choice of trees, shrubs, and ornamentals — selected in consultation with a nurseryman or landscape contractor — is most meaningful when you keep the "family" plan in mind, according to the Ornamental Growers Association of Northern Illinois.

According to the members of the Ornamental Growers Association of Northern Illinois, landscaping serves three important purposes which should be on the minds of every homeowner when he goes out to buy plants.

It provides a pleasant setting for your home; it increases your enjoyment of your grounds through the well-reasoned use of space; and it enhances the value and saleability of your residential investment.

To dramatize the investment aspect of your landscaping, the O.G.A. points out that shade trees in particular increase in value year by year to the point where a mature hardwood is worth thousands of dollars. Actual value of any given specimen is determined according to a formula worked out by the International Shade Tree Conference.

First Windridge Lecture Sunday

Harold Klopp will offer the first of his popular garden lectures and demonstrations at Windridge on Sunday, May 21 at 2:30 p.m. Windridge is located at 7014 S. Rawson Bridge Rd., Cary, Ill.

During his lecture, Klopp will describe and demonstrate the planting and pruning techniques of trees, shrubs, evergreens and flowers. Following the lecture, there will be a question and answer period in which you can ask about any phase of gardening. Persons who plan to attend should make their reservation on a first come-first serve basis, by calling the Windridge office at 639-3883. There is no charge but tickets are desired.

Klopp is a nationally known landscape architect who designs annually for the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show at McCormick Place. He also designs the landscape architecture for several major companies as well as for Windridge.

Visitors are invited to visit the Windridge grounds at any time and view the new chapel. Windridge is open daily from 9 a.m. to sundown.

A valued piece of landscaping, however, will not just happen by itself. You — or a professional plantsman — will have to put a great deal of time and consideration into a landscape design that fits your property and your family, says the O.G.A.

Just like your house, your home grounds will require decisions which you will have to live with for years.

You don't have to become a landscape expert in the process, but it will pay you many times over to familiarize yourself with a few of the basic requirements of proper landscaping — as well as some of the pitfalls to be avoided when buying plants for landscaping.

A good place to begin is with the choice of a book. The Ornamental Growers Association has a book, which should be helpful to homeowners in making their choices. It includes a checklist of all the things which would be considered helpful in working out a personalized landscape plan, as well as in selecting the plant material to fit it.

The primary value of the booklet, however, is the plant list contained in the final selection. This includes hundreds of selected trees, shrubs, ornamentals, evergreens, and ground covers — all known to be hardy in Northern Illinois.

Each plant is described in detail, and each listing is complete with common and botanical name so that you can correctly identify it in the garden center sales lot.

The booklet, the only one of its kind written specifically for Northern Illinois, is available at better bookstores, or through the O.G.A. itself, at 645 N. Milwaukee, Wheeling, Ill. 60090.

Spring Mulching Slows Weeds

Mulching home flower gardens, shrub beds and specimen trees helps control weed growth and conserve moisture in the soil.

M. C. Carbonneau, University of Illinois Extension floriculturist, says there will be little weed growth under two or three inches of mulch. And mulch acts as an insulator and keeps the soil cooler than usual during the summer.

Organic waste products, such as peat moss, ground or crushed corn cobs, sawdust, wood chips, shredded bark, leaves, cocoa bean hulls and pecan shells are the most common mulching materials. Many organic mulches are sold in bulk, but some come prepackaged for gardeners' convenience.

The prepackaged mulches usually cost more per pound than bulk materials.

Carbonneau recommends applying mulches as soon as the soil is warm enough for plant growth to begin. Keep the mulch at least two or three inches deep during the growing season.

If you use corn cobs, sawdust or wood chips as a mulch, you'll need to apply fertilizer frequently to maintain a high nitrogen supply in the soil, he says. During a period of two years, apply 2 to 4 pounds of 10-6-4 or 4-12-4 fertilizer per bushel of mulch. With a higher analysis of fertilizer, use a smaller amount.

Your Garden Soil Requirements

Garden soils need adequate nutrient and moisture levels and should be in good physical condition for plants to grow properly, says J. S. Vandemark, University of Illinois Extension horticulturist.

Good gardening, he says, begins with good location. Your best choice, if you have one, is a loose well-drained soil, away from buildings, trees or shrubs that might shade your garden. Trees and shrubs also compete with garden crops for plant food and moisture. Walnut trees and gardens don't mix — walnuts produce a toxin that harms certain vegetables, especially tomatoes.

If available, add organic material to the soil, then plow the seedbed. Apply fertilizer and work in the soil, 15 pounds of 10-10-10 per thousand square feet. You may need to add starter fertilizer or make a side-dress fertilizer application at some time during the garden growing season.

Don't work in the garden when the soil is too wet. Squeeze a handful of soil. If it crumbles and doesn't feel sticky, it's dry enough to work.

A smooth and finely pulverized surface insures easier planting, better germination and a more even stand for small-seeded crops. But don't work heavy soils low in organic content too fine or they'll get hard and crusty and stop seedling emergence.

Soil that has good tilth, or physical condition, is loose and easy to work. It has good water-holding capacity and allows water and air to move freely. You can improve soil tilth by working manure or compost into the soil before planting, or by turning under a green-manure crop.

The Liberated Gardener

A SERIES BY Frank J. Taylor

Some years back a Mid-West nurseryman was checking the dwarf apple trees I was trial growing for him in the California sunshine and smog. He proposed sending me some new-type blueberries to test.

"Where'll I plant them?" I asked. "Sun or shade?"

"That's what I want to know," he replied.

He had spotted several small drums, with the heads knocked out and drainage holes in the bottoms, that I had picked up.

"Try the blueberries in the drums," he suggested. "Move them around until you find the climate they like."

That adventure opened my eyes to the fun of planter box gardening. When a local garden center had a sale of large planter boxes I bought twenty of them. One became the mobile home for a daphne, another for a camellia. In two boxes I tried ferns. In several planters fuschias have thrived five years without a change of soil, but with generous shots of Ortho-Gro plant food pellets each Spring, when the new shoots break out of the gnarled old trunks.

To shift the planter boxes around more easily I had a sturdy dolly with oversize wheels welded together. By trial and error I learned that morning glories like to germinate and start growing in the full sun but prefer shade after they come into bloom. In shady spots the Heavenly Blues stay open all day. Chrysanthemums grew best in the sun, then bloomed longest in semi-shade. With some shuffling by dolly, new crops of blossoms gave us color on the porch and patio nine to ten months each year.

One of my friends calls himself a "patio farmer," because everything he grows — flowers, vegetables, bushes, trees, even vines — thrives in boxes which roll on casters. He shifts his dwarf citrus trees out of a plastic greenhouse each Spring and back under cover before the frosts come. Everytime I visit him he has re-made his garden on impulse by shuffling his planters around.

"Most plants don't need a lot of earth," he insists. "They just need a lot of nourishment and moisture. Feed them and they'll grow in small space."

Another ardent gardener retired a few years back and, to my astonishment, bought an apartment in the city. Whenever he came down to our place in the boondocks, he invariably went home with bundles of fuschia and geranium cuttings. And sometimes little trees I had grown from seed.

"What do you do with all this stuff, Walt?" I asked him.

"Come up and check the new pad," he replied.

When I did I was amazed at what he had done on a deck about the size of a double garage jutting out from his living room. In two dozen planter boxes he has a rose garden, an arboretum of dwarfed trees, and flowers with vegetables and herbs growing amongst the posies.

"From now on I'm a lazy deck gardener," he told me. "I bequeath you all my backbending garden tools. I'll keep my trowel and my aerosol sprays. Man, I've got it made."

Planter box farming has brought the sunny south to green thumbs of the chilly-winter north. At Mission San Jose, Calif., is an amazing nursery that is the assembly line factory for the production of dwarf citrus trees. Four Winds Nursery turns out thousands of dwarf trees the year 'round and ships them to every state in the country and to customers in far north foreign lands. Thriving in planter boxes the midwest trees bear full-size oranges, lemons, limes, tangelos, grapefruit — outdoors in summer, indoors in winter.

You've Come A Long Way, Bossie

Believe it or not, the first "power" lawn mower started every time. It also went "mooooo."

That was more than 100 years ago when few people cared how their lawns looked. Only the most foolishly energetic bothered to use a scythe or hand sickle to cut the grass. Most commonly, people just kept a cow, whose leisurely grazing maintained a neat lawn while insuring an abundant milk supply.

The first real lawn-mowing machine was invented in the mid-1860s, but it was heavy and hard to use, and it didn't catch on. In 1870, a young Richmond, Ind., mechanic named Elwood W. McGuire successfully reduced the size of previous mowers and began building a growing lawn-mower business.

His mowers trimmed the White House lawns during U.S. Grant's Presidency. Visitors to Washington returned to their homes with glowing descriptions of carpet-smooth grass and strange machines that made cutting easy.

It wasn't long before people began caring about the appearance of their lawns. At first they actually enjoyed pushing a new-fangled mower to one-up their neighbors, but the task gradually became a back-breaking bore. Help arrived in 1940, when a noisy gasoline engine was bolted to a mower for the first time. While the power mower made cutting the grass much easier, and many improvements have been added over the years, still, a common complaint is that mower engines are too hard to start.

Crowded Cabbage Decreases Crop

Crowding cabbage plants in a row does not result in an increased crop. Instead, crowding causes plant to go to seed rather than form heads.

For this reason set plants or thin seedlings to allow at least 12 and, for large-headed varieties, 18 inches between plants.

Plastic Climber

It's easier to use a plastic-covered wire trellis to allow pole beans a way to climb, than it is to string cord from the ground to the top of each pole.

The trellis is light-weight, easy to install, and the beans don't know the difference between it and the cord.

Shears Care

It's a good habit to clean and oil pruning shears after each use. Rub a fine-grade oil into the blades to keep them sharp and rust free.

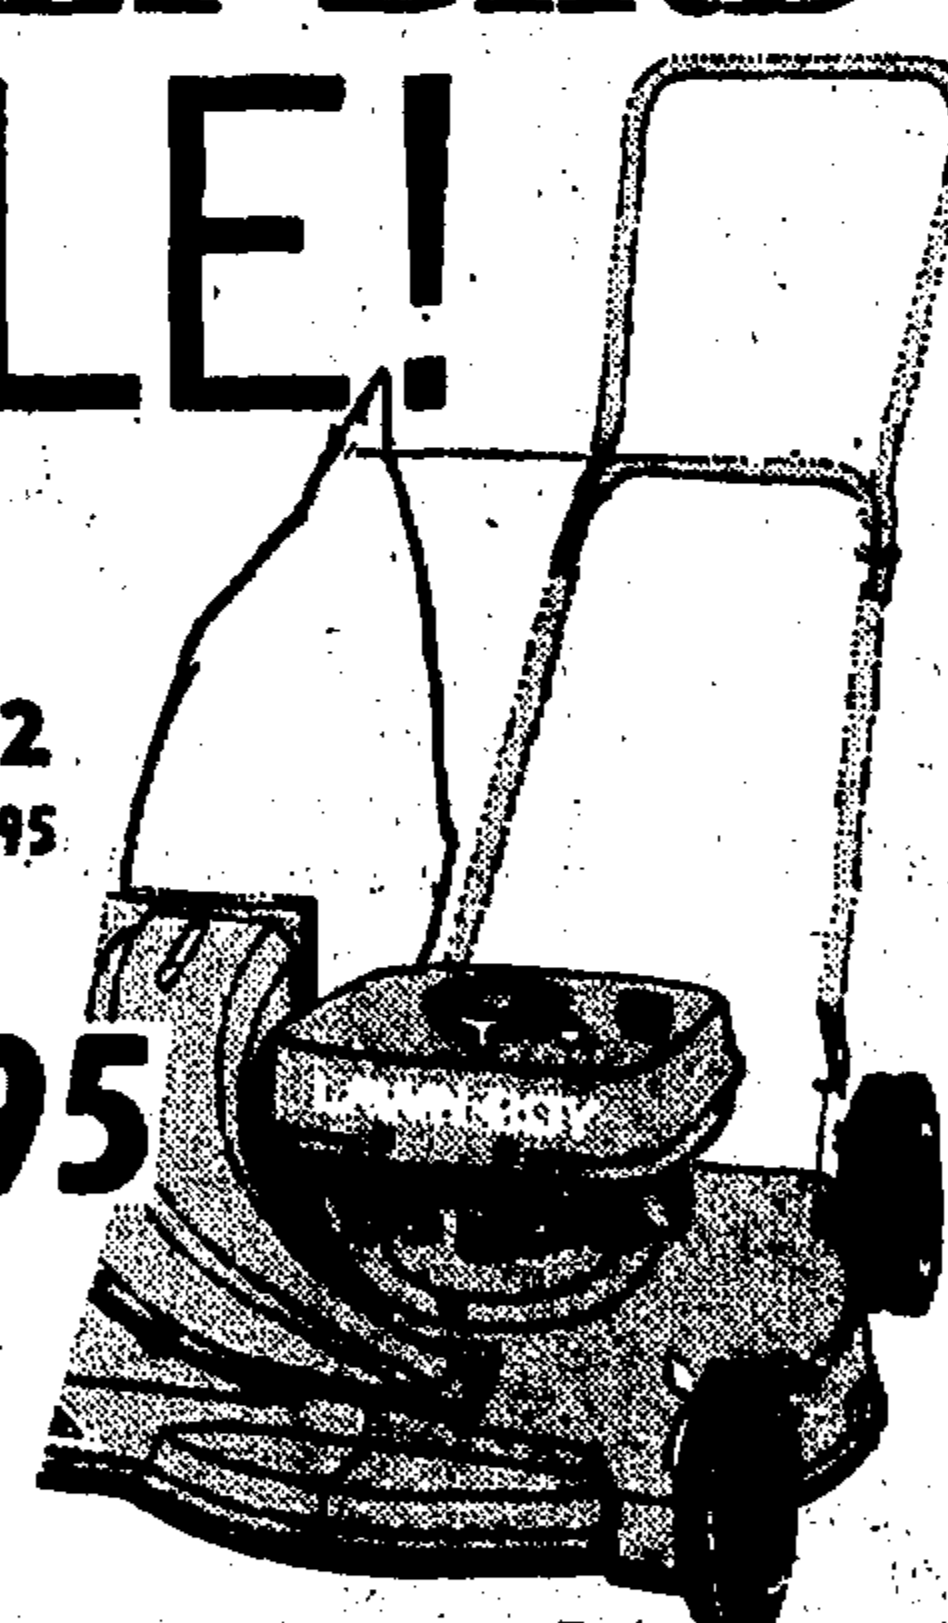

Evergreens leave a residue of pine pitch and resin. After evergreens are pruned, shears should be cleaned with alcohol or turpentine.

Charge School Aid Plan Detrimental

The school aid formula backed by the Ogilvie administration will be financially detrimental to 260 school districts enrolling nearly half of the state's student population, Supt. of Public Instruction Michael J. Bakalis charged recently.

Bakalis said computer projections by his office indicate that 93 school districts would probably lose state funds under the Republican-sponsored proposal while another 167 districts would receive only small increases that would be canceled out by inflation.

The 260 districts adversely affected, he said, represent nearly 23 per cent of the 1,146 school systems in Illinois and contain 1,073,248 of the 2,331,962 total student enrollment in public elementary and secondary schools. They are located in 39 of the state's 102 counties, with a majority of them in Chicago suburban areas of Cook, DuPage and Lake Counties. Locally they include high school districts 207, 211 and 214.

"This computerized analysis," Bakalis said, "documents our earlier estimates that Gov. Ogilvie's school funding plans are totally inadequate to ease the financial strain besetting our state's public school systems."

The estimates were based on the latest available school attendance and assessed valuation information.

HE EXPLAINED that the weaknesses in the school aid formula adopted last year resulted in a $25 million lapse in the distributive fund. "Had last year's formula accurately corresponded with last year's appropriation, there would have been no lapse and the governor's current proposal would be smaller by comparison."

Bakalis has proposed that the $25 million in lapse, or unclaimed funds be used this fiscal year for emergency financial aid to school districts.

"By his own word," Bakalis said, "Gov. Ogilvie has assigned the very top priority to quality education. Yet, by his actions he pledges only a $24.4 million or 3.2 per cent increase in distributive aid, the smallest percentage increase in 30 years."

"Furthermore, the administration's funding recommendations would set the state's overall share of school aid at less than 38 per cent even though the national average is 40 per cent and the constitution requires a 50 per cent funding level."

He urged the General Assembly to reject the Ogilvie-School Problems Commission proposal in favor of one sponsored in the State Senate by Sen. Thomas Hynes (D-Chicago).

The formula recommended in Hynes' bill would boost state aid to schools by $148.2 million or 19.4 per cent over the present appropriation and would up the state's financial support level to 42 per cent.

Glen Venable Top Employee At Alexian

An Itasca resident, Glen Venable has been chosen Alexian Brothers Medical Center's employee-of-the-year.

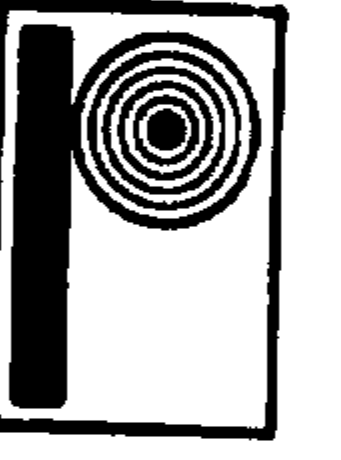

Venable, director of buildings and grounds at the hospital since 1968, received the honor in competition with 11 other employees-of-the-month from the past year. Venable held the monthly honor for November, 1971, and was named to the top honor in voting by all management level employees at the hospital.

Venable will represent Alexian Brothers this week at the Chicago Hospital Council's annual luncheon honoring hospital workers of the year from the organization's member hospitals. The luncheon is held each year during National Hospital Week, May 7-13.

A 30-year resident of the Chicago area, Venable attended Crane Technical High School and Junior College and has taken courses in engineering at Illinois Institute of Technology. He is a licensed engineer.

In addition to his responsibilities as director of buildings and grounds, Venable serves on the center's executive committee for administration is chairman of the safety committee.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Job Opps.

ANNOUNCEMENT

AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT

HELP WANTED headings directed specifically toward either men or women are used merely for the convenience of our readers, to let them know which jobs have historically been more attractive to persons of one sex than the other. The placement of an ad under a heading is not in itself an expression of a preference, limitation, specification or discrimination based on sex. Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.
This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left. Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away. And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5 1/2% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/2% payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Rod Serling hosts bizarre occurrences
on 'Night Gallery'

Vignettes dealing with the bizarre and the ghostly make up "Night Gallery," with host Rod Serling on the NBC Television Network. Serling, who writes much of the material for the program, will be seen on the summer re-run schedule on Wednesday evenings. "Night Gallery" will be reduced to a half-hour in the new season this fall, with Sunday as its new feature night.

Where can I write to Chad Everett? How old is he? Can you put his picture on the cover of TV Time. Why is he only on MEDICAL CENTER?

-Carol McWilliams
Palatine

Chad Everett

Just a minute, young lady! Chad is not just on MEDICAL CENTER. He is also busy doing feature roles in films, writing poetry and writing songs. He has written 50 poems and 36 songs which he hopes to publish in the near future.

You may write to this busy man c/o CBS-TV, 51 West 52nd St., New York, N.Y. 10019. He is not at this time scheduled to be our feature cover man.

I'm a great fan of Gilligan's. Why was he replaced?

-J.R.

Rolling Meadows
GILLIGAN'S ISLAND was replaced because the other shows have a greater viewing pull at this time. Just between us, we think the re-runs have run out.

What ever happened to STAR TREK on channel 9?

-D.P.

Rolling Meadows
The program just moved to another time slot. The ratings didn't stay high enough to keep it in its original time.

A couple of years ago Bobby Sherman was really great to girls, but now most girls can't stand him. Do you still get fan letters about him?

-S.S.

Prospect Heights

Maybe you've changed. Bobby still has huge crowds around his appearances and most of the group is of the female sex. We will agree that his appeal has gone to a different age bracket. Younger stars are taking the place that he used to hold, and he is moving to take other stars' places.

Who is credited for being the first announcer to broadcast a baseball game?

-K.B.

Arlington Heights

We had to look deep into our crystal ball to find this answer. He was Harold Arlin, in 1921. Steve Arlin, San Diego's pitcher, is his grandson.

Please tell me if Jimmy Dean has been in any movies or shows. Where can I write to him and can you print his picture?

-A.S.

Grayslake

Jimmy Dean

Certainly we can print his picture. If Uncle Sam had not entered Jimmy's life, he might never have become a performer. Jimmy was asked to fill in for one of his 'buddies' in a performance in a night spot. 'Big Bad John' is Mr. Dean's composition and a big one it still is. He has emceed for several talk shows, made personal appearances at fairs and rodeos. His acting has been somewhat limited, but he hopes to develop into a dramatic actor. Do you think he can do it?

How does Glen Campbell ALWAYS look so neat? My mom wants to know.

Elk Grove Village

Glen Campbell

He uses everyday good grooming, but his hair gets special treatment. He washes it almost daily and dries it with an electric comb in the exact position he wants it to remain. Then he sprays it.

I missed the last episode of BRIGHT PROMISE. Now that the show is off the air, what happened on that last day?

-J.K.

Arlington Heights

Sylvia was acquitted and was able to wed outside the prison walls. Sandra and Stuart were planning a reconciliation. After following the program for so long, you deserve to know the outcome.

When was 'Airport' made into a movie? Where can I get a complete list of the cast?

-Joanne T.

Arlington Heights

'Airport' was released as a movie in March of 1970. You can write to Paramount Pictures Corp., 1 Gulf & Western Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10023. Since they produced it, they can furnish all the information you could want about the show.

Can you tell me who starred as Dr. Kildare and Ben Casey? Are they still alive and what are their ages?

-T.S.

Mt. Prospect

Are you a hypochondriac? The roles were played by Richard Chamberlain and Vincent Edwards, respectively. Richard is 37 years old. We find it hard to believe, but Vincent is 44.

How old is Mario Thomas. Is she married? Does she have any children?

-P.S.

Mt. Prospect

Mario Thomas

Mario Thomas, THAT GIRL, was born in 1938. She is planning to go into movies this year. Miss Thomas shares her dad's philanthropy. She has chosen to work with the Inner-City Cultural Center and is a member of Neighbors of Watts.

The star is still single and has no immediate plans of matrimony. Eat your hearts out, fellows!

Reveson one of the best

Peter Revson, one of the top young drivers on the USAC circuit, earned the pole position at the Indianapolis '500' last year by turning in the fastest qualifying time in the hotly-contested time trials. Revson is one of the many drivers who will see action when this year's Indy '500' Time Trials are televised, live on "ABC's Wide World of Sports" Saturday, May 20.

'One More Train to Rob' to star Peppard, Muldaur

George Peppard and Diana Muldaur star in "One More Train to Rob," a Western set in California in the 1880's, to be colorcast on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" May 20 on the NBC Television Network.

After pulling a train robbery with the help of his four partners—Gant (Steve Sandor), Mike (Mike Henry), Timothy (Vernon) and Katy (Miss Muldaur)—Harker Fleet (Peppard) finds himself framed and sent to prison, never having gotten his share of the loot.

ONCE RELEASED, Hark begins his search for Timothy. He finds his former partner, and is surprised to learn that he is now married to Katy and is the leading citizen of a California town.

Hark sets sights on getting his share of the money and marrying Katy, to whom he's always been attracted.

Franc Nuyen portrays Ah Toy, a beautiful girl Hark aids.

Lee once had dirt tees-- now his name is on them

In a game that sportsmen say demands the concentration of a watchmaker, Lee Trevino, now hosting his own television program, "Golf for Swingers," over WFLD-TV, Channel 32, on Sunday evenings at 9:30 p.m., confesses, "the only time I stop yacking is when I'm asleep."

Many players on the tournament circuit will go an entire round without a word. Trevino chatters constantly, sometimes even in the middle of his shots. "You know," he will say as he tees up, "I've got to be the only Mexican"—wham goes the ball down the fairway—"who's never been in a detention home. I just never got caught." Another time he will quip, "Five years ago, I was teeing up on dirt. Now I've got tees"—wham—"with my name on them."

LEE'S "SWINGERS" show pits celebrity against celebrity for a $1,000 purse that the winner gets for his favorite charity.
Trevino is host, which allows him all the talking he desires, and also allows him to play two shots on each hole for each guest. The format gives Lee time for chatter, jokes, instruction and just plain entertainment.

WTTW sets auction record

A record-breaking $542,000 was realized by the recent WTTW/Channel 11 Auction after nearly 98 hours of televised bidding.

The money exceeded by more than $100,000 the $438,000 raised last year and again represents the most successful auction produced by a public television station, according to William J. McCarter, Vice-President and General Manager of WTTW and WXXW.

MORE THAN 3,500 Chicagoland volunteers contributed their efforts to the Sixth Annual Auction which offered products and services ranging from household pets to an $8,000 mobile home. The more than 3,500 items were contributed by the business community and other interested persons.

The money raised will be applied to the operations budget of the public television stations.

General Co-Chairmen of the event were Eugene M. Grosman of Northbrook and Mrs. Lois Stransky of Highland Park.

Ken Berry, Dionne Warwick visit Westerns, music highlight 'The Carol Burnett Show'

Dancer-comedian Ken Berry and Carol Burnett spoof Western movie stars over the years, and singer Dionne Warwick joins Miss Burnett to sing a dramatic choral piece, on "The Carol Burnett Show" Wednesday, May 24 on the CBS Television Network

In the Western takeoff, Berry and Miss Burnett are Billy and Lily, who alternately hit the heights and depths in Hollywood Harvey Korman is cowboy sidekick Blabby Hayes, Lyle Waggoner is a producer-director, and Vicki Lawrence is a voluptuous movie star

The Misses Burnett and Warwick blend their voices in a moving piece of special material, "When in the Course of Human Events," a portion of the Declaration of Independence set to music. In her solo spot, Miss Warwick sings "Always Something There to Remind Me" and "One Less Bell to Answer"

Berry and the Ernest Flatt Dancers are featured in an evangelist-flavored production number in which Berry is a fast-talking rainmaker who sings and dances to "I Want to Be Happy"

Let's keep Cavett on

Late night television programming now offers what is perhaps the finest variety ever served up in that time slot by the three major networks.

Besides movies and other attractions on major independent stations, the offering includes two vastly different talk shows in Johnny Carson (now permanently based in Hollywood on NBC) and Dick Cavett (ABC), and a network movie (CBS).

UNFORTUNATELY, IT MAY not last. Floundering ratings by Cavett has prompted ABC to ponder how to get back in the numbers race. Apparently, the network now wants more viewers and is unwilling to accept reports which have shown that Cavett has good demographics—the type of viewers sponsors are out after.

The quick-witted Cavett has been given the word that his show has until August 1, or thereabouts, to improve its ratings or face cancellation. Cavett, who once wrote for both Jack Paar and Carson's "Tonight Show," and the man picked to succeed Joey Bishop on ABC after the latter had flopped, has kept it no secret that he isn't really pleased with ABC either. The network, Cavett claims, has not been overly cooperative in format suggestions he's made.

Dick Cavett

If something is going to beat Carson, no one has discovered it yet. The "Tonight" program's recent move to NBC's Burbank studios puts it geographically in line for more "big name star" talent. The Carson magic—a finely-produced mixture of fun, frolic and occasional serious discussion—has mass appeal. And advertisers shell out about $15,000 for a one-minute spot for that appeal.

CBS TRIED VALIENTLY with Merv Griffin, but the three talk shows were too much all at once...and that network decided earlier this year that movies were the answer. It's still too early to conclude decisively, but the network is tickled to death over the "CBS Late Movie" ratings. Despite the fact that only a few have been top-quality fare, the flicks have proven surprisingly strong. In some areas of the country, the movie has even surpassed Carson's ratings on occasion.

Cavett's show has undergone some format changes in the past year, the major one one being the host's breakaway from humor and involvement in more serious and controversial subjects. Most effective in this regard has been Cavett's notable "one guest only" approach, with such memorable programs as full 90-minute conversations with Orson Welles, Fred Astaire and Arthur Godfrey.

So, as a result of all this shifting by the major networks, the late night choice is clear. It comes as a disappointment, then, when ratings once again may spell a program's demise.

CAVETT AND ABC would both make a mistake if they were to decide to copy Carson's format. While Cavett is a master comedian in his own right, his ability to handle controversial subjects and guests is admirable. And the surface has just begun to be scratched with these kinds of subjects.

The next couple months will tell the tale for late evening buffs. Variety is what television needs. Keeping Cavett will help.

SINCE WE ALWAYS seem to be telling you to "circle your calendar" for something or the other, add Monday, September 11, to the list.

The three networks will all unveil their 1972-'73 season beginning that evening. The promotional announcements should be forthcoming in early summer, though. Those are those with blaring trumpets and a bass-voiced announcer heralding "the season of all seasons!!!"

Dalehouse Questions Could Draw Blockbusting Answers

by NANCY COWGER
A News Analysis
Scheduled to open at 11 a.m. today is a trial to determine legal rights of possession of the Dalehouse Restaurant. Hoffman Estates residents may finally learn precisely how the Dalehouse came to be established, and who had an interest in its success or failure.

Questions have been asked in private circles about the Dalehouse for a long time. Within recent months, some of these questions, carefully worded, have sprung up here and there in public. Elsewhere today in court, or next Thursday at a scheduled liquor license hearing before the village board, they may come out en masse. If they do, and if they are answered frankly, the result could be a block-buster.

Among those questions, the most important may be "who and what is Twinbrook Investment, Inc., and who shared in its ownership until early May?" Twinbrook Investment is a private corporation, filed as such with Cook County in 1968 with the names of only two corporate officers disclosed. Robert D. Burke formerly village prosecutor in Hoffman Estates, was listed as agent and president, and Barbara J. Trepina of Woodridge, secretary.

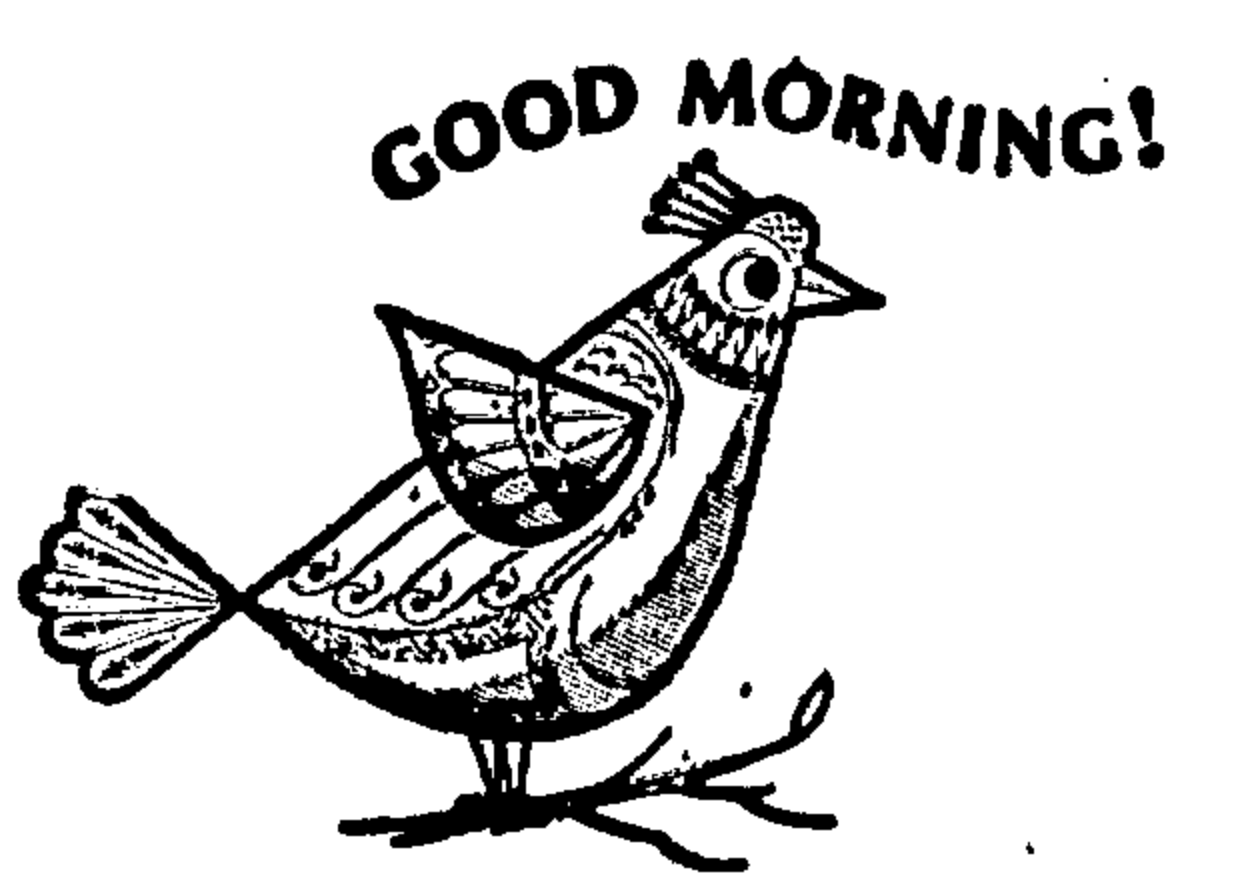

TWINBROOK FORMERLY, and possibly currently, controlled the restaurant building. The property is owned by Multicon Properties, Inc., developer of Hilldale Village. Multicon held a lease for the restaurant with Twinbrook, which in turn leased it to Dalehouse, Inc. Principals in Dalehouse, Inc., operated the restaurant until last October.

But the story really began much earlier than that. The Hilldale Village site, including the restaurant land, is part of the former estate of Marshall Field, who ran it as a test and instruction area for firearms, fishing equipment and other sporting goods. It was purchased by the Pamela Corp., and sold again in 1966 to Kenroy Corp. This was the beginning of the stage where Multicon entered the picture.

In 1968, the site where Hilldale Village now is rising was zoned for development with high density multiple-family dwelling units. It was to include 2,700 apartments, three high-rise buildings, luxury hotel or motel and 12 lots for single-family homes. Among the provisions of annexation agreement was a restriction on the village to a maximum 2 per cent increase in the fees for building permits in that development.

While Kenroy and Multicon were negotiating the sale of the land at the time, zoning basically was obtained by Kenroy. In 1970, CURRENT village officials questioned the "fairness and honesty" of that agreement. Fees for building permits had increased 30 per cent for other builders since the pact was negotiated, said the new Village Atty., Edward Hofert. Asked if he questioned the propriety of the former village board in approving the agreement, he replied he would not go that far. The fees subsequently were increased, but Multicon won the promise they would not exceed $25,000 more than would have been allowed under the original agreement.

Advice Led Me Into A Death Trap: Fireman

by STEVE BROWN
A Hoffman Estates firefighter who was the first to attempt a rescue of the three children who died in last Friday's fire, said advice given to him by a neighbor almost led him to his death. "His advice led me into a death trap," said Lt. Jerome Danowski, who made his statement to the fire district's board of trustees while on a five-hour leave from Alexian Brothers Medical Center where he is still undergoing treatment for face, neck and hand burns received in the fire. Danowski said the man who told him the children were in a back bedroom, also knocked him into a tree while he was attempting to adjust his breathing apparatus. "We were hindered by the persons at the scene of the fire," Danowski said.

of the manpower needs of the district and methods to supplement the funds received through tax revenue. THE ONLY definite plan made during the discussion was to launch a communitywide drive to attract more volunteer firefighters. The district is presently taxing at the maximum allowable rate of 40 cents per hundred dollars equalized assessed valuation. Additional revenue could be obtained by levying an ambulance tax of 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation. A referendum would have to be held before the ambulance tax could be levied. Both citizens and fire trustees agreed there should be at least five men in each station at all times. Now only two men are on call at each station from 10 p.m. until 6 a.m. MONEY FROM the referendum, if approved by voters, probably would not be received until next spring at the earliest if the ambulance tax were approved. David Baird Sr., who in recent months has been the most outspoken of the fire district's trustees, said all sides must work together to solve the manpower shortage. He has campaigned for a municipally operated fire service under the direction of Hoffman Estates village officials. "We have to get the community fired up," he said. Baird stated the present 15 full-time men and the volunteers are being worked to the maximum. Persons interested in becoming volunteer firefighters may obtain applications from either fire station. Applicants must be 18 years old, in good health and live within five miles of the district. Two training sessions per month are given. IN ADDITION to the possible referendum and more volunteers, the possibility of obtaining state and federal funds through the emergency employment act to hire more firefighters will be explored. The funds are made available for a municipal body to hire unemployed and underemployed persons. Regular hiring procedures are used in the program. More discussions to seek methods to bolster the present full-time firefighting contingent are planned.

'Bull Whip Bosses' Hit By Carriers

Carrying placards protesting "bull whip bosses," mail carriers in Hoffman Estates and surrounding communities marched one hour yesterday in a picket line at the Hoffman Estates Postal Station, Roselle Road between Golf and Higgins roads. Bob Wells, spokesman for Local 4887 International Association of Letter Carriers, said the 20 men and women were protesting management policies of Station Superintendent Sheldon Galanter. He said the policies protested encompassed harassment, favoritism, and mismanagement. Before the picketing started, Galanter met in the station with F. C. Storey, a postal inspector who said he had been sent out from Chicago to observe "any picketing." Galanter refused to comment on his policies. "WHAT WE WANT him to do is treat people like human beings. It's as simple as that," said Wells. Some of the signs carried by pickets read: "Incompetent supervision breeds inadequate mail delivery." "Hoffman Estates supervisors only go by the book when it's to their advantage." Joe Pizzo, a Hoffman Estates mail carrier, on suspension Thursday, said his case precipitated the demonstration. Pizzo said he and Asst. Supt. Mitchell Wisniewski "had words" recently and Pizzo threatened to call the main branch postmaster in Roselle. Wisniewski allegedly told him to go ahead and when he left to do so before his lunch break started, said Pizzo, he was suspended for three days.

Waiting Child-Adoption Series Starts Monday In Suburban Living

IN ADDITION to the possible referendum and more volunteers, the possibility of obtaining state and federal funds through the emergency employment act to hire more firefighters will be explored. The funds are made available for a municipal body to hire unemployed and underemployed persons. Regular hiring procedures are used in the program. More discussions to seek methods to bolster the present full-time firefighting contingent are planned.

Judge Upholds Policeman's Firing

by STEVE BROWN
A Cook County Circuit Court Judge upheld the findings of the Schaumburg Police and Fire Commission Thursday in its dismissal of former police officer William Heidt. Charges of theft and grand theft which were lodged against him were dropped last month. The charges stemmed from the theft of over $1,100 in merchandise from the Sears Roebuck Co.'s Woodfield store last June. His bid for reinstatement on the force and nearly $10,000 in back pay was denied by Judge Edward F. Healy.

Heidt's attorney, Al Klest, said he did not know if his client intended to appeal the decision. An arrangement had reportedly been proposed to drop Heidt's suit for reinstatement in exchange for the police department's acceptance of Heidt's resignation dated June 30, 1971 and a removal of the records pertaining to the dismissal from his file. Schaumburg Village Atty. Jack Siegal said the department did not plan to enter into any such agreement. The criminal case against Heidt was dropped after Judge Marvin Peters ruled the evidence seized in a search of a trailer outside of Heidt's home could not be used in the case. A subsequent confession, signed by Heidt, was also ruled inadmissible. Schaumburg Police Chief Martin Conroy said the decision will help restore the public's trust in the police. In his case for the administrative review of the police and fire commission findings, Klest had stated that the commission had not given Heidt proper notification or sufficient statement of charges regarding his suspension. Healy stated there was plenty of correspondence disproving that claim in the record of the commission's hearing. Heidt, who was not present at Thursday's court action, did not attend last summer's hearing of the police and fire commission either.

Village Tops In Housing Permits

Schaumburg topped all villages in the suburban Chicago area in the number of single-family housing permits issued during April.

Schaumburg issued 405 home building permits in April totaling $10,143,210 in value. The village also ranked second highest in the issuance of permits to build apartment units with 90 permits coming to $3,227,715 in value.

Addison topped Schaumburg in the number of permits issued with 108. However, the value of the permits came to $1,500,000 in value, only a third of Schaumburg's total.

In posting the figures, Schaumburg appears to be bucking a trend. Averaged together, permits for new homes and apartments in the total metropolitan Chicago area, including Chicago, decreased 33 per cent this April compared to April, 1971.

Taken separately, home permits declined 19 per cent and apartment permits declined 45 per cent.

In April of 1971, 110 home building permits were issued in Schaumburg. This year 347 permits were issued.

Fire Trustees Turn Down Labor Petition Request

Claiming what was called "good faith doubt" the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection trustees turned down a request Wednesday to recognize or petition the state labor department to conduct a secret ballot election for recognition of Local 2061 of the International Association of Firefighters AFL-CIO.

Reading from a prepared statement, Trustee Charles Knapp said, "we have a good faith doubt that it would be advantageous to the fire service, our department or the taxpayers to establish a policy of collective bargaining with a labor group."

The board also denied a request to petition the Illinois State Department of Labor to conduct an election among the paid firefighters to determine if the union local represents them.

A motion made by Trustee William Brilliant to request the election was defeated 2-1 with Knapp and Board Pres. Mark Dick voting against the measure. Requests are needed both from the labor group and the governing board before the state will supervise the election.

Correction

Registration for the Schaumburg Park District's tiny tot learn-to-swim program will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday and not 9 a.m. as reported in Thursday's edition of the Herald.

The summer swim sessions are open to three and four year old boys and girls. An $8 registration fee will be charged. Between 20 and 25 youngsters will be accepted for the sessions which will be held at both Civic and Atcher pools.

No phone or mail registrations will be accepted.

Dalehouse Answers Due

road leading to the Dalehouse. Last October, the restaurant closed, some say because customers found it impossible to get to its door. Other say mismanagement cost all profits.

After the closing, Multicon repossessed the building, pointing to a lease clause providing for just that action if business was discontinued for a 30-day period.

Early this month, Multicon asked for a liquor license, saying it intended to run the restaurant with its own personnel. The following week, Twinbrook Investment appeared, in the person of Roger Gilbert, who claimed legal rights to the license. Twinbrook's suit, claiming the repossession was illegal, is the case that opens today.

BUT ALL THIS information does not answer the real question — who and what is Twinbrook Investment? Gilbert's name was nowhere to be seen among the corporation papers on file with the county. He says he bought Twinbrook May 3 from Burke.

Burke is the key to the puzzle. Is it merely coincidence that at the time the papers were filed, he was a village prosecutor, especially considering the high density and low building permit fees contained in zoning and annexation agreements.

Who else is in Twinbrook? Roy Whitehead, regional manager of Multicon, claims two other men have represented themselves to him as owners of Twinbrook Investment.

These two men also were connected with village government in 1968 — as Trustees Howard Noble and James Sloan. The following year Sloan resigned. Noble did not seek reelection in April 1971.

NOBLE DOES NOT deny a relationship with Twinbrook, but claims it is one of friendship, not ownership. Sloan does not respond to phone call, and has declined to come to the door of his apartment at Meadow Trace, Rolling Meadows.

Burke's presidency of the corporation is confirmed by Noble and Barbara Trepana, who insist all questions on the firm must be directed to him.

When asked if Noble and Sloan were partners in the firm, Burke gives a stock "no comment," and without denying they are, says to ask them. He refuses to discuss any details of the firm, saying he doesn't think they "should be aired to the public."

Noble's answers are confusing. First he said, "I've always represented myself as an employee of Twinbrook." Then he said he was not really an employee, did not own any stock in the firm, did not know if Sloan owned any. But he did help Burke in trying to find new tenants for the restaurant after Dalehouse Inc. folded.

HE WAS "just assisting him (Burke) through this difficulty," said Noble. The difficulty to which he referred was finding new tenants within the 30 days, so as not to default on the lease with Multicon. Noble said he was "helping Mr. Burke with Mr. Whitehead. When Twinbrook lost its tenant, I was helping Mr. Burke with bringing in new tenants."

Multicon had to approve the new tenants, and according to the terms of the lease with Twinbrook, could not withhold approval "arbitrarily or unreasonably."

Twinbrook did in fact find a new tenant, a group calling itself HEG, Inc., made up of Gilbert, Edward Heuer and George Eggert. Heuer and Eggert run Heuer's Restaurant in Rosemont, and Gilbert is an airline pilot. But Multicon denied consent.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH prospective tenants did not go well. One man who sought to lease the Dalehouse said he spoke with Burke, Whitehead and "a group of four different men from Twinbrook." He gave up on seeking the restaurant's lease, he said, because he could not definitely learn with whom he should deal — Burke, Multicon or the "four men from Twinbrook."

While Burke's connection with the firm is undeniable, on paper and admitted by him, that of Noble and Sloan is merely an allegation. But Whitehead's claim that the two have called themselves owners, and Noble's admission to his involvement in the seeking of new tenants, could implicate them in a possible conflict of interest during their terms of office.

THE UNION AND trustees have met several times in recent weeks to iron out differences over the requested recognition of the union. The local, which now has nine members, was formed last summer. Efforts to get the board to approve the union as the collective bargaining agent for the uniformed personnel have been unsuccessful.

Following the decision, Michael Lass, a national field representative for the union, termed the board's actions "arbitrary and capricious" and unresponsive to the wishes of the majority of firemen and the taxpayers of the district.

"The board is not elected, but appointed, and their actions show a lack of responsibility to the electorate," Lass added.

"The board has double talked us to death," said Local Pres. Richard Cordova, referring to the meetings between the union and the board.

LEVELING SIMILAR criticisms of the union's actions, Knapp said they have not shown what advantages the union could offer.

"They talk about training and grievance procedures, but we already have methods for both of these areas," he said.

Lass said the union might be forced to file suit to get the local recognized. However both Cordova and Lass said any decision on future action would be up to membership of the local.

Last month the fire district lost a court suit involving the dismissal of a firefighter who was a union member. In the case involving David Carlson, Judge Edward Egan ruled Carlson was fired last summer because of his activities as secretary of the then newly-formed union.

Recommend OK Of Condo Plan

After three years, developers of an 18-acre tract at Algonquin and Quentin roads in Schaumburg are on their way toward construction of an expected 422 condominium ownership units.

The Schaumburg Zoning Board of Appeals Wednesday recommended approval of the development, being proposed by Erich Kuntze of Des Plaines and the Palatine Service Co.

Before the approval could be given, the developers had to reckon with the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

When original zoning was received on the project in 1969, the developers were planning 1,020 units on a 35-acre parcel of land.

Then, later during 1971, the developers appeared again before the zoning board requesting approval of a revised site plan accommodating 716 units. The revised plan was approved, and the developers were ready to begin construction when they were informed by the Metropolitan Sanitary District that roughly half the 35 acres was being condemned to allow construction of a flood control dam, part of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Plan.

The developers then appeared a third time, requesting village approval for the 422 units on a reduced portion of land amounting to 18 acres. It is possible the number of units may be slightly changed before village board consideration.

The proposed development will consist of a mixture of one, two and three-bedroom units with 50 per cent open space. The recommendation goes before the village board on June 27.

Garage Sale Proceeds To Benefit Sonia

The Rho Alpha chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, a local collegiate social sorority, will sponsor a garage sale Saturday with the proceeds going to financially aid the family of Sonia Zager.

Sonia, a local elementary student, is undergoing a prolonged illness that has cost the family a good deal of money.

The garage sale will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 1512 Somerset Ct. in Schaumburg.

Among items for sale will be baby furniture, linens, silver and a lot of miscellaneous items.

President Of PTA's Council Is Installed

Mrs. William Karras was installed Wednesday as 1972-73 president of the Schaumburg Area Council of PTA's during the local organization's "School of Information, 1972."

The ceremonies were held at Jane Adams Junior High School.

Honored was outgoing president Mrs. Edward Mozal. She was cited for extraordinary and dedicated service on behalf of the area-wide PTA operation. Mrs. Mozal has served as president for the past two years.

Other officers installed were Mrs. John Weber, first vice president; Mrs. Dennis Pulla, second vice president; Mrs. Myron Czajkowski, recording secretary; Mrs. Edward Skala, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Reginald Posadzy, treasurer.

Committee chairmen for 1972-73 are Mrs. Reginald Posadzy, budget and finance; R. Kim Driggers, council board program coordinator; Mrs. Samuel Coldwater, cultural arts; Darrell Little, environmental education; Mrs. Ted Gluck, exceptional child, and Mrs. Harry Thompson, health.

OTHER COMMITTEE chairmen are Mrs. Frank Tavano, juvenile protection and safety; Mrs. Frank Zepeda, historian; Mrs. William Winters, hospitality; Mrs. Dennis Pulla, legislation; Roger DuBois, library and book fair; Mrs. Thomas Heuer, membership; Mrs. Edward Sablenty, newsletter and publicity; Mrs. Walter Hayter, parent education; Mrs. John Weber, program; Mrs. John Timmons, room representative; Mrs. Walter Rodie, scholarship; Mrs. Edward Mozal, study course; Mrs. Harlo Sartorius, ways and means, and Mrs. David Fanella, yearbook.

Included as part of the evening's program were a number of workshops plus a dinner.

Car Wash Tomorrow

The Prince of Peace Lutheran Church Luther League will sponsor a car wash tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the church, 930 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

The proceeds from the event will be used by the group for community projects.

Father, Child Day At Nursery School

Early Learners Nursery School, which meets at Our Saviour United Methodist Church on Golf Road just east of Roselle Rd., will hold a Father and Child Day Saturday in recognition of "Week of the Young Child" this week.

The gathering will be held at the church beginning at 9 a.m. with one-hour sessions through the day.

Fathers will participate with their children in a variety of nursery experiences from wood working to painting.

ALREADY SETTLED, Charlie, the raccoon, yawns in at the Rich Port Realty Agency in Schaumburg . . . and, seeming boredom. The animal has established residence refuses to be evicted.

Raccoon Found Home At Realty Office

by BOB ANDERSEN

Charlie the raccoon has found a home, and apparently it is going to take more than the Schaumburg Police Department to evict him.

Charlie's home is in a 24-by-60 foot "drop ceiling" in the offices of Rich Port Real Estates Co., 8 N. Roselle Rd.

The Schaumburg police have gone to the offices twice since Charlie appeared on the scene Tuesday morning, said Bert Carlson, manager of the local office, and have been unsuccessful in their attempts to remove Charlie from the premises.

Before accommodating himself in the drop ceiling, Charlie spent much of his time chewing things up, Carlson said.

CHARLIE, NOT necessarily in this order, has "chewed up most of the telephone cables" in the office, "attacked" a typewriter, removing the cover and nibbling on a plastic ribbon cartridge, and "knocked" over a lamp, breaking its globe. He also has dug away all the topsoil from a new plant container recently installed by the company and, messed up the company's storeroom, scattering literature and other materials all over the floor, Carlson said.

Charlie came to the realty office sometime early Tuesday morning, Carlson said. He was sitting in the secretary's chair when Carlson arrived at work.

The office staff has gotten a little attached to Charlie. However, Carlson points out, he is going to have to go.

The problem is how to remove him from the drop ceiling. The police can't do it, Carlson said.

"WE TRIED to tempt him into a trip-type trap with food," explained Carlson. That attempt also was unsuccessful.

"Right now, he is still up there, wandering around," Carlson said.

The real estate man has called the Forest Preserve offices and an official is scheduled to come out and entice Charlie out of the drop ceiling.

Then Charlie will be taken to a wildlife refuge to live out his years in relative serenity.

Wheeling High 'Exploiting' Band Students: Ex-Director

by RICH HONACK

The Wheeling High School marching band is being used as a public relations tool, according to Irwin Brick, who resigned as director of the band this week. Brick announced his resignation in a letter of strong criticism to principal Tom Shirley.

Brick listed three reasons for leaving a post he has held for the past three years. They are:

—"I feel the ever prevalent need for more and more marching performances to satisfy the powers that be (the administration) is certainly not the best interest of the students or of their director."

—"I firmly believe that music education, particularly instrumental music, must be made more 'academically' oriented instead of activity oriented as it is at Wheeling High School if it is to have a measure of meaning to those involved."

—"Since instrumental music is in itself one of the most demanding of the disciplines when properly nourished, I feel I must, in all honesty to myself and to the profession, leave a position in which I have little or no faith due to its superficiality."

BRICK CONTINUED his attack on the Wheeling High School administration by claiming the continued exhibitions of the band offer little in the way of music or music education. Brick said the exhibitions are "an attempt to use the band as a means of public relations for the school."

Brick added, "I consider these exhibitions as music exploitation instead of music education."

A director who has received letters of recognition from two U. S. Presidents while at WHS, Brick said, "The superficiality of continued marching band involvement throughout the year in parades, contests, etc., offers both the student and the director nothing of value other than another performance for no meaningful end result."

He added that the band is no longer thought of for education but for winning trophies for the trophy case. "They are nice to win, but what good are they? Are they teaching the students how to hold a note or giving them the education necessary to be good musicians?" he asked.

BRICK SAID the realization that music is "a stern taskmaster demanding an unending dedication to absolute perfection" is not in keeping with the philosophy of the present administration at WHS.

"Accepting a general attitude of mediocrity seems to be the byword at WHS and that kind of environment leaves a great deal to be desired," Brick emphasized.

The Wheeling band performed at the Michigan-Northwestern football game as well as the rededication of Soldier Field before a Chicago Bear game last fall.

It also performed for the Apollo 15 astronauts when they came to Chicago and performed at the University of Illinois band competition earlier this year.

"HOW MANY of these things do the people need? These students aren't learning anything from these exhibitions."

"For instance, we are scheduled to perform for a ground-breaking ceremony this Sunday. We will play the National Anthem for the 300,000th time—that's really educational."

"I'm not saying we shouldn't march in certain things, like a parade in Wheeling or Arlington Heights, but I think some of these exhibitions they schedule for us are getting out of hand," said Brick.

Brick, who will not be making the proposed band trip to Winnipeg, Canada, in June, said he hopes the administration and the community it serves will one day come to the realization that there is indeed a higher purpose in learning to play an instrument. More than to "parade down Main street or across a football field."

"FOR THE SAKE of music in the schools, I hope that day is not too far away for everyone concerned," added Brick.

A band director for 21 years, Brick said he is looking forward to another 21 years of musical delight "through sincere application of musical techniques that create emotional as well as intellectual musical concepts."

"It is my intention to work in the more intellectual areas of music education and to take additional extension courses toward the completion of my doctorate degree in music education," he said.

Brick said he plans to stay in Wheeling as a music teacher and not as a director. "I like the kids in Wheeling and the interest many residents have in music. I just don't wish to be an exhibitionist any longer," he concluded.

Here's The 3-Year Score On Band Under Brick

In the past three years since Irwin Brick has taken over as band director at Wheeling High School, the band has performed in more than 20 exhibitions.

These do not include local parades, football games, dedications or concerts. These have been on a state, national or regional level.

Since 1969, when Brick was hired, the band has welcomed the astronauts from the Apollo 12, 13, 14 and 15 flights, as well as the President of the United States to Chicago.

The band has played for three Chicago Bears football games and two Northwestern University football games in the last three years. It has also led Mayor Richard J. Daley's Christmas parade for the past two years.

BRICK'S BANDS have been chosen as the grand champion and outstanding parade bands at the University of Illinois and in the Virginia Beach Music Festival. They have also won Superior I ratings in the Illinois State Music contest for the past three years.

The band was also selected to play for the finals of the men's and women's gymnastic meet (for ABC-TV Wide World of Sports) last January at Northwestern University.

The band also plans to make a trip to Winnipeg, Canada, this summer. The band last week turned down an invitation to tour Germany for two weeks because of lack of funds.

Nearly 200 students make up the Wheeling High School Marching Band.

Settlement Expected Within 62 Days

by WANDALYN RICE

Negotiating teams for the High School Dist. 214 board of education and the district's teachers agreed Wednesday to call in a three-member fact-finding board in hopes of resolving their 1971-73 salary contract dispute.

The two teams, meeting in closed session, agreed to call in the team as required by their present contract's impasse procedures. The team will recommend a settlement within 62 days which must be voted on by the board and teachers.

The two teams met following a demonstration by more than 200 teachers outside the district's administration building at 799 Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect, Wednesday night. The teachers stood around the entrance to the building, saying they were demonstrating concern for the negotiations.

Last week, teachers voted down a proposal from a mediator which called for reduction of the pay for beginning teachers by $300, and a raise for teachers now in the district of $100 plus the increment called for in the present contract because of additional experience.

DURING THE demonstrations, Richard Chierico, former president of the Dist. 214 Education Association bargaining unit for the teachers, said: "This is not a confrontation. We have an excellent relationship and this in no way jeopardizes that."

Other teachers in the group felt the offer presented by the mediator was completely unacceptable. One said, "I think the board is just being stubborn."

A sign placed outside the front door of the administration building read, "The median income of Arlington Heights is $16,000. The average Dist. 214 teacher's salary is $12,700." On the other side, the sign read: "Do not extrapolate our salaries to twelve months. Forty weeks at 50 hours a week is more work than fifty weeks at forty hours a week."

Figures from the 1970 census show Arlington Heights has the highest average income in the Northwest Suburbs. Averages for other communities served by Dist. 214 in 1970 were: Buffalo Grove, $13,800; Des Plaines, $14,318; Elk Grove

Motorcyclist In Critical Condition

The owner and operator of a Wheeling hobby shop was listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit of Holy Family Hospital yesterday following a motorcycle accident Wednesday evening in a forest preserve east of Wheeling.

Anthony Crabtree, 34, of 941 Woodland Dr., Wheeling, was injured at 9:50 p.m. when his motorcycle hit a concrete parking guide after he had cut across a parking lot.

Crabtree, who operates Tony's Hobby Lobby at 747 W. Dundee Rd., was thrown 12 feet from his motorcycle after it hit a second concrete parking stop 80 feet from the first one.

Witnesses to the accident told police Crabtree was alone when it occurred.

The accident happened on the west side of Dam Number 1 drive in the forest preserve area south of Dundee Road.

Police said there was approximately $900 damage to Crabtree's motorcycle.

Police said the motorcycle slid 80 feet after hitting the first parking stop, hit another parking stop on the opposite side of the roadway, then slid another 23 feet before coming to a stop.

Police said a crowd of 20 to 30 people was standing around Crabtree when the village ambulance arrived.

Police spent several minutes searching for the accident because an anonymous caller had reported that the accident occurred at Dundee Road and Milwaukee Avenue.

2 From Wheeling Area Injured In Accident

Two young women from the Wheeling area were injured in an auto accident on the east side of Wolf Road north of Old Willow Road on Wednesday.

One of the women, Denise L. Vlahovic, 17, of 842 Old Willow Rd., was listed in fair condition at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, yesterday.

She was charged by Wheeling police with failure to yield the right-of-way at an intersection with a stop sign. She is to appear in the Arlington Heights Branch of Circuit Court June 13.

The other driver, Elizabeth J. Warren, 26, of 1519 Wolf Rd., was treated and released from Holy Family.

The accident occurred when the Vlahovic car pulled out in front of the other car which was traveling north on Wolf Road, police said.

Girl, 18, Injured

An 18-year-old Wheeling girl was treated for injuries and released from Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines yesterday morning after the bicycle she was riding was struck by a car.

Donna K. Campbell of 147 E. Center Ave., was injured when a car struck her bicycle as she was riding on the sidewalk in front of St. Joseph the Worker School at 171 W. Dundee Rd.

Wheeling police charged Betty L. Dill, 35, of 381 Thelma Ct., Wheeling, with failure to yield the right-of-way from a private drive.

Mrs. Dill, who was driving the car which struck the bicycle, is to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court June 27.

Teacher Negotiations Are Stalemated

Teacher negotiations in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 reached a stalemate Wednesday, and the two bargaining teams are now taking the first steps toward outside mediation.

The stalemate came after Henry Valley, spokesman for the school board's team, said the board had rejected a proposal from the teachers to open bargaining on the salary contract even though the two sides had failed to reach a settlement on the negotiations agreement.

Valley also reiterated the board's rejection of several points the Prospect Heights Education Association (PHEA), the teachers' bargaining unit, wants included in the list of items to be negotiated. That list is part of the negotiations agreement.

Valley concluded by saying, "We feel we are not going to turn the district over to the union (PHEA). If the teachers don't like it, they can leave."

TO THAT Larry Halter, PHEA spokesman, said, "That sounds like 'love it or leave it.'"

Valley: "Right."

Halter: "We feel we can love it, leave it or change it."

The items rejected by the board have to do with grievance procedure, extra duty for teachers and substitute teacher evaluation among other things. The board also refuses to include class size, school calendar, and staff reductions among the items that will be negotiated.

The PHEA has rejected two board proposals including one for the 7 1/2-hour work day.

FOLLOWING A PRIVATE caucus among PHEA bargaining team members, Halter told the board team, "The board is failing to bargain at this time. Under the National Labor Relations Board act this would obviously be a violation if negotiations were being carried on in private." Dist. 23 is holding open bargaining however.

Halter also charged the board with violating the first amendment of the U.S. Constitution concerning the public's right to "petition the government for a redress of grievances."

Halter said labor bargaining officials have interpreted the first amendment's provision for "redress of grievances" to mean the freedom to negotiate. He charged the board with refusing to bargain and indicated the PHEA may consider a federal suit against the school board over this.

The two sides agreed an impasse had been reached, and initiated the steps outlined under the current negotiations contract for solving a bargaining impasse.

However, the first step called for the board's bargaining team to meet with the PHEA.

The two teams were not even able to agree on a meeting time, and as a result, each side will meet with its own membership before returning to the bargaining table next Tuesday night.

Should the two teams fail to break the stalemate Tuesday, an outside mediator will be brought in, in an attempt to help the two sides reach a settlement.

HALTER SAID the PHEA team would meet with the association's general membership either today or Monday to consider their next steps. "We will ask them to possibly consider the federal suit," he said.

Of the possibility of a federal suit, Valley, himself a lawyer, said, "If they feel we violated (their constitutional rights) let them file a suit."

The board's negotiating team also plans a meeting with other board members prior to Tuesday's bargaining session. Asked whether he thought a mediator might eventually be called in, Don McKay, chairman of the school board team said, "As it stands now, yes."

Volunteers To March In Syttende Mai Parade

The Wheeling First Illinois "Volunteers" Drum and Bugle Corps will march in the annual Syttende Mai parade in Stoughton, Wis., Sunday.

The local drum and bugle corps will represent the Scandia House Smorgasbord Restaurant of Mount Prospect in the parade, which is in honor of Norway's independence.

The parade in Stoughton will be the third appearance for the Volunteers this spring. The corps marched in the VFW Loyalty Day Parade in Chicago and appeared last Saturday in the Sesquicentennial Celebration in Galena, representing the Wheeling Historical Society.

Local appearances by the year-old corps will include Wheeling's Memorial Day parade on May 29, and appearances in Arlington Heights and Wheaton in June and July.

THE VOLUNTEERS will appear in both the VFW and American Legion state and national conventions.

The corps still is accepting invitations to parades in area communities, and can be contacted at P.O. Box 333, Wheeling.

Boys and girls ages 12 to 18 are invited to join the corps. Musical experience is not required. Instruction, uniforms, instruments and travel all are furnished by the corps.

Interested youths may attend a corp meeting any Tuesday evening at the Heritage Park fieldhouse, 222 S. Wolf Rd., or may call Bob Bryson at 537-0728.

The Volunteers are sponsored by the Wheeling Chamber of Commerce, the Buffalo Grove VFW Post 2327 and the Wheeling Jaycees.

Stevenson Bands Set 'Music '72'

The Adlai Stevenson High School jazz and symphonic band will present "Sounds of Music for '72" at 8 to 10 p.m. in the school auditorium. Admission to the annual spring concert is $1. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

A wide variety of band literature will be presented, including music by Sousa, Wagner and Leroy Anderson. A musical highlight of the program is "George Gershwin," a symphonic portrait which will be directed by William Bailey, Trinity College student teacher. The band is under the direction of Dave Habley.

Other symphonic band selections include "Psalm 46" by John Ziechlic, Anderson's "Tewriter" and selections from "Hello Dolly."

The spring concert marks the first public appearance of Stevenson's new jazz band. Among the five selections on the program is Fran Zappa's "Peaches En Regalia."

Teachers, Board OK Fact-Finders

Village, $12,787; Mount Prospect, $14,529; Rolling Meadows, $11,259 and Wheeling, $10,920.

Negotiations between the Dist. 214 board and education association began in January with proposals for the 1972-73 contract from both sides. Under the bargaining procedures the two sides called in a mediator, John Haas, a former Dist. 214 board member, when they could not reach an agreement within 80 days. Haas reportedly made the proposal turned down by the teachers last week.

Fact finding is the last step in the negotiating process. If the fact finders' proposal is not approved, the proposal will be made public. The contract then calls for negotiators to "seek assistance through whatever procedure available."

Last year the agreement between the board and association resulted in an increase in the pay for beginning teachers to $8,300 and an average 8 per cent pay increase for teachers already in the district.

Wheeling High 'Exploiting' Band Students: Ex-Director

by RICH HONACK

The Wheeling High School marching band is being used as a public relations tool, according to Irwin Brick, who resigned as director of the band this week. Brick announced his resignation in a letter of strong criticism to principal Tom Shirley.

Brick listed three reasons for leaving a post he has held for the past three years. They are:

—"I firmly believe that music education, particularly instrumental music, must be made more 'academically' oriented instead of activity oriented as it is at Wheeling High School if it is to have a measure of meaning to those involved."

—"Since instrumental music is in itself one of the most demanding of the disciplines when properly nourished, I feel I must, in all honesty to myself and to the profession, leave a position in which I have little or no faith due to its superficiality."

claiming the continued exhibitions of the band offer little in the way of music or music education. Brick said the exhibitions are "an attempt to use the band as a means of public relations for the school."

Brick added, "I consider these exhibitions as music exploitation instead of music education."

A director who has received letters of recognition from two U. S. Presidents while at WHS, Brick said, "The superficiality of continued marching band involvement throughout the year in parades, contests, etc., offers both the student and the director nothing of value other than another performance for no meaningful end result."

He added that the band is no longer thought of for education but for winning trophies for the trophy case. "They are nice to win, but what good are they? Are they teaching the students how to hold a note or giving them the education necessary to be good musicians?" he asked.

BRICK SAID the realization that music is "a stern taskmaster demanding an unending dedication to absolute perfection" is not in keeping with the philosophy of the present administration at WHS.

"Accepting a general attitude of mediocrity seems to be the byword at WHS and that kind of environment leaves a great deal to be desired," Brick emphasized.

The Wheeling band performed at the Michigan-Northwestern football game as well as the rededication of Soldier Field before a Chicago Bear game last fall.

It also performed for the Apollo 15 astronauts when they came to Chicago and performed at the University of Illinois band competition earlier this year.

"HOW MANY of these things do the people need? These students aren't learning anything from these exhibitions."

"For instance, we are scheduled to perform for a ground-breaking ceremony this Sunday. We will play the National Anthem for the 300,000th time—that's really educational."

"I'm not saying we shouldn't march in certain things, like a parade in Wheeling or Arlington Heights, but I think some of these exhibitions they schedule for us are getting out of hand," said Brick.

Brick, who will not be making the proposed band trip to Winnipeg, Canada, in June, said he hopes the administration and the community it serves will one day come to the realization that there is indeed a higher purpose in learning to play an instrument. More than to "parade down Main street or across a football field."

"FOR THE SAKE of music in the schools, I hope that day is not too far away for everyone concerned," added Brick.

A band director for 21 years, Brick said he is looking forward to another 21 years of musical delight "through sincere application of musical techniques that create emotional as well as intellectual musical concepts."

"It is my intention to work in the more intellectual areas of music education and to take additional extension courses toward the completion of my doctorate degree in music education," he said.

Brick said he plans to stay in Wheeling as a music teacher and not as a director. "I like the kids in Wheeling and the interest many residents have in music. I just don't wish to be an exhibitionist any longer," he concluded.

SUMMER-LIKE temperatures which settled in the suburbs this week led to relaxing scenes such as this group of students taking advantage of the soft lawn at Harper College. Warm temperatures have been promised throughout the weekend.

Incinerator Plan Calls For Study

If an incinerator is ever built in Arlington Heights, the type and size will be a matter of extensive research, according to a report by Arlington Heights Assistant Village Manager Darryl Kenning at Wednesday's Environmental Control Commission meeting in Arlington Heights.

The ECC is the first group to scrutinize the Solid Waste Disposal Report written by the village administration in January. The report recommended the construction of an incinerator to handle the village's growing solid waste problem.

A report and recommendation on a method of solid waste disposal is now being completed by the ECC, and is expected to be released in about a month.

While the administration recommended an incinerator in the 42-page report, the ECC questioned the estimated cost and the exclusion of several cost factors.

"There is a credibility gap here when the costs for electricity and water treatment are missing," said ECC member Mrs. John Macko.

According to Kenning, an extra $300,000 has been added to the capital cost of the incinerator, over projected estimates to handle the unforeseen expenses.

"THIS IS ONLY a preliminary study," said Kenning. "The basic decision on whether or not to construct an incinerator has to be made by the board of trustees before we make any in depth price study. If the board gives us the go-ahead, we'd make a complete evaluation of all systems, especially new ones."

The administration report contained estimates by Donahue & Associates, Inc. of Sheboygan, Wis. According to that firm, the cost of the incinerator would be about $8.5 million.

While the ECC considers both incinerator and landfill as viable alternatives at the present time, the administration has discounted landfilling because of the rising cost of the land and the growing public opinion against landfilling.

"Because of continuing education in the field of landfilling, we feel that this method of solid waste disposal will be greatly restricted in the future," said Gene Willroth, public works director. "We see present landfills being used up in seven years, and if additional land is obtained for this purpose, it will be too far away to be economical."

"THE FACT IS that no one wants anyone else's garbage hauled into their community for disposal," said Kenning.

According to Kenning, the administration also wants to operate its own landfill rather than dumping at a commercially-operated landfill.

"We want to be able to control our own destiny," said Kenning. "A commercially operated landfill could hike its rates at any time, and we'd have virtually nowhere to turn."

Commission members also asked Kenning whether the administration ever considered waiting a few years until pollution control legislation has been finalized and newer methods of incineration, which are now on the horizon, have been proven.

"We considered waiting, but we may be in the same state of flux in a few years," said Kenning.

Here's The 3-Year Score On Band Under Brick

In the past three years since Irwin Brick has taken over as band director at Wheeling High School, the band has performed in more than 20 exhibitions.

These do not include local parades, football games, dedications or concerts. These have been on a state, national or regional level.

Since 1969, when Brick was hired, the band has welcomed the astronauts from the Apollo 12, 13, 14 and 15 flights, as well as the President of the United States to Chicago.

The band has played for three Chicago Bears football games and two Northwestern University football games in the last three years. It has also led Mayor Richard J. Daley's Christmas parade for the past two years.

BRICK'S BANDS have been chosen as the grand champion and outstanding parade bands at the University of Illinois and in the Virginia Beach Music Festival. They have also won Superior I ratings in the Illinois State Music contest for the past three years.

The band was also selected to play for the finals of the men's and women's gymnastic meet (for ABC-TV Wide World of Sports) last January at Northwestern University.

The band also plans to make a trip to Winnipeg, Canada, this summer. The band last week turned down an invitation to tour Germany for two weeks because of lack of funds.

Nearly 200 students make up the Wheeling High School Marching Band.

Girls To Help At Handicapped 'Games'

Four Adlai Stevenson High School girls will accompany students from the Klingberg School who will participate in the handicapped Olympic games to be held at Soldier's Field in Chicago today.

The Stevenson students are among 16 girls who have been helping at the Mundelein school one afternoon a week for the last year. The Olympic helpers are Gretchen Kaiser, Kathy Dahlenberg, Wendy Wolf and Pat Cope.

Settlement Expected Within 62 Days

by WANDALYN RICE

Negotiating teams for the High School Dist. 214 board of education and the district's teachers agreed Wednesday to call in a three-member fact-finding board in hopes of resolving their 1971-73 salary contract dispute.

The two teams, meeting in closed session, agreed to call in the team as required by their present contract's impasse procedures. The team will recommend a settlement within 62 days which must be voted on by the board and teachers.

The two teams met following a demonstration by more than 200 teachers outside the district's administration building at 799 Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect, Wednesday night. The teachers stood around the entrance to the building, saying they were demonstrating concern for the negotiations.

Last week, teachers voted down a proposal from a mediator which called for reduction of the pay for beginning teachers by $300, and a raise for teachers now in the district of $100 plus the increment called for in the present contract because of additional experience.

DURING THE demonstrations, Richard Chierico, former president of the Dist. 214 Education Association bargaining unit for the teachers, said: "This is not a confrontation. We have an excellent relationship and this in no way jeopardizes that."

Other teachers in the group felt the offer presented by the mediator was completely unacceptable. One said, "I think the board is just being stubborn."

A sign placed outside the front door of the administration building read, "The median income of Arlington Heights is $16,000. The average Dist. 214 teacher's salary is $12,700." On the other side, the sign read: "Do not extrapolate our salaries to twelve months. Forty weeks at 50 hours a week is more work than fifty weeks at forty hours a week."

Figures from the 1970 census show Arlington Heights has the highest average income in the Northwest Suburbs. Averages for other communities served by Dist. 214 in 1970 were: Buffalo Grove, $13,800; Des Plaines, $14,318; Elk Grove

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Gov. George C. Wallace, his temperature and pulse rate running high as expected after surgery, underwent physical therapy to maintain circulation in his paralyzed legs. There was no indication that the exercises had produced any signs of life in Wallace's legs.

President Nixon met for an hour with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to make final arrangements for the President's summit talks with leaders in the Kremlin next week. Nixon is to leave tomorrow.

Despite grumblings about wage-price restrictions, U.S. corporations scored record gains in before-tax profits during the first quarter of 1972, the Commerce Department said. The economy as a whole also is looking healthier.

The Justice Department sued General Electric, charging antitrust law violations since at least 1965. It charged restraint of trade by means of reciprocal purchasing agreements with its customers and suppliers. The company vowed to fight the charges.

Attorneys for Angela Davis won a three-day delay in starting her defense, which they promised would be brief.

The State

Racing Commission chairman Alexander MacArthur told the U.S. House Crime Committee that electric whips used by jockeys to shock horses to greater speeds have been found at Hawthorne Race Course and Fairmont (Ill.) Park.

A proposed statewide lottery that could net Illinois $100 million a year came a step closer to reality when the Illinois House Appropriations Committee approved $1.5 million to set it up.

A 16-year-old Chicago boy who had left home Wednesday to fish in the Des Plaines River was found slain in a forest preserve on the city's Northwest side. Police were still seeking clues.

The World

Egypt's war minister, Mohammed Ahmed Sadek, said his nation will continue to prepare for battle against Israel but will not be provoked into ill-timed fighting. Egyptian officials also expressed the hope that the Nixon-Kremlin talks will lead to a break in the deadlock in the Middle East crisis.

A British soldier died of gunshot wounds and two civilians were injured in shooting incidents between Protestants and Catholics in strife-torn Northern Ireland.

The War

U.S. warplanes raided above the Demilitarized Zone, knocking out six bridges around the North Vietnamese port city of Dong Hoi and destroying several ammunition and fuel supply dumps. . . . Thirteen Americans were reported killed in combat last week, six fewer than the previous week.

THE COLOR GUARD of the First Illinois 'Volunteers' Drum and Bugle Corps shows off its precision at a recent practice session. The corps will appear in a Stoughton, Wis., parade on Sunday and in the Wheeling Memorial Day parade May 29.

Teacher Negotiations Are Stalemated

Teacher negotiations in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 reached a stalemate Wednesday, and the two bargaining teams are now taking the first steps toward outside mediation.

The stalemate came after Henry Valley, spokesman for the school board's team, said the board had rejected a proposal from the teachers to open bargaining on the salary contract even though the two sides had failed to reach a settlement on the negotiations agreement.

Valley also reiterated the board's rejection of several points the Prospect Heights Education Association (PHEA), the teachers' bargaining unit, wants included in the list of items to be negotiated. That list is part of the negotiations agreement.

Valley concluded by saying, "We feel we are not going to turn the district over to the union (PHEA). If the teachers don't like it, they can leave."

TO THAT Larry Halter, PHEA spokesman, said, "That sounds like 'love it or leave it.'"

Valley: "Right."

Halter: "We feel we can love it, leave it or change it."

The items rejected by the board have to do with grievance procedure, extra duty for teachers and substitute teacher evaluation among other things. The board also refuses to include class size, school calendar, and staff reductions among the items that will be negotiated.

The PHEA has rejected two board proposals, including one for the 7½-hour work day.

FOLLOWING A PRIVATE caucus among PHEA bargaining team members, Halter told the board team, "The board is failing to bargain at this time. Under the National Labor Relations Board act this would obviously be a violation if negotiations were being carried on in private." Dist. 23 is holding open bargaining however.

Halter also charged the board with violating the first amendment of the U.S. Constitution concerning the public's right to "petition the government for a redress of grievances."

Halter said labor bargaining officials have interpreted the first amendment's provision for "redress of grievances" to mean the freedom to negotiate. He charged the board with refusing to bargain and indicated the PHEA may consider a federal suit against the school board over this.

The two sides agreed an impasse had been reached, and initiated the steps outlined under the current negotiations contract for solving a bargaining impasse.

However, the first step called for the board's bargaining team to meet with the PHEA.

The two teams were not even able to agree on a meeting time, and as a result, each side will meet with its own membership before returning to the bargaining table next Tuesday night.

Should the two teams fail to break the stalemate Tuesday, an outside mediator will be brought in, in an attempt to help the two sides reach a settlement.

HALTER SAID the PHEA team would meet with the association's general membership either today or Monday to consider their next steps. "We will ask them to possibly consider the federal suit," he said.

Of the possibility of a federal suit, Valley, himself a lawyer, said, "If they feel we violated (their constitutional rights) let them file a suit."

The board's negotiating team also plans a meeting with other board members prior to Tuesday's bargaining session. Asked whether he thought a mediator might eventually be called in, Don McKay, chairman of the school board team said, "As it stands now, yes."

Volunteers To March In Syttende Mai Parade

The Wheeling First Illinois "Volunteers" Drum and Bugle Corps will march in the annual Syttende Mai parade in Stoughton, Wis., Sunday.

The local drum and bugle corps will represent the Scandia House Smorgasbord Restaurant of Mount Prospect in the parade, which is in honor of Norway's independence.

The parade in Stoughton will be the third appearance for the Volunteers this spring. The corps marched in the VFW Loyalty Day Parade in Chicago and appeared last Saturday in the Sesquicentennial Celebration in Galena, representing the Wheeling Historical Society.

Local appearances by the year-old corps will include Wheeling's Memorial Day parade on May 29, and appearances in Arlington Heights and Wheaton in June and July.

THE VOLUNTEERS will appear in both the VFW and American Legion state and national conventions.

Stevenson Bands Set 'Music '72'

The Adlai Stevenson High School jazz and symphonic band will present "Sounds of Music for '72" at 8 to 9 p.m. in the school auditorium. Admission to the annual spring concert is $1. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

A wide variety of band literature will be presented, including music by Sousa, Wagner and Leroy Anderson. A musical highlight of the program is "George Gershwin," a symphonic portrait which will be directed by William Bailey, Trinity College student teacher. The band is under the direction of Dave Habley.

Other symphonic band selections include "Psalm 46" by John Ziechlic, Anderson's "Tyewriter" and selections from "Hello Dolly."

The spring concert marks the first public appearance of Stevenson's new jazz band. Among the live selections on the program is Fran Zappa's "Peaches En Regalia."

Boys and girls ages 12 to 18 are invited to join the corps. Musical experience is not required. Instruction, uniforms, instruments and travel all are furnished by the corps.

Interested youths may attend a corp meeting any Tuesday evening at the Heritage Park fieldhouse, 222 S. Wolf Rd., or may call Bob Bryson at 537-0728.

The Volunteers are sponsored by the Wheeling Chamber of Commerce, the Buffalo Grove VFW Post 2327 and the Wheeling Jaycees.

Village, $12,787; Mount Prospect, $14,529; Rolling Meadows, $11,259 and Wheeling, $10,920.

Negotiations between the Dist. 214 board and education association began in January with proposals for the 1972-73 contract from both sides. Under the bargaining procedures the two sides called in a mediator, John Haas, a former Dist. 214 board member, when they could not reach an agreement within 80 days. Haas reportedly made the proposal turned down by the teachers last week.

Fact finding is the last step in the negotiating process. If the fact finders' proposal is not approved, the proposal will be made public. The contract then calls for negotiators to "seek assistance through whatever procedure available."

Last year the agreement between the board and association resulted in an increase in the pay for beginning teachers to $9,300 and an average 8 per cent pay increase for teachers already in the district.

Eligibility For Flood Relief Linked To Laws

Municipalities that qualify for the federally subsidized flood insurance protection program, which includes Palatine and Arlington Heights, may have their eligibility removed if their local land use controls are inadequate.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is in the process of notifying over 100 towns across the country that they will lose their qualifying status unless more stringent land-use and zoning ordinances are adopted by local officials within 90 days.

Any removal from the program would not affect either Palatine or Arlington Heights too greatly since only one Palatine resident and two Arlington Heights residents have applied for the insurance. The two towns applied for the program last year and received notification from HUD on their qualification in December and January.

To date, officials in both towns have received no word from either HUD or State Farm Fire and Casualty, the firm handling the insurance for all municipalities in Illinois, that they would be dropped from the program.

Allen Sander, Arlington Heights village engineer, said the U.S. Soil Conservation Service will be conducting a detailed study of the village land-use controls but he does not expect this study will in any way jeopardize the flood insurance program.

Richard Muir, the State Farm agent handling the program in Illinois, said the only notice he received for cancellations from HUD was for several towns outside of Illinois but none within the state.

HE SAID THE types of land-use measures HUD had in mind concerned local ordinances that would prohibit building construction in low areas or flood plains where flooding is likely to occur.

All towns must meet the requirements of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 in order to apply for the insurance program.

Flood insurance is now being offered in 1,098 municipalities and counties in 49 states under a cooperative program between business and government. Administered by private insurance companies belonging to the National Flood Insurance Association, the program was launched with $42 million in risk capital provided by these companies.

Under the program, residents in towns that apply can purchase insurance from any agent at subsidized rates. Coverage of up to $17,500 is available for single-family houses and up to $30,000 for two to four-family residences.

Flood insurance is relatively expensive if purchased by an individual and underwritten by a private insurance company. Programs of land-use and flood control were developed by Palatine and Arlington Heights in order to apply for the federally subsidized lower rates.

Rates range from 40 to 50 cents per $100 of insurance depending on the structure. Insurance up to $5,000 is also available on the contents of a house with rates between 50 and 60 cents per $100.

Cracker Barrel

WINNER TAKES ALL. Preliminary approval given this week to two new apartment complexes proposed for west Palatine Road was like tallying points in a game of gin rummy. Village trustees gave the developers "plus points" for every extra improvement they planned to make above and beyond what was necessary. Builders got points for things like providing underground parking and for improving streets away from their property. Enough points were finally accumulated for gin and the developers won the game, at least the first stage.

PATIENCE PAYS. In the same apartment discussions, the attorney for the builders explained that decisions on the two apartment proposals had been delayed for over a year for a variety of reasons. In that time, the proposals had changed and so had the sizes.

"Maybe if we waited long enough we could get a 13-story building out of this," Mayor Jack Moodie said, alluding to the controversial mid-rise Sellergren apartments now under construction. No one seemed to think his suggestion was very good, judging by the groans heard at the mention of 13 stories.

THE EVENING BREEZE. Last week at the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board meeting, time was taken for a dual birthday celebration for Supt. Frank Whiteley and board member Joel Meyer. To celebrate, Mrs. Walter Sundling, wife of the board president, prepared a smashing cake with what appeared to be spiked frosting. On the cake were birthday candles — the novelty kind that can't be blown out. Despite charges that the monthly board meetings may be the windiest spot in town, the two administrators were unable to extinguish the candles.

IS IT A BIRD? Is it...? No, it's just a bunch of loon. The "space walk" and other festivities are included in the third annual carnival at St. Theresa Catholic Church, 445 N. Benton St., Palatine, tonight through Sunday night.

Immediate Family Members Only

Village May Limit Home Occupations

Revisions in the Palatine Zoning Ordinance that would change the definition for permitted home occupations in town are being considered by the Palatine Village Board.

The new language of the proposed change would restrict the number of persons who can work in a home occupation to only those who are members of the immediate family residing on the premises. The current ordinance allows up to two persons who are not members of the family to be employed in the home occupation.

The zoning change would also eliminate the general practice of professions by doctors, dentists, lawyers and clergymen from their homes. Such professions could be carried out from the home on a consultation or emergency treatment basis only.

The present ordinance does allow the general practice of these professions from the home.

ALSO INCLUDED in the suggested changes is a larger number of uses that would not be considered permitted home occupations. Among those would be beauty shops, which formerly were allowed while barber shops were not.

The Palatine Plan Commission had suggested several revisions be made in the zoning ordinance, questioning the reasons for allowing a one-chair beauty shop to be legal while a one-chair barber shop in a residential district is not legal.

The plan commission also said it felt a dental or physician's office is definitely a commercial use and should not be permitted in a residential district.

Under the recommended changes, the following uses would not be considered permitted home occupations; the teaching of music, dancing and other instructions for more than one pupil at a time; clinics and hospitals; beauty parlors or barber shops; tea rooms or restaurants; millinery shops; tourist homes; and commercial stables or kennels.

ANOTHER ZONING revision being considered would be to require that all accessory buildings be set back a minimum of five feet, from either a side or rear yard in residential districts. This would guarantee there be a 10-foot minimum separation between buildings.

With the present ordinance, certain circumstances would allow a building to be constructed under the five-foot minimum.

Many of the suggested revisions for home occupations have been considered by the board for quite a while. The board recently approved requirements for sanitation and water in beauty shops and dog grooming shops after several complaints had been received at village hall.

The suggested zoning revisions will be discussed at a public hearing before the zoning board of appeals before any final decision is made.

Pancake Day May 29 At Methodist Church

The First United Methodist Church of Palatine will hold its annual Pancake Day from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. May 29 in conjunction with the Palatine Memorial Day parade.

The Pancake Day is being sponsored for the 13th year by the commission of education of the church as well as the fourth through seventh grade student members of the church. Money earned will be used in the church school classrooms and to sponsor Methodist camp scholarships for youngsters.

The pancakes will be served in the Fellowship Hall of the church at Wood Street and Plum Grove Road. Tickets are available at the church office or at the door on Memorial Day for $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for children under 10.

Menu for the day will be all you can eat of pancakes, applesauce, sausage, coffee, tea and milk. The Pancake Day is open to the public for breakfast, lunch and brunch and will provide an opportunity for watching the parade as it passes the church.

'Love' In Multi-Media At Meadows High

A multi-media program "If We Only Had Love" will be presented Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Rolling Meadows High School theater.

The program will include music, slides, live performances and motion pictures. Tickets will be $1 for adults and 75 cents for students.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Gov. George C. Wallace, his temperature and pulse rate running high as expected after surgery, underwent physical therapy to maintain circulation in his paralyzed legs. There was no indication that the exercises had produced any signs of life in Wallace's legs.

President Nixon met for an hour with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to make final arrangements for the President's summit talks with leaders in the Kremlin next week. Nixon is to leave tomorrow.

Despite grumblings about wage-price restrictions, U.S. corporations scored record gains in before-tax profits during the first quarter of 1972, the Commerce Department said. The economy as a whole also is looking healthier.

The Justice Department sued General Electric, charging antitrust law violations since at least 1965. It charged restraint of trade by means of reciprocal purchasing agreements with its customers and suppliers. The company vowed to fight the charges.

Attorneys for Angela Davis won a three-day delay in starting her defense, which they promised would be brief.

The State

Racing Commission chairman Alexander MacArthur told the U.S. House Crime Committee that electric whips used by jockeys to shock horses to greater speeds have been found at Hawthorne Race Course and Fairmont (Ill.) Park.

A proposed statewide lottery that could net Illinois $100 million a year came a step closer to reality when the Illinois House Appropriations Committee approved $1.5 million to set it up.

A 16-year-old Chicago boy who had left home Wednesday to fish in the Des Plaines River was found slain in a forest preserve on the city's Northwest side. Police were still seeking clues.

The World

Egypt's war minister, Mohammed Ahmed Sadek, said his nation will continue to prepare for battle against Israel but will not be provoked into ill-timed fighting. Egyptian officials also expressed the hope that the Nixon-Kremlin talks will lead to a break in the deadlock in the Middle East crisis.

A British soldier died of gunshot wounds and two civilians were injured in shooting incidents between Protestants and Catholics in strife-torn Northern Ireland.

The War

U.S. warplanes raided above the Demilitarized Zone, knocking out six bridges around the North Vietnamese port city of Dong Hoi and destroying several ammunition and fuel supply dumps. Thirteen Americans were reported killed in combat last week, six fewer than the previous week.

Yvonne Storer

Having just had a birthday last week, this little prayer from Marjorie Holmes' "I've Got to Talk to Somebody, God" really seemed to help ease the pain.

Dear God, I'm showing my age. I'm not young and beautiful any more, the way my heart imagines. When I look in the mirror I could cry. For I look just what I am — a woman growing older. And I protest it, Lord. Perhaps foolishly, I am stricken.

"Vanity, vanity, all is vanity," the Bible says. But is vanity truly such a fault? You, who made women with this instinctive hunger to hang onto personal beauty, must surely understand.

Dear God, if this be vanity, let me use it to some good purpose. Let it inspire me to keep my body strong and well and agile, the way you made it in the beginning. May it help me to stay as attractive as possible for as long as possible — out of concern for other people as well as myself. For you, who made women, also know that when we feel attractive we're a lot easier to live with.

But, of God, whatever happens to my face and body, keep me always supple in spirit, resilient to new ideas, beautiful in the things I say and do. If I must "show my age" let it be in some deeper dimension of beauty that is ageless and eternal, and can only come from you.

Don't let me be so afraid of aging, God. Let me rejoice and reach out to be replenished; I know that each day I can be reborn into strength and beauty through You. Amen.

English Is A Hodge-Podge To Them

by CINDY TEW

A, B, C, D . . . Most kindergartners can recite the other 22 letters, and even know what they look like. Some can even count to 100.

Over 50 children in School Dist. 25 come to kindergarten with a completely different outlook on life. They come to school counting uno, dos, tres or une, deux, trois . . .

For these children, reading and writing English is a scrambled up hodge-podge. They don't know how to say the words they're learning, let alone what they mean. Special classes have been set up under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act Title I, to assist these children who learn English as a second language.

"NOT ONLY DO we try to improve the language facilities, but we try to help improve the self-image of the children and create a positive attitude toward school and learning," said Mrs. Doloras Nason, one of two teachers in the program. The key to Mrs. Nason's success in teaching children reading and writing has been the use of manipulatives. Most of the puzzles, pictures and games used, she created herself.

"Letters and numbers are too abstract a concept for these children to deal with," Mrs. Nason said. "By using plastic letters children can feel and trace, children become more interested in learning."

Among Mrs. Nason's favorite games is a hopscotch game made out of giant letters on the floor. Children are allowed to proceed with the game as they can name the letters. She also uses a game called alphabet bingo, and picture books.

"The whole idea is to get the children interested in what they're doing, and flip in the learning when they think it's a game," Nason said.

Mrs. Nason works individually with each child to find out how the children learn.

"I have one child who cannot learn individual letters. He has to learn words," said Mrs. Nason. "For this child flash cards with colors and shapes and matching words work well. He also enjoys learning out of picture books about animals I make for him."

MOST OF THE children are Spanish. Parents of the children are also involved in the program, and are sometimes indirectly benefited by it as they learn along with their children.

"The most important part of the program is developing self confidence in the students so they can be successful in the classroom," said Al Swanson, principal of Greenbrier School that about one-third of the children in the program attend.

at 8:30 p.m. You may call Nancy Weaver at 359-4591 or Baro Hayes at 358-6570 for tickets. Cost is $5 per person.

Music will be provided by Elmer Trimbach from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. A late evening dinner will be served and door prizes will be awarded. Among the door prizes are a three-piece set of American Tourister Luggage and two war bonds. Come out and join the fun and maybe be a lucky winner.

DON'T FORGET to enjoy yourself at St. Theresa's Carnival this weekend. Games, rides and foods are a few of the attractions you will find at the Benton Street school just off the Northwest Highway. A Country Store is also featured with home made needle work and baked items.

The carnival is open tonight until 11:30, Saturday until midnight and Sunday until 10 p.m. Many hours for you to enjoy.

HAVE YOU MADE your summer plans yet? If not, take a look at the new brochure the park district has just issued. There is definitely something for everyone. Don't let your children sit around and say "what can I do, mom?" All the programs offered by our park district are fun and interesting and not too expensive. Call them today at 359-0333 and get registered.

CALL ME AT 358-1025 with your news and information.

Here is a thought for the weekend. I will try to live through this day and not tactly my whole life problem at once.

'Bull Whip Bosses' Hit By Carriers

Carrying placards protesting "bull whip bosses," mail carriers in Hoffman Estates and surrounding communities marched one hour yesterday in a picket line at the Hoffman Estates Postal Station, Roselle Road between Golf and Higgins roads.

Bob Wells, spokesman for Local 4867 International Association of Letter Carriers, said the 20 men and women were protesting management policies of Station Superintendent Sheldon Galanter.

He said the policies protested encompassed harassment, favoritism, and mismanagement.

Before the picketing started, Galanter met in the station with F. C. Storey, a postal inspector who said he had been sent out from Chicago to observe "any picketing." Galanter refused to comment on his policies.

"WHAT WE WANT him to do is treat people like human beings. It's as simple as that," said Wells. Some of the signs carried by pickets read:

"Incompetent supervision breeds inadequate mail delivery."

"Hoffman Estates supervisors only go by the book when it's to their advantage."

Judge Upholds Policeman's Firing

by STEVE BROWN

A Cook County Circuit Court Judge upheld the findings of the Schaumburg Police and Fire Commission Thursday in its dismissal of former police officer William Heidt.

Charges of theft and grand theft which were lodged against him were dropped last month. The charges stemmed from the theft of over $1,100 in merchandise from the Sears Roebuck Co.'s Woodfield store last June. His bid for reinstatement on the force and nearly $10,000 in back pay was denied by Judge Edward F. Healy.

Heidt's attorney, Al Klest, said he did not know if his client intended to appeal the decision.

An arrangement had reportedly been proposed to drop Heidt's suit for reinstatement in exchange for the police department's acceptance of Heidt's resignation dated June 30, 1971 and a removal of the records pertaining to the dismissal from his file.

Schaumburg Village Atty. Jack Siegal said the department did not plan to enter into any such agreement.

The criminal case against Heidt was dropped after Judge Marvin Peters ruled the evidence seized in a search of a trailer outside of Heidt's home could not be used in the case. A subsequent confession, signed by Heidt, was also ruled inadmissible.

Schaumburg Police Chief Martin Conroy said the decision will help restore the

during ceremonies in St. Mary's Church. She has taught in Buffalo Grove for the past year and plans to make this her home for a few years. She is from LaGrange.

Sister Beth Ann Takes Vows

Nun's Story: 'Hope, Faith'

by RICH HONACK

Not every woman can become a nun. It is a job, like any other — but it takes much sacrifice, dedication and time. It also means devoting your "whole life" to someone else — God.

This is Sister Beth Ann's story.

Sister Beth took her final vows as a nun last Saturday in the Old Church at St. Mary's in Buffalo Grove, where she is a junior high school teacher. She has been a nun with the Teaching Sisters of St. Francis for 11 years.

ORIGINALLY from La Grange, Sister Beth went to Alverno College in Milwaukee and received her bachelor's degree in English. She is currently working on her master's degree Northwestern University.

"At first I wanted to become a missionary sister with the Holy Ghost Missionaries. However, I changed my mind and decided I liked to teach," said Sister Beth. She felt her services would be better rendered as a teaching sister.

She said she has seen many nuns leave the sisterhood since she started, but "there is a certain strength in me, I guess, that allowed me to take my final vows."

She added, "I feel a great hope for the future of the sisters. Maybe not in numbers but in those dedicated to serve. I guess it's a cliché, but what we'll lack in quantity we'll make up in quality."

SHE SAID that with more dedicated nuns more good will be accomplished. Sister Beth added that the sisters of today make broader commitments and open themselves up more to the community.

"In the past we were considered 'superhuman' type people. We wore long habits and we weren't really looked at on a personal level," she said.

Sister Beth related one funny incident when she was still wearing the habit that included sleevelets which covered the arm from the wrist to just above the elbow.

"I was once helping some of my students wash the desks in a classroom and I removed by sleevelets. One young boy looked at me in surprise and said, 'Sister! You have real arms.' It was very mind bending," she said.

SISTER BETH feels the new dress codes of the nuns are helpful in coming closer to the community.

"There are many in their 30s who really feel nuns should dress in the habit, but older people and younger accept the change. They still look at us as nuns but they don't seem as shy."

"When I was in Sarasota, Fla., last year, the retired people, who make up

1,000 Expected At Lions State Convention Here

More than 1,000 persons are expected at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel tomorrow night to hear the keynote address of the Lions state convention, running today through Sunday.

Warren E. Greene of Monterey Park, Calif., a director of Lions International, will deliver the address during the state banquet beginning at 6:30.

Honored during the evening will be the Lions district governors and their wives. Host for the entire convention is the Palatine Lions Club.

The first plenary session of the convention will begin at 3 p.m. Saturday, with an address by Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods and the presentation of colors by Palatine Boy Scout Troop 9.

Greene was elected director of Lions International at the Association's 53rd Annual Convention in Atlantic City, N.J. in 1970.

A life member of his Lions Club, Greene served his district as a 100 per

Judge Refuses To Drop Middleton Theft Charge

A circuit court judge yesterday denied a motion to dismiss theft charges against Dr. James Middleton of Des Plaines, who is accused of stealing lumber from a construction site last year.

Associate Judge George Zimmerman rejected the move by Middleton, who claimed the charges against him should be dropped because the owner of the lumber, Anderson Construction Co., has never brought a formal complaint against him.

Middleton, of 969 Elmhurst Rd., was convicted earlier this year of sexually assaulting a woman patient at his office and of illegally manufacturing and possessing explosives, a federal violation. He is appealing both convictions.

Zimmerman said in the Des Plaines branch of circuit court that he could see no reason to dismiss the theft case. The judge continued pre-trial proceedings until June 22, saying Patrolman John Meese will be able to explain at that time why he arrested Middleton.

Meese, who was not present in court yesterday, arrested Middleton Sept. 28 last year, accusing him of loading the lumber into a small trailer at a local construction site and trying to drive away with it.

Middleton, however, has maintained that he was using the lumber to help free his auto, which he said had become stuck in a ditch next to the site.

The doctor, who lost his license to practice medicine last year, had his theft trial assigned to Zimmerman on Monday when Associate Judge Francis Glowacki approved Middleton's request for a new judge.

Middleton charged that Judge Glowacki had been prejudiced against him by Assistant State's Atty. Daniel Mirabelli, who is prosecuting the theft case.

Ecumenical Seminar Slated For June 2

An ecumenical seminar on the study of religious education at the adult level will be held June 2 at the Northwest Human Resources Development Center at 3000 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

The seminar is sponsored by the adult core group of the St. Colette Religious Education Program. The purpose of the meeting is to encourage different denominations to discuss their common problems in this area of religious education.

Any churches wishing to participate may make arrangements by contacting Sherrie Kirmse at 392-9804 prior to May 27.

Board, Teachers Agree To Call In Fact-Finding Bd.

by WANDALYN RICE

Negotiating teams for the High School Dist. 214 board of education and the district's teachers agreed Wednesday to call in a three-member fact-finding board in hopes of resolving their 1971-73 salary contract dispute.

The two teams, meeting in closed session, agreed to call in the team as required by their present contract's impasse procedures. The team will recommend a settlement within 62 days which must be voted on by the board and teachers.

The two teams met following a demonstration by more than 200 teachers outside the district's administration building at 799 Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect, Wednesday night. The teachers stood around the entrance to the building, saying they were demonstrating concern for the negotiations.

Last week, teachers voted down a proposal from a mediator which called for reduction of the pay for beginning teachers by $300, and a raise for teachers now in the district of $100 plus the increment called for in the present contract because of additional experience.

DURING THE demonstrations, Richard Chierico, former president of the Dist. 214 Education Association bargaining unit for the teachers, said: "This is not a confrontation. We have an excellent relationship and this in no way jeopardizes that."

Other teachers in the group felt the offer presented by the mediator was completely unacceptable. One said, "I think the board is just being stubborn."

A sign placed outside the front door of the administration building read, "The median income of Arlington Heights is $16,000. The average Dist. 214 teacher's salary is $12,700." On the other side, the sign read: "Do not extrapolate our salaries to twelve months. Forty weeks at 50 hours a week is more work than fifty weeks at forty hours a week."

Figures from the 1970 census show Arlington Heights has the highest average income in the Northwest Suburbs. Averages for other communities served by Dist. 214 in 1970 were: Buffalo Grove, $13,800; Des Plaines, $14,318; Elk Grove Village, $12,787; Mount Prospect, $14,529; Rolling Meadows, $11,259 and Wheeling, $10,920.

Negotiations between the Dist. 214 board and education association began in January with proposals for the 1972-73 contract from both sides. Under the bargaining procedures the two sides called in a mediator, John Haas, a former Dist. 214 board member, when they could not reach an agreement within 80 days. Haas reportedly made the proposal turned down by the teachers last week.

Fact finding is the last step in the negotiating process. If the fact finders' proposal is not approved, the proposal will be made public. The contract then calls for negotiators to "seek assistance through whatever procedure available."

Last year the agreement between the board and association resulted in an increase in the pay for beginning teachers to $8,300 and an average 8 per cent pay increase for teachers already in the district.

Would Affect Mobile Care Unit

Introduce Para-Medical Bill

A bill enabling para-medical personnel to administer emergency treatment to the injured and the ill under the supervision of a physician was introduced this week into the Illinois Senate.

Enactment of the legislation — which is expected — would provide the go-ahead for a mobile care unit based at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

The first of its kind in Illinois, the unit would serve seven Northwest suburbs: Arlington Heights, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates, Inverness, Mount Prospect and Schaumburg.

Nearly 200 firemen from those communities are engaged in a nine-week training program at the hospital to prepare them for a national emergency medical technicians examination.

BUT WITHOUT the legislature's and governor's blessings in removing liability from the hospital and the para-medics, the firemen would be unable to provide the treatment for which they are being trained.

Mrs. Janet Schwettman of Inverness, who single-handedly initiated the mobile care proposal, said yesterday an opinion rendered by the American Medical Association law division had indicated the state's "Good Samaritan" law probably would cover trained firemen administering emergency care.

However, she said, when she further looked into the matter last week, she learned the disposition of drugs and the operation of a defibrillator, a device which administers an electric shock to resume the heartbeat, could not be permitted without special legislation.

A bill based on a California law has been drawn up by the Republican Senate minority and Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, has indicated he will sponsor it.

The bill has been included in the legislative package being prepared by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Graham said he would seek bi-partisan support for the bill, and said he believes it can pass the legislature and be in effect in early July.

Mrs. Schwettman, meanwhile, is contacting five agencies whose support is considered vital in getting the bill approved.

Endorsement has been obtained from Dr. David Boyd, chief of the state division of emergency medical services, and from the Illinois State Medical Society. Three other agencies, the Illinois State Hospital Association, Illinois Nursing Association, and the Chicago Board of Health are studying the bill.

Both President and Mrs. Nixon have written to Mrs. Schwettman, indicating their support of the emergency medical treatment concept.

Equipment for operating the unit is being ordered this week, and a ceremony is being planned for August to officially kick off the service, though backers are hopeful that it can be initiated in July.

3 Suburbanites Among Arrested City Merchants

Three Northwest suburban men were among 20 W. Randolph Street, Chicago, merchants and wholesalers arrested early Tuesday and charged with violating state sales tax laws.

Arrested were: —Steven Amers, 34, of 1830 Pratt St., Des Plaines, owner of the Green Garden, 940 W. Randolph St.

—Luca E. Pontecorvo, 67, of 5500 Carriageway Dr., Rolling Meadows, owner of Ed's Cheese, 933 W. Randolph St.

—Irwin Brotzman, 42, of 1428 Chartwell Rd., Schaumburg, owner of Hot Potatoes, 1132 W. Randolph St.

The arrests were made by Illinois Revenue Department investigators who called the arrests a "crackdown" on sales tax violators.

The 20 businessmen were charged with failure to obtain a Retailer's Occupation Tax (sales tax) certificate and with collecting sales tax from their customers but failing to remit the tax to the state.

All those charged were released on $1,000 bond and ordered to appear in court June 8.

If convicted, the men could be fined $500 or sentenced to six months imprisonment or both.

Teen Job Referral Service To Expand

The Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors will operate a teen summer job referral service again this summer and plans to continue the employment program all year according to William Rohlwing, township supervisor.

Rohlwing said the board decided to repeat the service because the program received so much support last year from both employers looking for summer help and teen-agers looking for jobs.

Township Auditor Arthur Stevens, chairman of the Youth Commission, said, "Now that the township has a full-time youth worker in Paul Poprocki, the auditors decided that all the work involved in setting up a program like this would be wasted if it was only for the summer."

Stevens said the board of auditors decided to continue the program throughout the year because both the teen-agers and the employers are looking for either part-time help or jobs all year long.

A SPOKESMAN for the board of auditors said registration applications have been given to guidance counselors at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village.

Stevens said Poprocki will match student application forms with job openings and will contact the student when there

BEDTIME STORY. At Tuesday's city council meeting at which the future of the fire district was discussed, a point was brought up about volunteer firemen, many of whom, in addition to being on call, spend occasional nights at the fire station. One of the fire trustees said it's called "sleep-in" duty, but stressed that very little sleeping is done. Mayor Roland Meyer agreed that "sleep-in" was not a desirable term: "When you talk about sleeping on the job, it kind of hits home with the aldermen here."

THE EVENING BREEZE. Last week at the Dist. 15 board meeting, time was taken for a dual birthday celebration for Supt. Frank Whiteley and Board Member Joel Meyer. To celebrate, Mrs. Walter Sundling, wife of the board president, prepared a smashing cake with what appeared to be spiked frosting. On the cake were birthday candles — the novelty kind that can't be blown out. Despite charges that the monthly board meeting may be the windiest spot in town, the two administrators were unable to extinguish the candles.

WINNER TAKES ALL. Preliminary approval given this week to two new apartment complexes proposed for west Palatine Road was like tallying points in a game of gin rummy. Village trustees gave the developers "plus points" for every extra improvement they planned to make above and beyond what was necessary.

Congratulations to Bob Huffman, 2907 South Ct., who will be awarded the Volunteer of the Month Award by the Volunteer Service this morning at their board of directors meeting.

Bob, 19, who is a student at Northwestern University in Chicago, earned the award for his many hours in various schools where he shared his knowledge of many subjects such as photography, conservation of wildlife, forestry, athletics, French, speech and drama. Bob also gives lectures on unidentified flying objects.

Besides filling many requests for the bureau, Bob also has been an invaluable help in recommending other talented volunteers for assignments.

Bob is majoring in speech and psychology and at the present time is actively involved in social work. He is the recreational director at the Hazel Wilson Residential Care Home, known as the Halfway House, a rehabilitational center for former mental patients.

BOB AND HIS family have lived in Rolling Meadows 16 years and he has been involved in many other activities. Last year he formed and managed a softball team for the Rolling Meadows Park District. He has also been involved in the Rolling Meadows High School intramural basketball team, and he plays basketball at the park district on Friday evenings.

When asked about his interest in sports, Bob replied, "I was never good in sports in grammar school, but when I was in high school I was impressed with physical education. Although I was just average in P, I worked up to an 'A' from a 'C' and won a senior award in physical education at Forest View High School."

Bob also received the French award the same year, having completed six years of French in four years. He wrote and produced a French television show which was shown on closed circuit TV.

Bob lives with his parents, John and Lois and has two brothers and a sister.

His older brother, Bill, 21, is an agent at O'Hare Airport and also enjoys sports and helps Bob with his lectures on UFOs.

JOHN, 15, attends Rolling Meadows High School where he is active in the jazz band symphony bands. Bob is very enthusiastic about the jazz band's trip to Halfway House on May 30, where they will entertain not only the residents of the home but also other guests such as U. S. Rep. Roman Puchinski, Sen. Charles Percy, and representatives from the Department of Mental Health.

Diane, 13, a student at Carl Sandburg School is also active in the band where she plays the flute. She recently received a second place award at a concert held in North Chicago.

Bob's father, John, was an important factor in Bob's interest in sports, having been a Little League manager for five years and he is also an avid Cubs fan.

Lois, Bob's mother, has been active in PTA, having served as vice president and legislation chairman for the Kimball Hill PTA. She also drives a school bus and is a member of the Rolling Meadows Music Boosters Club. Lois also is registered with the Volunteer Service Bureau and helps by tutoring students at Winston Park School.

Bob feels that living in Rolling Meadows is "very interesting and rewarding." He mentioned the recent publicity on such issues as the city budget and is especially impressed with our city's new ambulance.

"WE ARE THE ONLY town in Illinois that is starting this new program with the telemetry unit in the ambulance where advance calls can be made to the hospital. Even Chicago doesn't have it," Bob mentioned. "Rolling Meadows is really a pacesetter in new ideas."

At the present time, Bob is taking several eight-week courses and is looking forward to graduating next winter.

His plans are indefinite but he may do postgraduate work, teach or go into social work. Whatever he does, you may be sure that he will do well and others besides himself will benefit from his endeavors.

The Bethel Lutheran Church Women's Guild will hold a Mother-Daughter Tea Sunday at 2 p.m. A flower skit will be presented and the Harmonicettes from the Arlington High School will perform.

Refreshments will be served and tickets are $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for children. You need not be a member of the church to attend and grandmas are invited, too. For tickets, please call Mrs. Jill Sinclair at 359-4987.

Judge Upholds Policeman's Firing

by STEVE BROWN

A Cook County Circuit Court Judge upheld the findings of the Schaumburg Police and Fire Commission Thursday in its dismissal of former police officer William Heidt.

Charges of theft and grand theft which were lodged against him were dropped last month. The charges stemmed from the theft of over $1,100 in merchandise from the Sears Roebuck Co.'s Woodfield store last June. His bid for reinstatement on the force and nearly $10,000 in back pay was denied by Judge Edward F. Healy.

Heidt's attorney, Al Klest, said he did not know if his client intended to appeal the decision.

An arrangement had reportedly been proposed to drop Heidt's suit for reinstatement in exchange for the police department's acceptance of Heidt's resignation dated June 30, 1971 and a removal of the records pertaining to the dismissal from his file.

Schaumburg Village Atty. Jack Siegal said the department did not plan to enter into any such agreement.

The criminal case against Heidt was dropped after Judge Marvin Peters ruled the evidence seized in a search of a trailer outside of Heidt's home could not be used in the case. A subsequent confession, signed by Heidt, was also ruled inadmissible.

Schaumburg Police Chief Martin Conroy said the decision will help restore the

during ceremonies in St. Mary's Church. She has taught in Buffalo Grove for the past year and plans to make this her home for a few years. She is from LaGrange.

Sister Beth Ann Takes Vows

Nun's Story: 'Hope, Faith'

by RICH HONACK

Not every woman can become a nun. It is a job, like any other — but it takes much sacrifice, dedication and time. It also means devoting your "whole life" to someone else — God.

This is Sister Beth Ann's story.

Sister Beth took her final vows as a nun last Saturday in the Old Church at St. Mary's in Buffalo Grove, where she is a junior high school teacher. She has been a nun with the Teaching Sisters of St. Francis for 11 years.

ORIGINALLY from La Grange, Sister Beth went to Alverno College in Milwaukee and received her bachelor's degree in English. She is currently working on her master's degree Northwestern University.

"At first I wanted to become a missionary sister with the Holy Ghost Missionaries. However, I changed my mind and decided I liked to teach," said Sister Beth. She felt her services would be better rendered as a teaching sister.

She said she has seen many nuns leave the sisterhood since she started, but "there is a certain strength in me, I guess, that allowed me to take my final vows."

She added, "I feel a great hope for the future of the sisters. Maybe not in numbers but in those dedicated to serve. I guess it's a cliché, but what we'll lack in quantity we'll make up in quality."

SHE SAID that with more dedicated nuns more good will be accomplished. Sister Beth added that the sisters of today make broader commitments and open themselves up more to the community.

"In the past we were considered 'superhuman' type people. We wore long habits and we weren't really looked at on a personal level," she said.

Sister Beth related one funny incident when she was still wearing the habit, but included sleevelets which covered the arm from the wrist to just above the elbow.

"I was once helping some of my students wash the desks in a classroom and I removed by sleevelets. One young boy looked at me in surprise and said, 'Sister! You have real arms.' It was very mind bending," she said.

SISTER BETH feels the new dress codes of the nuns are helpful in coming closer to the community.

"There are many in their 30s who really feel nuns should dress in the habit, but older people and younger accept the change. They still look at us as nuns but they don't seem as shy."

"When I was in Sarasota, Fla., last year, the retired people, who make up

1,000 Expected At Lions State Convention Here

More than 1,000 persons are expected at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel tomorrow night to hear the keynote address of the Lions state convention, running today through Sunday.

Warren E. Greene of Monterey Park, Calif., a director of Lions International, will deliver the address during the state banquet beginning at 6:30.

Honored during the evening will be the Lions district governors and their wives. Host for the entire convention is the Palatine Lions Club.

The first plenary session of the convention will begin at 3 p.m. Saturday, with an address by Arlington Heights Village Pres. John Woods and the presentation of colors by Palatine Boy Scout Troop 9.

Greene was elected director of Lions International at the Association's 53rd Annual Convention in Atlantic City, N.J. in 1970.

A life member of his Lions Club, Greene served his district as a 100 per

Judge Refuses To Drop Middleton Theft Charge

A circuit court judge yesterday denied a motion to dismiss theft charges against Dr. James Middleton of Des Plaines, who is accused of stealing lumber from a construction site last year.

Associate Judge George Zimmerman rejected the move by Middleton, who claimed the charges against him should be dropped because the owner of the lumber, Anderson Construction Co., has never brought a formal complaint against him.

Middleton, of 969 Elmhurst Rd., was convicted earlier this year of sexually assaulting a woman patient at his office and of illegally manufacturing and possessing explosives, a federal violation. He is appealing both convictions.

Zimmerman said in the Des Plaines branch of circuit court that he could see no reason to dismiss the theft case. The judge continued pre-trial proceedings until June 22, saying Patrolman John Meese will be able to explain at that time why he arrested Middleton.

Meese, who was not present in court yesterday, arrested Middleton Sept. 28 last year, accusing him of loading the lumber into a small trailer at a local construction site and trying to drive away with it.

Middleton, however, has maintained that he was using the lumber to help free his auto, which he said had become stuck in a ditch next to the site.

The doctor, who lost his license to practice medicine last year, had his theft trial assigned to Zimmerman on Monday when Associate Judge Francis Glowacki approved Middleton's request for a new judge.

Middleton charged that Judge Glowacki had been prejudiced against him by Assistant State's Atty. Daniel Mirabelli, who is prosecuting the theft case.

In his case for the administrative review of the police and fire commission findings, Klest had stated that the commission had not given Heidt proper notification or sufficient statement of charges regarding his suspension.

Heidt, who was not present at Thursday's court action, did not attend last summer's hearing of the police and fire commission either.

Full-Year Program Seen

Twp. Teen Summer Job Referral Service Expands

The Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors will operate a teen summer job referral service again this summer and plans to continue the employment program all year according to William Rohlwing, township supervisor.

Rohlwing said the board decided to repeat the service because the program received so much support last year from both employers looking for summer help and teen-agers looking for jobs.

Township Auditor Arthur Stevens, chairman of the Youth Commission, said, "Now that the township has a full-time youth worker in Paul Poprocki, the auditors decided that all the work involved in setting up a program like this would be wasted if it was only for the summer."

Stevens said the board of auditors decided to continue the program throughout the year because both the teen-agers and the employers are looking for either part-time help or jobs all year long.

A SPOKESMAN for the board of auditors said registration applications have been given to guidance counselors at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village.

Stevens said Poprocki will match student application forms with job openings and will contact the student when there is a suitable job. Stevens said the student will be expected to contact the employer to set up an interview.

Industrial and retail companies in the township will be contacted by mail or telephone in an effort to discover jobs, Stevens said.

Persons with jobs for teen-agers may call the township offices at 437-0300. Students also may apply for job placement at the town hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights. The offices are open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon on Wednesday and Saturday.

Bus Fare, Book Fee Hike OK'd

A $4 hike in yearly bus fare and establishment of a $5 book fee for kindergarten students were approved Tuesday night by the River Trails Dist. 26 School Board.

The board voted to raise the bus fare to $20 per child, continuing district policy to charge only three children per family. The raise affects both children who pay to ride the bus to Dist. 26 schools as well as those who ride the bus to St. Emily and St. Alphonsus Catholic schools. Dist.

26 students who live more than 1 1/2 miles from school will continue to ride the bus free.

Supt. Thomas Warden recommended the board approve changes in fees. He said the bus hike was needed because the district bought three new buses recently and because the transportation fund is operating under a $20,000 deficit.

"WE'RE HOPING to get the deficit down to $10,000 this year and balance the transportation fund next year," Warden said. He pointed out that the hike will cost parents an additional one-half cent per bus ride, while the district spends $45 a year to bus a student.

"All the taxpayers in the district are now subsidizing the cost," he said. "The question is if the parents of the children who ride the bus should do it." Of the nearly 1,200 students who ride the bus, 686 pay bus fare.

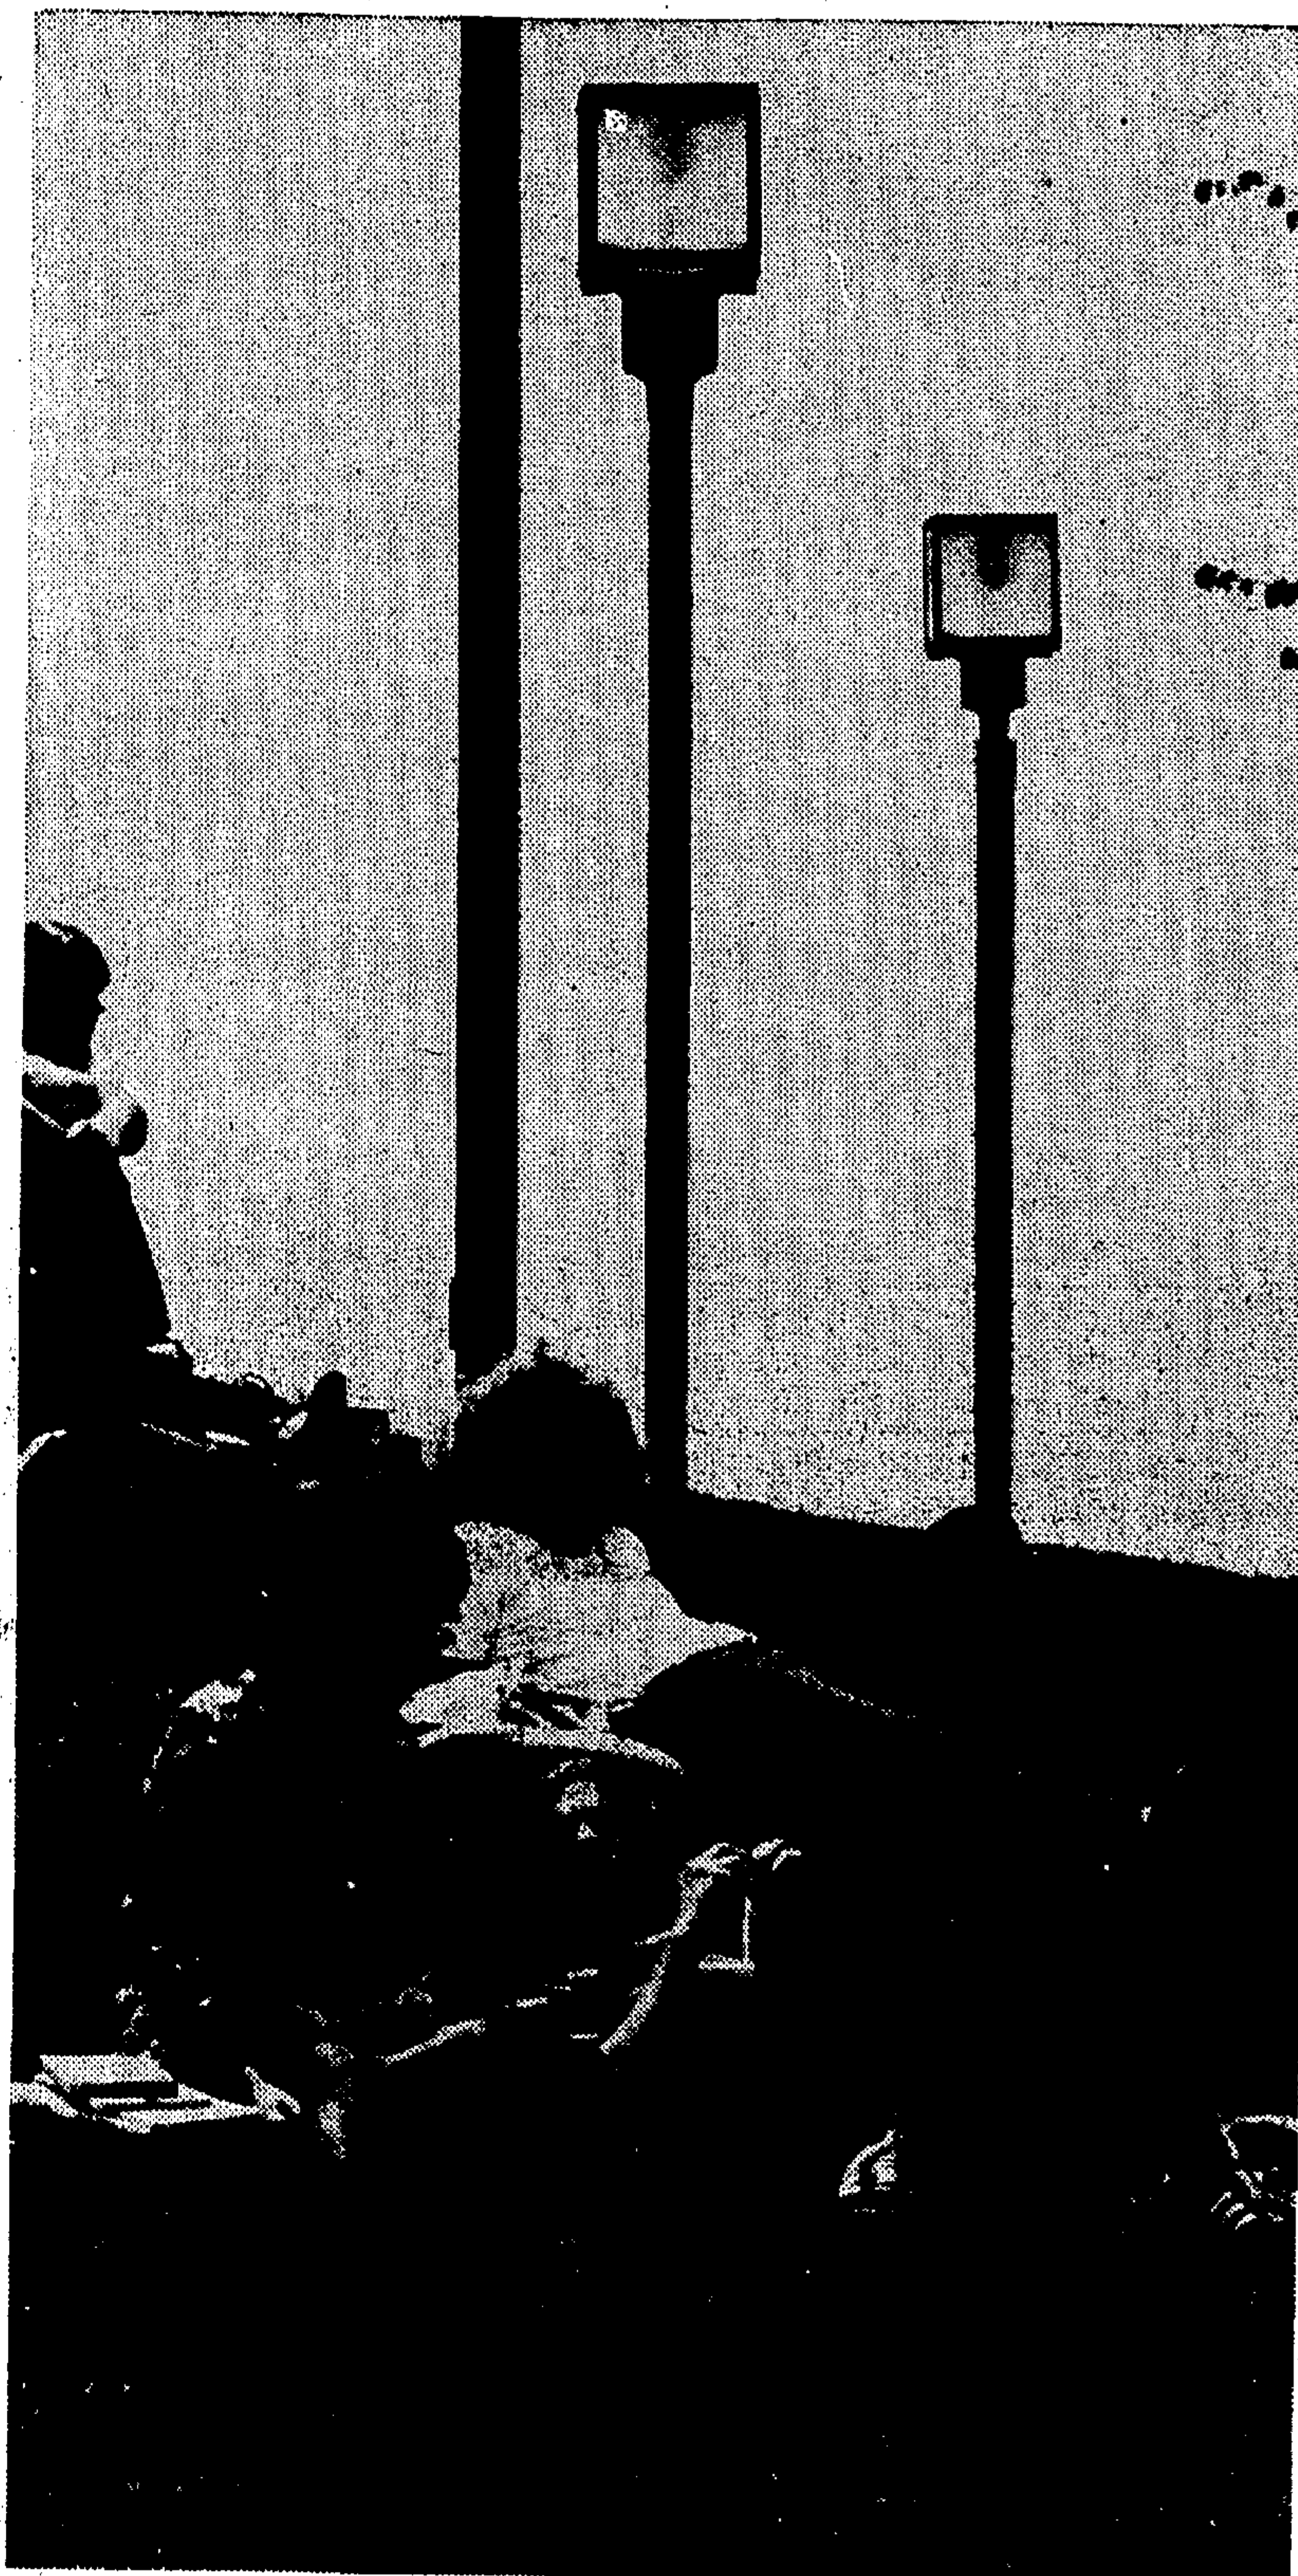

Board members James Bowes and Leora Rosen voted against the hike. Board member Lloyd Demel abstained from voting.

"I wonder if this is getting into a raise that is a little bit less than palatable to parents," Demel said.

THE DECISION to establish a kindergarten fee was unanimous. The money will be used to help pay for materials used by kindergarten students.

Warden said the additional materials are needed because students are learning more in kindergarten than before. "You can blame that on 'Sesame Street' and the 'Electric Company,'" he said. He said the fee would bring in an additional $1,100 from the approximately 270 kindergarten students the district expects in September.

"If we don't charge the fee, the money will have to come out of the textbooks or supply accounts which already have deficits," Warden said.

SUMMER-LIKE temperatures which settled in the suburbs this week led to relaxing scenes such as this group of students taking advantage of the soft lawn at Harper College. Warm temperatures have been promised throughout the weekend.

Auto Safety Check Slated Tomorrow

Residents can have their cars checked tomorrow at the Auto Safety Check sponsored by the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce.

Vehicle inspectors will examine cars from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Emerson Street between Central Road and Busse Avenue in Mount Prospect. Items that will be checked include front and rear lights, turn signals, windshield wipers, battery and belts, tires, parking brakes, foot brakes, exhaust system, shock absorbers, alignment, seat belts and the horn.

Teacher Negotiations Stalemate

Teacher negotiations in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 reached a stalemate Wednesday, and the two bargaining teams are now taking the first steps toward outside mediation.

The stalemate came after Henry Valley, spokesman for the school board's team, said the board had rejected a proposal from the teachers to open bargaining on the salary contract even though the two sides had failed to reach a settlement on the negotiations agreement.

Valley also reiterated the board's rejection of several points the Prospect Heights Education Association (PHEA), the teachers' bargaining unit, wants included in the list of items to be negotiated. That list is part of the negotiations agreement.

Valley concluded by saying, "We feel we are not going to turn the district over to the union (PHEA). If the teachers don't like it, they can leave."

TO THAT Larry Halter, PHEA spokesman, said, "That sounds like 'love it or leave it.'"

Valley: "Right."

Halter: "We feel we can love it, leave it or change it."

The items rejected by the board have to do with grievance procedure, extra duty for teachers and substitute teacher evaluation among other things. The board also refuses to include class size, school calendar, and staff reductions among the items that will be negotiated.

The PHEA has rejected two board proposals including one for the 7 1/2-hour work day.

FOLLOWING A PRIVATE caucus among PHEA bargaining team members, Halter told the board team, "The board is failing to bargain at this time. Under the National Labor Relations Board act this would obviously be a violation if negotiations were being carried on in private." Dist. 23 is holding open bargaining however.

Halter also charged the board with violating the first amendment of the U.S. Constitution concerning the public's right to "petition the government for a redress of grievances."

Halter said labor bargaining officials have interpreted the first amendment's provision for "redress of grievances" to mean the freedom to negotiate. He charged the board with refusing to bargain and indicated the PHEA may consider a federal suit against the school board over this.

The two sides agreed an impasse had been reached, and initiated the steps outlined under the current negotiations contract for solving a bargaining impasse.

However, the first step called for the board's bargaining team to meet with the PHEA.

The two teams were not even able to agree on a meeting time, and as a result, each side will meet with its own membership before returning to the bargaining table next Tuesday night.

13 Vie For Title Of 1972 Charity Queen

One of thirteen candidates will be named queen tomorrow at the 1972 Charity Fair at the Mount Prospect Shopping Plaza.

Money containers with each candidate's picture have been placed at locations in Mount Prospect, and each penny donated counts as a vote. The woman with the most votes will be queen and receive a trophy, gift and corsage.

The fair will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the plaza, Rand and Central roads. A number of groups will set up booths to sell goods and food. Money raised will be given to each organization's favorite charity, according to Adele Jeschke, shopping center spokeswoman.

At 1 p.m., the Kitchen Band, consisting of senior citizens, will perform. The fair is sponsored by the Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Association.

QUEEN CANDIDATES are Jayne Schwartz, River Trails Chapter of Women's American ORT; Ethyl Ohm, Young At Heart Senior Citizens; Carol Sunahara, Northwest Suburban Day Care Center; Barbara Norkett, Waycinden Park Woman's Club; Sharon Thebault, Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club; Sandy Sisson, Northwest Assembly of God; Mary Knutsen, Nathan Goldblatt Cancer Research Fund; Connie Reed, St. Alphonsus Women's Guild; Mary Wilcox, Mount Prospect Woman's Club; Pam Peterson, Maryville Volunteers; Patrice Meyer, Campfire Girls; Laura Oland, Teenagers for Special Kids (TASK); Judy Paruba, Northwest Suburban United Cerebral Palsy.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Gov. George C. Wallace, his temperature and pulse rate running high as expected after surgery, underwent physical therapy to maintain circulation in his paralyzed legs. There was no indication that the exercises had produced any signs of life in Wallace's legs.

President Nixon met for an hour with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to make final arrangements for the President's summit talks with leaders in the Kremlin next week. Nixon is to leave tomorrow.

A team of four British frogmen parachuted to the luxury liner Queen Elizabeth 2 in the mid-Atlantic last night to search for six bombs an extortionist said would be exploded unless $350,000 ransom was paid. No bombs were found.

The Justice Department sued General Electric, charging antitrust law violations since at least 1965. It charged restraint of trade by means of reciprocal purchasing agreements with its customers and suppliers. The company vowed to fight the charges.

Attorneys for Angela Davis won a three-day delay in starting her defense, which they promised would be brief.

The State

Racing Commission chairman Alexander MacArthur told the U.S. House Crime Committee that electric whips used by jockeys to shock horses to greater speeds have been found at Hawthorne Race Course and Fairmont (Ill.) Park.

A proposed statewide lottery that could net Illinois $100 million a year came a step closer to reality when the Illinois House Appropriations Committee approved $1.5 million to set it up.

A 16-year-old Chicago boy who had left home Wednesday to fish in the Des Plaines River was found slain in a forest preserve on the city's Northwest side. Police were still seeking clues.

The World

Egypt's war minister, Mohammed Ahmed Sadek, said his nation will continue to prepare for battle against Israel but will not be provoked into ill-timed fighting. Egyptian officials also expressed the hope that the Nixon-Kremlin talks will lead to a break in the deadlock in the Middle East crisis.

A British soldier died of gunshot wounds and two civilians were injured in shooting incidents between Protestants and Catholics in strife-torn Northern Ireland.

The War

U.S. warplanes raided above the Demilitarized Zone, knocking out six bridges around the North Vietnamese port city of Dong Hoi and destroying several ammunition and fuel supply dumps. Thirteen Americans were reported killed in combat last week, six fewer than the previous week.

Marilyn Hallman

Hank and Jackie Chakoin, 300 N. Dale Ave., decided to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary in a special way — with a trip to Hawaii. "It was fabulous," reported Jackie. During their eight-day stay, they visited Oahu and several outer islands.

One highlight of the trip was their stop in Seattle, Wash. There they enjoyed getting acquainted with their new grandson, Matthew. Matthew's parents are Martin and Holly Chakolan. Martin works for the Seattle mayor as his writer.

MORE THAN 300 school volunteers will receive a special thank you on Monday from school board members, district administrators, and teachers. They will be guests of honor at a party in the Lincoln School library.

"This is to show our appreciation for all the hours that these volunteers have spent in the schools this year, doing a variety of jobs," explained board member Edith Freund. Since money is scarce in the district, many people pitched in to help with preparations, she said.

Library and resource teachers, who have received many hours of assistance from volunteers this year, offered to bake cookies. The grandmother of two Fairview School students volunteered to make a floral arrangement. Shirley Gunderson, director of library services, has been assisting Mrs. Freund with arrangements.

Joseph Mabus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Mabus of 600 N. Elmhurst in Prospect Heights, has been promoted to lance corporal in the U.S. Marine Corps. He is currently stationed in Iwakuni, Japan.

GOOD NEWS DEPARTMENT: Peggy Metge was recently crowned queen of Greek Week at Illinois College in Jacksonville, Ill. The annual celebration featured inter-society softball games, a picnic, debate, and games such as pie-eating, root beer chugging, and water balloon throwing contests.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, to which Peggy belongs, captured the women's society award for these games. Peggy, a freshman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Metge, 405 MacArthur Dr.

Nine local Boy Scouts recently received the God and Country award at Community Presbyterian Church. They are Craig Alexander, Jeff Baranski, William Erickson, Kenneth Hugh, Gregory Janssen, Lee Kuivinen, Matthew Kuivinen, Roland Miller Jr. and James Munn.

The God and Country program provides Boy Scouts with special opportunities to put their faith to work. Leaders working with the boys were also recognized. They are Dale Janssen, Fred Hugh, Bill Kuivinen and Jim Munn.

"TECH TOPICS," the Georgia Tech alumni newsletter, arrived this week with a timely bit of news about Apollo 16 commander John Young.

It seems Dr. Kenneth Jacobs, head of the engineering graphics department, recently discovered that he had given Young a 'D' grade back in 1951. He decided to correct this "judgment error."

In his letter, Dr. Jacobs wrote: "In checking the official transcript, I note that Mr. Young was graduated with highest honors with an overall grade average of 3.6. It seems, therefore, fully substantiated that the 'D' grade I gave him, the only such grade he ever received at Georgia Tech, is in gross error. I am enclosing a grade change form changing the grade from 'D' to 'A'."

Board OKs Central, Mount Prospect Road Study Funds

A $1,900 traffic study for the Mount Prospect and Central roads area was approved by the Mount Prospect Village Board this week following a closed executive session on the matter.

The study will be used in conjunction with a suit brought against the village by the Zenith Radio Corp. and Dominion Development Co.

In the Circuit Court suit, the plaintiffs are asking the court to order the village to allow construction of a convenience shopping center at the southwest corner of that intersection.

Last November, the village board voted to deny a zoning change from residential to commercial for the property, on which two Zenith radio towers and a transmission building stand. The towers have been used only as an advertising medium for about 40 years.

The village had recently filed its arguments in the case.

The center, if built, would contain a White Hen Pantry store and possibly a florist and laundry-cleaning business, according to plans submitted during last fall's public hearings on the project. At these plan commission hearings, between 25 and 35 neighborhood residents objected to the proposal.

The objectors cited the traffic problem as one of their main objections to the center.

Volunteers To March In Syttende Mai Parade

The Wheeling First Illinois "Volunteers" Drum and Bugle Corps will march in the annual Syttende Mai parade in Stoughton, Wis., Sunday.

The local drum and bugle corps will represent the Scandia House Smorgasbord Restaurant of Mount Prospect in the parade, which is in honor of Norway's independence.

The parade in Stoughton will be the third appearance for the Volunteers this spring. The corps marched in the VFW Loyalty Day Parade in Chicago and appeared last Saturday in the Sesquicentennial Celebration in Galena, representing the Wheeling Historical Society.

Local appearances by the year-old corps will include Wheeling's Memorial Day parade on May 29, and appearances in Arlington Heights and Wheaton in June and July.

THE VOLUNTEERS will appear in both the VFW and American Legion state and national conventions.

The corps still is accepting invitations to parades in area communities, and can be contacted at P.O. Box 333, Wheeling.

Ask Approval Of Well Construction

Mount Prospect's five-year water system improvement program may be speeded up by a year as the administration has asked the village board to approve the immediate construction of the well for the area south of Golf Road.

The well and its accompanying reservoir tank and pump station would cost $492,000. The village board delayed action on the proposal last Tuesday because a complete financial package for the improvement had not yet been drawn up. The board will vote on the plan at next Tuesday's special meeting.

One factor calling for the speed-up of the program is the immediate availability of special drilling equipment which can cut the drilling time by at least three months. This equipment, now in Wisconsin, will use a rotary drilling method.

THE LOCATION originally planned for the well has been moved. It was to have gone on Dist. 59 school land near Dempster Junior High School.

Instead the well will go on an acre of land, donated by Bud Semrow of Des Plaines, behind the Minnesota Plywood building. Mayor Robert D. Teichert said Semrow wants the land annexed to the village eventually.

There is a problem with financing the well. Teichert estimated that the water and sewerage fund has some $300,000 available for the project and another $100,000 could be transferred from another account. This would leave about $100,000, which may have to be obtained through a short-term loan, Teichert said.

Under the plans, the well, which would be drilled by the J. P. Miller Artesian Well Co., will have a steel casing in an effort to cut down costly maintenance bills. There is a layer of sand underneath the whole Mount Prospect area and this sand often leaks into the present wells, clogging them.

The well, with the rotary drilling, could be ready in early fall, according to Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley.

Plans For Apartments On Rob Roy Land Ready

Plans for a 524-unit apartment complex to be built on the north portion of the Rob Roy Driving Range will be revealed by the developer, Kenroy, Inc. of Skokie, at tonight's public hearing of the Mount Prospect Plan Commission.

Kenroy is seeking to have the complete 40-acre driving range annexed to the village and rezoned for a multi-family planned unit development. The south 19 acres are currently under a condemnation suit by the River Trails Park District.

Bill Dillon, an attorney for Kenroy, said that present plans call for nine four-story buildings. Of the total number of units 25 per cent will be one-bedroom, 50 per cent two-bedroom and 25 per cent three-bedroom.

There will also be "quite a bit of landscaping," formal gardens and tennis courts, he said.

ACCESS TO THE development will be from Alton Road on the west end of the complex. Alton Road will be extended south to Euclid Avenue.

Three other hearings continued from last month, will also be heard by the plan commission. In one, a White Hen Pantry store is being planned for Camp McDonald Road, 185 feet west of River Road.

To the immediate north of this location, J. M. Brickman Mid-West Corp. hopes to build 85 condominium units and 13,000 square feet of commercial use in a six-story building.

The third case seeks to build a 172-unit apartment building at the northwest corner of River and Foundry roads.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock in the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

And In Other Action . . .

In other action this week, the Mount Prospect Village Board did the following:

—approved funding for the Shoppers' Special Jefferson Park to Randhurst bus so it can operate to the end of the month;

—approved an engineering contract with Alstott and March for design work on the Rand, Mount Prospect and Central roads intersection;

—gave the go-ahead to temporary office space to be installed at the Addressograph Multigraph Corp.;

—allowed Kenroy, Inc. to change its Huntington Commons plan so that it now includes two 12-story buildings, rather than two five-and seven-story combination buildings;

—allocated up to $1,000 for distribution and printing of a senior citizen low-income housing survey;

—and annexed two parcels of land along Ojibwa Trail.

IFT Charges Music Teacher's Rights Violated

Charges that the Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board violated state law by dismissing a vocal music teacher were made Monday by representatives of the Illinois Federation of Teachers (IFT).

David Lange, IFT representative, asked the board to reinstate Robert Rothwell, vocal music teacher in the district for five years. Rothwell was dismissed last month when the board authorized a cutback of 16½ positions to lessen the district's financial deficit.

Appearing at Monday night's regular board meeting, Lange told the board:

"Our attorneys feel this is a serious violation of the Illinois School Code in reference to Mr. Rothwell's dismissal."

AT THE SUGGESTION of Supt. Eric Sahlberg, the IFT representatives agreed to let attorneys for both sides discuss the situation. Gilbert Cornfield, IFT attorney, said he is "hopeful the matter will be resolved without legal action." If it is not, however, Gilbert said the IFT may file suit against the Dist. 57 board in Cook County Circuit Court.

According to the school code, a teacher with tenure (having taught more than two years in the same district) can be dismissed if his position is eliminated. If that teacher is certified to teach another subject, he should then have priority for employment over a non-tenure teacher. Rothwell said he is certified to teach kindergarten through ninth grade. Lange pointed out that non-tenure teachers are employed for next year in those positions.

Lange also criticized the administration: "This is a case of negligence on the part of the administration in not looking into Rothwell's background." Rothwell produced his certificate after the board authorized the cutbacks.

Sahlberg said staffing decisions were based on the school code and regulations of the Illinois Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

"THERE'S AN interpretation and application of the school code in question," said Cornfield. "Our position is that Rothwell's rights were violated. There is no question that he is qualified to teach other subjects. Also, we feel the board is obligated to provide him a hearing as part of the right of our process of law. They should review the evidence."

Cornfield added that the school code is "ambiguous" in provisions for permitting teachers a hearing.

The Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA) a chapter of the Illinois Education Association (IEA) also tried to aid Rothwell, according to MPEA president Penny Osgood. The IEA is a rival teacher association of the IFT.

She said the MPEA sent a delegation to Sahlberg to discuss the issue.

"We felt this approach to be the most appropriate. We feel it is an ethical decision on the part of Dr. Sahlberg," she said.

To Resolve Pact Dispute

by WANDALYN RICE

Negotiating teams for the High School Dist. 214 board of education and the district's teachers agreed Wednesday to call in a three-member fact-finding board in hopes of resolving their 1971-73 salary contract dispute.

The two teams, meeting in closed session, agreed to call in the team as required by their present contract's impasse procedures. The team will recommend a settlement within 62 days which must be voted on by the board and teachers.

The two teams met following a demonstration by more than 200 teachers outside the district's administration building at 799 Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect, Wednesday night. The teachers stood around the entrance to the building, saying they were demonstrating concern for the negotiations.

Last week, teachers voted down a proposal from a mediator which called for reduction of the pay for beginning teachers by $300, and a raise for teachers now in the district of $100 plus the increment called for in the present contract because of additional experience.

DURING THE demonstrations, Richard Chierico, former president of the Dist. 214 Education Association bargaining unit for the teachers, said: "This is not a confrontation. We have an excellent relationship and this in no way jeopardizes that."

Other teachers in the group felt the offer presented by the mediator was completely unacceptable. One said, "I think the board is just being stubborn."

A sign placed outside the front door of the administration building read, "The median income of Arlington Heights is $16,000. The average Dist. 214 teacher's salary is $12,700." On the other side, the sign read: "Do not extrapolate our salaries to twelve months. Forty weeks at 50 hours a week is more work than fifty weeks at forty hours a week."

Figures from the 1970 census show Arlington Heights has the highest average income in the Northwest Suburbs. Averages for other communities served by Dist. 214 in 1970 were: Buffalo Grove, 13,800; Des Plaines, $14,318; Elk Grove Village, $12,787; Mount Prospect, $14,529; Rolling Meadows, $11,259 and Wheeling, $10,920.

Negotiations between the Dist. 214 board and education association began in January with proposals for the 1972-73 contract from both sides. Under the bargaining procedures the two sides called in a mediator, John Haas, a former Dist. 214 board member, when they could not reach an agreement within 80 days. Haas reportedly made the proposal turned down by the teachers last week.

Fact finding is the last step in the negotiating process. If the fact finders' proposal is not approved, the proposal will be made public. The contract then calls for negotiators to "seek assistance through whatever procedure available."

Last year the agreement between the board and association resulted in an increase in the pay for beginning teachers to $8,300 and an average 8 per cent pay increase for teachers already in the district.

Concert Is Slated

The annual spring concert will be held Saturday by the Prospect High School Music Department at 8 p.m.

The symphonic, concert, and stage bands will perform with featured student soloists Steve Duke and Steve McMurry.

Board, Teachers Agree To Call In Fact-Finding Bd.

by WANDALYN RICE

They speak Spanish at home.

Potboilers

STAGE FRIGHT. Writing a report is one thing, but standing behind it as seven members of the Environmental Control Commission try to find mistakes in it is another, as Darryl Kenning, assistant village manager, and Gene Willroth, director of public works, found out. When "discussion of the report regarding solid waste disposal systems" came up on the ECC agenda this week, Kenning said, "I move we adjourn." Willroth seconded the motion.

TAXES ARE FOR certain. When asked why the administration did not recommend that the landfill be used to dispose of the village's solid waste for three years or so, and wait until new incineration techniques and new legislation has come out, Willroth said, "The only thing that's for sure in the next three years is that I'll be three years older." "Oh, I don't know," ECC member Mary Schlott piped in, "taxes will go up, too."

A TACTICAL ERROR? An attorney trying to convince the Village Board that it should permit a new Chinese restaurant to open in town blundered Monday night in the example he used to show that prior experience as a restaurant owner was not necessary to run a good restaurant. "If I, as an attorney, could somehow keep inexperienced lawyers out of business I'm sure I'd have the support of every lawyer on LaSalle Street just because it would limit competition," he said. "Oh, I take very serious exception to that," exclaimed Trustee James T. Ryan, who proceeded to inform the puzzled advocate that three of the village's seven trustees are practicing attorneys.

Villages Could Lose Flood Insurance Plan

Municipalities that qualify for the federally subsidized flood insurance protection program, which includes Palatine and Arlington Heights, may have their eligibility removed if their local land use controls are inadequate.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is in the process of notifying over 100 towns across the country that they will lose their qualifying status unless more stringent land use and zoning ordinances are adopted by local officials within 90 days.

Any removal from the program would not affect either Palatine or Arlington Heights too greatly since only one Palatine resident and two Arlington Heights residents have applied for the insurance. The two towns applied for the program last year and received notification from HUD on their qualification in December and January.

To date, officials in both towns have received no word from either HUD or State Farm Fire and Casualty, the firm handling the insurance for all municipalities in Illinois, that they would be dropped from the program.

Allen Sander, Arlington Heights village engineer, said the U.S. Soil Conservation Service will be conducting a detailed study of the village land-use controls but he does not expect this study will in any way jeopardize the flood insurance program.

Richard Muir, the State Farm agent handling the program in Illinois, said the only notice he received for cancellations from HUD was for several towns outside of Illinois but none within the state.

HE SAID THE types of land-use measures HUD had in mind concerned local ordinances that would prohibit building construction in low areas or flood plains where flooding is likely to occur.

All towns must meet the requirements of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 in order to apply for the insurance program.

Flood insurance is now being offered in 1,098 municipalities and counties in 49 states under a cooperative program between business and government. Administered by private insurance companies belonging to the National Flood Insurance Association, the program was launched with $42 million in risk capital provided by these companies.

Under the program, residents in towns that apply can purchase insurance from any agent at subsidized rates. Coverage of up to $17,500 is available for single-family houses and up to $30,000 for two to four-family residences.

Flood insurance is relatively expensive if purchased by an individual and underwritten by a private insurance company. Programs of land-use and flood control were developed by Palatine and Arlington Heights in order to apply for the federally subsidized lower rates.

Rates range from 40 to 50 cents per $100 of insurance depending on the structure. Insurance up to $5,000 is also available on the contents of a house with rates between 50 and 60 cents per $100.

The insurance program applies only for flooding due to natural storms or rains. It does not apply to sewage back-up or flooding from it.

English Is A Hodge-Podge To Them

by CINDY TEW

A, B, C, D . . . Most kindergarteners can recite the other 22 letters, and even know what they look like. Some can even count to 100.

Over 50 children in School Dist. 25 come to kindergarten with a completely different outlook on life. They come to school counting uno, dos, tres or une, deux, trois . . .

For these children, reading and writing English is a scrambled up hodge-podge. They don't know how to say the words they're learning, let alone what they mean. Special classes have been set up under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act Title I, to assist these children who learn English as a second language.

"NOT ONLY DO we try to improve the language facilities, but we try to help improve the self-image of the children and create a positive attitude toward school and learning," said Mrs. Dolores Nason, one of two teachers in the program.

The key to Mrs. Nason's success in teaching children reading and writing has been the use of manipulatives. Most of the puzzles, pictures and games used, she created herself.

"Letters and numbers are too abstract a concept for these children to deal with," Mrs. Nason said. "By using plastic letters children can feel and trace, children become more interested in learning."

Among Mrs. Nason's favorite games is a hopscotch game made out of giant letters on the floor. Children are allowed to proceed with the game as they can name the letters. She also uses a game called alphabet bingo, and picture books.

"The whole idea is to get the children interested in what they're doing, and flip in the learning when they think it's a game," Nason said.

Mrs. Nason works individually with each child to find out how the children learn.

"I have one child who cannot learn individual letters. He has to learn words," said Mrs. Nason. "For this child flash cards with colors and shapes and matching words work well. He also enjoys learning out of picture books about animals I make for him."

MOST OF THE children are Spanish. Parents of the children are also involved in the program, and are sometimes indirectly benefited by it as they learn along with their children.

"The most important part of the program is developing self confidence in the students so they can be successful in the classroom," said Al Swanson, principal of Greenbrier School that about one-third of the children in the program attend.

Instead of transporting the students, the teachers move from school to school. Mrs. Nason has 27 children in six schools in the district. She has taught in the program for five years, and lives in Arlington Heights with her husband, Larry and their four children.

Band 'Exploited,' Ex-Director Says

by RICH HONACK

The Wheeling High School marching band is being used as a public relations tool, according to Irwin Brick, who resigned as director of the band this week. Brick announced his resignation in a letter of strong criticism to principal Tom Shirley.

Brick listed three reasons for leaving a post he has held for the past three years. They are:

"I feel the ever prevalent need for more and more marching performances to satisfy the powers that be (the administration) is certainly not the best interest of the students or of their director."

"I firmly believe that music education, particularly instrumental music, must be made more 'academically' oriented instead of activity oriented as it is at Wheeling High School if it is to have a measure of meaning to those involved."

"Since instrumental music is in itself one of the most demanding of the disciplines when properly nourished, I feel I must, in all honesty to myself and to the profession, leave a position in which I have little or no faith due to its superficiality."

BRICK CONTINUED his attack on the Wheeling High School administration by claiming the continued exhibitions of the band offer little in the way of music or music education. Brick said the exhibitions are "an attempt to use the band as a means of public relations for the school."

Brick added, "I consider these exhibitions as music exploitation instead of music education."

A director who has received letters of recognition from two U. S. Presidents while at WHS, Brick said, "The superficiality of continued marching band involvement throughout the year in parades, contests, etc., offers both the student and the director nothing of value other than another performance for no meaningful end result."

He added that the band is no longer thought of for education but for winning trophies for the trophy case. "They are nice to win, but what good are they? Are they teaching the students how to hold a note or giving them the education necessary to be good musicians?" he asked.

BRICK SAID the realization that music is "a stern taskmaster demanding, an unending dedication to absolute perfection" is not in keeping with the philosophy of the present administration at WHS.

"Accepting a general attitude of mediocrity seems to be the byword at WHS and that kind of environment leaves a great deal to be desired," Brick emphasized.

The Wheeling band performed at the Michigan-Northwestern football game as well as the dedication of Soldier Field before a Chicago Bear game last fall.

It also performed for the Apollo 15 astronauts when they came to Chicago and performed at the University of Illinois band competition earlier this year.

"HOW MANY of these things do the people need? These students aren't learning anything from these exhibitions."

Rand Road Property Subject Of Hearings

Two parcels of land along the west side of Rand Road near the Village of Arlington Heights will come before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals on June 2.

One parcel located on the west side of Rand Road approximately 100 feet south of Margaret Avenue is the proposed site for an office building.

The second lot, located on the west side of Rand Road about 118 feet south of Stratford Road, is being put before the zoning board as the site for sales, display and storage of glass products.

Both lots are now zoned for single-family residential use.

The rezoning hearings will begin at 2 p.m. at the Wheeling Village Hall, 251 W. Dundee Rd.

Hitchhiking Teen Hit, Killed By Car

A 19-year-old girl from Atkinson, Ill., was fatally injured Tuesday night when struck by a car while hitchhiking with an Arlington Heights teenager on Rte. 66 three miles south of Dwight, Ill.

Illinois State Police say Paul J. Bruck, 19, of 1130 N. Carlyle Place, Arlington Heights, and Marlene Reiling, 19, of Atkinson were apparently hitchhiking along Rte. 66 when the girl stepped out from behind a parked truck and was struck by an oncoming car.

The mishap occurred about 8:30 Tuesday night, police say.

DO YOU KNOW TOO MUCH?

When it comes to good health, the old saying, "A little knowledge can be a dangerous thing" is especially appropriate. We have always tried to stress that only the expert judgments of a physician, with his long period of training and experience, would be relied upon.

WHAT ABOUT MEDICINES?

Again, superficial knowledge about drugs and medicines is a serious problem. We strongly feel that it is one of the main underlying reasons for the drastic drug abuse situation that is plaguing us today. It is getting worse, despite the efforts being made to control it.

HERE ARE SOME FACTS:

How can a particular knowledge of drugs and medicines be harmful? Here are a few examples:

1. You could choose the wrong drug for a particular condition.
2. Similar symptoms of a previous ailment may be self-diagnosed as the same illness.
3. There could be side effects that will be overlooked or undetected.
4. Many drugs actually interfere with others.
5. Your body can become accustomed to a drug, leading to increased quantities, habituation and dependence.
6. Some drugs could mask other serious symptoms.

WE ARE NOT AGAINST CONSUMERISM
Public pressure to correct abuses in any area is welcomed by us. In particular, we do not wish to carry or to sell products that will not perform as intended or as advertised.

11 Considered For Special Housing Panel

by LEON SHURE

A former Des Plaines building commissioner, a member of the John Birch Society, a leader of the Des Plaines League of Women Voters and eight others are being considered for appointment to the city's new special housing commission.

In a report presented to aldermen, Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel has listed 11 residents who have been suggested to him or have asked to serve on the new commission, created late last year in response to demands for low and moderate-income housing here.

After council consideration of the 11 and recommendations from Behrel, four will be appointed to the commission, the report indicates.

These four, and three others — a lawyer, general contractor and a real estate expert — also still to be named — will study city housing problems for a year, and will make recommendations to the council.

THE 11 INCLUDE Raymond Schuepfer, former building commissioner; Jerry Perkins, 1179 Margret St., a member of the Des Plaines Citizens Opposed to Low and Moderate-Income Housing and also a member of the John Birch Society of Des Plaines; and Mrs. Alan Lapides, who headed a league study group which recommended construction of low and moderate-income housing.

Others are George Mott, 1736 Stockton Ave., former chairman of the city's human relations commission; Anne Evans, 986 Jeanette St., former Constitutional Convention delegate and chairman of a citizens group for reelection of Gov. Ogilvie; and George Olen, 1242 White St., member of the city's human relations commission and unsuccessful 2nd Ward aldermanic candidate in 1971.

Also Stuart Edinoff, 1267 Earl Ave., an officer of the Des Plaines Jaycees and a real estate man; Bert Thompson, 521 Beau Dr., a former Racine Wis. alderman and attorney for a large insurance company; Robert Nebgen, a teacher in Park Ridge; Drake Mertes, 1524 Sixth Ave., a 21-year-old Northwestern University student who has written a study on Des Plaines housing problems; and Armenia Rodriguez, a teacher at North School, 1789 Rand Rd.

Schuepfer, who could not be reached for comment yesterday, resigned at Behrel's request in November, 1970 after being charged by Rosemont police with driving while under the influence of alcohol and following another car too closely in connection with an accident that damaged his city-owned auto.

Earlier in 1970, Schuepfer was found innocent of driving too fast for conditions in Des Plaines after another accident involving his city car.

Behrel has said that Schuepfer could contribute valuable knowledge and experience.

Judge Refuses To Drop Middleton Theft Charge

A circuit court judge yesterday denied a motion to dismiss theft charges against Dr. James Middleton of Des Plaines, who is accused of stealing lumber from a construction site last year.

Associate Judge George Zimmerman rejected the move by Middleton, who claimed the charges against him should be dropped because the owner of the lumber, Anderson Construction Co., has never brought a formal complaint against him.

Middleton, of 969 Elmhurst Rd., was convicted earlier this year of sexually assaulting a woman patient at his office and of illegally manufacturing and possessing explosives, a federal violation. He is appealing both convictions.

Zimmerman said in the Des Plaines branch of circuit court that he could see no reason to dismiss the theft case. The judge continued pre-trial proceedings until June 22, saying Patrolman John Meese will be able to explain at that time why he arrested Middleton.

Meese, who was not present in court yesterday, arrested Middleton Sept. 28 last year, accusing him of loading the lumber into a small trailer at a local construction site and trying to drive away with it.

Middleton, however, has maintained that he was using the lumber to help free his auto, which he said had become stuck in a ditch next to the site.

The doctor, who lost his license to practice medicine last year, had his theft trial assigned to Zimmerman on Monday when Associate Judge Francis Glowacki approved Middleton's request for a new judge.

Middleton charged that Judge Glowacki had been prejudiced against him by Assistant State's Atty. Daniel Mirabelli, who is prosecuting the theft case.

Oakton Expanding Interim Campus

Oakton Community College, reading for a nearly doubled September enrollment of 4,000 students, has rented another building to expand its interim campus in Morton Grove.

Acting after approval last week by the Illinois Junior College Board on the building lease agreement, Oakton's board of trustees Tuesday signed an eight-year lease for a 30,000-square-foot building adjacent to the present four-building campus at Nagle and Oakton streets.

Monthly rent for the building will be $3,250, according to Trustee Paul Gilson, who headed lease negotiations. The building, like the other interim campus buildings, was part of the former headquarters of the Cook Electric Co., which has relocated directly east of the college.

Addition of the fifth building will increase Oakton's campus size to more than 100,000 square feet. The Oakton board is now studying sites for a permanent campus, although school officials have indicated that use of the Morton Grove campus will continue for as many as eight more years.

BECAUSE NILES Twp. High School Dist. 219 no longer will use part of the Oakton Campus next year as an office center, Oakton will also have use of this space of about 15,000 square feet.

At present, Oakton include about 25 classrooms, 17 laboratories and 57 offices. Its enrollment is expected to increase from 2,400 full and part-time students during the present school year to about 3,950 students.

About $700,000 worth of renovations of the former industrial site have been completed since leases were signed for several of the buildings in May, 1970.

The campus consists of a student center building, with a lounge and snack area, library and bookstore; an administration building with offices for most of the college officials and two classroom buildings. Offices are distributed throughout the campus buildings.

In other actions, the Oakton board approved a list of 46 proposed new courses. The list will be sent to the UCB for state approval, according to Richard Jordan, dean of faculties.

New courses are in art, accounting, salesmanship, child care, education, computer programming, languages, history, journalism, math, natural sciences, physical education, practical nursing and psychology.

Dolan Is Speaker

Edmund Dolan, associate professor of student development at Oakton Community College, spoke at two national conventions of educators and researchers during the past few weeks.

His topic at the national convention of the American Education Research Association in April in Chicago was "Accountability in the Community College."

He spoke on "Student's Perception of Community College Environment and its Relationship to Success" at the national convention of the Association of Institutional Research in Miami Beach.

Dolan joined the Oakton staff in August, 1971. He is a graduate of the University of Santa Clara and received his Ph.D. from Loyola University in Chicago. He studied on a fellowship at Michigan State University in 1968-69.

Lease For Playground Eyed By Parks

The Des Plaines Park District may lease city-owned land at Lunt Avenue and Maple Street for use as a small neighborhood playground.

The park district board, after rejecting a city proposal for sale of the lot, is now considering a lease for the 9,000-square-foot lot, according to Robert Kunkel, district director.

The lot, which had been until recently the site for a water system building near the Sengstock pumping station, could also be used as part of a larger park, if the city decided to lease land over an underground pumping plant, Kunkel said. City Engineer Robert Bowen will test the plant site to see if it can support the weight of park activities, including tennis, Kunkel said.

Teachers, Board OK Fact-Finders

by WANDALYN RICE

Negotiating teams for the High School Dist. 214 board of education and the district's teachers agreed Wednesday to call in a three-member fact-finding board in hopes of resolving their 1971-73 salary contract dispute.

The two teams, meeting in closed session, agreed to call in the team as required by their present contract's impasse procedures. The team will recommend a settlement within 62 days which must be voted on by the board and teachers.

The two teams met following a demonstration by more than 200 teachers outside the district's administration building at 799 Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect, Wednesday night. The teachers stood around the entrance to the building, saying they were demonstrating concern for the negotiations.

Last week, teachers voted down a proposal from a mediator which called for reduction of the pay for beginning teachers by $300, and a raise for teachers now in the district of $100 plus the increment called for in the present contract because of additional experience.

DURING THE demonstrations, Richard Chierico, former president of the Dist. 214 Education Association bargaining unit for the teachers, said: "This is not a confrontation. We have an excellent relationship and this in no way jeopardizes that."

Other teachers in the group felt the offer presented by the mediator was completely unacceptable. One said, "I think the board is just being stubborn."

A sign placed outside the front door of the administration building read, "The median income of Arlington Heights is $16,000. The average Dist. 214 teacher's salary is $12,700." On the other side, the sign read: "Do not extrapolate our salaries to twelve months. Forty weeks at 50 hours a week is more work than fifty weeks at forty hours a week."

Figures from the 1970 census show Arlington Heights has the highest average income in the Northwest Suburbs. Averages for other communities served by Dist. 214 in 1970 were: Buffalo Grove, $13,800; Des Plaines, $14,318; Elk Grove Village, $12,787; Mount Prospect, $14,529; Rolling Meadows, $11,259 and Wheeling, $10,920.

Negotiations between the Dist. 214 board and education association began in January, with proposals for the 1972-73 contract from both sides. Under the bargaining procedures the two sides called in a mediator, John Haas, a former Dist. 214 board member, when they could not reach an agreement within 80 days. Haas reportedly made the proposal turned down by the teachers last week.

Fact finding is the last step in the negotiating process. If the fact finders' proposal is not approved, the proposal will be made public. The contract then calls for negotiators to "seek assistance through whatever procedure available."

Last year the agreement between the board and association resulted in an increase in the pay for beginning teachers to $8,300 and an average 8 per cent pay increase for teachers already in the district.

N.D. Film Director

Publishes Textbook

David Coynik, director of the film study program at Notre Dame High School in Niles, has published a new textbook for high school and college use. The textbook, entitled "Film: Real to Reel," is designed for high school and junior college courses in film appreciation.

Coynik, who has studied film at Northwestern University, the University of Notre Dame, and Eastbourne College of Education, Sussex, England, holds a master's degree from Northwestern and has done graduate work in film and education there. He has taught in Notre Dame High School's film department for four years. From his experience at Notre Dame High School, one of the pioneers in the rapidly-developing film study field, Coynik devised a thirteen step program in film education, which is followed in his text.

The book, illustrated with photographs was published by St. Mary's College Press, Winona, Minn., and is accompanied by a teacher's guide.

Elected To Board

James Webster of Des Plaines has been elected to the publications and communications board at Cornell College. The board is responsible for the student newspaper, the yearbook and the campus radio station.

Webster is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Webster of 728 E. Algonquin Rd.

Teacher Unit Officials Ask 'Why' Of Pay Reject

Officials of the Teachers' Association, which this week voted down a 2.25 per cent wage hike offer in Maine Township High School Dist. 207, are polling members to find out why.

Defeat of the 1972-73 salary proposal, which apparently caught the association's executive board by surprise, came Monday when teachers voted 301 to 281 against a package that would have raised starting teacher pay from $8,400 to $8,590.

Karl Miller, association president, yesterday said the executive board members are "not sure themselves exactly why it was defeated."

"We have sent a poll to the faculty members asking them to state their opinions on certain items that could have influenced their vote. The executive board will meet again next Tuesday to consider the results of the poll," Miller told the Herald.

Richard Short, Dist. 207 superintendent, said after the proposal's defeat this week that school officials will wait now for the association to find what in the package is objectionable to the teachers.

The proposed salary package 2.25 per cent raises was in addition to normal one-year step increments based on experience, evaluation and training, according to school officials.

Under the defeated salary package, starting rate for master's degree holders with no experience would go from the current $9,080 to $9,285. Teachers with master's degrees plus 64 graduate hours would have received a top of $19,110 compared to the present $18,690.

The high school district, faced with a debt estimated by officials at more than $3 million, has eliminated 27 full-time and 13 part-time teacher positions for the 1972-73 school year.

Thorough normal attrition and resignations, officials have said, the district hopes to have jobs available for many of the 27 full-time teachers whose positions are being eliminated.

WALTER KOZACKY, a junior at Elk Grove High School, District officials are now studying the program he developed. works with the school's computer regularly to develop an inventory system for the audio-visual department.

His 'Hobby': Programming Computers

by WANDALYN RICE

Computer programming is just a hobby for Walter Kozacky.

However, the Elk Grove High School junior has developed a computer program that lists all the audio-visual equipment at the school, its value and age. And officials in High School Dist. 214 are looking at the program to see if it can be used district-wide.

The Des Plaines student started the project with the encouragement of audio-visual Dir. Dave Oswald using the school's IBM 1620 computer. Now almost all the school's equipment is listed on the program and Walter is working on new computer programs.

"The computer gives us an instant update on the equipment," Oswald said. "Before we had to go through and retype lists by hand, but now this system lists the type of equipment we have, its code and serial numbers, the date purchased and the price we paid."

THE PROGRAM has been presented to the district's audio-visual coordinator, Oswald said, and a similar system might be used in other schools. "We feel this system meets our particular interests because it lets us make value judgements about our equipment," Oswald explained.

Besides giving them a list of the equipment, Walter explained, the computer can pull out lists of all equipment over a certain age and gives a breakdown of major categories where expenditures are made. Eventually, he hopes to tie in the cost of equipment repairs so school officials can tell if certain equipment requires more repair than is normal.

The programming, Walter said, was easy. "I started out knowing what we had to do and I know what the computer can do. It's really very simple."

He added that he has never had a formal class in computer programming. "I studied electronics in sixth grade and got interested in that and then a friend introduced me to the computer. I just picked it up," he explained. Eventually he wants to become either a computer programmer or an electronic engineer.

The programming work was done partly as a project for an individual study course he has with Oswald and partly in his spare time. As Walter blushed slightly, Oswald said, "He might be a little bit humble, but even when he says it's simple he has to keep explaining it to me."

Marathon Canoe Race Set Sunday

Canoes and kayaks will race down the Des Plaines River Sunday in an annual marathon observing Clean Streams Week.

The 15th annual race from Libertyville to Mount Prospect on the Des Plaines River is billed as the largest canoe marathon in the country.

Ralph Frese, chairman of the annual race, predicted more than last year's 620 craft should turn out Sunday, providing the weather is satisfactory.

Frese said the race points up the need for cleaning up the rivers and streams in the state so they can be used for recreation.

The marathon is sponsored by the Cook County Forest Preserve District and the Illinois Paddling Council.

Canoeists will be leaving the starting point at Oak Spring Road in Libertyville from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m.

THE RACERS WILL compete for prizes in a variety of categories.

Frese said spectators can follow the race by stopping at various bridges along the route.

He said the races will officially end at 4:30 p.m. The finish line is located at Dam number 2 south of Euclid-Lake Avenue in Mount Prospect.

For next year's race an even bigger celebration is planned, Frese said, because it will be the 300th anniversary of the discovery of the Des Plaines River.

PERKINS, WHO acts as a liaison between the local anti-low-income housing group and homeowners associations, told the Herald yesterday that the new commission should consist of "all the strata in the community, pro or con" on low and moderate-income housing.

He said he is in favor of low and moderate income housing "only if it is locally controlled." He feels he can give an impartial hearing to both sides in the housing issue.

In a letter to the Herald last January, Perkins spoke out against moves by Judge Richard Austin and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to force construction of low and moderate-income housing in white neighborhoods.

"No one has an automatic right to live in any particular neighborhood," he wrote. "Community authorities have the right under our constitution to set standards through zoning laws — standards that embody community concepts. Man must be left free to discriminate and to exercise his freedom of choice. It is a virtue, not a vice, for freedom of choice sows the seeds of peace, rather than of conflict."

Perkins has been a resident of Des Plaines for five years. He has a degree in psychology and personnel management and is employed by Montgomery Ward and Co. He is a member of the Des Plaines Elks Club.

MRS. LAPIDES has served as a board member of the Des Plaines League and was its housing chairman when the league conducted a study of housing needs here.

The league study concluded that at least 100 low and moderate-income housing units are needed in the city. The league recommended "scattered site" housing, not large housing projects, and urged creation of a city housing authority.

She told the Herald yesterday that she feels more study should be made before decisions can be reached about low and moderate-income housing for Des Plaines.

George Mott, said he did not know how his name had come before the council. He had not contacted the mayor and no one had contacted him. He said he would serve if appointed.

He had been a member and chairman of the human relations commission from 1964 until last year when he resigned because "I didn't think we were accomplishing anything," and because, "I thought I was an ineffective leader."

Anne Evans could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Olen said yesterday that he could be impartial on the housing issues. As a member of the human relations commission Olen had voted against the majority view that proposals for low and moderate-income housing should be adopted.

AT A MEETING last November, Olen said "low-income housing is an obvious need that all residents of Des Plaines must face, a need so great that to ignore it would be almost criminal. Olen, who works for a firm which develops land commercially, warned against "spot zoning, and proposals which he felt would ruin neighborhoods and attract low-income people."

"Isn't it our duty first to solve the existing problems of our city? he said. "Shouldn't we solve our problems before we invite in a proven dope, rape and murder society?"

All other proposed members contacted said that they wanted to hear both sides before making decisions on housing. Neigen said he has been sympathetic to those who favor construction of low and moderate-income housing, but that he would be impartial until all sides have spoken.

Mrs. Rodriguez, said she had not been contacted by the mayor. She said she would be unable to serve on the commission because of other responsibilities.

New Bill May Force Jr. College District's To Grow

New legislation signed by Gov. Richard Ogilvie may force local junior college districts to expand their boundaries to include areas currently not in a district.

Senate Bill 1188 calls for the inclusion of all territory in the state in a junior college district by Aug. 1, 1974. If an area has not formed its own district or annexed to another by the cut off date, then the Illinois Junior College Board may order it to annex to an adjacent district.

However, a loophole tacked on to the bill by Ogilvie allows residents to vote to withdraw from a district in a "backdoor referendum." Local college officials protest that the legislation protects the resident but does not protect districts already formed.

"IF RESIDENTS petition or are ordered to join our district we have no recourse but to object at a public hearing," said Harper College Pres. Robert Lahti.

Harper College Dist. 512 includes portions of Palatine, Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Wheeling and Barrington townships. Two major areas not in a district, but adjacent to Harper College, include the Adlai Stevenson High School District in Lake County and all of Northfield Township.

Oakton College Dist. 535, including Niles and Maine townships, is also adjacent to Northfield Township along with New Trier and Evanston townships. These three townships form a large out-of-district area extending to the North Shore. Both New Trier and Evanston have turned down referenda to form their own district. They can annex to either the Harper or Oakton districts.

Study committees at Harper College are looking at the effect annexation of the three townships will have on their district. Lahti said a special citizens' committee may be appointed to assist in the study.

OAKTON OFFICIALS say they haven't given serious consideration to future annexations. If the annexations occur, the greatest effect will be on the location of the college campus. The campus has not been chosen, however, college officials hope to find a site in the center of the district.

If Oakton or Harper extend their boundaries, they will get an immediate state grant and additional state aid as students enroll. According to Lahti a sudden increase of a large number of students may necessitate using temporary facilities such as high schools or store fronts. "It would also push up our plans for a second campus," he said.

The legislative proposal originated with the Illinois Board of Higher Education which has called for a statewide junior college system similar to systems now in operation in Florida and California.

Currently there are 38 junior college districts in the state enrolling 187,000 students. Approximately 10 million persons reside in these districts, or 90 per cent of the state population. The districts encompass 41,000 square miles or 65 per cent of the land in the state.

Comedy By Local Playwright Successfully Staged By Cameo

"Here Lies Jeremy Troy," presented by Cameo Players, has special significance for theater-goers in the immediate area.

The comedy is fresh. It is the first time a local community group has staged this play. And, opening night last Friday, someone very close to the three-act comedy sat in the audience. That was Jack Sharkey, the playwright. He's local too, residing with his family in Elk Grove Village.

I met Sharkey last spring at which time he discussed his first play, "Here Lies Jeremy Troy," and his desire to see it open someday on Broadway. It had been slated several times. Yet because of either intended producers, directors or actors being called away, each attempt had fallen through.

IN THE MEANTIME, "Here Lies Jeremy Troy" has been optioned and made available to stock and community theater groups. That's how Cameo Players happened to stage it.

Because of those circumstances I looked forward to seeing the play and I wasn't disappointed in the production.

"Here Lies Jeremy Troy" is well-written, far-fetched and farcical in nature to be sure, but three acts full of good-hearted fun and laughter. That's a tribute to Sharkey. Just as much credit also goes to Cameo Players who have done an excellent job in producing the play.

Like so many comedies where the situation and characters must first be identified before the real action unfolds, the first act is a little long and tends to lag in places.

THIS IS QUICKLY remedied by the entrance of Charles Bickle, played by Hank Vandenberg, whose eccentricity and flourish serve automatically to pick up the pace, which is then doubled when Tina Winslow, played by Betty DeGros, happens on the scene.

"Here Lies Jeremy Troy" is a situation comedy revolving around a multitude of little white lies told by Jeremy which to begin to build up and gradually threaten him with exposure. He covers up by telling even more lies, seemingly harmless individually, but responsible for getting him deeper and deeper into trouble.

It all starts with Jeremy forging his law degree. The seven-year secret suddenly surfaces when an old college chum comes to pay a call and discovers the deception.

HOW HAS HE managed to play the role of a successful lawyer and even be a candidate for a partner in the firm? Jeremy answers, "The important thing for a lawyer is to sound like you're right."

Kathryn Troy, Jeremy's wife who has no idea what has been going on other than her husband has acted rather strangely since the arrival of Charles Bickle, is played by Judi Jankus.

Her reactions are good. And Betty DeGros expertly characterizes the feather-headed Tina Winslow, who is hired by Bickle, an undiscovered artist, to model for him.

The scene toward the end of the first act when Kathryn and Tina misconstrue each other's identities is one of the funniest of the whole play.

THE CAST IS complete with Don Schroeder as Sven Ivorsen, who plays Jeremy Troy's boss, the man who comes to dinner and is the target for even more lies and deception.

The play directed by Tom Ventress was only presented one weekend. That is the play's only drawback.

Quester Convention Is A Step Into The Past

With 25 per cent of the Illinois Quester chapters located in the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect-Palatine area, Southminster Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights is a good choice for the fourth annual state convention being held next Wednesday.

All 15 of the local chapters, plus the newly-formed Socrates Rand Chapter from Des Plaines, will be taking an active part in the confab which opens with registration and coffee at 9 a.m. and closes at 3 p.m.

Mrs. Robert Braun, president of Americana Hunters, an Arlington Heights chapter, and Mrs. T. G. McGlynn, president of Clarinda Cady, Palatine, are co-chairmen of the convention.

Mrs. John Murray, Salt Creek Chapter, Arlington Heights, is in charge of reservations, and Mrs. Ann Oswald, Ginger Creek, and Mrs. Robert Bates, Dunton, both of Arlington Heights, are in charge of the auction. Decorations co-chairmen are Mrs. Fred Jasper, Albert Volz Chapter, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Rodney D. Wilson, Scrimshaw Chapter, Mount Prospect.

MRS. JOHN GOODWILLIE, Olde Salem, and Mrs. R. Elrick, Four Silos, both Inverness chapters, are in charge of the luncheon, and Mrs. S. Rossati, Miami Confederacy, Arlington Heights, is in charge of the welcome.

The coffee hour will be supervised by Mrs. Charles Staadt, Prairie Violets, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Bates. Official hostesses will be members of the Miami Confederacy.

Exhibits will include samplers, early dye processes, a 19th century trousseau and old looms.

Speaker will be Dr. Stuart Struever, anthropologist who heads a team of archeologists credited with the discovery in Southern Illinois identifying 8000 years of prehistoric life.

Questers is a state division of a nation-wide historical study, preservation and conservation organization.

Construction Women Fete Bosses

Members of Chicago Chapter of the National Association of Women in Construction will pay honor to their bosses and other guests at the 10th annual Executive Evening banquet, Friday, May 26, at the Olympia Fields Country Club, Olympia Fields, Ill.

Special recognition will be given to the men who employ members of NAWIC and the highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the "1972 Man in Construction" award.

Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m.

with dinner beginning at 7:30 p.m. A program and dancing will follow. Guests of honor will include Wilma Hood, NAWIC Region Six director, and the Chicago Chapter's local scholarship recipient, Robert Shaffer.

Proceeds from the evening will go to the local scholarship fund, the Operation Woman Power scholarship fund for WIC member and other chapter activities.

Reservations for the evening may be made by contacting Margaret McFarlane, Cushing and Co., 332-2672.

Dear Dorothy: Would the activated charcoal you mention so often take away the musty odor in a freezer that has been stored closed for some time? — Mrs. H. Adamson.

It might — if the odor hasn't gone into the insulation. In the meantime, you have nothing to lose by trying various methods suggested by repairmen and readers. One way is to wash the interior with ammonia water, dry thoroughly, put in a dish of activated charcoal granules and leave for 24-48 hours with the door slightly ajar.

If this doesn't work, you might try what one reader did — keeping a steady current of air circulating from three electric fans for a week, just turning them off at night. Two cycles of freezing and defrosting completed the job.

Other remedies used have been to wash out thoroughly with either ammonia water or baking soda solution, then place a dish of vanilla or vinegar in for a day or so; one sprayed the freezer with after-shave lotion. Give any of these methods plenty of time. If none works, the odor has gone into the insulation and that's an expensive job.

Dear Dorothy: I read that cheese will take care of the calcium needed if one doesn't drink milk. Could you compare them, please? — Ida K.

One and one-half ounces of Cheddar or Swiss cheese provide a little more calcium than that contained in one eight-ounce cup of milk.

Dear Dorothy: For a quick, colorful change in my bedroom I used a brightly colored queen or king-size sheet in place of my regular bedspread for a double bed. My room is very quietly decorated so this gives it quite a lift. — Ann Matan.

Trackmen At Prospect; State Bids Await Qualifiers In District Test

by LARRY EVERHART
Track & Field Editor

Just one very tall hurdle looms between the regular season and a shot at state honors in high school track.

That hurdle, taking the form of the district meet, is ready and waiting at Prospect High this afternoon and tonight for all Herald area teams. The top two finishers in each event get coveted tickets to the big state show in Charleston next weekend.

In addition, other competitors or relay teams who finished third, fourth or fifth will also be advanced, provided they meet certain pre-determined standards of time, height or distance. (See qualifying standards on area track and field honor roll.)

Field events will begin today at 4:00, preliminaries in running events at 4:15, and finals at 7:00. Prospect is located on Foundry (Kensington) Road about one-half mile west of Rand and Elmhurst Roads.

It wouldn't be surprising if the team battle is as close as last year's cliffhanging finish when Fremd took a thrilling one-point victory over Maine South in a meet that wasn't decided until the final pole vault.

And the considerable local individual talent will be primed to be at peak form in this most important track gathering of the year — except, of course, the state finals for those skilled and fortunate enough to qualify.

It is tough to pick a favorite team-wise for tonight's extravaganza, but the three teams now figured to be in strongest contention are Maine South, Palatine and Elk Grove.

South's Hawks have many top performers back from last year's second-place district team. Palatine is the undefeated champion of the Mid-Suburban League, also with seasoned and impressive individuals, and has lost only to state powers Evanston and LaGrange. And Elk Grove is the MSL runner-up and has lost only to Palatine.

Here's the event-by-event preview for tonight:

100-YARD DASH

Pat McNamara has the best time thus far with :9.8 and was last year's district champ with :10.1. The best times in the MSL have been :10.0 by George Swegles of Conant and :10.1 by three boys — league champ Kevin Danielson of Wheeling, Palatine's J. Dubiago, and Elk Grove's Jeff Schroeder.

220-YARD DASH

McNamara also won this event last year but has been running the 440 instead of 220 as his second event this year. Dubiago won the MSL meet with :22.9 and has the previous best area time, :22.5. Larry Franzen of Maine West (:22.6) and Swegles (:22.9) have been the only other boys below 23. Danielson and Eric Porter of Schaumburg have turned in :23.1's.

440-YARD DASH

McNamara again rates as favorite on the strength of a spectacular :48.9 recently. No one else has been close.

Hersey's Dan Leider and Palatine's Jim Stauner both ran :50.5 in the conference meet for their best times, as did George Busse of Prospect with :50.8.

880-YARD RUN

This shapes up as one of the strongest events tonight with an abundance of outstanding times. The best yet was 1:55.6 by Bill Schumann of Wheeling in the MSL meet. That ties the third-best time in the state so far. Maine South's Tom Stark has run 1:56.0, Tom Jarm of Arlington 1:56.6, Fred Miller of Palatine 1:56.7, and Antioch's Gary Mandehar each 1:57.5. Miller was fourth in last year's district with 1:55.0.

MILE RUN

The best time yet has been Mandehar's 4:16.1 in 1971, which gave him sixth best in the state. He was fourth in the district last year with 4:19.4. Also in the 1971 district, Barnett was third with 4:17.2 (his best this year is 4:20.5, tops in the MSL, and Rick Phalen of Maine East was fifth with 4:21.3. Barnett was 11th in the state in '71.

TWO-MILE RUN

Forest View's Jim Wise ran an outstanding 9:20.0 three weeks ago but has been hampered lately with a leg injury. Barnett won the MSL meet in 9:26.8. Fremd's Mark Nugent has run 9:27.0 and Maine South's Huffman 9:30. Elk Grove's Brian Powell also is a threat to place with a 9:31.7 best, along with teammate Damian Archbold.

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES

Frank Taucher of Elk Grove is a strong threat, being undefeated this spring in the highs. He has a :14.7 and several :14.9's. A strong challenge could come from soph Bill Klippert of Maine West, the only other hurdler under :15 with a :14.7 also. Les Leonard of Maine North was second in the district with :15.1 last year. He and several others have been in the middle 15's this season.

180-YARD LOW HURDLES

Dave Jensen of Elk Grove has the top time so far with :19.7 and Taucher owns a :19.9. Klippert has the next-best time of :20.2. Another Grenadier, Steve Busse, recorded a :20.7 and Palatine's Jan Fitzgerald — third in the district in 1971 at :20.4 — ran :20.9 last week.

SHOT PUT

Mark Chidley of Arlington has turned in the best marks with a peak of 53-11. The only other boy over 53 has been John Sloan of Rolling Meadows. Shot putters of 50-plus have included Meadows' Bob Sloan (John's brother), Fremd's Jerry Finis and Ken Vale, Forest View's Dave Schneider, Wheeling's Bill Chiebek, and Maine South's Jim Staunton and Mike Carroll.

DISCUS THROW

Defending district champion Jim Leopardo of Elk Grove, sixth place finisher in the state, is back with a 152-plus peak. He won with 155-9 last year. Staunton and Finis (with the best area toss this spring, 159-4) are the only others who have topped 150. Rich Miller of Conant has had the next-best toss, 146-2.

POLE VAULT

A rash of fine marks were recorded in the MSL meet a week ago. Arlington's Greg Morand, fourth in the district a year ago, won with 13-6 and Palatine's Paul Streater had 13-3. Three other vaulters have reached 13-0 — Hersey's Steve Sucher, Arlington's Dave Auge and Wheeling's Gerry McGlothlin.

LONG JUMP

Jon Edstrom of Maine South is favored, having jumped over 22 feet.

The MSL provides other top marks in this event to date with boys who have gone over 21 feet including Ray Nee of Prospect, Jeff Schroeder of Elk Grove, Dave Kuntz of Hersey and John Hughtett of Conant. Hughtett was fifth in last year's district.

HIGH JUMP

The favorite here should be Palatine's Jim Brandt, whose top leap this year has been 6-5 and has gone 6-4 several times (including last year to win the district). Howie McCarthy of Fremd has a 6-3 jump to his credit. Other MSL performers who have reached 6-2 are Rick Phillips of Conant, Warren Jacobsen of Elk Grove and Rich Hammesfahr of Hersey.

MILE RELAY

This could be a close three-way battle among Maine South, Palatine and Hersey. All have been in the middle 3:20's. Conant owns a 3:29.0 and Elk Grove 3:29.5. Last year there were a pair of 3:23-pluses in the district (with Maine South winning).

880-YARD RELAY

Palatine and Hersey share the best time to date among entries, each with 1:32.0. Wheeling ran 1:33.2 last week and Elk Grove previously turned in a 1:34.8.

ONE OF THE events that youngsters will be competing in during the Chicago Park District Special Olympics is the long jump this Saturday. Over 1,200 mentally retarded children, including several Herald area representatives, will be trying for gold, silver and bronze medals in track and swimming events. Grant Park's Hutchinson Field will be the site of the track events with Eckhart Park hosting swimming. Everything gets underway at 9 a.m. today and will continue through the day. Eckhart Park is located at 1330 W. Chicago Ave.

TRIBUTE TO CARSTENS

Dear Sirs:

I will not sign my name to this letter because I am merely one of thousands in the Des Plaines and the Maine Township areas who would like to express our congratulations to Maine West baseball coach Al Carstens for being named to the Illinois High School Baseball Tournament's Hall of Fame.

Coach Carstens has been known as one of the best baseball men in the state and it is fitting that his achievements of three state championships have been duly acknowledged by the Hall of Fame committee.

I am sure that all of the young men who have played for coach Carstens in the past 14 years would not trade that rewarding experience for anything in the world. Not only is he a fine coach, he is also a fine man.

Congratulations — and thanks — to you, coach Carstens.

SEAVER THE BEST

Dear Herald:

I hadn't realized it until I heard Brickhouse (Jack) say it on television Monday night, but the Cubs' Ferguson Jenkins, the Cy Young winner, was 6-0 against Philadelphia last year.

Talk about fattening up. Maybe the Phillies are better this year but they weren't much in 1971.

I looked up what Tom Seaver of the Mets and Jenkins did against the top teams in the two divisions last summer — namely Pittsburgh, St. Louis, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

Against those four teams Jenkins was 6-8. Seaver was 9-1.

Maybe those New York writers who said Seaver was more deserving of the Cy Young award had something after all.

Jenkins is a fine pitcher, but until he proves he can win against the contending clubs, then I'll take Seaver anytime in a pressure game.

A STEAL FOR SOX?

Dear Sirs:

All I can say is, what could the Los Angeles Dodgers possibly have been thinking about when they traded Dick (Richie) Allen to the White Sox for Tommy John?

I am rejoicing as a Sox fan, for it looks like the biggest steal they have pulled off in many moons. The only better deal I can think of is the hiring of Chuck Tanner as manager.

Allen looks unstoppable when he is up with men on base. You just know he's going to hit the ball hard, even if the pitch isn't that good. He has the quickest bat I have ever seen.

I know John has been pitching well for the Dodgers, but no matter how good a year he has, there's no way he will be more valuable than Allen. A pitcher only plays once every four days, but a guy like Allen is a tremendous psychological boost every minute of every game.

BOWLERS APPRECIATIVE

Dear Herald:

Let me take this opportunity to thank you and your sports staff for the wonderful coverage you have given our league in the Paddock Publications. Since this is a civic association bowling league, most of the bowlers are from the immediate area and beam when they see their names in the paper.

It is most gratifying to have our neighborhood paper publish our scores even though we are not major-league bowlers. Thanks again and see you next year.

FORGET THE STRIKE

Dear Sirs:

The (major-league) baseball strike has been over for more than a month now, yet many people can't seem to forget about it. I know that sentiment has been overwhelmingly against the owners and in favor of the players throughout the issue, but I for one am getting tired of hearing about it.

There have been many articles speculating that the reason for attendance being a little down so far throughout the majors is public resentment about the strike. I think this is nonsense — bad weather has probably been more responsible than anything — but if the strike has anything to do with it, I think the fans are being ridiculous.

What difference does it make to me or you or anyone else how much money any major-leaguer makes or how much his pension is going to be? It's still the same game they're playing and the same top-notch entertainment. I say, more power to anyone who can make as much money as possible. Wouldn't you or I do the same thing if we had the opportunity?

I don't see why the fans should be angry just because the season started a week late. That's one week out of about 25 — the least important week when the weather is lousy anyway. Let's forgive and forget — live and let live, etc. — support the players and enjoy our great national pastime.

Approve Lights For East Field

The Maine East football field will soon be ablaze with new and better lighting, thanks to the generosity of the Maine East Athletic Boosters. At its regular monthly meeting Monday evening, the District 207 Board of Education approved the Booster Club's proposal for a $20,000 relighting program for the field, the entire cost to be borne by the association.

Booster president John P. Maloney attended the meeting and presented the board with the organization's check for $2,000 to start the project. The Booster Club proposes to raise all necessary funds for the relighting job and, over a period of four years or less, will reimburse the Board of Education for any expenses involved in the project.

The board also expressed its sincere appreciation to Harry Volkman, prominent TV weather forecaster, and his family for the donation of a Curvemaker Pitching Machine to the athletic department at Maine North. The $1,000 pitching machine can be adjusted to throw a variety of curve balls, and will be a valuable training tool in the school's baseball program. Volkman is one of Maine North's most active parent boosters.

Larry Mlynczak

HE IS STANDING next to a television announcer, dripping with sweat and his crooked nose, broken so many times, is looking at you from the screen.

A wide grin of satisfaction is spread across his face. At this time he is very happy. And you are somehow very happy for him and with him.

His name is Jerry West. His basketball team, the Los Angeles Lakers, has just won the NBA championship. Yes, you are happy for him.

Chances are, you have never personally met Jerry West. Yet, you do like him. Everybody likes Jerry West.

Maybe it is because we can identify with him — all of those near misses for the championship goal he so earnestly sought. The Dallas Cowboys may have blown a few championships, but Jerry West never did.

It always seemed that the deck was dealt against him. There were always those circumstances, always that misfortune. Jerry West never blew the championship; time just ran out on him a few times.

The relationship between Jerry West and the sports fans is one of the great phenomena in the world of sports. How was it that millions of fans — a fraction of them season-long Laker fans — were rooting for the Lakers during the playoffs? Or were they rooting for Jerry West to finally have the good fortune to win the big one?

There are other such relationships in sport. Johnny Unitas is another one of them.

Johnny U. plays the game with such ultimate class that you have to take a liking to him. He has won the big one, yes, but he has also lost a few heartbreakers.

It is easy to like Johnny Unitas, but not so much with others. Roman Gabriel is machine-like and is never as good as he should be. Terry Bradshaw came along too good too fast. Gary Cuozzo does not have that distinct class and command on the field.

Arnold Palmer is loved and followed by millions — who join his Army to watch his emotional game, his successes and his hardships. Arnold Palmer is easier to identify with than, say, Frank Beard and his emotionless, precision-like game.

These are the favorites to millions. These are the All-American boys. And there are others.

Have you ever heard anybody knock Bart Starr? Or Ernie Banks? Or Al Kaline? Or John Havlicek?

They are among the classy performers in sport who have gained the adulation of an entire country. To that list you can add Brooks Robinson, Gale Sayers, Billy Williams, Dave DeBusschere, Bobby Hull, Jim Ryun, Bob Gibson, Gary Player and Jerry Lucas.

Sport has a few athletes who should never have been as good as they actually are. These are the athletes who get more out of their abilities and limited talents than the "experts" ever predicted that they would. American sports fans hold the odds against him — Danny Abramowicz, Tom Matte, Ed Podolak, Tom and Dick Van Arsdale and Ron Hunt.

And has anyone ever gotten more out of his limited abilities than Raymond Berry?

Due to particular physical factors, other athletes have gained the favoritism of sports fans.

Imagine the balding, heavy-set guy sitting in front of his television set in his tee-shirt saying, "Look, Martha, look at that Mickey Lolich. He's fat and he wins 25 games a year. So quit nagging me about losing weight and bring me another beer."

The average sports fan can identify with Freddie Patek, Calvin Murphy and Garo Yepremian because through these individuals they can see that there is still a place for the little man in sports. You really don't have to be 6-foot-6 to play the game.

The older set relishes in the successes of the elder statesmen in sport — George Blanda, Alex Delvecchio and Hoyt Wilhelm.

And the frustrated athletes in this world can certainly identify with the Milwaukee Bucks' Toby Kimball who looks about as unathletic as a professional can be.

Some athletes add a special flair to their sport, they stamp their mark of excellence upon the sport. You enjoy the exuberance Willie Mays, Dick Butkus, Frank Tarkenton, Larry Wilson, Pete Rose, Bobby Orr, Mike Curtis and Roger Staubach bring to the boys' games men play.

Yet, there are some who are criticized for that very reason. The fans say these athletes over do it. They are attention grabbers. They are what you call "hot dogs."

Though most of them are undeserving, Rose, Pete Maravich, Ron Santo and Carl Yastrzemski have been given this tag.

And then there are the ones whom hardly anybody likes — other than by the fans of the cities they play in. Duane Thomas does not hold the place in the hearts of most sports fans. Neither do Dock Ellis, John McKenzie, Derek Sanderson, Dick Allen, Alex Johnson or Denay McLain.

Fans are very fickle in their likes and dislikes of the athletes of their sports world.

Wilt Chamberlain was not a nationwide favorite for years because, as the Big Dipper said, "Nobody roots for Goliath." But the fans cheered for Wilt as he went against the new Goliath, Kareem Abdul Jabbar.

Nobody really liked the moody Roger Maris until he brought to St. Louis the type of hustling ball he was always capable of playing.

Of course, to the die-hard sports fan, there are the fringe players who have become favorites.

Rocky Bridges was one of those. Bridges has been made reasonably famous by two profound statements he made.

After the Dodgers, whom Bridges played for, lost in the playoff to the Giants in 1951 (the Bobby Thomson homer year), the utility infielder was asked,

"Where do you think you lost the pennant?"

"When we lost to St. Louis on opening day," Bridges replied.

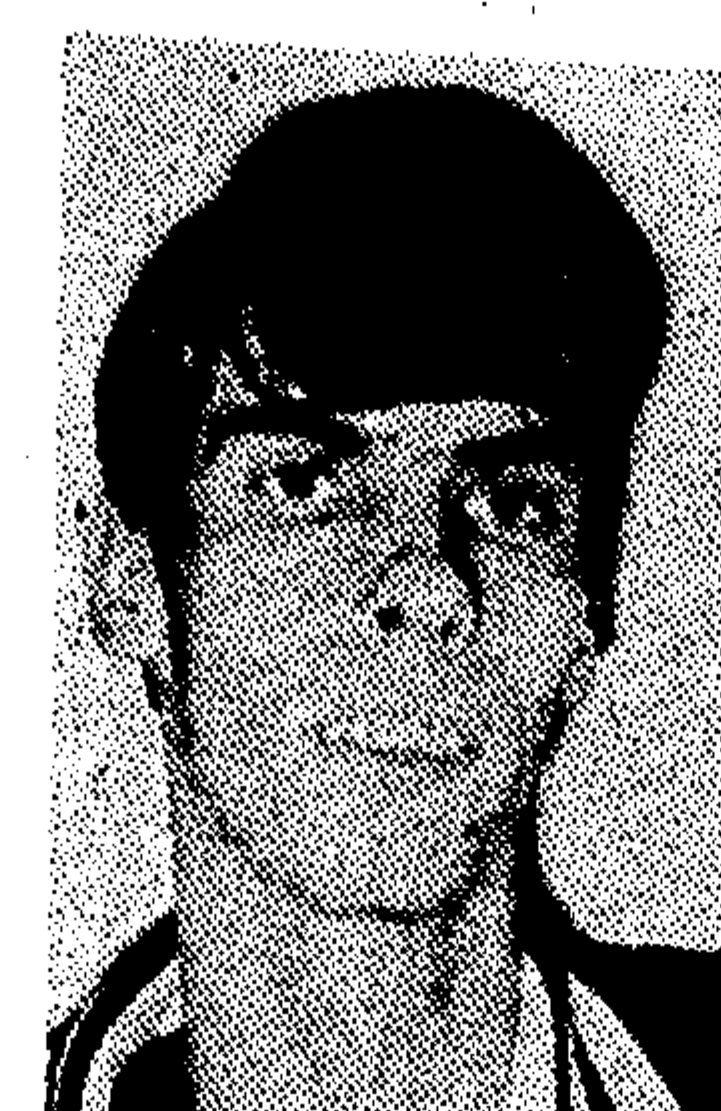

Another noted Bridges quip came forth when he was a coach for the California Angels which went:

"The ultimate secret of a great third base coach is having a fast runner."

And who could dislike a guy like Moe Drabowsky who once received a letter from a young boy which read:

"Baseball needs more flakes like you."

'Wait And See' Develops After Bondeson Signs

Mark Bondeson

Harry Schmidt

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

In the midst of allegations and investigations into the University of Illinois' basketball recruiting procedures, Maine East's All-Conference and All-Area forward Mark Bondeson has signed with the Champaign-Urbana university.

Bondeson signed a national letter of intent and sent the form to Illinois basketball coach Harry Schmidt on Wednesday morning. On Wednesday afternoon, the Chicago Daily News reported that allegations had been made and investigations were taking place into the basketball recruiting procedure at the University of Illinois.

The Daily News' report has been substantiated and Big Ten commissioner Wayne Duke said Wednesday night, "As a result of allegations filed with the NCAA, this office and the NCAA are conducting a joint inquiry and review of the University of Illinois' athletic practices."

Maine East head basketball coach Paul McClelland said, "When Mark signed the letter of intent, he had not heard of the story about the investigation. When he heard about it, his first reaction was, 'Oh, no, I can't believe it.'"

Reportedly, the investigation was touched off by complaints made by Alvin O'Neal, a former player at Peoria Spalding High, who went to Illinois. He supposedly became irritated at the basketball coaches' handling of his case at the university, where he ran into academic difficulties, and later transferred to Murray (Ky.) State.

The Herald has learned that O'Neal's difficulties extended beyond the classroom and that disciplinary problems, which O'Neal further thought were mishandled by the Illinois coaching staff, also added to his disenchantment.

Other players recruited by Illinois have been questioned, including former Chicago Harper High star Kris Berymon, who also ran into academic difficulties and transferred to Robert Morris Junior College in Carthage, Ill., and later to Northwestern University.

Berymon has been contacted by NCAA officials about recruiting methods used to induce him to come to Illinois. Berymon denied that any irregular offers were made to him by Illinois.

"To the best of my knowledge, nothing irregular was offered to Bondeson," McClelland said. "But then, I was not in on all of the discussions between the Illinois staff and Mark and his parents."

Bondeson was one of the state's most sought after high school seniors after a season in which he led the West Suburban League in scoring with 21 points per game and in rebounding with 20 per game.

The 6-8 forward was contacted by at least 65 colleges and had firm offers from 20.

Among the 20 firm offers were those from Illinois, Wisconsin, Arizona, Louisiana State, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Northwestern.

According to McClelland, Bondeson had narrowed his choices down to Illinois and Wisconsin by last Friday. Bondeson was scheduled to visit the Illinois campus last weekend and the Wisconsin coaching staff was to visit the Bondeson home Tuesday night.

Bondeson and his parents spent most of the weekend in Champaign and Sunday night. Bondeson called McClelland and told the Maine East coach that Illinois was the choice. McClelland subsequently called Wisconsin head coach John Powers to cancel the Tuesday visit to the Bondeson home.

Bondeson is considered to be a prize recruit for Schmidt, who has been criticized for not signing the top Illinois prep stars of the past few years, including Proviso East's Jim Brewer, East St. Louis Assumption's Rick Suttle, LaGrange's Owen Brown, East Aurora's Tom Kivisto, Thornridge's Lloyd Batts and Joliet Central's Roger Powell.

-Bondeson Signs With Illini But...

It is also expected that Schmidt will not sign one of the country's most sought after players, Thornridge's Quinn Buckner. Buckner is reportedly heading toward either Indiana or UCLA.

Bondeson is said to be Schmidt's best prospect in the past two or three recruiting seasons.

Schmidt's teams have had mediocre years in three of his five seasons, finishing seventh, second, third, fifth and seventh in the Big Ten. These finishes came despite the fact, say his critics, that the state has produced a number of major college prospects from its high schools in each of those years.

Schmidt's status was further jeopardized during the last week of the season when his captain, Jim Krelle, abruptly quit the team and released a letter through his parents to the news media denouncing the coach.

There are also reports that Billy Morris, Illinois' best sophomore, will transfer to St. Louis University next fall, which certainly does not enhance Schmidt's shaky position on the staff.

Informed sources have revealed that the Illinois athletic board has scheduled a meeting for this month to either review Schmidt's status with the university or perhaps for the purpose of forcing Schmidt to step down.

Among the names bantered about as a replacement for Schmidt is Evanston High coach Jack Burmaster, who coached his high school to the state championship in 1968.

According to McClelland, Bondeson's letter of intent will probably not permit him to sign with another Big Ten school, if he even chooses to do so.

"If Mark does change his mind, we will have to investigate the situation," McClelland said. "For instance, if Illinois is put on probation and not permitted to compete in post-season play, then it can be argued that Mark was signed under circumstances and under a situation which did not exist when he was recruited and signed."

It is expected that the University of Arizona, which signed Maine East's All-State forward of a year ago, Dale Deschamps, will now make another big recruiting push at landing Bondeson.

"Right now Mark is going to let it ride," McClelland said. "He is going to take a wait-and-see attitude. Nothing has been proven at this point and all that has been made is allegations."

"I'm sure that no further decisions on his future will be made until the investigations have been completed."

Schedule Tryout Dates For Semi-Pro Baseball

Try out dates have been set for the new semi-professional baseball team in the Northwest Suburban area.

Organizer Frank May has set Sunday, June 4, and Saturday, June 10, as tryout dates at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights. Both tryouts will start at 1 p.m.

Anyone who is not eligible for American Legion baseball may try out for the semi-pro entry which will play approximately four games per week and eventually hook up in the Central States summer league.

Anyone who lives in the Herald circulation area is invited to attend the tryouts.

For additional information on the new team contact Frank May at 537-7377.

The squad is also conducting a "Name The Team" contest and entries should be submitted to May at 1 Bernard Court West, Buffalo Grove, Ill. 60090. May encourages youngsters to submit entries because the winner will become the official team batboy and also receive a portable radio.

League Net Meets Slated

Conference tennis meets in the Central Suburban League, the West Suburban League and the Suburban Catholic Conference will be held this weekend.

The Central Suburban League meet will be held at Glenbrook North and Deerfield and New Trier West are rated as the favorites for the championship. Niles North should also be in the running and Maine South, Glenbrook North and Glenbrook South will battle it out to get into the top three. Maine West could finish as high as fourth and fifth. Maine North has not won a match this season.

The West Suburban League meet will be held at LaGrange and Hinsdale Central is expected to be the team to beat. Also entered are York, Downers Grove North, Glenbard West, LaGrange, Proviso West, Riverside-Brookfield and Maine East. Maine East could finish in the middle of the pack.

Notre Dame has a shot at the Suburban Catholic Conference crown at Riles Park, provided St. Viator and Marist falter somewhat.

Demolition Derby In Spotlight

A Demolition Derby in which a dozen cars will be reduced to junk before the night is over, will divide the spotlight with the new Late Model stocks and Super Six cars next weekend at Raceway Park, the nation's busiest race track, located at 130th Street and So. Ashland Avenue in Blue Island.

The Late Models and Super Sixes will hold sway next Saturday night with a 30-lap feature for the Late Models and a 20-lap main event for the Super Sixes. This, plus six 10-lap heat races, three in each division, and a six-lap Trophy Dash for the five fastest qualifiers of the night.

On Sunday night a dozen driving maniacs will assemble on the track with just one purpose in mind, that of putting the cars of all opponents out of commission and fit for the nearest junkyard. This Destruction Derby will be held in conjunction with the regular program of Late Model and Super Six races, providing the customers with a double-dip treat for the night.

Promoter, Pete Jenin, who has been operating Raceway Park for 26 years, is anxious to develop hundreds of ardent young customers, so has announced that from now on, all children, 11 years old and under, will be admitted free to the track when accompanied by an adult. This means all parents can bring their children to the park for free admission, if they are 11 or under, except for special or championship events. And, as per usual, parking is free to the patrons, with parking space available for several thousand cars.

The first big special attraction booked for the season will be held on Sunday, May 28, with the running of the annual 100-lap Twin 50 Classic for drivers of Late Model cars who can pick up a double purse for the night. A capacity crowd is looked forward to for this big event with at least 50 cars expected in the competition that night.

Trumpeter Mendez To Perform Here

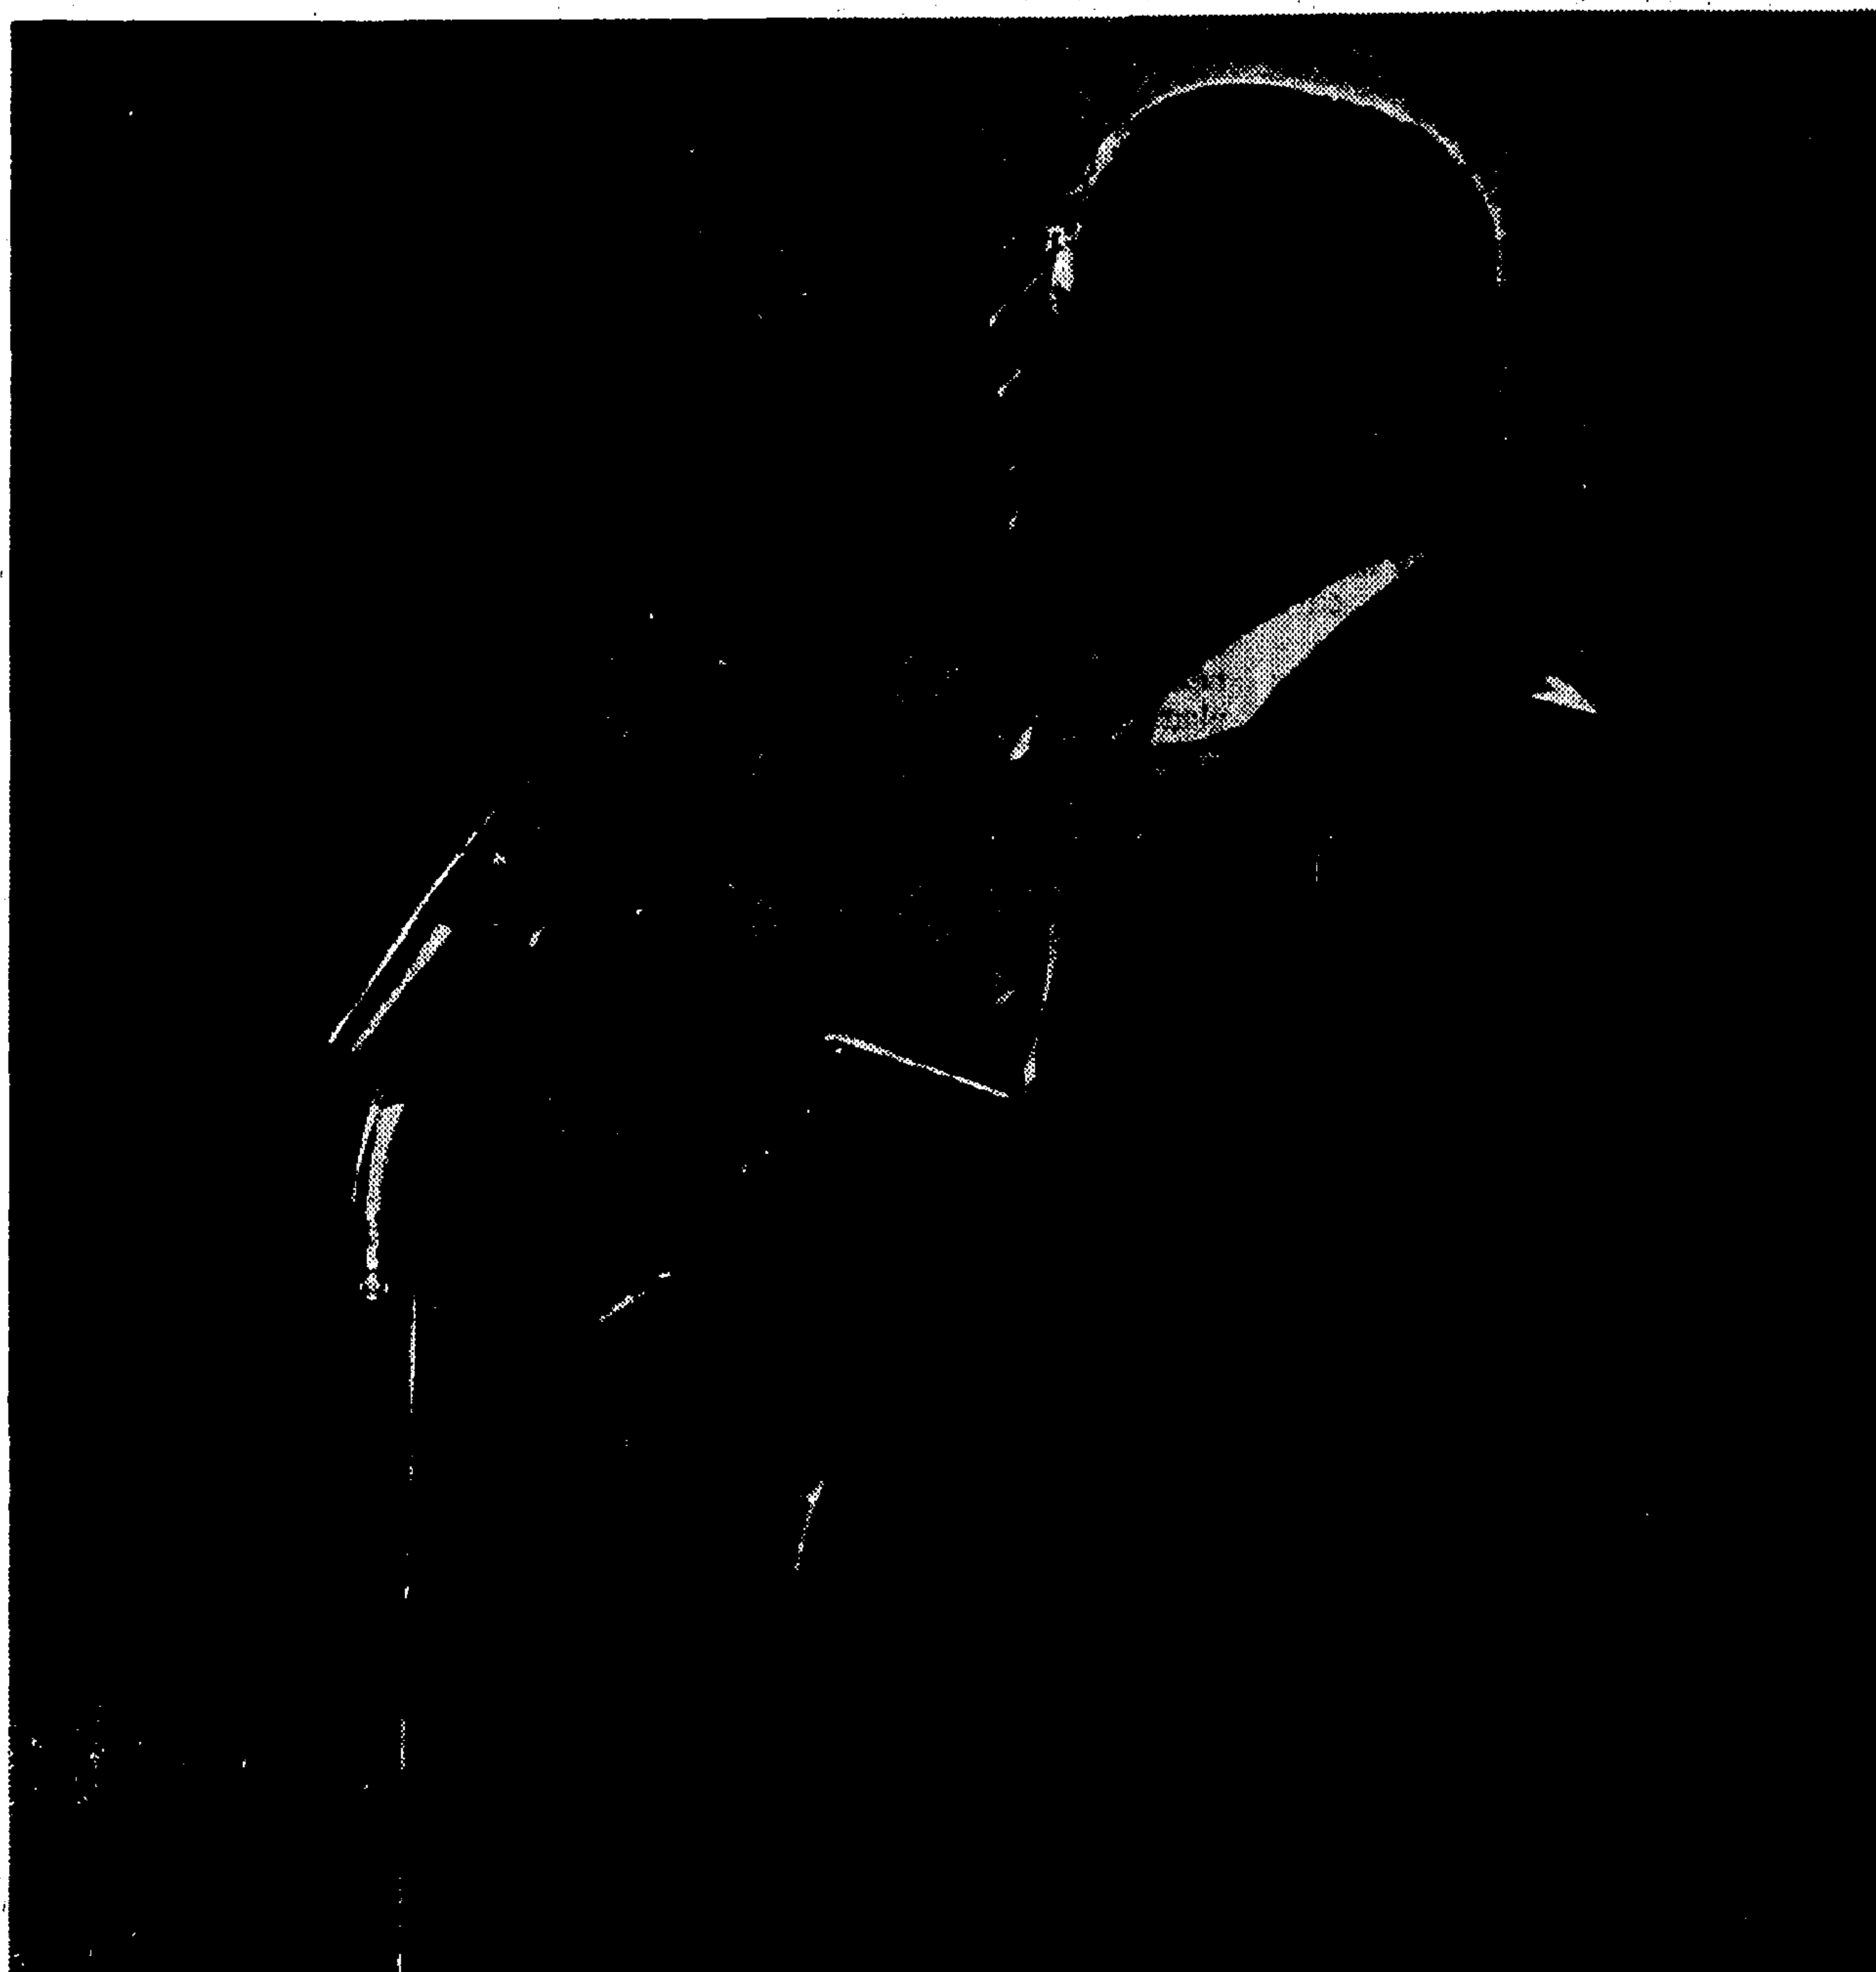

Rafael Mendez, world famous trumpeter, will perform Sunday with bands from Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect.

Mendez, a soloist with leading symphony orchestras, has performed on television with Ed Sullivan, Red Skelton, Milton Berle, Jimmy Durante and Stan Kenton. He was on radio with Bing Crosby and the NBC Symphony and has appeared in several movies. Currently the artist is under contract with Decca records. The concert begins at 6:30 p.m. at Forest View High School, 2121 S. Goebbert Rd. in Arlington Heights. Tickets are $2 per person and can be obtained by calling 439-0041 or 437-4812.

Sunday's performance will be the second time Mendez has played with the Dempster bands. His appearance last year was so well received that the Dempster Band Parents Association asked him to return this year.

MELENZ WILL play "Marcarena," "Fascination" and "Cardas" with Dempster's symphonic band and "Flight of the Bumble Bee" with the jazz band. Four Dempster trumpeters will play with Mendez in "The Girl for Chihuahua." They are Glenn Wennerstrom, Chuck Evans, Steve Ford and Harry Daniels.

Also performing in the concerts will be the prep and concert bands and the beginner's band whose members come from five elementary schools that send students to Dempster. All the bands are under the direction of Richard Falato, Dempster band director.

STUDENTS LISTENED to favorite folk songs and a "bit of storytelling" recently when Win Stracke performed at Lions Park School in Mount Prospect. Stracke, founder of the Old Town School of Folk Music in 1957, is a veteran opera and classical music singer. His performance was sponsored by the Lions Park PTA.

Mendez began playing the trumpet when he was a boy in a small Mexican town, about 350 miles northwest of Mexico City. One of 15 children, he and his family formed a band. The orchestra became famous in Mexico and for 6½ months the Mendez family traveled with Pancho Villa, the famous Mexican bandit.

Now semi-retired Mendez spends much of his time with music students. Each year from January through May, he travels across the country to perform in about 30 concerts with junior high and high school students.

Communities Must Voice Interest On Water Plan

by ROGER CAPELLINI

Northwest suburban communities adjacent to the four which make up the DAMP water commission, will be asked, perhaps for the last time, if they are interested in obtaining drinking water from Lake Michigan.

The decision to again communicate with surrounding communities came at the conclusion of a regular meeting of the Northwest Municipal Conference in Rolling Meadows Wednesday night.

The session was a joint meeting of the conference members and representatives of DAMP — the water commission serving Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

DAMP chairman Robert Teepe of Mount Prospect presented a report to the conference members, bringing them up to date on the activities of the DAMP commission and the status of its efforts to secure an allocation from the state to divert water from Lake Michigan.

Teepe told the group that after years of delays for various reasons, the DAMP commission has some optimism today that the allocations may finally be forthcoming before the summer is ended.

TEEPE ALSO TOLD the group DAMP has met formally with a similar commission — Tree Towns in DuPage County — and the two have agreed in principle that a joint operation would be to the best interests of both groups. He said an ad hoc committee of the two commissions has been formed to draft a joint operating agreement or an agreement to achieve joint ownership of a system if attempts to obtain the statutory changes necessary to permit joint ownership of property are unsuccessful.

Teepe said any other communities which may be looking to either commission for their water supply should make their desires known soon.

"Ideally," Teepe said, "we should be making plans to bring the lake to our doorstep by means of a large diameter tunnel which would be adequate in size to accommodate the population growth now projected for the Northwest and West suburban areas."

The DAMP chairman added, "We are hopeful the time for decisions is near at hand and invite all communities interested in participating to make themselves known."

Robert Teichert, mayor of Mount Prospect, suggested to the group that the DAMP commission is not seeking to enlist the cooperation of all other communities in the area, but is simply making available the current status of its activities.

"We're ready to vote and go ahead as soon as we get the allocation," Teichert said. "The communities around us should be aware of this. It is too late to try to undo or expand DAMP."

JOHN G. WOODS, Arlington Heights village president, then made a motion that the conference undertake as a project, "the communication to our fellow members and communities adjacent to DAMP the substance of this meeting so they may communicate with DAMP if they have any interest." The motion was seconded by Teichert and unanimously approved.

During the meeting Teepe displayed a map indicating the water, once diverted from the lake, would flow through a tunnel by gravity to a water filtration plant planned for land near the Maryville Academy on River Road in Des Plaines.

Two systems, one directed to the DAMP communities and the other to the Tree Towns communities, would stem from the water plant.

Scouting News

GIRL SCOUT TROOP 733 will hold a fun fair Wednesday from 4 to 6:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, 766 Graceland Ave., Des Plaines.

More than 2,000 prizes will be given away at the games tables, some of the games being a sponge toss, dart game, bowling, beanbag, and more. Besides the games, there will be a gift table. Some of the items for sale are smile purses, bulletin boards, homemade candles, shell pictures, soap mitts, and more goodies.

A bake sale will also be held with more than 50 bakery goods for sale. There will be a white elephant table for the bargain hunters, and refreshments will be offered at nominal prices.

No game will cost more than 10 cents with most of them priced lower, and bakery goods will run from 2 cents on up. Admission is 5 cents.

Girl Scout Troop 733, which is composed mostly of girls from West School, urges everyone to attend the fair, as they would like to share their fun with others.

A DEMONSTRATION BY 20 postal workers was held yesterday afternoon at the Hoffman Estates Postal Station, located next to the Hoffman Plaza shopping center. Management practices by local postal supervisors were protested during the gathering of mail carriers.

'Bull Whip Bosses' Hit By Carriers

Carrying placards protesting "bull whip bosses," mail carriers in Hoffman Estates and surrounding communities marched one hour yesterday in a picket line at the Hoffman Estates Postal Station, Roselle Road between Golf and Higgins roads.

Bob Wells, spokesman for Local 4887 International Association of Letter Carriers, said the 20 men and women were protesting management policies of Station Superintendent Sheldon Galanter.

He said the policies protested encompassed harassment, favoritism, and mismanagement.

Before the picketing started, Galanter met in the station with F. C. Storey, a postal inspector who said he had been sent out from Chicago to observe "any picketing." Galanter refused to comment on his policies.

"WHAT WE WANT him to do is treat people like human beings. It's as simple as that," said Wells. Some of the signs carried by pickets read:

"Incompetent supervision breeds inadequate mail delivery."

"Hoffman Estates supervisors only go by the book when it's to their advantage."

Joe Pizzo, a Hoffman Estates mail carrier, on suspension Thursday, said his case precipitated the demonstration. Pizzo said he and Asst. Supt. Mitchell Wisniewski "had words" recently and Pizzo threatened to call the main branch postmaster in Roselle.

Wisniewski allegedly told him to go ahead and when he left to do so before his lunch break started, said Pizzo, he was suspended for three days.

Art Workshop Set At Rupley

Students from Elk Grove Township Elementary Dist. 59 schools and two area Catholic schools will hold an art demonstration during the Art In Action Workshop from 10-9 p.m. Friday at Ira Rupley School, 305 E. Oakton St., Elk Grove Village. The public is invited.

Also at the workshop, a family harmonica group, "Patti and the Jenners," will perform at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

At the workshop students will be at working making such things as cartoon movies, pictures, and miniature floats.

Schools Make Pitch To Boost Intramural Sports

Student participation in interscholastic sports could be promoted by increasing the number of athletic teams, according to Sharrie Hildebrandt, Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 curriculum committee chairman. She made the comment at a meeting Tuesday of her committee.

Mrs. Hildebrandt said at a school board meeting Monday that more study of the intramural-interscholastic athletic programs in Dist. 59 were needed. The committee met for the third time yesterday.

The intramural sports program is operated within the individual schools while the interscholastic events are contests between schools. Dist. 59 participates in seventh and eighth interscholastic basketball through the Northwest Suburban Junior High School Conference.

"Currently the basketball schedule of 20 games is too large and participation in the games is too limited," said committee member Al Domanico.

At a curriculum committee meeting last week, junior high school principals proposed that participation in interscholastic sports be accomplished by increasing the number of teams and by making intramural contests a feeder into interscholastic sports.

Supt. James Erviti said yesterday, "One way to make intramural sports highly motivating is to make them a way to earn a place on interscholastic teams."

Mrs. Hildebrandt said the curriculum committee would draw up a presentation of their findings on the Dist. 59 athletic program in talking to principals and coaches. She said the committee would present the results at the next school board meeting on June 5.

Square Dance News

BELLS AND BOWS
Calling the squares for the Bells and Bows tomorrow night beginning at 8:30 p.m. at the Boy Scouts of America Building, 1822 N. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights, will be Ken Bower from Des Moines, Iowa, one of the top National Square Dance Callers.
Edna and Gene Arnfield, the club's regular round dance leaders begin the rounds at 8 p.m. Everyone is invited. Dancing continues until 11 p.m.

A/C SQUARE WHEELS
Tomorrow night is your last chance of the 1971-72 season to dance with the "fun loving" A/C Square Wheels of Wheeling at Jack London Junior High School, 1001 W. Dundee Rd., beginning at 8:30 p.m.
Jim Stewart will be calling the squares throughout the evening, with Lee Simpson cueing the rounds. Everyone is invited.

Notre Dame Students Win Film Honors

Five films made by students at Notre Dame High School in Niles have won five of the 13 awards presented at the Museum of Contemporary Art recently, including the first place award.

First place award, a one-year scholarship to Columbia College, which sponsors the contest, went to senior Gary Maday of Chicago, for his film "Egghead," an animation about an egg who goes to school.

Other awards went to seniors John Fink and Rich Chelotti for their film "One Morning," to Barry Shiel and Ron Guilfré for "Pooh," to William Ruppert for "America Today," to Bob Tortorello for "Freak Out." The second place award, won by Kathy Kelly of Marillac High School, starred Notre Dame High School freshman Tim Thompson.

Makes Dean's List

Betty Handler of Des Plaines has been named to the dean's list for outstanding academic achievement during the first semester at Upper Iowa College. Students making the dean's list receive a $100 certificate which is applied against tuition for the summer session.

Miss Handler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Handler of Des Plaines.

7 Residents Graduate From Roosevelt Un.

Seven Des Plaines residents were among the mid-year graduates of Roosevelt University in Chicago. They are: Robert J. Campo, 9344 Parkside Dr.; Alan Cochran, 2061 E. Pine St.; Lanny Moldofsky, 9241 W. Fairway Dr.; Sherman W. Sharp, 9030 Emerson; James P. Tammi, 8998 N. Kennedy; Jerold Sherman, 9002 Emerson; and Michael Zuber, 9668 Golf Terrace.

Earns Pilot License

Dennis R. Kamin, 1785 Locust St., Des Plaines, a student at the University of Illinois, has earned his private pilot license.
Aviation courses are offered at the U. of I. on the same basis as other courses. For some students they are directly connected with future careers in aviation.

CLOVERLEAFS
Jim Smith will be calling the squares tonight for the Cloverleaves of Mount Prospect at Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St. (near Lincoln).
This is the last dance of the season, however the Cloverleaves will continue dancing the first and third Friday nights all summer at Lions Park.
Dancing begins at 8:30 p.m. and continuing until 11:30 p.m. All area square dancers are invited.

SLOWPOKES
The Slowpokes of Mount Prospect will meet at the Prospect Heights Community Church, 400 N. Elmhurst Rd. (Rte. 83 and Willow Rd.), tonight for their regular dance. Everyone is welcome and refreshments will be served.
Bob Poyner will square things immediately after a half-hour round dance workshop with Paul and Bunny Davis, from 8 to 8:30 p.m.

HAPPY TWIRLERS
Happy Twirlers will be dancing tonight at the Congregational Church, Graceland and Marion streets in Des Plaines, with the Char-Lee Weilers calling the squares.
New figure workshop begins at 8 p.m. followed by intermediate dancing from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. All square dancers are invited.

The Happy Twirlers of Des Plaines twirled happier than usual last Friday night to celebrate the 70th birthday of their caller, Char. Sharing the fun and excitement of Char's three score and ten was his wife, Lee, who hasn't missed a dance he's called in over 20 years.

THE PROBLEM WITH MOST STATION WAGONS IS THEY'RE EITHER TOO BIG ON THE OUTSIDE OR TOO SMALL ON THE INSIDE.

There's no denying that the big station wagons have a lot of room, but for the one or two times a year you might really need a big wagon, think of how many times a week you have to go around the block looking for a place to park it.

On the other hand, the smaller station wagons, while considerably easier to handle, sometimes have so little space inside they're hardly worthy of the name station wagon.

At Fiat, we discovered that a station wagon doesn't have to be big on the outside to be big on the inside.

The Fiat 124 station wagon fits in the same parking space as a Volkswagen Beetle. But, on the inside it's 17 cu. ft. bigger than the VW Squareback, 9 cu. ft. bigger than the Toyota Corolla, and 6 cu. ft. bigger than the Datsun 510.

And when you stop by to see it, you'll discover one more nice thing about our station wagon. It only costs $8,000.

Briefly on Business

Arthur Rubloff & Co., leasing agent for O'Hare-Lake Office Plaza, in Des Plaines, has leased over two and one-half floors of the fifth building to General Services Administration for offices of the Federal Aviation Administration.

Dennis J. Buren, Asst. Vice President of the Rubloff firm, and Chet Walas, of Arthur J. Rogers Enterprises, developer, were co-brokers representing the lessor, O'Hare-Lake Office Plaza. Reuben J. Zelnemayer and Joseph P. Yialis represented General Services Administration.

The FAA will occupy approximately 96,000 square feet in the newly completed 4-story building. The O'Hare-Lake Office Plaza complex is situated on a 60-acre site at Devon Avenue and the Tri-State Tollway. Arthur J. Rogers also is developer of the nearby O'Hare Office Center and O'Hare Office Center North.

Fred M. Loxo of Niles, has been appointed director of quality control at Teledyne Post in Des Plaines.

The announcement was made today by Robert J. Weston, Teledyne Post president, who said the appointment is effective immediately.

Loxo has been with Teledyne for nine years. He has held the positions of senior chemist, research group leader, and most recently, director of research at Teledyne Mnemonics.

In his new position Loxo will be responsible for all product and packaging designs and specifications, the development of testing procedures for quality control, and training programs for quality supervisory personnel for Teledyne Post products.

Loxo holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from North Park College in Chicago and is completing work on a Ph.D. in physical organic chemistry at the Illinois Institute of Technology. He has been presented the Dr. Bennett Chemistry Award and the Silver Knight Award, and is a member of The American Chemical Society, the Coblentz Society for the Advancement of Applied Spectroscopy and the American Society for the Advancement of Science.

Teledyne Post is a leading supplier of drafting equipment, engineering supplies, microfilm products, graphic arts materials, school supplies, and diazo reproduction materials and equipment.

The board of directors of The Richardson Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 10 cents per common share, payable June 12, 1972, to stockholders of record May 19, 1972. The Board also declared a dividend of $1.00 per share on preferred stock (Series A, B, C, D and E), payable August 1, 1972, to stockholders of record July 7, 1972.

The Board also elected Arthur J. Raiche, general manager of the Polymer Systems Division, and Curtis R. Williams, general manager of the Chemical Division, vice presidents of the company.

A new ink system that eliminates the need for an overprint lacquer in printing aluminum beverage cans has been developed by Richardson Ink Company, a division of Richardson Inc. The Duralum Mark V inks are already being used by several major aluminum can producers.

The new inks produce a high-gloss finish with excellent hardness and by eliminating the overprinting lacquer, waste is also reduced significantly, the company said. When rejecting an imperfect lacquered can from the production line, most can producers will also discard the cans immediately before and after because of likely imperfections. When using the no-lacquer Duralum inks, only the imperfect can is discarded. No others are affected.

Richardson has also developed a new water-based rotogravure ink it says is designed to eliminate printing pollution problems. Called Rotowet, the new ink system uses water to replace the hydrocarbon solvents in the ink formulation. Those solvents and other aromatic solvents used in conventional rotogravure inks are a serious source of air pollution, especially at larger printing plants.

The Rotowet ink is one of a series of non-polluting inks introduced by Richardson within the past year. The ink producer is a division of The Richardson Company of Des Plaines, which has interests in graphic arts materials, specialty chemicals, plastics, engineered industrial materials and parts, and consulting and environmental engineering services.

"Many rotogravure printers are concerned over new air pollution codes," according to James A. Wold, vice president and general manager of Richardson's graphic arts materials group. "The Rotowet ink was developed through close cooperation with several large packaging houses and rotogravure printers. It is the first water-based ink that is capable of running at high press speeds."

Branson Sonic Power Company has moved its newly expanded Systems Department to a 12,000 square foot facility adjacent to the company headquarters on Eagle Road in Danbury, Connecticut. The company is a manufacturer of ultrasonic processing equipment used for welding rigid thermoplastics, machining brittle ceramics, soldering without flux and sewing synthetic materials without needle or thread. Locally, Branson maintains a regional sales office on 2510 Dempster Street in Des Plaines, which is headed by Art Zeman.

I-T-E Imperial Corporation has announced price changes providing an average increase of about 5 per cent on smallware, line posts, suspension and multipart insulators. These increases, according to a company spokesman, are well within the overall limit allowed by the Price Commission and bring I-T-E Imperial's prices into line with those previously announced by other electrical porcelain manufacturers. The firm has regional offices in Rosemont.

The price changes, effective with the opening of business May 2, are a result of increased cost of labor, materials and transportation, the company said.

Jay L. Kuchel, 340 Pinehurst Dr., Des Plaines, recently attended the Prudential Insurance Company's President's Club conference, held at the Maria Isabel Sheraton Hotel in Mexico City, Mexico.

Kuchel is a special agent in Prudential's James J. Griffin & Associates Agency of Schiller Park. Some 250 delegates from Prudential agencies throughout the United States — chosen for outstanding performance during 1971 — participated in the three-day conference.

The appointment of Robert Allen as western sales manager has been announced by Apex Smelting Company, Inc., of Des Plaines a subsidiary of AMAX (American Metal Climax, Inc.). Allen will be located at the Apex Long Beach, California plant and will be responsible for sales in the 11 western states.

Apex Smelting Company, an operating division of AMAX Aluminum, produces secondary aluminum alloys, primary zinc-based alloys, and distributes primary aluminum ingot, all for sale to the casting industries. In addition to the Long Beach facility, Apex maintains plants in Chicago and Cleveland.

AMAX (American Metal Climax, Inc.) has reported first-quarter 1972 net earnings of $13,730,000, compared with fourth-quarter 1971 earnings of $11,280,000 before extraordinary charges.

Fourth-quarter earnings after extraordinary charges were $7,470,000. Earnings in first-quarter 1972 were $16,320,000. Earnings for the 1972 first quarter are subject to year-end audit and adjustment. The company has facilities in Des Plaines.

Operating earnings in the first quarter of 1972 of $13,400,000, after taxes, exceeded first-quarter 1971 operating earnings of $13,060,000. Ian MacGregor, chairman of the chief executive officer, said the firms operating groups, with the exception of molybdenum and specialty metals, had improved earnings during the 1972 first quarter. He said, however, that the company's higher operating earnings were offset by reduced dividend income, and increased interest expense.

AMAX sales in first-quarter 1972 were $202,300,000, compared with $190,350,000 in first-quarter 1971, and $181,240,000 in fourth-quarter 1971. Increased sales came from company operations in aluminum, coal, iron ore, lead, cadmium and zinc.

Primary per share earnings amounted to 54 cents, compared with 66 cents in first-quarter 1971, and 44 cents before extraordinary charges of 16 cents in fourth-quarter 1971. Fully diluted earnings amounted to 54 cents and 64 cents per share for the first quarters, respectively.

Allen Aircraft, a Division of AAR CORP., has leased a 21,000 square foot warehouse-office building at 2110 Oxford St., Des Plaines, from J. Emil Anderson & Son, Inc., according to Pain & Sutherland, Inc. — agents for the property.

AAR CORP. is comprised of a group of companies serving the aviation industry on an international basis. The Allen Aircraft Division, which serves the airline aftermarket, has facilities in Renton, Washington, New York City and Amsterdam, Holland in addition to its headquarters in Elk Grove Village.

Attorneys in the transaction were Rodney K. Johnson of Brandel, Olson, Johnson & Erickson for J. Emil Anderson & Son, Inc. and Ben C. Branstetter, Vice President of AAR CORP., who served as house counsel.

Cooperating brokers were James D. Wetzel, Vice President of Pain & Sutherland, Inc. and William Lederer, Arthur Rubloff & Co.

Hotel Is Building Tower Addition

Construction work is running ahead of schedule on a new 10-story tower addition of 275 rooms to O'Hare Inn, Mannheim and Higgins roads.

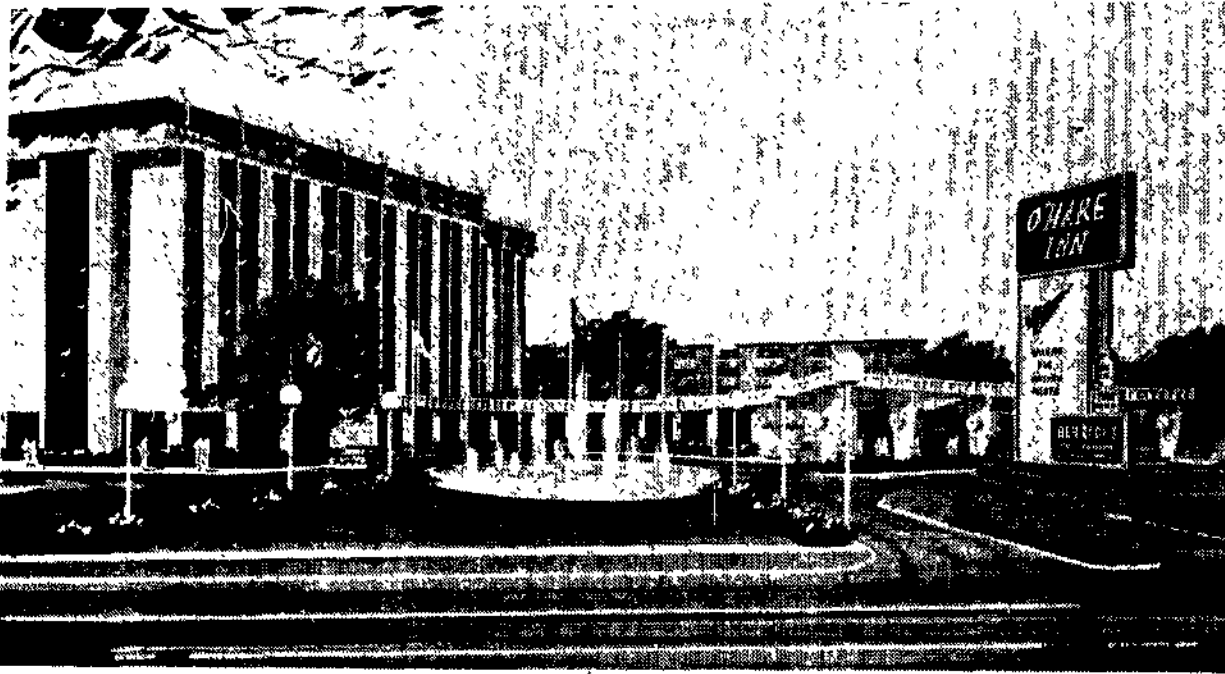

The new O'Hare Inn 93-foot tower of contemporary design overlooking the airfield will be the fourth addition to O'Hare Inn, which opened in 1960 with 184 rooms. Additions were built in 1963 and again in 1968.

Growing along with airport expansion, O'Hare Inn has spent $500,000 for redecorating and refurbishing in the past year and is now spending an additional $7,000,000 for new facilities, increasing both its guest and meeting rooms by 60 per cent of its present capacity.

In the 11 years since its opening, O'Hare Inn has played host to more than 50,000 business meetings and more than 2 million guests with consistent high occupancy rates. Its facilities include parking for 1,000 cars, indoor and outdoor swimming pools, a par-3 golf course and two tennis courts.

"Our expansion program is geared realistically not only to the high occupancy rates that O'Hare Inn enjoys, but also to the future projections of increased traffic at O'Hare Field," stated William J. Horine, general manager and vice president of O'Hare Inn. "We are highly optimistic about the great potential future of O'Hare as the prime business meeting center of the nation, as well as the air crossroads of the world for air travelers, based not only on its geographical position at the hub of the world air traffic patterns but also on the ever-increasing international air travel and outstanding hotel facilities such as O'Hare Inn."

The design of the new O'Hare Inn structure was prepared by the architectural firm of Peter M. Tsolinas & Associates. Projected completion of the O'Hare Inn Tower is scheduled for late this year.

CONSTRUCTION OF A new tower building, left, at O'Hare Inn is under way. The first airport hotel built next to O'Hare International Airport will add 275 rooms in a 93-foot-tower overlooking the airfield, giving O'Hare Inn a total of 775 guest rooms. O'Hare Inn will spend $7 million for the new facilities.

Mount Prospect Weighing Survey

A survey of Mount Prospect residents on the need for low and moderate-income housing in the village is being considered by the village's community services and mental health commission.

Dr. Michael Ruane, commission chairman, said, "We have decided we need information on the matter and we will try to set up a survey." Commission members have not yet decided how the survey will be taken or what questions will be included. The decision to take the survey was made at the commission's meeting last week.

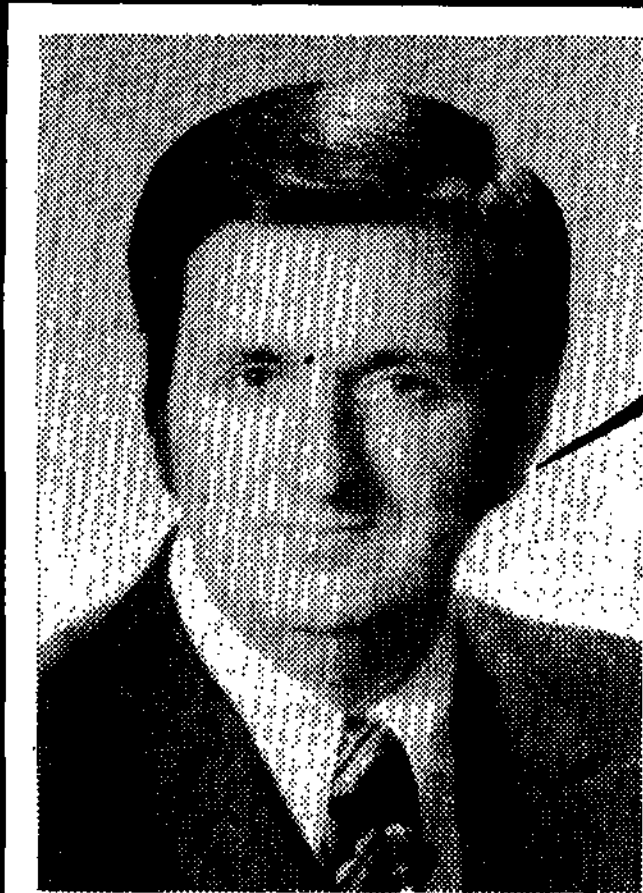

The group's next meeting is planned for June 1. At that time commission members plan to meet with Arlington Heights officials who performed a similar survey in that village.

The question of low and moderate-income housing in the village was turned over to the commission earlier this year. Last September the matter was first brought before the village board by the Mount Prospect-Prospect Heights Human Relations Committee.

The committee urged the board to study what it termed "the inequities in housing that affect the village." A resolution stating there was a need for such housing in Mount Prospect was considered earlier this year by the village's public health and safety committee.

Merger Of Education Cooperatives Is Proposed

by Betsy Brooker

Merger of the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) and the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization (NSSEO) under one business manager has been proposed to organize the cooperative's unwieldy financial structure.

Currently both NEC and NSSEO have a director, but neither has a business manager. Financial affairs are handled cooperatively by the directors, the NEC Governing Board and the business office of the cooperative's administrative office, High School Dist. 214.

The arrangement has created confusion, duplication and general inefficiency, according to cooperative officials. A special committee was appointed in December to study the problem and recommend solutions.

NEC is composed of school districts 15, 21, 23, 25, 26, 27, 59, 211 and 214. These districts along with Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 also belong to NSSEO, which operates several special education facilities.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS include administrators and board members from several of the member districts. The committee presented a final report to the NEC Governing Board at a meeting Saturday. The board took no action, but will study the report in conjunction with another report to be released next month by management consultant Oscar Chute.

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Supt. Frank Whiteley, committee chairman, cited bill-paying procedures and personnel policies as two key problem areas. If hired, the business manager would supervise the bill paying and oversee personnel financial affairs. His main contribution, say board members, will be to put the financial operation under one head and to tie it together.

The committee members did not specify how the merger of NEC and NSSEO would be accomplished. According to Dick Schlott, board president, "the merger would involve a tighter consolidation of current management practices."

Board members' major questions were reserved for the fee section of the report. The committee members recommended that districts not belonging to NEC be charged an extra fee for use of the cooperative's data processing services. This fee would be 25 per cent higher than that charged to member districts.

DISPUTE AROSE over how much should be charged to districts that have dropped their NEC membership. At this time, Dist. 54 is the only district that has withdrawn from the cooperative.

The finance committee proposed Dist. 54 be charged 20 per cent more than the NEC districts for the computer service. The difference is supposed to cover overhead costs.

Donnie Rudd, Dist. 54 board member, objected to the 20 per cent extra fee terming it a "penalty" for withdrawing. He said the district is willing to pay for the cost of the program plus some overhead, but they also want credit for past contributions to the program.

In light of Rudd's objection, the board members voted to negotiate an overhead fee not to exceed 20 per cent.

Scouting News

held its 1972 spring camporee at Illinois Beach State Park.

The camporee theme was "Pulling Together".

Twenty-six troops of the North Star District participated in the weekend competition and activities. Points were achieved by the solution and completion of four major problems as well as the evaluation of the patrol and troop camp arrangements.

On a very rainy and cold Saturday evening scouts and leaders assembled for the awards campfire. Yellow ribbons were awarded for third place, red ribbons for second and blue ribbons for first. A red white and blue ribbon with the presidents award was presented to the top troop of the camporee.

Boy Scout Troop 160 sponsored by the Einstein School PTA under the leadership of scoutmaster J. Hohnen and assistant scoutmaster L. Friberg, senior patrol leader Paul Pirok and assistant senior patrol leader Wally Powers were represented by three scout patrols. All three patrols, cobra patrol leader Gene Blohm, eagle patrol leader Jack Wilds and mustang patrol leader Chris Ciesiel were awarded first place blue ribbons. The young troop (two years old) distinguished itself by receiving the top troop award.

Final highlight of the evening was order of the arrow tapout. This is an honor bestowed on adult leaders and scouts who have exemplified themselves as leaders and campers and who are elected by the members of their troop. Troop 160 was honored to have two scouts Wally Powers and Paul Pirok and an adult leader Frank Pirok selected.

Webelo Pack 160 took advantage of the camporee's webelo program to attend the outing on Saturday and Sunday. Sixteen Webelos and cubmaster Bill Bekher and Dad's, Bob Blohm, Sam Creason and Dick Arendt struck camp and pitched tents in fine manner. They received a participation ribbon for their efforts.

BOY SCOUT TROOP 263 was well-represented at the 1972 spring camporee at Illinois State Beach Park by: David Brettman, Vincent Carbonaro, Bradley Leverenz, Kevin Lucas, Terry Wright, Mark Buckley, Gary Bowman, Brian Leverenz, Greg Losinski, Bob Petrik, Bruce Zanca, Dennis Porto, Arif Qureshi, David Reitz, Tom Stiff, Ken Stiff, Bill Whelan, John Whelan, Steven Schnur and Tom Petrik.

The adult leaders who shared the wet weekend were Jack Lucas, Eugene Wright, Frank Carbonaro, Bob Bowman and Wayne Schnur. Gary Bowman, David Reitz, Bill Whelan, Bob Petrik and Eugene Wright were tapped out in order of the arrow ceremonies.

In troop competition, Devonshire Troop 263 took top score on campsite preparation plus one first prize and three second prizes.

NEC Call: Greater Cooperation

Dick Schlott, newly elected president of the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC) Governing Board, opened the new term with a call for reorganization and greater cooperation.

Schlott told the board members, "the operating work in NEC is cooperative, not competitive." He cited growth pains as the cause of organization problems now being studied by the cooperative.

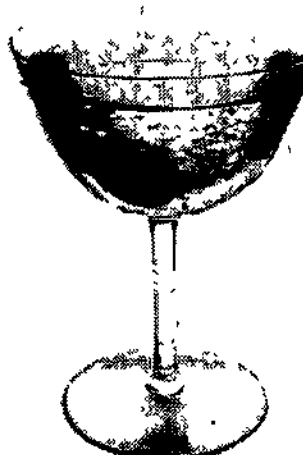

NEC is comprised of nine school districts, joined together to share programs and to solve mutual problems. The members include districts 21, 23, 25, 26, 15, 57, 59, 211 and 214.

Schlott said he hopes the new year will not repeat past months which he described as "filled with constant controversy." Most of the criticism, he said, was well founded.

"This board has no established procedures and only three shaky years as its total history. We've often just tended to housekeeping chores and depended on boards or administrators to tell us what to do. What we really have is a severe case of growing pains."

SCHLOTT SET three goals for the coming year. First, he wants to create a workable and functioning management and financial structure. Second, he wants to build a better understanding of the cooperative among the nine member district boards. As a third task, he listed establishment of the research and development role of the governing board and the cooperative.
